Dear Mrs. Gross:

Sorry to be so slow; I've been off.

Wish I could be of some help, but I doubt that anything we find about the surgical situation would offer much for those with agenesis where the problems are rather different. There's a reference in the J. Nervous and Mental Disease, vol. 111, p. 205, that reviews a case of agenesis and cites other references from which you can get a general picture of the problem if you already are not well acquainted.

Sincerely,

R. W. Sperry

Dear Dr. Szilard:

I'm enclosing copies of the correspondence with Mrs. Gross that I mentioned last week. Hope you find it helpful and that you can make arrangements for the tests you need.

I much enjoyed the meetings with you and the others at the Institute.

Sincerely,

Roger Sperry

Dear Dr. Sperry:

I have put my ears to the ground as I said that I would and, contrary to what I expected, I have heard nothing that would indicate that anything that might be of interest to you would be likely to develop in the predictable future.

Within a week or two I should have a preprint which I shall send you and I should very much appreciate any comment which you might care to make on the subject of this paper.

With kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Leo Szilard
