

Feminist poet Susan Griffin will read selections from work at the New Poetry Series

November 7, 1975

Feminist poet Susan Griffin will read selections from her writings Wednesday, Nov. 19, in the fourth program of the fall New Poetry Series at the University of California, San Diego.

The reading, which is free and open to the public, will be held at 4 p.m. in the Formal Lounge of the Revelle College Commons.

A resident of Berkeley, Griffin has published four books, three collections of poems and one of short stories. Her play "Voices" won an Emmy Award for its Northern California production on public television and will be published this winter by the Feminist Press.

She is currently writing a book about women and nature and will have a new book of poems published next year. Griffin also teaches writing and women's studies at various colleges and universities.

Sponsors of the New Poetry Series are the UC San Diego Archive for New Poetry, Campus Program Board and Department of Visual Arts.

The final program in the fall series will have Jerome Rothenberg as the guest poet. He will read at 4 p.m. Monday, Dec. 1, in the Revelle Commons Formal Lounge.
