

Notice of awards, honors, fellowships, special projects or publication of books

December 4, 1992

NOTICE OF AWARDS, HONORS, FELLOWSHIPS, SPECIAL PROJECTS OR PUBLICATION OF BOOKS
UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, SAN DIEGO DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY

Michael R. Belknap, adjunct professor, a specialist in American legal and constitutional history, is the author of To Improve the Administration of Justice: A History of the American Judicature Society (American Judicature Society, September 1992).

William Deverell, assistant professor, is a specialist in United States Urban History and the history of the American West. He was the recipient of several awards, including the UCSD Chancellor's Summer Research Award for 1992; a recipient of the Andrew W. Mellon Fund Fellowship at the Huntington Library for the summer of 1992, and a nominee for the Bryant Spann Memorial Prize for the best scholarly article in the Western Historical Quarterly for 1992. Deverell also was co-director for the UCSD California History- Social Studies Project, a program designed to provide intensive, discipline-based programs in history and social studies that provide San Diego and Imperial county teachers with enhanced knowledge and expertise in the classroom.

David Noel Freedman, Endowed Chair in Hebrew Biblical Studies, is the editor-in-chief of the Anchor Bible Dictionary, published in July 1992 by Doubleday. The dictionary is reputed to be the highest regarded Bible dictionary in the English-speaking world. It consists of six volumes, having more than 800 contributors and six million words. Freedman is a specialist in the Bible, archeology and the ancient Near East.

David Goodblatt, professor, History and Judaic Studies, whose specialty is Ancient Jewish history, accepted a fellowship at the Institute for Advanced Studies at The Hebrew University of Jerusalem for 1992-93.

David C. Gutierrez, assistant professor, a specialist of Chicano history and the American southwest, has won the 1991 Western History Association's Herbert E. Bolton Prize for the best essay in Western American history, "Sin Fronteras?: Mexican Americans, Chicanos, and the Emergence of the Contemporary Mexican Immigration Debate, 1968-1978."

Ramon A. Gutierrez, Chair of Ethnic Studies and professor of History, is a specialist of Chicano history, Spanish border lands, and colonial Latin America. He is the recipient of the 1992 John Hope Franklin Prize for his book, When Jesus Came, the Corn Mothers Went Away, regarding the consequences of the Spanish Conquest in the Southwest. The book also was awarded the Latin American Studies Association first honorable mention for the 1992 LASA Bryce Wood Book Award, the Allan Sharlin Memorial Award of the Social Science History Association and the "Spain and America in the Quincentennial of the Discovery" award, granted by the Spanish Ministry of Culture. The book, which has received wide critical acclaim, also is the recipient of the James A. Rawley Prize, 1991, which was first awarded in 1990. This award is bestowed upon a book that best deals with the history of race relations in the United States. Also, the book received the 1991 Frederick Jackson Turner Award, given by the Organization of American Historians, for a first book on a significant phase of American History.

Dorothy Ko, assistant professor, a specialist in Chinese history, received a UCSD Chancellor's Summer Faculty Fellowship Award for 1992. This award provides financial stipends to junior faculty members for research or the improvement of teaching effectiveness.

John Marino, associate professor, a specialist on early modern Europe, was awarded the Newberry Library National Endowment for the Humanities Fellowship for 1992-93, and will be a visiting professor at the University of Rome during the winter of 1992-93.

Stephanie McCurry, assistant professor, is the author of Masters of Small Worlds: Gender, Class, and the Yeomanry of the South Carolina Low Country, 1820-1860, to be published by Oxford University Press. McCurry examines low country yeomanry and the coming of the Civil War by focusing on gender, class, and race relations and the alliance made with planters in defense of slavery and secession. McCurry, who is a specialist in American history, was granted a UCSD Chancellor's Summer Faculty Fellowship Award for 1992. She also received a research grant from the American Council of Learned Societies.

Allan Mitchell, UCSD Professor of History, has completed the book, The Divided Path: The German Influence of Social Reform in France After 1870, which completes a trilogy on French and German history, published this year by The University of North Carolina Press, Chapel Hill.

Dov Noy, visiting professor of Literature from The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, has- received the 1992 Faith in Dialog Award of the Marian College Theology Program (Wisconsin). He was specifically cited for his outstanding contribution to the study of Jewish folklore.

Michael E. Parrish, professor, a specialist in American legal and constitutional history and recent American political history, has written Anxious Decades: America in Prosperity and Depression, 1920-1941 (W.W. Norton, 1992). In process are, Major Problems in American History, 1929-1945 (D.C.Heath) and The Last Liberal: Joseph L Rauh and His Times (W.W. Norton). Parrish is a director of the San Diego County Water Authority, trustee of the Children's School, La Jolla and a member of the San Diego Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Pamela B. Radcliff, assistant professor, has received a Fulbright Fellowship for the academic year 1992-93 for research at Complutense University in Madrid, Spain and the National Archive of the Civil War in Salamanca, Spain, under the Spain Research Fellowships, from October 1992 to March 1993. She is an expert on modern Spain.

Ramon E. Ruiz, UCSD professor emeritus, has written Triumphs and Tragedy: A History of the Mexican People (W.W. Norton, 1991). The book was chosen as a History Book Club selection in May. Ruiz is the author of Cuba: The Making of a Revolution and The Great Rebellion: Mexico 1905-1924. Triumphs and Tragedy was a finalist for the 1991-92 Los Angeles Times' Book Prize. His expertise is Latin America, particularly Mexico and Cuba.

Rachel Klein, associate professor, specialist in United States history in the 19th Century, is the recipient of two awards for the book, Unification of a Slave State: The Rise of the Planter Class in the South Carolina Backcountry, 1760-1809, (Chapel Hill, 1990). She is the recipient of the Francis Butler Simkins Award, given biennially by the Southern Historical Association and the winner of the Willis Lee Rose Prize, awarded biennially by the Southern Association of Women Historians. Klein also was the recipient of a 1991-92 University of California President's Research Fellowship in the Humanities.

Eric Van Young, professor, an expert in colonial Latin American history, was the recipient of a National Endowment for the Humanities Summer Seminar Award. Van Young has the following books released this year: Ciudad, campo y frontera en la historia de Mexico, co-edited with Ricardo Sanchez and Gisela von Wobeser (Mexico City, Universidad Nacional Autonoma de Mexico, 1992) two volumes, proceedings of the VII Conference of Mexican and North American Historians, Oaxaca, Mexico, 1985 and La crisis del order colonial: Estructura, agraria y rebelion popular en Mexico, 1750-18209 (Mexico City: Editorial Alianza, 1992), a collection of Van Young's essays, some previously unpublished. Also, El Archivo Miguel Hidalgo: Un catalogo descriptives, with Carlos Sanchez (Mexico City, privately published, 1992) and Mexican Regions: Comparative History and Development, edited and with an introduction by Van Young (La Jolla: Center for U.S.-Mexican Studies, UCSD, 1992), proceedings of a conference held at UCSD in 1988.

(December 4, 1992)