Dear Dr. Szilard:

I look back with pleasure to a sunny afternoon in Denver in the autumn of 1951; because on that occasion I had an opportunity to present before your seminar in biology some of the groping ideas out of which this paper has grown. It was a happy occasion for me, and it has been fun to follow its consequences through these subsequent months.

Cordially yours,

My dear Leo Szilard:

I am looking forward to seeing you. What are your summer plans? I will be here until the third week in August, and then off on a short holiday. When during the week or weekends are you usually free? When can I most easily catch you at the hotel or in your office on the phone, so that we can plan something?

It is only forty minutes from Washington to Baltimore by train and I could meet you at the Pennsylvania Station here and bring you out here in 15 minutes. Then if you were free you could spend the night and return to Washington by the morning commuter if you must be back early, or whenever you need to.

In all events, I am looking forward to this visit as a long-deferred pleasure.

I have been reading The Voice of the Dolphins with great interest.

Cordially,

Lawrence S. Kubie

CHANGE OF SUMMER PLANS

Dear Leo Szilard

I am flying out to Colorado sometime towards the end of the first week in August to a conference at Boulder sponsored by the National Science Foundation. (It is a continuation of the M.I.T. panel discussion of this past spring.) I do not know just how long I will be away, but should get back before the last week in August. From now until I go I will be under heavy pressure cleaning up things that I had planned to do at a leisurely pace and getting ready for the meeting.

More to follow.
