

Patrick Caddell to lecture, "The Coming Crisis in American Politics: The Breaking of the Presidency"

November 5, 1987

Media Contact: Paul Lowenberg, 534-3120

NATIONALLY KNOWN POLLSTER PATRICK CADDELL TO SPEAK AT UCSD

Patrick Caddell, nationally known political strategist and pollster for several presidential campaigns will give a free public talk Tuesday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m. in room 108, Peterson Hall.

The title of Caddell's talk will be "The Coming Crisis in American Politics: The Breaking of the Presidency."

As a UCSD Regents' Lecturer, he will also meet with several classes during his week-long stay on campus.

Caddell is the founder of Cambridge Survey Research, one of the country's major public opinion research organizations. He has conducted polling and strategic consulting for four Presidential campaigns, more than 100 gubernatorial and congressional races and numerous domestic and international corporations.

His clients have included President Jimmy Carter, for whom he was a major adviser; George McGovern; Walter Mondale; Senators Edward Kennedy, Alan Cranston, Christopher Dodd, Joseph Biden, Gary Hart, George Mitchell and Paul Simon; Governors Michael Dukakis, Mario Cuomo, and Bob Graham, and Mayors Wilson Goode, Harold Washington and Andrew Young.

(November 5, 1987)