

3/2/38

Commodore Sloat

Mexican Flag

U.C. Lib

F 866

F 23

Monterey

Mexican Flag.

State Capital

Fairbanks, Harold W. California

p 31.

In 1846 Commodore Sloat hauled down the Mexican flag at Monterey, the old capital of the province, and after several skirmishes, in the southern part of the state, in which General Kearney, Commodore Stockton, and Lieutenant Fremont took part, Mexican rule ceased. California was formally ceded in 1848.

(BER
917.9
D844)

SLOAT MONUMENT
MONTEREY COUNTY.

(1)

#675

DRURY, AUBREY. CALIFORNIA: AN INTIMATE GUIDE. 201-202. NEW YORK, 1935.

Commodore Thomas Ap Catesby Jones raised the American flag here "by mistake" in October, 1842, in the delusion that war with Mexico was on, but learning otherwise, he hauled it down and apologized. It was on July 7, 1846, during our war with Mexico, that Commodore John Drake Sloat raised the American flag officially and finally over the Customs House, and California was claimed as a possession of the United States. A massive monument to the old commodore's memory rises on the sky line, in the Presidio above the bay.

#675

Monterey County.

X

Sloat Monument.

Jochmus, A. C. The city of Monterey. 18.

Pacific Grove, 1925.

(CAL)

979.476

J58C

Berk. Lib

#675

Sloat Monument.

X

Power, Laura Bride. Old Monterey. 176-178.

San Francisco, 1934.

Berk. Lib

C

979.476

P873

#675

Sloat Monument.

X

Wooley, L. H. "California in 1849-1913".

in Pamphlet on California. 43.

Oakland, Calif. 1913.

F858

H4

#675

Sloat Monument.

X

Rider, Fremont. Rider's California.

296-297.

New York, 1925.

(Berk)

C

917.94

R43

PORT GUNNYBAGS

Salus populi suprema lex est, "The public welfare is suprema lex est.

872
AP. 119
(384K)

suprema lex est.
AP. 119
X

882
8828

suprema lex est.
AP. 119
X

883
AP. 119
(384K)

suprema lex est.
AP. 119
X

880
AP. 119
(384K)

suprema lex est.
AP. 119
X