Herb York

When I identified myself as a reporter for Bear Facts, Herb York's secretary asked, "Is that a nudists' magazine?"

*The famous man opened our interview by saying that his three themes are that elegance never hurt anyone past 50, privilege never hurt anyone past 60, and unearned income never hurt anyone past 70.

Born in 1921 in Rochester, New York, the son of a railroad man, he attended the University of Rochester, took a BAMA in Physics, was recruited during the war to Berkeley under Ernest Lawrence to work on the Manhattan Project, and received his PhD in Physics at UCB under Segre.

Herb York is open and direct. He speaks in a loud firm voice and smiles frequently. His incisive intelligence provides him with ready and significant answers.

Was there much soul searching among physicists after the bomb was dropped?

Among some yes, but not those around Ernest Lawrence. Everyone thought the A-bomb was a good idea. After all there were more people killed by knives in WWII than by the A-bomb. Some physicists chose to work in radar and other areas rather than nuclear weapons after the war. But the existence of the bomb did influence world leaders; they were much more cautious than before.

For Herb York a stellar career unfolded, high-lighted by sitting at conference tables with two Presidents, Eisenhower and Kennedy, ("nothing was more exciting than that"). He was an intimate of the Pentagon, chief negotiator on the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty; he met with the Soviets and the British in Geneva for Test Ban negotiation and testified before Congress regarding military preparedness, all the while Director of the Livermore Laboratories.

Herb was twice chancellor at UCSD, the second time, '70-72 acting chancellor. The confrontational

Viet Nam protest era had peaked under McGill's chancellorship, but York experienced noticeable heat with student activists. "But the second time was more fun because we were a real University then."

From 1982-'88 he was the first Director of the Institute for Global Conflict and Cooperation (IGCC), at UCSD. where peace and security issues are studied, focusing on large scale conflicts, especially those threatening nuclear war.

How has the ending of hostilities between the US and Russia affected the focus at IGCC?

That has occurred mostly since I retired. While I was director the focus was on conflict, now the focus is more on cooperation.

After the split between China and Russia, the Soviet occupation of Central Europe was the main point of the Cold War. We focused on the Soviet Union as the center for potential conflict - on the Middle East only where there were Soviet dimensions. I believe that the liberation of central Europe which has occurred is irreversible. They will not be able to restore order by terror as Stalin did.

Are you worried about terrorists getting nuclear weapons, or small countries such as Libya using them?

No. There are enough other people who spend all too much time worrying about that. It's a remote possibility, but it's not as dangerous as other possibilities, namely, state sponsored nuclear war or large scale war of any kind. or another war in the Middle East or chaos in the Soviet Union. It's not really likely that terrorists will get hold of enough materials to build a bomb.

Do you think Edward Teller lied to President Reagan about the feasibility of Star Wars (SDI)?

Not in his own mind. First of all he is a tremendous optimist when it comes to science, and then, he's a messiah. He felt he knew the truth about the Soviet menace and others did not. He felt it was his obligation to push for Star Wars. Those who support SDI tend to be very conservative; I don't know why that is.

There is a great deal of agitation now to get out of weapons building. Do you think Livermore and Los Alamos Laboratories should remain with the U.C. system?

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

SHUKRYA

Yes, definitely, because the University provides a buffer between the government bureaucracy and the labs. The labs can do a better job of executing their programs, and also, with the University involved, the laboratory leadership plays a more effective role with decision makers in Washington.

How do you like your retirement?

I love it. I have time to be very active as chairman of the committee advising President Gardner concerning the two weapons labs. Much of the material must be classified, but it's important to prevent them from going too far and becoming overly classified. We need to make certain that secrecy doesn't override free speech.

I also work with the Jason group here summers, and the IDA think tank in Washington, D.C.

Herb married Sybil in Berkeley in 1947. They have three children and three grandchildren - "at the moment." More grandchildren are hoped for.

An anonymous source recounted that Herb was involved with the development of the plutonium reactor, called the 49er, at Los Alamos. While in New York he needed to know if the reactor had reached the critical state. Of course everything was super secret, so Herb sent a telegram to Los Alamos asking, "How is Clementine?". Los Alamos knew what he meant, sent him the information and from then on the reactor was named Clementine.

PEOPLE TO PEOPLE

Monday, March 5 at 12:30 p.m.
at the home of Jane Wechsler
269 Seaforest Court
Del Mar.
Phone 755-1379.
Guest Speaker: Mr. Hua Zhou,
Graduate student from China.
His Subject: China Today

It took the unflagging efforts of twenty-five ladies to pull it off, but we did it! Everyone had a wonderful time at the second annual Oceanids Dinner Lecture, in which Stuart Collection Director Mary Beebe gave an exiting talk about present and future public art on the campus.

The talk was preceded by an eight-course Indian dinner, which received rave reviews. For our India diners it was terrific fare, and it certainly introduced a lot of people to some startling new taste sensations.

Shukrya (Hindi for thanks) to the following cooks:
Hazel Alksnis, Doris Bailey, Mary Bailey, Hansha Bhayani, Allie Boynton, Alma Coles, Mary Anne Curray, Beverly Douglas, Edie Drcar, Dorothy Edwards, Virginia Frost, Jean Kramer, Jean Lindsley, Rosemarie Lugmair, Malkit Miura, Claire Moore (in town for a quick visit before taking their saliboat through the Canal), Greta MacDonald, Georgette Nicolaou, Georgi Price, Susan Scholander, Phyllis Schwartzlose, Georgina Sham, Ilse Warschawski and Penny West.

A special thanks to the Sun God or Whoever for holding back the rain until Alma and Beverly finished barbequing tandoori chicken for 100 in the outdoor grill!

For those who have not heard the news, Bill Coles is spending his sabbatical at a Norwegian University which is as close to the North Pole as a University can be!

I believe Alma is planning to

Liven up Santa's workshop.

Liz Wills

It's 80 days before 80! Mark your calendars for May 19.

A traffic survey conducted last spring indicates that over 34,000 people enter the campus on a daily basis.

Letter From El Salvador

Since the murder of the six Jesuits, their housekeeper and her daughter on November 16, 1989, it has been relatively quiet in El Salvador. But this morning on one of the early newscasts I heard that sporadic fighting had broken out once more in the capital. Rumors of a new guerrilla offensive have been circulating for some time but, like all human beings, I think, I try to keep worst case scenarios from dominating my thoughts.

Only last night I had spoken to our daughter at her home in a modest neighborhood of the capital city. I could hear my 17 month old grandson whooping it up with his two Salvadoran big brothers, the sons of her housekeeper.

Our daughter is Assistant Director of the Institute for Human Rights at the University of Central America. She and the baby had been in Peru for almost a month and were ready to return to El Salvador when fighting broke out all over the capital and throughout the country.

Less than a week later, I learned of the dreadful murders on the campus of the University. Sadly, I was the one who broke the news to my daughter as she waited to make plans to return to her home and her job. One of the murdered priests, Segundo Montes, a distinguished professor of Sociology, was her boss, the Director of the Institute. He and the Rector, Ignacio Ellacuria, and the Vice-Rector, Ignacio Martin Baro, were among the best known members of a distinguished faculty, all of them Spanish originally, but now naturalized Salvadorans who had decided to dedicate their lives to improving the lives of the people of El Salvador.

The Jesuits were regarded as the intellectual left-wing supporters of the opposition to the right-wing governing party, known as ARENA, of which President Cristiani is a member. They had been threatened frequently and their homes had been searched the week before they were killed.

Why were they killed? Surely, the hardline military officers who instigated the murders must have known there would be widespread outrage at such an act! Now that some names have been named and facts established so that they cannot be avoided, the government of the U.S. which has been supporting the Salvadoran government and its military at a rate of over a million dollars a day, has been forced to say it may have to withhold some of this aid if justice is not done in this case.

Only last night I had spoken to our daughter in her home...in El Salvador.

But the U.S. has reacted slowly. Since the only political murders that have been prosecuted in El Salvador since 1980 involved the deaths of American citizens (the four American churchwomen and two labor advisors), it was quite easy for the murderers this time to believe they could murder the priests and get off easily (none of the priests were Americans).

The controlled press in El Salvador at first insisted the guerrillas must be responsible! For the left opposition and guerrillas, it's imperative that the powerful military be put under civilian control. For the right and the U.S., assurances are needed that the guerrillas will not simply take over and seek revenge.

it's imperative that the military be put under civilian control

I believe that it is wrong for the U.S. to insist we unconditionally support President Cristiani's government. The combatants must be brought to serious, peaceful negotiations. Otherwise we will surely see a continuation of misery and death for the long-suffering people of El Salvador.

Dr. David Sartoris, Director of the Bone Density Diagnostic Center recommends a baseline bone-density study at age 35 for anyone who has osteoporosis risk factors, and follow-up studies every one to two years to monitor changes. The latest technology machines for bone density scans are available at UCSD. A scan takes less than 10 minutes to complete and the radiation exposure is no more than a dental x-ray.

NATURE WALK

Sunday, March 18 at 10:30 a.m.

We will start the walk from the lower parking lot at Torrey Pines State Beach.

Carole Ziegler will guide us past the cattails and other flora to the tidepools, where we can expect to see oysterbeds and other sea creatures.

Choose between an easy or more strenuous walk.

The park does not allow food to be carried in, bring water only .

However, bring a lunch and beach blankets.

We will eat lunch at the beach afterwards!

A Word or Two

For you Oceanids who attended my 92nd Birthday party and who asked me the names of the flowers in the vases - they are Baby Breath and Peruvian lilies.

A surprise again this year? Yes, I am always surprised at the number who show, this year 128 plus three or four gate-crashers. And I was surprised to see many of you, since I had not asked Liz or Marie Pearce for the lists of guests who had called them. Borrowing words from Pat Kampmann's original poem, I did enjoy:

The cheerful faces and happy hubbub
That met that day at the Faculty Club.

On another note, I used to like old copies of certain magazines - no more - all are now put on microfilm. However, there is a department in the Library that will show you issues of certain newspapers and magazines on microfilm going back years.

I was able to get a copy of an article in the Scientific American of 50 years ago for Laura Hubbs' 50th birthday.

Frieda Urey

SOUNDING BOARD

Monday, March 19

12 noon

at Frieda Urey's

7890 Torrey Lane

(Off Amalfi)

Bring a bag lunch

Guest Speaker: Professor Roger Revelle.

Founder UCSD. Need we say more?

His Topic: GLOBAL WARMING.

Despite the new growth plan the campus will maintain large tracts of open space, and keep its eucalyptus groves.

And . . .

Like a fine wine - she gets better with age and all Oceanids look forward to the month of February and another birthday celebration. This was the case on February 1 as over 100 Oceanids gathered in the Faculty Club to have lunch with Frieda.

Frieda, amazing Frieda - she arrived wearing a lovely challis dress in burgundy and rose, and greeted each and every person there with a personal comment .

Following luncheon were a few tributes - a witty poem from Pat Kampmann, a humorous touch from Alma Coles and a touching comment from Ellen Revelle. Ellen, in searching out dates for her presentation had asked on which of her birthdays Frieda had been given a certain T-shirt. When we could not come up with the date - guess who popped it right off? We decided Frieda has had more birthdays than we have memory.

Many of the guests recalled celebrating Frieda's 70th birthday - we've come a long way, baby, - and we're looking forward to many more.

We raise our glass to you, Frieda, with love and best wishes.....

Are You Ready?

Are you ready for a 7.0 Magnitude earthquake?

What items should you have in the house?

Do you know why you haven't prepared for a quake yet?

What psychological effects are working on you before a quake, during a quake, and after the occurrence?

SAVE APRIL 5, 12 noon for a practical and a psychological education! More in the next issue of Bear Facts.

Sunday, April 22 is the date of the fifth annual GUESS WHO'S COMING TO DINNER. This popular campus tradition sponsored by the Alumni Association, Oceanids, Staff Association, and Associated Students, presents an unusual opportunity for a group of twelve faculty, staff, students, and alumni to meet for the first time over a good dinner at the home of a volunteer host.

Menus range from hotdogs or shishkabob on the barbeque to Peking duck and pheasant quenelles - whatever catches the host's fancy. The meal can be served on paper plates on the patio, in the family room or on Worcester at your own version of Hyannis Port.

Dinners usually begin at 5 p.m. and end around 8:30, although some have been known to last until the moon has risen over Scripps Pier.

Your continued support is a key ingredient to making this program a success. If you have not yet received your invitation, contact the Alumni Relations office at 534-3900.

At The International Center

The Friends now have a perpetual scholarship account. Any moneys donated exclusively for scholarships will be placed in this account from which only the interest will be withdrawn each year and given as scholarships. Also donations are, of course, tax deductible.

This month may be a good time to remind everyone about our Resale Shop. As you do your spring housecleaning, put everything for which you no longer have a need into a bag and donate it to the Friends' shop. You will receive a tax donation slip on which you can list all items - or come in for the slip ahead of time.

We generated over $17,000 last year of which a major portion went to scholarships for foreign graduate students studying at UCSD or American students going abroad for study.

Replacement Needed!

After the June issue I shall no longer be editing Bear Facts. My two year term as editor was a most happy and rewarding experience. However, other plans prevent my continuing in this role.

This is a unique opportunity to learn desktop publishing, design and graphics, and to play a key role in the Oceanids community.

I shall be available for most of the summer to work with anyone (or two) interested person(s).

The thousands of gray whales that are normally drawn to the warm bays of Baja California to give birth have failed to show up so far this season, and the authorities say they do not know why.

Speculation about the reason for the whales' disappearance range from the effects of last year's oil spill in Alaska to a new cold-water current in the Pacific, near Mexico's western peninsula.

Normally about 2,000 gray whales migrate to Baja California, giving birth to about 1,000 calves before returning to Arctic waters.

HEALTH LECTURE DAY

A talk by UCSD's acclaimed surgeon and a pioneer in the field of heart/lung transplantation.

Following the lecture a free conducted tour of the new Convention Center located next to the hotel is available to all who are interested.

Registration is $20 and includes lunch and parking. For information call Chloe Moore at 435-5125 or Joanne Meredith at 270-5795.

Health lectures by members of the UCSD Medical Staff and presented by the Auxiliary have made major contributions to the San Diego community.

The Auxiliary was founded November, 1967. Peg Marston, was its first elected president and Phyllis Lasser co-chaired the first lecture series in the spring of 1969.

By 1972 the well-established series presented three days of lectures at the Town and Country Convention Center at a cost to attendees of $10, including lunch. By 1976 the charge for the annual series had risen to $13.75. Ah, inflation!

Lecture subjects ranged from Brain Activity - Alpha Rhythms, Down in the Mouth: New Directions in Dental Care, and Psychosocial Transition Periods in Life, to Understanding Allergy, the Male Menopause, and Mental Health Danger Signals in Children, a few among many topics.

In more recent years, the Lecture Series has been confined to one day in which four major speakers are presented, and in an adjoining hall, a large exhibit featuring presentations by various UCSD Clinics and Departments.

Laura Galbraith

For Fall, 1989, UCSD received 22,000 applications for an entering class of 2740. This class was the best in UCSD's history in terms of SAT and GPA's.
