

SINS DEADLY SOME

This is not a poem today I cannot write poems, I can only write sentences
The second sentence says that there are sins, <sup>d</sup>eadly to oneself and to others The third sentence says that some of these sins do include anger envy <sup>a</sup>varice pride because a person if she has spiritual power projects these qualities through her being and her work say writing and
~~and~~ is imitated by others because of this power thus perpetuating what are called sins The third sentence which is here the fourth sentence was a long sentence and has to do with the need for work on the self The fifth sentence introduces one of Gandhi's redéfinitions of the seven deadly sins which deals with the political or work in the world
The sixth sentence says that wealth even with work is no justification for keeping it all whether you work or inherit the obligation is to share until need is erased The seventh sentence quotes Gandhi that pleasure without conscience is a sin but any act without conscience or consciousness is a sin and to close I have ~~have~~ already committed seven sins seven sentences with meaning which I would prefer to destroy for a writer's goal of altering consciousness by means of disjunctive, non-sequential techniques thus forwarding <sup>a</sup> consciousness which would eliminate sins however and whomever defined

jealousy

SINS DEADLY SOME

This is not a poem today I cannot write poems; I can only write sentences
 The second sentence says that there are sins, <sup>d</sup>eadly to oneself and to others The third sentence says that some of these sins do include anger envy avarice pride because a person if she has spiritual power projects these qualities through her being and her work say writing and
~~and~~ is imitated by others because of this power thus perpetuating what
 are called sins The third sentence which is here the fourth sentence
 was a long sentence and has to do with the need for work on the self
 The fifth sentence introduces one of Gandhi's redefinitions of the seven deadly sins which deals with the political or work in the world
 The sixth sentence says that wealth even with work is no justification
 for keeping it all whether you work or inherit the obligation is to
 share until need is erased The seventh sentence quotes Gandhi that
 pleasure without conscience is a sin but any act without conscience or consciousness is a sin and to close I have ~~have~~ already committed seven sins seven sentences with meaning which I would prefer to destroy for
 a writer's goal of altering consciousness by means of disjunctive,
 non-sequential techniques thus forwarding<sup>a</sup> consciousness which would eliminate sins however and whomever defined

jealousy