Las Sande bilong Sios yia

Tude long planti kantri bilong graun yumi save toktok long demokrasi. Em i min gavman i stap long han bilong ol pipel. Wan wan kantri yet i gat king o kwin. Tasol ol i no gat pawa: ol i olsem bilas nating bilong kantri.

Tasol long taim bilong Jisas, king em i strongpela man tru. Olgeta pawa bilong kot na gavman na ami na lo na oda i stap long han bilong em wanpela. Ol pipel i no gat vot bilong laikim o no laikim wanpela samting. Nogat. Laik bilong king, orait, yu go mekim samting. ... Sapos nogat, yu inap dai.

Long stori bilong tude, Jisas i piksaim las de. Bihain yumi olgeta i dai pinis, orait, yumi olgeta i mas sanap long bikpela kot bilong God. Na hia Jisas bai sanap king na jas. Dispela de i olsem wanpela bikpela eksemisen. Ol bai askim yumi wan wan: yu bin mekim wanem gutpela samting o wanem samting nogut long arapela man? Yu lukim! Jisas bai no kotim yumi long save bilong yumi, long mani, long pawa, long biknem. Bikpela kwesten em dispela: yu bin GIVIM wanem samting? Givim NATING?

Yes, givim nating long narapela. Ol manmeri i bin helpim narapela, ol i no save man ya i makim Jisas, na ol i mekim. Nogat, Ol i no tingting na wari liklik long bekim na pe na ol i mekim olsem. Ol i mekim nating. ... Olsem na nau ol bai kisim pe.

Tasol nau yu lukim stori bilong ol manmeri i no bin mekim gut long arapela. Jisas i kotim ol na i tok: "Bikos yupela i no bin mekim long ol, yupela i mekim long mi". Na ol i bekim tok, "Sapos mipela i save em i Yu i stap insait long ol, mipela i mekim ... "Em nau! Em ol kain pipel i ting tasol long pe na ol i mekim wanpela samting. Olsem na em i gut nau ol i lus, I gat planti pipel tude i save mekim gut sapos piksa na stori bilong ol i go long redio na nuspepa ... sapos ol i kisim medal long kwin, o kisim biknem. ... Em i no pasin bilong GIVIM samting; em i pasin bilong KISIM samting. Em i kisim pe pinis ...

Sapos yumi glasim gut dispela kot bilong Jisas, bai yumi helpim long lukim, em i no askim yumi long mekim bikpela samting, Nogat. Ol liklik samting tasol. Olsem givim kaikai long man/meri i hangre, givim wara long dring, welkamim man/meri nating long haus bilong yu, go lukim sikman long haus sik, na kalabusman long kalabus. Em tasol Em i no tok long givim mani, o wokim bikpela projek ... Olsem na Jisas i soim rot i isi long ol manmeri nating long winim heven.

Ol i stori long Sen Martin. Em i wanpela Kristen soldia. Wanpela de em i wokabaut long rot na i painim wanpela rabisman i gat ol pipia klos tasol, na skin bilong em i guria long kol. Em i askim Martin long mani bilong baim klos. Tasol Martin i no gat mani. Olsem na em i kisim bainat bilong em na i katim saket bilong em yet tuhap na i givim wanpela hap long tarangu. Long nait Martin i driman, em i lukim Jisas long heven na olgeta ensel nabaut long em. Na em i lukim Jisas i pasim hap saket bilong ami. Wanpela ensel i askim Jisas olsem, "Watpo yu pasim dispela ami saket? Yu kisim we? Na Jisas i tok isi, "Pren bilong mi Martin i bin givim long mi."

Tude yumi no save tingim las de tasol. Nogat. Yumi save tingim King bilong dispela las de. Em i Jisas Kraus King Em i king nau tasol, na hia long graun tasol ... long wanem, em i bosim yumi olgeta wan wan. Tasol kingdom bilong em i no bilong dispela graun. ...

Jisas em i narakain king. Em i no man bilong pairap na soim pawa bilong em. Nogat. Em i man bilong bel isi. Em i wasman bilong mipela olgeta sipsip bilong em.

When only the best will do.

THE thrashing our Kumuls received at the paws of the Great Britain Lions cannot pass without any comments from rugby league fanatics.

After watching the replay of the game I am not convinced that the Lions played far superior football. In fact it was our own making that allowed the Lions to cross over our tryline on seven occasions. There was simply no variation at all to our attacking style, it was simply take the ball up and use our speed to find gaps.

The gaps were not there at all because of two factors:

- 1) The turf was slow which hampered our speed
- 2) Our backs stood much too shallow in attack, hence they were always caught with the defence moving up fast.

Our ball handling was shocking, to say the least. Passes went everywhere except to the ball carrier. Our forwards decided to do the iron man act, no wonder there was no penetration from that quarter. Mind you we ended up winning our fair share of the scrums, and possibly came out on top on penalty count.

Most of our kicks away from the 25m line did not find touch, in fact quite a few of these kicks went straight into the waiting arms of the opposition. One such kick from Bernard Waketsi ended up with a try to the Lions.

On another occasion earlier on, Shaun Edwards the halfback stalked and passed Arebo Taumaku who had his back to play the ball about 10m out of the Kumuls try line. Such basic mistakes are unforgivable, in view of the fact that 12 out of the first 13 are seasoned internationals.

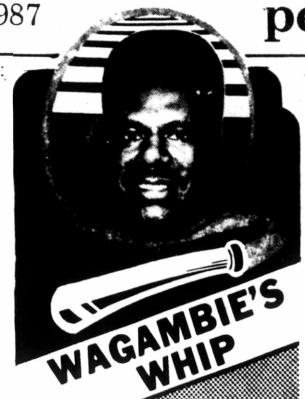

All the seven tries were scored either right under the goal posts or within 10 metres of the post. On the five occasions the last line of defence was nowhere near to challenge the try scorer. With due respect to Dairi Kovae, he is not a fullback. Fullbacks are specialists whose timing and perception are spot on, these attributes are built up over a long period of time. Dairi would I'm sure have been more productive in the centre.

It was reported that before the test match, there was a big fight between Arebo Taumaku and Bernard Waketsi. If this is true, the disastrous result of the Test match is not a surprise. This then leads me to question the sort of management leadership that went with the touring party.

The tour manager needs to be an authoritarian at times in order to keep the players on course, he should be uncompromising and must be seen to be in total control, otherwise the players would dictate terms to management.

Barry Wilson I understand will be leaving the country after the English tour, it will be very interesting to me to see who takes over the National Coach. Since the PNGRFL does not have faith in National coaches, even to the extent of not appointing a national assistant to Barry, they might as well go ahead and appoint another expatriate to take over from Barry.

Let's face it, it doesn't matter how long an expatriate has lived in PNG they will never come to grips with our culture. The way our people react under different conditions is of paramount importance, only a Papua New Guinean will understand his fellowmen's reaction to certain situations and take preventive and corrective measures.

The full story of the loss that will go down in history can only be told by those who went on tour. A lot of people had supported fund raising activities to send the team away, these supporters deserve to know the truth.

John. P. Wagambie.

An overwhelming victory for Britain

GREAT BRITAIN needed to do little more than flex their muscles at Wigan to register an overwhelming victory over the Papua New Guinea babes of international Rugby League in the World Cup Test. With eight Wigan players in the team Britain at times fell between the stools of seeking to ram home their undoubted advantage and entertaining the crowd. At the other end Papuans lack of height and weight - there was only one 6 footer in the side - meant they needed a committee meeting to hold such as Ward and Case on the charge.

Too much of the Papuan handling was made while players were standing still. On the evidence of the exciting 22-22 draw Lancashire, there was a feeling that they did not do themselves justice on their first test appearance in this country. They were restricted largely to individual efforts and the instinctive handling that was expected of them was rarely in evidence. They had a willing and hardworking second row man in Waketsi and speedy backs in Kovae and Atoi but theirs were mainly solo efforts.

Britain had encouragement from the work of Hampson and Medley. Hampson was often enterprising, moving up from fullback and competently fielding the high ball. Medley ranks as one of the fastest runners in the British game was given plenty of opportunities to parade his speed although his first half try stemmed from strength rather than paces as he forced his way over the from close in for the last of Britain's four tries before the interval.

Britain's first try by Ford came in the seventh minute after Hampson's smart capture of a high quick break followed by a neat link between Ford and Hanley. Ten minutes later Hanley crossed after a good break by Stephenson continued by Ford. This really was Britain's pattern, neat play among 3 or 4 men but rarely a sweeping move covering any distance. At the interval they led 24-0

For a time on the resumption Papua displayed a welcome aggression. It required a good cover tackle by Goodway to halt prop Lomutopa close to the line and Kovae twice threatened with promising runs. In the circumstances they did well to keep tackling and confine Britain merely to the 42 points. Against a powerful team it would have been many more.

Papua flounder in the floods

Cumbria 22 - Papuans 4

TOURISTS rarely find a trip to Whitehaven too accommodating as Papua discovered on their first visit to the recreation ground last night. After conceding an interval lead of 12 - 0 however they improved markedly in the second half. But then Rae, taking full advantage of a loose ball, hacked ahead and won the race to the touchdown. Lowdon added an easy goal and a Cumbria win was assured when Pape scored a late try. Papua must hope that conditions are a little more to their liking in the Test on Saturday.

Evidence of the floods that hit the district at the weekend were all too apparent in the countryside around Whitehaven and it was clear that the conditions would be pretty bad. They were manifestly not to Papua's liking; they could barely hold the ball and were pinned in their own half for the opening fifteen minutes. When eventually they did break free, it proved a calamity.

An attack was building promisingly midway in the Cumbria half but then Atoi's pass was intercepted by the Whitehaven right-wing Lofthouse, and although he had seventy yards to complete on saturated turf he just made it touching down in the corner.

Morea, replaced by Kovae, had been an early Papua casualty and the tourists suffered further disappointment when Steve Rea shot through a gao created in the Papua twenty-five by Kendall, slipping out a lovely pass in the tackle. There was no catching the stand-off. Cumbria continued to control affairs and should have made a third try in the 26th minute when Kevin Pape made a marvellous run from deep in his own half but failed to pass.

He quickly made amends: the ball was moved along the line in the Papua twenty-five, Pape created the overlap with a neat pass to his left-wing and Beck did the rest. More tries looked likely and Cairns, a dangerous scrum-half was held inches short of the line.

Papua nevertheless adapted quickly and there was marked improvement in their handling in the early part of the second half, a culminating in fine try in the 50th minute. When Saea gained possession in his own half the Cumbrian defence looked to have the winner covered but he squeezed his way round the edge of the defence to touch down excitingly.

Cumbria: Lighfoot, Lofthouse, Fisher (all Whitehaven) Pape (Carlisle), Beck (Workington T) Rea (Barrow) Cairns (Salford) Nixon, Falcon (both Workington T), Kendall (Barrow), Burney (Whitehaven), Kirby (Carlisle), Hetherington (Whitehaven).

Papua New Guinea: Kitimun, Saea, Atoi, Morea, Krewanty, Haili, Kila, Gaius, Heni, Ipu, Kombra, Waketsi, Kouoru; Referee, R Tennant (Castleford).

and from the Daily Telegraph

THE CLINGING mud and a determined Cumbria team combined to deny Papua New Guinea a morale boosting victory in their last game before the Rugby League Test against Great Britain. On a damp cheerless evening Papua did not have the firm underfoot conditions to display their pace and the wet ball was not conductive to demonstrate the spectacular handling they showed against Lancashire last week, a significant factor in their best result and performance on the tour so far.

Cumbria, composed of second division players, apart from their man of the match, David Cairns, took advantage of the tourists' discomfort in the first half when they crossed the visitors' line three times.

After dominating for 20 minutes Cumbria made the initial break-through when Lofthouse intercepted an ambitious pass from Atoi and ploughed through sixty yards of ankle deep mud to go over in the corner.

Within three minutes Rea burst through the Papua defence to add a second try and on the half hour Beck scored to complete Papua's first half discomfort. Only a couple of fine tackles from Saea prevented Beck and Rea adding further scores.

Papua, inconvenienced by injured knee ligaments to Morea, who had to retire after only 7 minutes, made a spirited attempt to come back into the game with an early second half try from Saea, their most impressive player who made no mistake after gaining some time and space for himself in 51st minute.

But Cumbria came back and Rea scored his second try.

Krewanty catches club scouts eye

From JACK METTA in England

ONE of the top British Rugby League Clubs, Hull Kingston Rovers is after the services of top Kumul flanker Arnold Krewanty.

This follows the 22-year-old Warumo, West Sepik soldier's impressive performance against British Amateur Rugby League Association side in France before more than 10,000 spectators club scouts at Thrumhall, Halifax on Friday evening.

Krewanty scored 2 runaways tries in PNG's much needed morale boosting 20-16 win over BARLA - a match build at the Test.

Coach Barry Wilson said the win was much welcomed.

"Krewanty played an excellent game and it is not surprising that after his two try spectacle debut spurred Hall-KR officials to enquire if Krewanty could be available for a professional stint with Hall-KR

Though there has been no formal approach Wilson said Krewanty being a soldier may have difficulty playing a professional.

But Krewanty himself elated at the prospects of turning professional said his commander General Huai is a rugby league man and may well give his blessing to Krewanty playing professional football in England.

"I could even take a year's leave to play", he said.

It was a much needed victory for the Kumuls who had a bad spell of losing five successive games including the inaugural British Coals Invitation 9-aside competition at Wigan last Wednesday.

The BARLA match considered as a test match in a true sense of 2 Amateur National Representative sides was in fact the final match for the Kumuls in the Yorkshire District, 200 miles north of London and the second last match for the Kumuls English leg of the tour.

Kumuls played their last game yesterday (early this morning PNG time). It was the Kumuls best form since the 22-all draw against Lancashire at St. Helens on October 14.

They were by far the better side on the night.

BARLA kicked 2 goals before PNG replied with a converted try to Matthias Kitimon. Thus both sides took a break with the score 6-4 in favour of the Kumuls at half-time.

In the second half with war cries of "suo suo", the Kumuls executed bone crushing tackles in defence and wild on the attack played exceptionally well in the cold misty condition. Half-back Tony Kila at pivot played a blinder.

Forward Matthias Kombra, Gideon Kouoru, David Gaius, Joe Gispe and Michael Matmilo ran on to feed from Kila and never failed to gain ground.

When play switched to the backs, Kila again was the vital link, a job he handled brilliantly. He often drew the BARLA defence before getting the ball out to Dairus Haili, Nala Lapan, Bal Numapo, Arnold Krewanty, Elias Kamiak and Mattias Kitimon who manned the backline.

It was such manoeuvre which resulted in a Kitimon try in the 15th minute of the game, Lapan on the 57th minute and Krewanty's double delight in the 32nd and 50th minutes.

Several other tries went begging when the BARLA defence resorted to tripping, unfortunately referee Bradford's Brian Galtres failed to penalise.

"We were played against 14 men," coach Wilson said after the game.

"The referee was out to break our spirit but he failed to do so," Wilson said.

Culture shock!

But chilled Kumuls warm English hearts

From George Dunkerley Rugby League Week

THEY came, they saw, they shivered. They won hearts and - to most people's surprise - they won matches.

Living and playing in conditions about as far removed from their homeland as is possible, they showed that Rugby League in Papua New Guinea is not just an exotic novelty.

It's a tough, resilient species that travels well to the other side of the earth, and survives the worst that icy gales and giant coal-field forwards can throw at it.

"We're here to say," say PNG vice-president Brian King, a former Leeton player who has lived, worked and fostered Rugby League in PNG for 20 years.

Mind you, there was a time when we feared they weren't coming at all.

Seven hours late into Manchester Airport and into a temperature about a third of the 30 degrees they had left behind in Port Moresby, they wondered what had hit them.

Not yet equipped with the heavy tweed overcoats that have become essential touring equipment for Australian teams, the Kumuls had to make other keep-warm arrangements.

At the photo-call at Headingley the following day, several sported new look tracksuits underneath their smart tour blazers.

It's a style that could catch on.

But captain Bal Numapo spoke for all of them when he was asked what he thought of England.

"It's very, very cold. We have never come across anything like this."

The sun condensed to make one of its rare guest appearances in Featherstone of the Kumuls' first match, and the homely little club with its smart new stand looked if not exactly tropical then at least vaguely cheerful.

Although the fame of that World Cup win over New Zealand last year precedes them everywhere, few people at Featherstone had much idea of what to expect from them in English conditions.

Would they be able to tackle? Would they metaphorically and literally - freeze?

Would they have the discipline and commitment to put up a show?

An hour and a half later those questions were answered. PNG had earned a well-deserved 22-16 win over a side which, for all their obvious limitations, pursued the Peter Fox gospel of big men taking the ball up hard - just the sort of thing that might have been expected to give Kumuls trouble.

For a while, just after halftime, it looked as though they might crack. But after going 16-12 down they hit back with tries from flying wingman Kepi Saea and utility forward Thomas Rombuk.

The tries, and especially one with which five-eighth Darius Haili opened the tour scoring, were spectacular crowd-pleasing efforts.

The ball zigged and zagged around the paddock in a frenzy of determination to keep it alive at all costs.

And when they saw daylight, the Kumul pace was awesome.

Kitimon, Atoi, Kapia ad Saea all looked capable of going the length given half a chance.

And, in a class of his own, there was Numapo, keeping warm, as he had promised, by running around twice as much as usual.

With a brain obviously just as fast as his feet, he was an undisputed choice as man of the match.

The Featherstone crowd, bred on very different fare, loved them. Coach Barry Wilson had to stand, increasingly impatient, at the changing room door for 20 minutes until the last Kumul had emerged from the on-field ruck of autograph hunters and souvenir seekers.

Despite their win, his team copped something of a blast from the former Western Suburbs second-rower.

"They did a lot of things out there that they had no business doing," he said, "We can play an awful lot better than that."

Three days later, with storms buffeting the south and east coast rated the worst for 300 years, the Kumuls proved it.

While everyone had been pleased by the dash with which they beat Featherstone, the result had not been all that surprising.

Lancashire, on the other hand, with about half the likely Great Britain Test team on deck, were confidently expected to make mincemeat of them.

With Numapo again imperious, PNG led 20-10 early in the second half, with dazzling tries from Krewanty and Saea the highlights.

Lancashire, finally made their bulk count, started to break tackles close in to bring Lydon, Edwards and Henderson into the game, and that looked like the ball game.

But, fittingly, it was Numapo's boot that tied it up with the last kick of the match.

The Kumuls had shown, despite the ever-present danger of being physically overpowered, that they could compete with the best English professionals.

Wilson and his players were infinitely more satisfied with their display, and the St Helens crowd certainly had them down as moral victors on the night as well.

Game three, at Swinton, was an anti-climax by comparison.

With Numapo huddled along with most of the likely Test team in the stand, PNG lacked direction, and squandered too much possession with kamikaze handling in their own 22.

They still managed to produce some marvellous moments of fleet-footed, free-thinking Rugby League.

For a nation schooled in league by Aussies, they are a universe away from the methodical, percentage football that rules the roost across the Torres Strait.

"That's the way they have to play," says Wilson. "Please God nobody ever tries to change it."

On behalf of a country that needs all the warmth and sunshine it can get from its sporting visitors, Amen to that.
