This program is a collection of varying mediums, expressions, opinions, and perspectives on gender. Genderqueer Café aims to CHALLENGE existing notions of gender as a static, binary identity, INSPIRE growth and creativity through self-expression, SUPPORT all those who do not subscribe to normative (common) conceptions of self-identification, and CREATE a strong community through these works of art.

communicates with a bell, lives with two sons, Ashok and his barren wife, Radha, and Jatin, who is in love with a Chinese-Indian, Julie, and a male servant, Mundu. When Julie refuses to marry him as she dislikes joint family life, he is more or less brow-beaten to marry Sita so that she bear a male child to carry on the family name. Ashok has given up on marriage and is now leading a celibate life, has become a follower of a religious leader, Swamiji, and spends all his free time with him. Jatin has not given up on Julie and continues to meet her in his free time. Thus Radha and Sita are left alone most of the time. While Ashok, Radha and Sita run a take-out Punjabi food business, Jatin runs a video store where he rents out pronographic movies also on the sly. Mundu passes his free time watching some of these movies and masturbating, much to Bijji's dislike. Then one day Radha surprises Mundu and tells Ashok to fire him. But Mundu knows Radha's secret - a secret that if revealed, will tear the lives of the entire family apart.

Student Regent-Designate to Target LGBT Diversity

the UC Students Association.

Last year, Bernal — in collaboration with student regent Ben Allen, then regent-designate D'Artagnan Scorza and the UCSA executive board — was active in lowering a proposed fee increase from 10 percent at $663 per student to 7 percent at $464 per student. This lower fee increase, Bernal said, reflects the best the UC system could do during the financial crisis.

"I think that the unfortunate thing I realized [working on the fees] ... is that our colleagues on the board are saying that these are as close to zero as we would like to see them," Bernal said.

Bernal said he recognizes the impact the national economic crisis has had on students from lower- and middle-class incomes, but that he sees hope in programs such as the Blue and Gold Opportunity Plan that provide assistance for students whose family income level falls below $60,000.

"I think the sticker price and the sticker shock issue is very relevant," Bernal said. "The other side of the coin is that the university does pretty well to support these lower-income students."

Bernal said one of the reasons he was interested in becoming a student regent is that LGBT issues have been absent from all nine of the university's annual reports on staff diversity[?].

"I've been fortunate enough to be able to already start working with some of the UC LGBT center directors on gaining a better understanding of the campus climate in terms of LGBT diversity," Bernal said. "I think it's important for the [regents] to gain some insight into [the issues concerning] our LGBT community and LGBT communities of color on campuses."

Bernal lobbied with graduate students from Students Advocating for Graduate Education in Washington last week for loan forgiveness for graduates entering careers in public service.

Alongside former UCSA President Louise Hendrickson, Bernal said he also worked to increase the financial-aid calendar from nine to 12 months for graduate students, ensuring coverage during the summer.

Stovitz and Nunn Gorman are taking their roles as ex-officio regents by following the paths described by the AAUC bylaws, under which the secretary and treasurer of the Alumni Association take over as the president and vice president of the AAUC. Neither Stovitz nor Nunn Gorman could be reached for comment.

Stovitz is a UC Riverside graduate and the retired presiding judge of the State Bar Court of California, which investigates cases of attorney misconduct. He served as president of the UCR Alumni Association last year and is currently a trustee of the UCR foundation.

UCLA graduate Nunn Gorman served as president of Brilliance Strategies Inc. — a management consulting firm that specializes in non-profit organizational development — and is a part of multiple nonprofits. She acts as the chair of the board of directors of the California Association of Nonprofits, co-chair of the Chaka Khan Foundation and the last president of the UCLA Alumni Association.

THREE NEW REGENTS TO JOIN BOARD IN JULY

By Henry Becker

STAFF WRITER

The UC Board of Regents will gain three new members July 1. Student regent-designate Jesse Bernal will replace current student regent D'Artagnan Scorza.

In addition, ex-officio regents-designate Ronal Stovitz and Yolanda Nunn Gorman will replace regents David Shewmake and Debbie Cole.

Bernal, designated on July 1, 2008, received his B.A. in political science from UC Santa Barbara and is currently a Ph.D. student in education there. He also served as University Affairs chair and executive board member of

Campy Media Performance Comes to UCSD

Visual Arts Facility, Performance Space

-- Friday, May 15th, 2009 | 7:00 PM

Created and performed by artists Hilary Harp and Suzie Silver, Fruit Machine is an hour-long live-video variety show in which performers use interactive props and costumes to control sound and video. The overall performance is more mutant musical or concert than play. As much emphasis is placed on sound as image, with props and costumes functioning as audio-visual instruments. Fruit Machine includes ten short acts: five live sections and five pre-recorded "music videos."

Love and Forgiveness Series

Women's Center

-- Every Thursday, April 30th - July 2nd, 2009 | 12 - 1:00PM

The UCSD Faculty and Staff Assistance Program (FSAP) and the UCSD Women's Center are pleased to co-host a new series of thought-provoking discussions on the topics of love and forgiveness. The event is free and no reservation is needed to attend. The series will begin on April 30th with a film entitled, "The Mystery of Love." The discussion facilitator will be Crystal Green, Ph.D., from the FSAP. All staff and faculty are welcome. This is not a counseling group and disclosure of personal information will not be required. Materials from "The Campaign for Love & Forgiveness" will be used to enhance these discussions. For more information, go to <http://loveandforgive.org>. If you have any questions on the Love and Forgiveness Series, you may email Crystal Green, or Jessica Chapin-Geipel.

Calling All LGBT Artists: Show your work at the Pride Festival

Entry Deadline: June 8th, 2009

Southern California artists can enter their own original, recent work to be shown in a two-venue juried exhibition. Theme: You are encouraged (but not required) to submit work that illustrates this year's Pride

Theme: "Stonewall 2.0 -

Activism for Equality." Cash prizes include: Best Use of Theme: $100, 1st Place: $100, 2nd Place: $75, 3rd Place: $50. Prizewinners will be announced during a Friday evening reception at the Festival. The show will also be exhibited at the Ray Street Annex Gallery in North Park for a reception during Ray at Night, July 11. To participate go to www.artofpride.org and fill out your online entry. Be ready with up to three digital images of the work(s) you would like to enter, their titles, dimensions, medium, date and price. There is no fee to enter. Entry deadline is June 8, with accepted artists notified by June 22.
