NEW

Stayfree

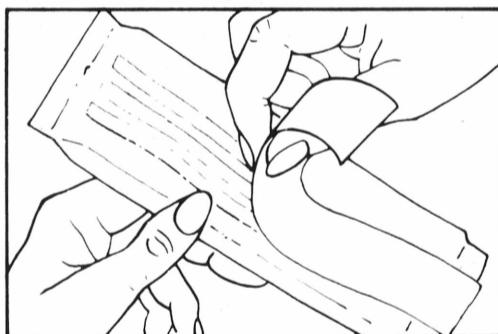

adhesive Pads.

Give you The Best Protection.

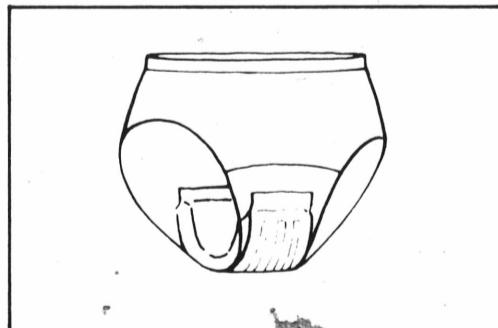

Stayfree Adhesive Pads are more absorbent and stay in place better than any other pad.

Available in mini,
regular and super absorbency.

HERE'S HOW!

No belts, pins or special panties required. Just peel off the backing strip and press the pad firmly into place inside your close fitting panties.

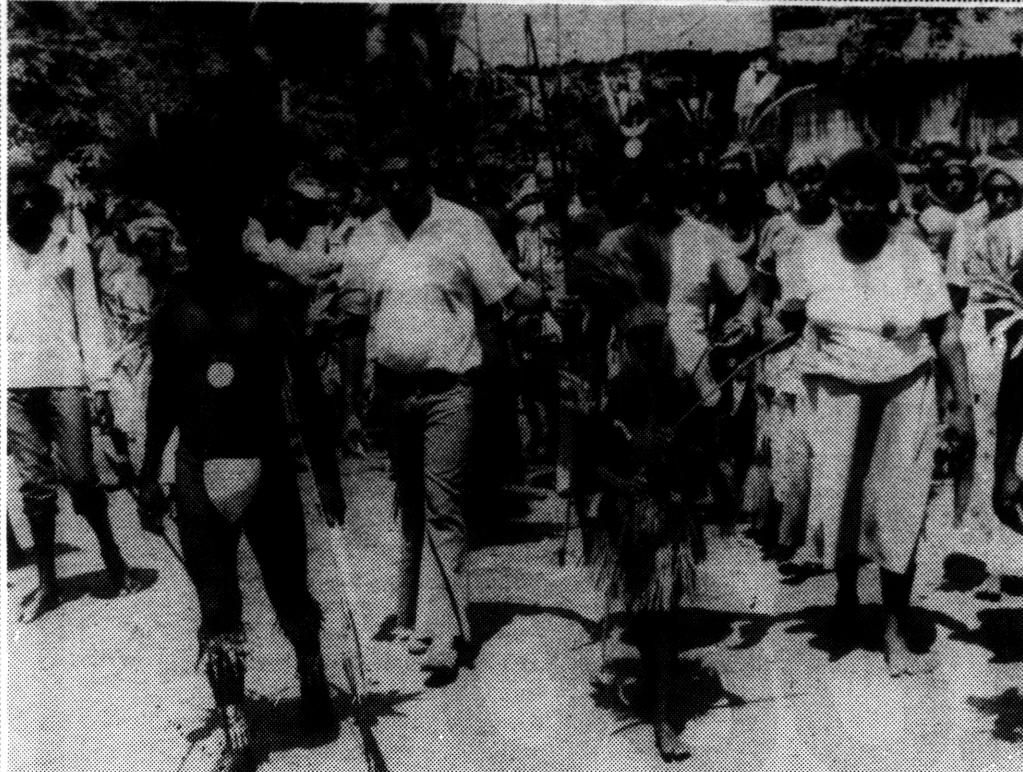

The three adhesive strips will hold the pad firmly in position...no matter how active you are!

Touch footy must develop

PNG must be strong in playing touch football in order to participate at the 1988 World Cup games in Australia and promote the code.

Touch football must form a national body to secure club sponsorships according to Port Moresby Touch Football Development officer Rob Cochrane.

He said also that the code was unlikely to secure major sponsorships unless a national body was formed.

Mr Cochrane said, "we can't have people sponsoring touch unless it is played nationwide. Club sponsorship will boost players interest and the code."

He understood that touch was in Port Moresby as well as in Lae, Goroka, Kimbe and Mt Hagen.

Port Moresby touch football association is an affiliated member of the PNG Sport Federation.

The president of the Port Moresby association Mr Manu Geno also urged all officials of other touch football associations around the country to co-operate to form a national body.

"There are already invitations from Australia to play touch football and Port Moresby has first priority to go to Australia. But we want to have a national team go there," Cochrane said.

by AUDREY KUGLAME

EIGHT women's teams in the National Capital District Women's Touch competition will now take part in the quarter finals on Sunday January 11. The games will be held at the Sir

The fittest and most committed of 8 to win finals

Hubert Murray stadium. This is a result of three months of games that started in September last year.

Although 20 teams took part in the competition, only eight made it to the finals. These finalists were decided during the last week of competition.

The closeness of the competitors showed that all 19 teams could have made it to the finals with only two weeks to go. However Credit Corporation Cavaliers came out as minor premiers with a surge just at the right time.

Cavaliers' coach Loena Roa said, "My team will go all the way. We are fit and we are committed."

Bulldogs, one of the three Porebada teams in the competition, finished second with 50 points, only a point behind Cavaliers.

Timothy Mataio, Bulldogs and DCA coach, said that his team had been a better side throughout the competition so he hoped they could keep up with it.

He also said although his team lacked speed they had skills. The main thing Mataio tells them to do is to defend their try line very well.

The Bulldog girls are second on the ladder but coach Mataio has told them not to be too confident and also not to underestimate the opposing teams.

He said the games would be very tight as each team would now be training hard for the quarter finals. "I am not too optimistic but I think my girls will go through the quarter finals undefeated," coach Mataio said.

Up and coming team Rockets, lead by Miriam Midire could be the surprise of the series as its recent form has propelled Rockets in the finals.

Hebou Vikings, which lead the competition almost all season, seemed to have suffered from overconfidence. These young women played their best all throughout the season but seemed to have lost interest in the very last weeks of the competition. It was even incredible that they could not even turn up for last Sunday's December 21 1986 game.

Leko PTC, which will be taking on Hebou Vikings, says it is fit and ready to take out the game. Captain Helen Mikeson said members were training hard and looking forward to that game.

"We lost a couple of our games because most of our good players were away on leave. They are back now and we will have no worries winning in the finals," Helen said.

The standard of the code has been very high so those teams that did not make it to the finals should not be disappointed. Medics, Transport and Niugini Lloyds Kaugere were just unlucky to have not made it to the finals.

There will be a lot to see on Sunday as a gala day has been planned for.

The curtain raiser game will be between the premiers of the men's touch competition, division one KB Raiders and a very determined Imilakele.

(See weekend draw on page 8.)

New executive aches for proper action

by FLORIAN DATI

TABUBIL Softball association has elected a new executive at its recent annual meeting.

Among the executive is Zemo Apo who is also the executive officer of Tabubil football (soccer) association and a very capable administrator. Others are:

Gerard Panambung (president) Angelea Morin (vice president), Lepan Maliwai (treasurer). Committee members will consist of two people from each club.

According to the new executive all games played so far are ruled "null and void". This decision was taken because the outgoing executive did not follow proper procedures prior to allowing games to be played. The main factors were:

- (a) No annual meeting was conducted prior to disclosing the draws;
- (b) A lot of unregistered players taking part in games.

The new executive has called off all games until February 1 when the proper season will start and games will be officially recognised.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE PLAYED UNDER PORT MORESBY'S 34°C TEMPERATURE

• This winger heads for the tryline and it seems that no one can stop him from scoring this time.

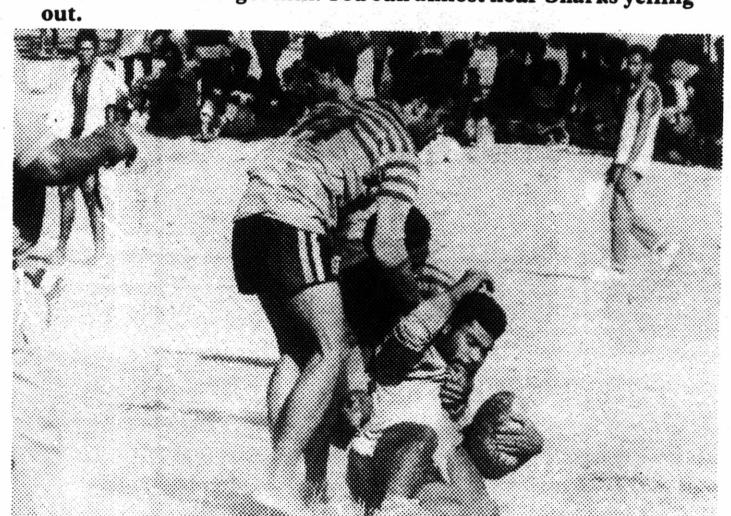

• Kone Rocks' brickwall defence is a credit to its players. They are strong but not fast enough to run around their opponents.

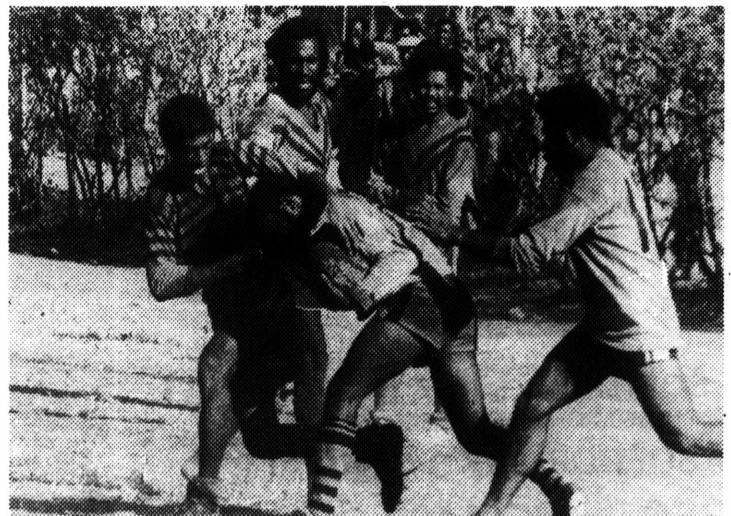

• Find the ball... Sharks No 8 just off-loaded it but his team mate has no other way to hold on to it but hit the hard soil with it.

• Here he comes... get him! You can almost hear Sharks yelling out.

• This kind of support football played by Sharks — two to one — won them their last match against rivals, Kone Rocks.

• A Kone Rocks player heading for the turf as he gets pulled down by a defending Kaugere youngster.

German twin win awards

• Steffi Graf and Boris Becker were crowned the Federal Republic of Germany's Sportswoman and Sportsman of the Year at the Kurhaus in Baden-Baden. German sports reporters, making the awards for the 40th time since 1947, voted the German fencing team — a surprise choice — Team of the Year.

A clean sweep for Boris and Steffi

TENNIS reigned supreme at this year's Sportsman and Sportswoman of the Year award ceremony in Baden-Baden, Federal Republic of Germany, with soccer also ran. The prince and princess of the day were tennis superstars Boris Becker, 19, and Steffi Graf, 17.

Boris and Steffi, whose meteoric rise to stardom has taken them both less than two years, were voted sportsman and sportswoman in a jubilee year by German sports reporters. It was the 40th award ceremony in Baden-Baden; 40 years ago the first Sportsman of the Year was a tennis player too, Gottfried von Cramm.

Boris and Steffi have been so successful this year that other, no less impressive achievements in less popular sports were shown a clean pair of tennis shoe heels. Swimming world champion and record-holder Michael Gross, Sportsman of the Year from 1982 to 1984, trailed Becker, as did European hurdles champion Harald Schmid and world champion oarsman Peter-Michael Kolbe. And Anja Fichtel, 17, the youngest women's world fencing champion of all time, was only runner-up to Steffi Graf.

Bomana boys play football to stay fit

by PAULINE LAKI

FITNESS and good health is and has been the aim of touch rugby football for the policemen at Bomana Police College near Port Moresby for the last eight weeks.

According to the Bomana Sports co-ordinator and secretary, Billy Molowia, "one touch footy", is a sure way to keep their men in shape during the rugby union and league off season.

The policemen didn't have to look far for opponents, having the numbers within the college.

They have six inter-unit teams, except for the members of the mobil squads, MacGregor Barracks, now heading the ladder with 13 points.

The barracks is couple of kilometres away from the college which is also not a part of the Bomana training depot.

The other teams, in order of position as from last Sunday, January 4: Common Services Wing (CSW), 12 points, Recruit Training Wing (RTW), 8, Training Development Unit (TDU) 6, Transport 5 sharing it with the other underdogs, the Dogs (dog unit).

It has been a great match each weekend in the past for all rank and file. But not too social because they all are fighting out for a grand prize of a trophy and K200 for the champions.

And they only have two weeks to go before the knock-out finals.

Already a clear indication that the two wooden spooners, Transport and Dogs will have to be eliminated, leaving the top four teams for the round robin.

At this point the recruits have something extra in their efforts, having their eyes away from the local shores, they have been raising funds for a "one touch footy" match with their counterparts in Cairns after Bomana season is over this year.

A new blood to play centre for NCD's Tigers

by IAN KAKARERE

PORT Moresby's Kone Tigers club is to gain the services of an up-and-coming schoolboys' centre.

Kaisara Masere, 18 Tureture village, Daru, was a member of the National Capital District team which won National Schoolboys Rugby League carnival at Goroka, July last year.

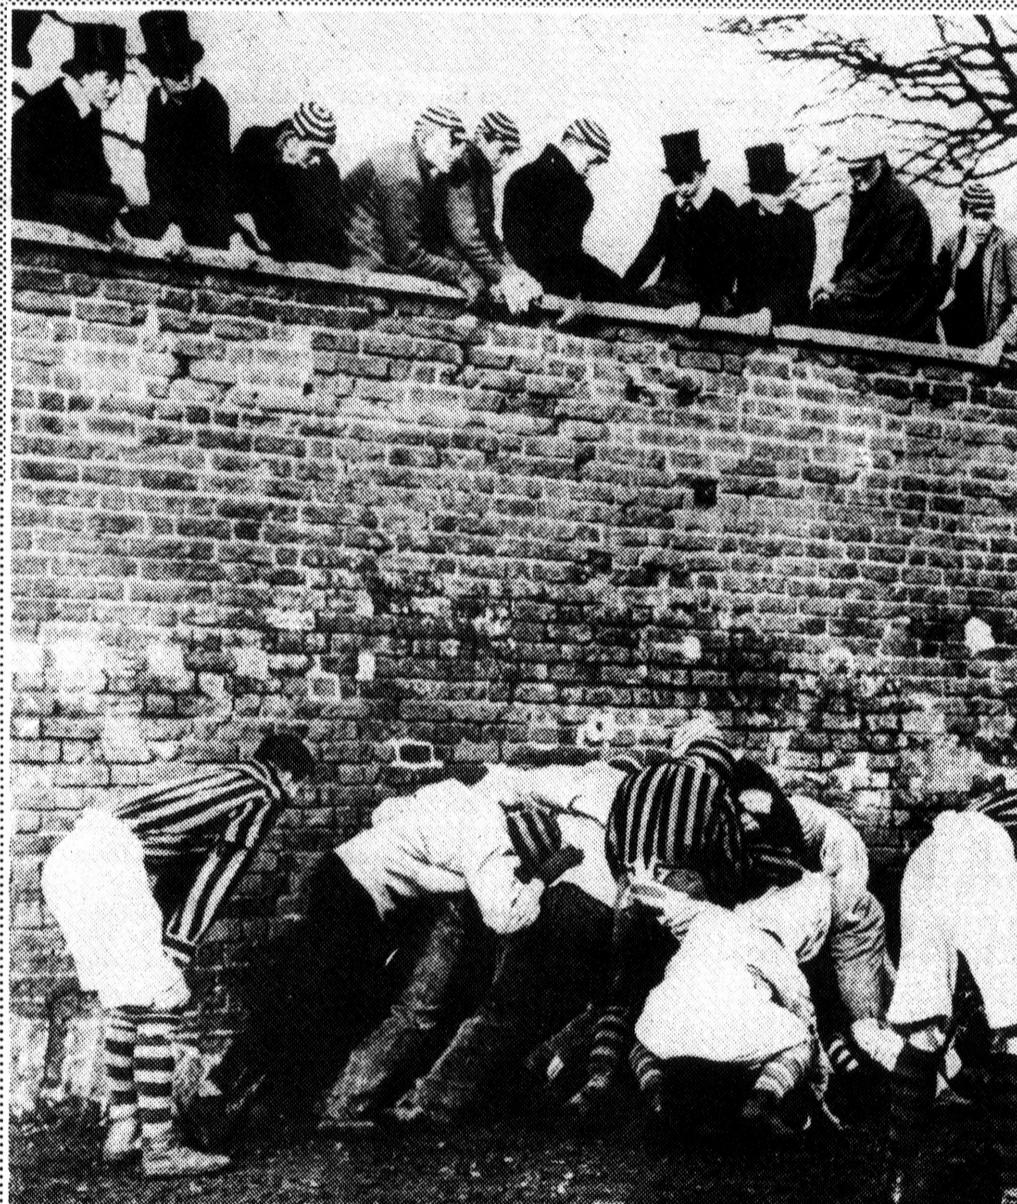

Kaisara was key player in NCD's success in the carnival. He scored two tries in the carnival, and was chosen as the best and fairest player in the grand final against Eastern Highlands.

He graduated from Sogeri National High school last year and will be attending the University of Papua New Guinea this year.

He said, "There is no real reason why I am joining Kone Tigers."

"Except that Kone Tigers oval is the nearest to the university campus," he added.

Kaisara comes from a rugby league family. His father Mr Nai'i Masere was a successful captain/coach at Goroka in the early 1970s.

Throwback: by the end of the 19th century, the idiosyncrasies of public school football had largely been abandoned in favour of Rugby or Association rules. But the Eton Wall game has survived — lumbering and indecisive with contricting laws and a ludicrous pitch — a ritual for ritual's sake

Syndication International

How rugby league began

PAPUA New Guineans currently have a tremendous admiration and love for the body contact sport called Rugby League.

Hundreds and thousands normally pour in, to witness the game or participate in the activity especially at weekends and at times of inter-province matches, inter-zones and big clashes like international games. But we cease to wonder how did this exciting spectator sport had come into existence. Who was the first scholar or genius to detect the sport, how was it born and diffused?

History books have exposed the hidden secrets of the birth of the game. The sport was invented in northern England in the 18th or 19th century. However, who in particular did discover such a skill talented sport is not clearly familiar.

The history records outlines that Rugby League was born out of the family sport Rugby Union. Rugby League is classified as a professional sport, while Rugby Union remains an amateur game.

It was in England that 22 Rugby Football Union clubs deliberately pulled out of the parent body of Rugby Football Union because they wanted to be paid for loss of wages during working hours incurred while participating in the sport.

By 1895 the first formed Northern Union Football Union professional was effective and in the 1920s it was officially declared and issued the name Rugby League.

It has so far diffused from England into neighbouring France and across the landmasses and seas into Australia, New Zealand and from there into Papua New Guinea.
