Since ancient times, poetry has been a very important expression of the life and times of any given culture, and especially so among the Indian and Spanish cultures, which in turn have given the traditions to the present-day Chicano and Latino expression.

At the Spring Equinox two years ago, XOCHICUICATL Flor y Canto al Aire Libre (Flower and Song in the Open Air) held the first Open Air Celebration at Chicano Park to renew an ancient tradition. Several local poets read selected works; a Spring Equinox ceremony and traditional dances were performed and all participants planted seeds and flowers to beautify the park.

All works collected from the poets are to be eventually published in an anthology

On March 19th the reception for the poets will be held at Harbor View Center (ex Chicano Park Building) at 1960 National Avenue, San Diego, CA, from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

On March 20th the event will consist of the following:

- a. Aztec Ceremony for Mother Earth
- b. Offering of Flowers
- c. Aztec prayer for the Spring Equinox
- d. Poetry Recital

The festival will be from 12:00 noon to 5:00 p.m.
