

Dear Sir

Fryall July the 12th 1767

According to my promise in my last by the Underrigate to whom I sent you a small Box with three apples out of your Garden, as a present, and some Cassia-nuts for the Children which I hope may get safe to your hands.

I now send you eighteen Shadocks & 36. oranges in a case with partitions. The Shadock, is all I could get; only six off from your tree, which is the largest amongst them. The rest Mr. Pitt gave us which is second the best in this neighbourhood. I wish with all my heart they may get safe & sound to your hands; Captain Thoburn has promised me to keep them in his Cabin. They are all paper'd and pack'd in as carefull as I could; I am glad there is more Ships arrived at Montego Bay than was expected or thought of, and hope your Sugars and rum will be shipt in good time. The Charles Calvert arrived last month; we was dead full of him. But he stay'd some time at the Windward Islands. The Friendship-Dan arrived a little time before Calvert, and a ship call'd the Bee. So that we are not at a loss for Vessells; I have rec'd two large Butts lately; I don't know who they came in, nor by whose orders they was shipt. They are not like the others was here formerly: they have a hole in one head instead of the Bilge. Suppose they was intended to be set up an end instead of laying down but I must have the hole stop'd very tight, and make abung hole in the Bilge as our rum house is not hight enough for them to stand on the head.

I dont think it a good Scheme to keep so much rum laying by after crop. I think it money laying dead, in the first place: and the strength will evaporate laying so many months, and then will be a soaking in the Butts. However, you know best; It's not every person that can afford to keep rum so long; If the planters would not be so greedy, I should have said the Distillers. They employ to distill at so much f. Pence per gallon, or at so much f. C. by India vouring to make a great q'ty of rum. They hurt the quality greatly. By drawing the rum too close from the stills, and while they do that they never can make good Flavoured rum. If they had ever such a large stream of water running in the tanks or tubs; they all know Jamaica rum must be strong enough to sink oil, and that but indifferently from many Estates especially by the Distillers that undertakes to distill as above: and if a Butt or Butts of rum is not high enough when they are to be drawn off to send away. They ~~make~~ which is occasioned by throwing up too much down from the stills at different times, which does not only occasion the rum to be under proof, But it gives it a hogue, and when the Still is drained so low - all the High wine that can be thrown in to make it proof will never take away that bad Scent; A planter ~~may~~ may hire a distiller as he pleases: But The Overseers, ought to inspect into it and see that the Distiller does not take the rum so low from the Still; As the latter will not have the blame laid to him by the Employer, and it would be more credit to the former to have well scented rum made on the Estate —

There has not <sup>been</sup> much sugar shipped from hence since I wrote you by the Dundee Frigat which was the 4th Inst, So that I can't as yet ascertain to the exact quantity that there will be as I have a good deal in pots to knock out yet. I intend to set about them the ensuing week if the weather will permit: And I shall be able by the sailing of the London Merchant to give you an exact account of both miscarado & laid —

Incl'd is the plat of the piece, Land Stook in, and run'd by Mr. Scarle.
I would have sent it sooner. But as I expected the Frame & Glass with the plat of the Estate. I thought it would be of no use to you only to see it. But I hope this may be in time for you to get it annex'd to the former — your People here are all thank God pretty well, The wenches thank God is after the old rate still increasing & multiplying; I am sorry to acquaint you that two died, just fallen <sup>early</sup> such things will happen some times, and I am sure no care is lacking from Mr. Scott, who joins in compliments and good wishes for yours & family health & happiness, which is sincerely from him who is a

D. Sir, &c. Sincere well wisher

G. Scott

P.S. I return you many thanks for the wine, Porter & Cheshire Curr. which was excessive good. &c. as above
