

PSYC 172: Searching for Literature In-Class Worksheet

Name:

For each article of your annotated bibliography, with the APA citation, you will be writing an annotation that includes:

- a brief summary (2-4 sentences) of the article, including the author's name and what you think is the author's primary point or thought;
  - how the article illuminates your bibliography topic;
  - an evaluation of the source's usefulness, reliability, strengths and weaknesses and its value for your research;
  - how this specific article relates to other articles in your bibliography (you won't include this on this worksheet, but include it on your full bibliography when you decide on your other articles.)
-

Now practice with one of the articles you've found to challenge your myth. Fill in the information below.

APA citation:

Brief summary:

How does this article challenge your myth? What does it provide that helps challenge your myth?

Evaluate this article's value for your research – why is it useful? Are there any strengths and/or weaknesses?

PSYC 172: Searching for Literature In-Class Worksheet

Put those pieces of information together and write a full annotation.