COLLEGE OF EXTERNAL STUDIES

No 95

Goroka Provincial Centre

My name is Thomas Kamtel, and I am the COES Co-ordinator for the Eastern Highlands Province.

There are about 500 students in the Eastern Highlands. I have visited a large number of these students in Lufa, Okapa, Kainantu, Benabena and Asaro.

The COES Centre is situated in the Non-Formal Education Office opposite the Raun Raun Theatre. This is a temporary office as a new office for COES will be built near the Public Library.

I like it when students come to my office. They can sit for Entrance Exams or enrol in their next subject. If they have any queries, they can ask me and get the answer straight away.

COES students in the Eastern Highlands should listen to the Education Programme on Radio Goroka at 2.30 on Tuesdays. I often give COES news on this programme. As well, I broadcast messages and other items on Tok Save.

Here are some students waiting to see me at the office.

A Study Centre has been established called the Lutheran Study Centre. There is also a Study Centre at SIL at Ukarumpa. A Study Centre is where a group of students study COES lessons together and have a teacher to help them.

Remember students - come in and see me at my office. Also, listen to Radio Goroka and I'll tell you when I'll be visiting your area.

OUR NEIGHBOURS Part V: Links with other countries."

This is a 5 part series. This is the last part. The first part was called "Countries on our Borders." Part II was "Our Island Neighbours in the Pacific." Part III was "Our Continental Neighbours in the Pacific." Part IV was "Links with our Pacific Neighbours."

"The Prime Minister, Mr. Michael Somare, on 13th October, '83 addressed the 38th Session of the United Nations General Assembly on Papua New Guinea's approach to its relations with the rest of the world under a much changed foreign policy entitled 'PURPOSEFUL DIRECTION.' He went on to explain, "By this we mean, that without being strident or aggressive, we are pushing for progress toward international equity and order, through bodies like the United Nations, and other international organisations."

Below are just a few examples of the links PNG has with other countries. Papua New Guinea, like many small nations, has great difficulty in keeping up with all the decision making that is the result of the many organisations that operate between the world's nations. Often Papua New Guinea feels out-manoeuvred by and not as well prepared as larger countries with whom she must deal. Papua New Guinea therefore has to be very careful in the use of its few diplomats. They can attend only those meetings which affect PNG or PNG's beliefs. For many of Papua New Guinea's neighbours in the Pacific, the problem is even greater.

Among the problems facing international order are colonialism, nuclear testing and the arms race, racism, and the Middle East. The problem for international equity or equality is the growing difference between the poor countries and the rich. This is caused by the growing dependence of the developing world on help from the developed world. This includes the increasing dependence of undeveloped countries on countries with technical skills and knowledge of modern technology.

MIDDLE EAST

Papua New Guinea is very worried about the troubles in the Middle East. The question of a homeland for the Palestinians, the independence of Lebanon and the right of Israel to exist as a country are all issues that could cause conflict. This conflict could grow into a much more dangerous situation, even a World War, at any time.

THE ARMS RACE

Papua New Guinea is horrified by the fact that the world's governments are spending $800,000,000,000 per year on weapons. As the Prime Minister has pointed out .... "Such vast spending on arms is not contributing to security - we believe it is contributing to insecurity .... That spending, given the poverty of most of the people of the world, is obscene."

TRADE

Papua New Guinea is working to establish its economic independence by finding markets for its goods in other places. PNG is keen to join ASEAN countries (Singapore, Indonesia, Thailand, Malaysia, Brunei, Philippines) which supplies PNG with 20% of her imports. PNG has very strong trading links with West Germany and Japan who take 60% of PNG's exports. PNG's traditional trading partner, Australia, supplies PNG with 40% of PNG's imports but takes only 9% of PNG's exports.

AGGRESSION

Papua New Guinea believes that every nation, small as well as large, has the right to be free from foreign invasion or from foreign interference. Vietnam must withdraw from Kampuchea. Russia should withdraw from Afghanistan.

NUCLEAR TESTING

Papua New Guinea has protested against the French Government's nuclear weapons testing on Mururoa Atoll. Also France has made Papua New Guinea very angry by ignoring the protests of the Governments and the people of the South Pacific. The environment of the South Pacific is being threatened by these tests.

RACISM

"Racism and apartheid are .... inconsistent with any concept of lasting international order. They offend the principles on which societies like mine are founded. Their practitioners deserve not only condemnation but isolation." The Black Africans in South Africa are victims of apartheid.

COLONIALISM

Papua New Guinea sees colonialism as the worst type of interference by one country in the affairs of another. Papua New Guinea supports all people who are trying to get rid of colonial interference. This is especially so in the South Pacific where New Caledonia is a colony which still has no set plan for independence. Where there is colonialism there is no equality. As Michael Somare said, "There cannot be long-term order without equality ...."

COMMONWEALTH OF NATIONS

This is an association of independent nations that used to be part of the British Empire. Some countries like Papua New Guinea have Queen Elizabeth II as their Head of State. Other members of the Commonwealth are republics with an elected President as Head of State. The Commonwealth of Nations operates on the basis of friendly co-operation to overcome a variety of problems. The Commonwealth Fund for Technical Co-operation provides technical advice and help to its members. It also discusses issues like nuclear waste dumping, the move to independence by Zimbabwe and anti-apartheid boycotts. In the words of Mr. Brian Amini, PNG High Commissioner to New Zealand, "... PNG has not regretted the decision (to join) and continues to appreciate the invaluable assistance given to all members of the Commonwealth."

THE INTERNATIONAL ECONOMIC SYSTEM

Papua New Guinea, like most other countries, has suffered from the economic recession. It has meant that Papua New Guinea, an independent nation, has had to depend even more on aid from overseas countries, especially Australia. Trade agreements like SPARTECA with Australia and New Zealand, do not help Papua New Guinea to modernise its economy. Papua New Guinea needs technical skills and the knowledge of modern technology to become a truly independent nation. Papua New Guinea would like to join Indonesia, Malaysia, Thailand, Singapore and the Philippines in ASEAN (Association of South East Asian Nations) if invited. Then she would have access to the technical knowledge and skills that have kept ASEAN countries among the least affected by the recession.

THE NON-ALIGNED MOVEMENT

This Movement was begun in 1961 as an alternative to the two super powers, communist Russia and capitalist U.S.A. Today there are 101 members of the Movement from all regions of the world. But today the Movement is very divided. Over the last three years Cuba has been Chairman and has tried to bring the Movement closer to Russia's ideas. Papua New Guinea is an observer at the meetings of the movement because she wants to know what is being discussed. If there is anything that affects Papua New Guinea, then she will be able to get her friends who are members to speak for her. Papua New Guinea does not want to be a member yet because she does not want to get involved in all the conflicts about political ideas. Papua New Guinea is still a young country and is building up her own ideas. Also, there are many organisations and groups of countries in the world. Papua New Guinea, as a small nation, does not have the resources to attend them all.

Brothers Cool Win

EASTS Club members will always be pleased to boast about the day they came from nowhere, when the fight was on for the 1984 Kool Cup and finish second best to Enzed Brothers of Port Moresby.

Benny Bogg

And this was the first time ever, Brothers in Port Moresby entered the Kool Cup Challenge and come out winners of the competition.

Brothers Coach, Brian Wilson first took Port Moresby Brothers to Lae's Cambridge Cup Challenge in 1979, and there too, they won the title. Brothers have set a history for their club as well as the competition.

How the underdogs - Easts almost set a new record for their club is explained by coach Nelson Passingan as "not so much on my coaching, but team spirit and individual positive mental attitude that we are the best."

Being the second last of eleven teams in the Moresby "A" grade league Easts played an excellent game when they took on a much more fancied Enzed Brothers, and kept up with Enzed from start to finish.

Commenting on the performance of his boys, Passingan said, "Their spirit was very high on the field, especially during the first stanza." "But", he added, "even though many of my boys performed their very best, we can only do so much. We have come very close to a significant win and I think the best team wins."

Nelson Passingan is a very experienced coach. He has been coaching since 1974, but last Monday, Brothers proved to be a better team than his boys.

East is a Seventh Day Adventist Club, which believes in resting on Saturdays which is one reason why they have remained wooden spooners for a long time in Moresby.

Enzed Brothers thrashed East 28-14 to win the Kool Cup plus the K2,000 award in the finals played at the Lloyd Robson Oval. Their experience to hard tackling and pressure paid off well in front of a crowd of more than 4,000 people.

Brothers Captain, Wera Mori, Francis Biroro and Michael Matmilo were keys to brothers win. Expert ball handling from the Brothers line gave them a lead which East's late trys could not over ride.

Only time stopped the last minute pressure from Easts to turn the tables on Brothers, who were obviously walking in the dying stages of the second stanza.

But Easts themselves looked lost and passed up many chances of clear trys and the game was held to a stalemate for a better half of the game. Brothers must be praised for their specular wing-to-wing ball play towards the end of the match, during which most of the players were winded and tackles were only half-hearted.

Again the best Brothers were, Francis Biroro, Leo Pilakai, Morris, and Michael Matmilo.

For Easts, players like, Daroa Harry, Isaiah Lavari and Toligai displayed some best football their supporters and spectators had not seen for a long time.

While Brothers earned their K2,000, Easts collected K1,500, with a promise to a better season in the 1984 season proper which begins next weekend.

Defence just made it

THE Kool Cup Competition for 3rd and 4th place between Defence and Tarangau was full of colour, especially in the second half when Tarangau put up a desperate fight to overwhelm Defence's lead.

Benny Bogg

Unfortunately for Tarangau, Defence proved a better team by edging them out 36-32.

Defence Club in Port Moresby's Rugby League has a reputation together with DCA for strategic moves to winning battles. Sticking to that reputation, Defence's well planned moves initiated and masterminded by their leader Roy Loitive and compatriot Jerry Wainge secured their 3rd place plus their K1,000 prize when they beat Tarangau at Lloyd Robson Oval last Monday.

On second thoughts, the third place and prize of the competition should have gone to Tarangau. But straight hard runnings displayed by Tarangau on Easter Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, was punishment enough. Monday was their worst day, yet that should not have been their excuse for losing. The other teams did go through the same kind of hardships.

Defence opened up the score 5 minutes into first half as Andrew Gandhi scored at a far side of the field. Alex Togola's left foot failed to secure the conversion and Defence lead 4-0.

Now and again, Defence bombarded Tarangau's defences and scored at the interval of 5 minutes.

Despite tactical tackles by Defence, Tarangau's big Daroa Benmoide scored two corner tries for his team to trail Defence 8-16 in the first half. Tarangau's greatest set back was through their ball handling, which is vital in any match.

Tarangau returned to the field to find themselves facing a more determined Defence side. But they were just as determined to tackle harder and brush up on their ball handling.

Again the first try for that half was scored by Defence. Skipper Roy Loitive broke through Tarangau's strong defence before feeding winger Jerry Wainge who went on to touch down inside Tarangau's tryline.

Daroa Benmoide and his Tarangau boys retaliated with the same power and dominated most of the second half. For a good 20 minutes, Tarangau fought hard and scored two tries, but were too far out at the corners, which made it impossible to score conversions. Tarangau collected on conversion points and still trailed Defence 16-22.

As Defence tried to outrun and defeat Tarangau, they scored another three tries. Even though Tarangau held up the hard runs throughout the entire second half they could only manage to score three tries of which only two were converted.

Defence tried to but could not run away from Tarangau with their tries. The score at full time proved that the fight was hard and could have been anybody's game, as Defence barely had enough to boast about their win. Tarangau took the 4th placing as Defence walked off with K1,000 prize with a score of 36-32.

A spectacular run by Defence's halfback to score a try. However they did not run away from Tarangau with their tries, 36 - 32

An up - down under finished tackle by Brothers to an East player during the grand final battle.

Tarakum No Match For Tigers

MINOGERE Tarakum defeated Rongo Tigers 22-27 in the finals of the Eastern Mini Rugby League competition at Goroka, to win the K1,600 prize.

By Side Liner

From the kick-off, with skipper Linus Geni at the helm, Tarakum took play control of Tigers territory before the hard running Toyo Evei paved the way for inside centre Boniface Yombai, to score Tarakum's opening try. This was about twenty minutes after the start of the game.

Conversion attempt by Linus Geni failed. Tigers shaken by the try, retaliated with plenty of hard running in the forward, but still resistance by the Tarakums threw Tigers co-ordinated play into shambles.

Tarakum capitalized on tigers momentary disorganisation to send their big outside centre, Jeffrey Kaputin to score. Linus successfully made the conversion to bring Tarakum 10 points to nil.

The play in the remaining minutes of the first half was evenly fought out before a swift ball handling in the Tigers back line sent Western Apo to score in a far corner.

Apo failed to make the conversion. Tarakum quickly retaliated with two quick tries from second rower Simion Heni and gain Linus Geni respectively.

Linus converted his try to seal of the score for the first stanza, 22-4 in favour of Tarakum.

The play in the second half was dominated by Tigers as they made a determined come back to save themselves from what could be a humiliating defeat.

Tigers pressed Tarakum in their own turf for the better part of the second half and gave Tarakum no room to manoeuvre.

Former Kumul Captain, John Joseph dictating play in the enemies territory was superb in setting up his forwards to bombard Tarakums defences before setting his backs up. Joseph's efforts paid off.

After an initial field goal from Francis Matmilo's boots, the hard running big forward Lois Jeffrey barged his way through Tarakum's back line before sending the outside centre Yakabus to score. Western Apo made the conversion to bring Tigers 11-22.

Play then sea-sawed for some 10 minutes before John Joseph brushed aside Tarakum defenders to score in the corner. Apo's golden boots made the conversion to bring the score, 17-22.

The play within the remaining minutes was hard and tough and both sides probed each others defensive line up to score.

And with only a few minutes of play remaining, Tarakum sensing a possible walkover by the swift flowing style of Tigers play, held on firmly to deny the hungry Tigers any more room to score before full time.

Tigers performances, although small with the inclusion of Kumuls Frazier Giheno and John Kelly, should find some consolation in the runner-up prize of K850.

The full time score was Tarakum 22 Tigers 17.

John Joseph, Francis Matmilo, Alois Jeffery and Yakabus tried hard for Tigers, While Linus Geni, Koro Farapo, and Tuyo Evei should have shown brightly for Tarakum.

Scrumms favoured Tigers 12-8. While penalties were Tarakum 9 Tigers 3. Earlier, Gouna Hawks trashed Collins and Leahy United 12-4, to pick up the third prize of K550.

The president of Goroka Rugby League, Ricky Matio gave a personal prize of K100 to the Collins and Leahy United for their consistent style of football, and for coming fourth in the competition.

This weekend, season proper will begin with junior grades playing on Saturdays and senior grades on Sundays.

Positive thinking puts store ahead

THE manager of Parabu Trading, Henry Newton Kiambai, is a hard working, dedicated person with a positive attitude to running his trade store business.

Mr Kiambai's trade store is situated in the township of Rabaul. It is at a stones throw distance from the main Rabaul market centre. A perfect place for such business because the area gathers large groups of impulse buyers daily.

There is a strong tie between Mr Kiambai and the wholesale companies which supply his store with goods. His store sells goods faster than most similar shops in Rabaul, outside the main market area.

Mr Kiambai gets a new supply of foods nearly every day. He says "This is a positive sign that my shop is going pretty well."

He sells almost all the kind of things one can find in big trade stores. Clothes are plentiful, groceries, frozen meat, chicken, lamb chops, fresh fish, tinned fish, ice cream, tea, coffee and sugar etc etc.

When Mr Kiambai goes buying goods, Rabaul B.P. Wholesale in town is the only distributor he calls at. At certain times he might like to see what other wholesale businesses could offer him.

But otherwise Mr Kiambai says, "I only go to B.P. Wholesale. They offer the best services in Rabaul as far as I see it, which encourage me always to order my goods at their wholesale."

Stocked

Mr Kiambai's store, "Parabu Trading," is a new business in Rabaul. He started the business in October 1983. However, it is now well stocked on the shelves, with more kept in his little office room behind the shop.

"I'm now thinking of re-constructing the building my shop is in, and enlarging it so that I can stock more shop goods for the customers to select and look at. I like to allow space for my customers to move around, so that there is enough room for 15 or so people to shop at the same time."

Mr Kiambai started his trade store with a loan of K10,000 from the Development Bank. He had his own K6,300 which was enough, he said, to propel him into starting and managing his trade store. He also used money belonging to a copra plantation business.

Mr Kiambai will be repaying the loan in the middle of this year. He says that the Development Bank will be paid in full plus the interest rate of K5,000. Mr Kiambai has the backing of his "Kambasrai" copra plantation. There is no doubt that he will pay back the loan on the marked date.

Buyers

Even though Mr Kiambai owns both businesses, he has set his mind to run the two separately. The copra plantation spreads over 200 hectares. "From my copra sales, I make a minimum of K35,000 and a maximum of K50,000 a year."

Back in his trade store Mr Kiambai says, "More than 100 people step into my store daily, but the actual buyers would be about 65 to 70 each day. I have a little device in my cash register which counts the people when they stop over the counter to buy goods." From Monday to Friday each week, Mr Kiambai receives ordered goods from BP Wholesale. The company distributes the goods to his doorstep which allows him ample time to work in the store not running around town ordering his goods. He has an account with the BP company and through this account, Mr Kiambai gets his order quickly and easily.

The future of Kiambai's trade store business is "great" he says. "I'm very positive that my business will emerge into a big shopping centre. It will take ten years for me to build my little store into a big one, but this is my high ideal. All I can do is work hard as I am doing now and watch my business as it grows."

• Newton Kiambai: he had to break down a side wall and extend, to add space for stock and for customers.

The genius in your pocket

THE calculator may not be smarter than man, but it certainly thinks quicker.

A calculator is a machine which does very quick arithmetic.

Inside the calculator is a tiny brain which is a silicon chip. This piece of metal which is no bigger than a thumbnail is the central and most important thing in the calculator.

Attached to this silicon chip is a circuit of many wires which are pasted together in copper on a plastic base. Also attached to this circuit are many other tiny wires.

Button

When you press a button on your calculator, these wires act very fast carrying your request for your information to the silicon chip and bring back your answer in a space of seconds.

To operate a calculator, first switch it on. If you want to add K74.45 + K35.50 press 7,4 then the point, then 4,5 then the addition sign.

Then pres 3,5 then the point again, then 5,0 and the equals sign.

You then get your answer which is K109.95.

If you want to divide 240 by 12 press 240 then the division sign followed by 12 then the equals sign. Your answer is 20.

There are big and small calculators. The big ones use batteries or electric power and the small ones only use batteries.

The small calculator is known as the 'pocket calculator' and it uses two batteries. The battery with 'Liquid Crystal Display' or LCD is the best and lasts for many years.

Fast

Trade-store owners in many villages of PNG have come to find calculators very useful. Because they are likely to make mistakes by giving wrong change to customers, the calculator can help them tell what

THE calculator is increasingly becoming the tradestore owner's trusted friend and second brain. It is helping owners to do simple arithmetic quickly and is helping them to serve their customers quickly.

• This is what the inside of a calculator looks like.

It also helps them to work out what profit or extra money they are making. It also reveals to them if they are losing money. In cases of stolen goods the calculator tells how much money has been lost.

The face of the calculator has signs of addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, percentage, the equals to, the dot or the point and numbers zero to nine.

Pocket calculators are in great demand in Papua New Guinea and apart from tradestore owners, teachers, students and individuals have also started using them in their work.

About 10,000 a year are sold here.

Explain

A book entitled 'The business Arithmetic Workbook' which explains how to use the calculator has been written by Allen Edwards. It is written especially for bussiness development officers in every province to help them explain to the village people how to use calculators. The book is written in English.

NOW IS TUCKER

PORT Moresby city has been invaded in its low-cost housing area and squatter settlements by crudely built stalls, numbering well over 500.

And even this rough figure obtained from the National Capital Interim Commission, may already have been exceeded. The commission is currently checking its files to see how many are not supposed to be in business.

And of course, Port Moresby is no exception. The "tucker box" shops have been set up in town throughout PNG.

These kiosks are the start of commerce in low class housing areas, but at the expense of the city's "beauty." The services they dish out are vital to low-wage earners. After all, it was for the benefit of the disadvantaged-low wage earners that the city's authorities gave the green light to locals interested in setting up small-scale business in these areas.

These kiosks, commonly labelled "tucker boxes," are virtually unknown in areas lived in by the elite. But they may crop up near grounds commonly used for sport and other public gatherings. A newcomer to Port Moresby is advised not to ignore dusty looking caravans that look deserted at road-sides, when hunger pangs are intolerable.

For these "sorry-sights" sell life-savers to those who cannot afford bus rides to and from shopping centres.

These small stores only sell groceries and some other household items. All contain a refrigerator that enables them to sell cold drinks, and frozen chicken.

The reasons underlying the creation of the new "fleet" of small, stores in the outer-lying suburbs of our towns vary from owner to owner.

Creation

For the owner of Hura Trading, one of the many stalls at Gerehu stage 3, a trading business is just another means of increasing his revenue. This chap, from Morobe, already operates a PMV business and has his eyes open for more opportunities to present themselves.

And a second person is also benefiting from this particular trade store.

A man from Hula owns the building which houses the kiosk, and the Morobe man pays a fortnightly rent for the building together with a fixed sum of money for operating on the licence belonging to the Papuan. The Papuan decided to take a respite from business, which meant he was at risk of losing his trading licence.

To keep his licence valid he invited another man to operate on it until he is ready to make his come-back into the business world.

One piggery and poultry farmer from Wabag decided to extend his business to take in a trade store as well. Robby Samai is the owner of Rosala Trading Pty Ltd, which has two other branches, in Tokarara and Morata.

Fana Opoki, the Kainantu owner of Gerehu Corner Trading, had the idea of starting a business to test his managerial abilities.

But for Mr Woko, the owner of Woko Trade Store at Tokarara, his reasons for starting the project are more basic. He needs money from sources other than his pay to save up and to be able to meet the cost of educating his children.

His entire fortnightly wage goes to meet food costs and water and electricity bill. Now, with the operation of his canteen, he says he is able to create a surplus that will finally end up in the bank.

Operating

This reason for operating a store is shared by Mr Lavi the owner of Lavi Trading, operating at Tokarara, and Westcott Gegera, a trade store owner at Hohola.

It appears that the more established and prominent wholesalers are running out of favour from emerging trade store businesses. For Wantok's survey the nation's two front runners in the wholesale business are losing some appeal to potential customers, because it is claimed they are not prepared to do enough to assist in solving the problems faced by newcomers to the trade store business.

A retailer who has just started, without a truck to transport his goods to his store, will turn to wholesalers who have just that extra incentive, apart from offering lower prices - like offering delivery.

The small Hura Trading is attracted to Ocean Trading because of the speedy service provided by Ocean Trading. This wholesaler also allows its customers to obtain a variety of food stuffs through offering goods in small packs of sixes.

As the average money a small trade store owner would spend on just one order is in the vicinity of K300, the offer of 6-packs enables the starter to select a wide variety of goods.

Rosala Trading is an established small trade store. Its weekly expenditure is around K3,000 as it has five branches scattered around the city to re-stock. Rosala Trading is supplied by Sun Yau Trading, Tokma Trading, Terimal trading Pty Ltd, and Seeto Kui (PNG) Pty Ltd.

These wholesalers allow credits to their customers on condition that debts are settled within a week.

Transport

Tokma Trading and Leo Sam and Co Pty Ltd supply Fana Opoki's Gerehu Corner Trading. Fana stressed that Tokma Trading assists in providing transport and together with Le Sam, had prices he thought reasonable.

Another well-off small trade store with branches set up at several busy spots in Port Moresby, Baniel Trading, prefers Seeto Kui and Steamships ahead of other wholesalers.

A small trade store just emerging in Tokarara Woko Trade Store, prefers to stick with Jimm Trading Pty Ltd and Bulk Cash 'n' carry in its starting-up period. Woko believes that the prices of goods in these wholesale stores are cheap - just right for a starter.

Transport is provided by the companies, which means a reduced cost for the small trade store owner.

Mr Woko wants the K300 he spends on each order to obtain a good variety of food-stuffs in high demand in the suburb of Tokarara.

Only after passing that "weaning" stage does an established small trade store owner seem to start to obtain goods from the larger sources like Burns Philp and Steamships.

Usually by this time his savings would have secured a vehicle to transport the goods.

The owner of a new,

• The goods on display in Hura Trading are typical of many such stores. Two people are involved in the running of this store.

● The building doesn't matter much to the owner of Rosala Trading. It's the money earned through sales of the goods that counts.

small store tends to be very careful where he spends his money. He pours most of his money into wholesalers whose goods are cheap and also provides transport.

Port Moresby, the nation's centre, with the second highest cost of living might lay some blame on small trade stores for their very significant contribution to the high cost of living.

Car-owners in the city have the advantage of buying their rations from main-stores at a cheaper price. Those who rely on their legs have had to bear with the high prices offered by the small trade stores.

Rations

Thus low wage earners are paying more for their rations whilst the high income earners are spending less for the same foods. It is the majority — the grass roots — who are the hardest hit by trade store prices.

The obstacles to obtaining a licence are many, as pointed out by trade store owners and confirmed by the commission. First, an application is made out to the National Capital Interim Commission for a trading licence.

The commission has to wait for the land board to convene a meeting to trace the ownership of the piece of land sought. Then there is this question of whether or not to release the piece of land to the applicant if the land is found to be government land.

Then if the land in question is already on lease to the National Housing Commission there is the NHC to consult before any "Artifact" building is build next to a NHC house.

These procedures are time-consuming. Many months elapse before every relevant body to be involved in processing the application has made its decisions. The commission then has to decide if a new small store is necessary in the area where the proposed developer intends to set it up.

A Commission official explained that licence was "readily" granted to an interested person intending to set up a store in an area where not very many residents are likely to own a car. But one wonders if very strict criteria are followed when the commission scrutinises each application.

Everywhere it seems trade stores are set up within a couple of minutes walking distance from each other.

Many trade stores owners admit that their weekly earnings are not as high as they had hoped. There are very many stores concentrated in one small area which paves the way for customers preference as the determining factor in whose store gets how much.

Revenue

Only those small stores that provide an around-the-clock service are able to make good money each week. Rosala Trading has a daily earning of about K1,000 and this revenue is surpassed to K2,000 or K3,000 on Fridays and Saturdays for obvious reasons.

High income-earners use these stores at night time, while during day time and in the early hours of the evenings it is almost exclusively a grass-roots store.

Other small store owners who cannot operate on a 24-hour basis resort to other attractions to attract their customers, allowing customers to take away goods on credit and repay later guaranteeing an influx of money on "fortnight" days.

But for most small store owners the chance of a four digit weekly return is remote. One trade store in Hohola sells K37 worth of goods per day. Most store owners say they earn around K200-K300 a week.

● The crude structure which houses Daniel Trading in Gerehu. These brown caravans can be spotted in several parts of the city, a "trade mark" for Daniel Trading.

But most store owners are happy with whatever they have achieved so far. Most have plans to expand their business if things go well. But they would have to need all the luck in the world to obtain enough land to accommodate a bigger store.

Although prices in these shops may be terrifying, customers have little choice but to accept them, while wholesalers will be only too happy to see the survival of small businesses, as their continued existence means business to them too.

● Mr Woko, he was hard-pressed by financial difficulties to the point when setting up a store seemed the only solution.

BPs to push stationery

AS OF this month, Burns Philp, which has always concentrated before on food in its wholesale outlets throughout Papua New Guinea, is venturing into stationery wholesale.

A spokesman of the Burns Philp's Badili wholesale outlet, Mr Graham Stevenson, said that BPs had not really got involved in stationery wholesale before. However, after a number of months research into what has been coming into the country from overseas, and into the needs of the customers the company decided to invest money in this new venture.

Schools, offices, tradestores and various groups who want to buy in bulk will be able to get their stationery supplies from the 11 Burns Philp wholesale outlets in the country.

A representative of the company will be travelling throughout the country with a sample of the stationery.

"Customers have found it very beneficial to buy quality material from Burns Philp, and we will be giving them value for their money" stressed Mr Graham.

Importing

Apart from Australia, the company will be importing material from South East Asia, with a special emphasis on quality writing pens from Japan and paper from Singapore.

A wide range of books, rubbers, pens, pencils and other material will be made available at the outlets.

The 11 wholesale outlets for Burns Philp include Kavieng, Kieta, Rabaul, Lae, Goroka, Kiunga, Mt. Hagen, Madang, Wewak, Popondetta, and Badili in Port Moresby. At present, Rabaul, Lae and Badili are the three biggest wholesale outlets of the company.

• Checking on stock at a Burns Philip store: soon stationery will take a bigger profile.

• The first of a monthly series of advice columns for tradestore owners, from "Skul bilong Stuakipa," edited by Eleonore Koeck.

At regular intervals a storekeeper should make purchases to fill up his stock so as to give a good service to his customers. Therefore, before stock runs out completely, the storekeeper has to prepare an

ORDER FORM

When he places the orders with the different wholesalers, he should check for the cheapest prices.

The order form shows the following information:

* The name and address of the business which is buying the goods.

* A full description of the goods that are being ordered.

* The quantity of the goods that are required.

* How the goods should be sent - ship, post or by air.

Each order form can be recognised by a number printed on it. There are two exact copies of each order form:

1. The ORIGINAL, or top copy, is turned out and sent to the supplier. The supplier uses this to make up the package of goods to be sent to the retailer.

2. The DUPLICATE, or second copy, is kept in the order book of the person making the order. This is a very important copy. It is used by the person receiving the goods to see that he has received the goods which he did order.

Steaming ahead with serving PNG's tradestores

WHEREVER there are Steamships shops throughout Papua New Guinea, there are wholesale services available for all sectors of the food and merchandise market, including tradestore operations.

Tradestore operators can benefit from Steamships' extensive wholesale network throughout the nation said the general manager of Steamships' merchandising division for the New Guinea area, and of Steamships Machinery Jack Bolt.

Mr Bolt said that for tradestore operators in Port Moresby and nearby, Steamships offers a computerised price list of food products in its wholesale store. He said that the computerised price list shows to the trade store operator (and the grocery and supermarket operator) the suggested retail value of the item, and the wholesale price that he buys at.

Mr Bolt said that this then helps the operator set his mark up on the food item that he wishes to sell.

Computerised

Mr Bolt said, however, that this computerised price list only exists for its Port Moresby wholesale store, and not in other centres.

In addition to food items, Steamships distributes through its wholesale stores non-food items which range through clothes, pots, pans, crockery, torch lights, batteries, radios, cassettes, and many other goods.

One other important service that Steamships maintains for small business operators in very remote areas is its country order system, Mr Bolt said. He said that such people can place their order at their nearest Steamships wholesale store, and have their orders delivered to them.

However, he said that many trade store operators in the remote areas do not have an arrangement to buy merchandise goods on credit from Steamships.

Mr Bolt said that for such people, Steamships requires that the operator sends a list of what is required to Steamships. The nearest Steamships wholesale store then sends an invoice to the operator of what the items amount to.

Postal

The trade store operator then sends a postal order or bank draft to the Steamships wholesale store which then has the goods sent out to the operator.

Mr Bolt said, however, that in recent years with improved road transport, there had been a gradual decline in the amount of orders Steamships received for its country order service. But the country order service was still an important part of how Steamships meets the need of the tradestore community.

Cheques and balances

- From Gary Bondfield in The Age.

THE accounting concept of control involves accuracy and efficiency in recording and reporting as well as the security and good management of assets.

Thus the basic accounting operations contain many balances and checks.

Many accounting students see most of the balances in ledger accounts, where the ledger balances must be thought of in three ways.

First, a balance at the start of an accounting period must be for an asset, liability, or proprietorship amount, that continues through the divisions of accounting periods. Income and expense amounts are for one period only and are closed each period to the trading or profit and loss accounts.

Second, a balance represents an imbalance in the two sides of a ledger account: a balance in a "T" ledger account is placed on the lesser side of that account, then brought down.

Ledger

Finally, the word "balance" refers to an amount or value of, for example, money in the bank account, money owed to creditors, or the value of vehicles the business owns.

The balance in ledger accounts at the start of a period come from those asset, liability, or proprietorship accounts, from the previous period, which also are recorded in the last period's balance sheet.

The balance at the end of this period goes to this period's trial balance, then to the profit and loss report or the balance sheet.

The trial balance is a list of all the ledger accounts and their balances arranged in the appropriate debit or credit column. The two columns are totalled simply as a check.

If the totals are not equal, usually there is an account left out, or an error with the transfer of figures, or a mistake in addition.

In a trial balance that balances, it is still possible for errors to exist, as transactions may have been omitted from the journals and ledger, or the same recording mistakes been made twice.

The balance sheet also should have equal totals: that is a check on the accuracy of the final reports.

Journal

This article started with control and the ledger, but before the ledger most businesses use journals to record the transactions as they occur (and some use a cash book).

When the two main, and largest, journals - the cash receipts journal and the cash payments journal - are completed, the bank column total (arrived at by adding "down" the column) should equal the sum of the cash columns (by adding "across" the journal).

If a cash book is used instead of these journals, a check similar can be carried out, provided the opening and closing bank balances are left out.

That is the basic system; but there is more to accounting than these bookkeeping functions. A very important check occurs when the figures for an accounting period are compared with the budgets (what the business planned to achieve during the time).

The differences or variances between actual results and the relevant budget (eg, the profit and loss report to the budgeted profit and loss report), should be calculated and some questions should be asked.

How well did the business go for the period? Where did the firm exceed the plans? Where was it below the plans? Can these differences be explained satisfactorily? Is there a problem area to receive tighter control?

If the income differs significantly from the planned level either higher or lower, the variable expenses in the profit budget should be adjusted first, then the questions asked.

Return

Is the business making a satisfactory return for the owner? How does the profit, in amount, and as a percentage of the owner's investment, compare with returns on investing, previous years for this business, other similar businesses (in type and size), and even other businesses it is feasible for the owner to be involved in?

If the business has subsidiary accounting records, a check occurs into the general ledger from each subsidiary area. If there is a debtors' ledger, the balance of each debtor's account is placed with others in a table or schedule (as accountants call a list of names with figures).

The total of that schedule should equal the debtors' account balance in the general ledger (a schedule for all individual debtors should equal one account for all the debtors).

This also should be the case for creditors, and for any area in which a subsidiary system operates, including expenses and assets such as stock and vehicles.

The subsidiary accounting system may involve ledgers other than the main one (these usually are done for debtors and creditors), but for stock there probably will be a stock card file, with a stock card for each of the many items of stock.

For fixed assets, such as vehicles or machines there may be a file of cards or a book of records.

In all cases with subsidiary records a check should be made to the control account for the item in the general ledger. Debtors' and creditors' ledger.

Ever ready to join PNG's battle of the batteries

THE Eveready Battery is the world's largest selling battery. There are 14 large factories in the world, which produce and distribute the batteries.

Some factories are in South-east Asia and Australia.

At home in Papua New Guinea, Eveready Batteries are now being heavily promoted the shelves in big shops, hardware and tradestores.

The largest distributor of Eveready Batteries in the country, Burns Philp began its campaign with the product approximately three weeks ago.

Delighted

Burns Philp's national controller (electrical), Bernard Warneken, explains, "BP is delighted to tell the public that we are selling the best product on the PNG market, where batteries are concerned."

Mr Warneken said it had been proven by various independent tests, that Eveready Batteries were three per cent more efficient than any other battery brand on sale in PNG.

Eveready Batteries are product from Union Carbide, an American company with a Hong Kong base.

Burns Philp gets its Eveready products from Singapore, from the largest Eveready Battery plant in the world.

Eveready's biggest competition comes from National now sold exclusively by Chin H Meen - and soon, from a PNG based battery producer with Danich company Hellsens as a major partner.

Burns Philp also supplies Eveready sales support items such as "T" shirts and caps. The company has recently spent K30,000 on advertising Eveready products, especially batteries.

Mr Warneken said, "We are the only people who bring in the full range of Eveready Batteries - four different sizes in two different packs. We have the Super Heavy Duty battery, transistor and lantern batteries, and those for general purpose.

Quality

"We know of five other brands of batteries which are selling now, which offer less in quality and range, but I don't think it's necessary to say what they are."

On April, 4 and 6, BP held Eveready Battery awareness and

• The Eveready sales promotion team with Eveready bus behind.

promotion campaigns in Lae, Rabaul and Port Moresby. The company now sells Eveready Batteries in Kavieng, Rabaul, Kieta, Lae, Popondetta, Goroka, Mt Hagen, Madang, Wewak, Kiunga, and Port Moresby.

Mr Werneken said, "Our stock is fresh. We have 14 days to turn over old batteries to Singapore and get new ones. So what we sell in our own shops and provide to other retail shops is brand new. These new batteries come straight from our distributor, the Union Carbide factory in Singapore."

PNG's Stand At The Oceania-France Match

THE switching of champion half Steven Mortimer to the wing and the world's best lock Ray Price to hooker emphasised just what a one-sided farce the historic Oceania-Europe clash developed into.

By TONY DURKIN on tour with British Airways

The Oceania side romped in 54-4 on a second-rate suburban dust bowl, putting the shudders through Australian officials and fans who will soon host the English Test side during a three-Test series.

The score showed the huge gap in the standard of the game between the northern and southern hemispheres and the Poms desperately need to show more in the coming Tests.

In their defence, at least they will not have to play beside the French. The Europeans had no cohesion and virtually showed no understanding in defence or attack.

The score suggests the match was a fizzer. The Europeans virtually caved in during the second half as the visitors literally took turns at scoring tries and taking conversion attempts.

And coach Graham Lowe pampered his players' whims with positional changes including Mortimer to the wing, Price to hooker, Gene Miles to lock and Wayne Pearce to tight-head prop.

Add to that a pitiful crowd of about 2000 and the disgraceful playing surface — which would not be seen at a country showground after three-years of drought — and those not at the match could be forgiven for thinking the entire promotion was a giant flop.

But there were pluses, and quite a few of them. The game was beamed live on local television to an estimated audience of five million and the Oceania players treated the crowd of dyed-in-the-wool French supporters to some champagne football.

Australian Rugby League chairman, Ken Arthurson, described the match as a truly worthwhile effort in public relations.

"The idea was to boost the game in France, and I am sure that has been achieved today", he said.

Arthurson made special mention of the two Papua New Guinea representatives in the side, David Noifa and Ekon Togili.

"The way the other players reacted when those two boys did well typifies just what a match like this means to Rugby League," he said.

One sour point of the match was the injury to star centre Mal Meninga. He tore a muscle in his right leg and left the field eight minutes before halftime.

Meninga was limping after the match, but doesn't expect to be sidelined for more than a fortnight.

There was not a bad player in the Oceania side, as the score would suggest. Both backs and forwards worked willingly in attack and defence, combining as though they had been together for months.

But prop Brad Tessmann, a late inclusion for Craig Young, stood out.

Apart from Tessmann, skipper and five-eighth Wally Lewis and forwards Ray Price, Mark Graham and Wayne Pearce were the best for Oceania. Pearce fittingly won the man-of-the-match award for a non-stop effort.

Lewis was remarkable at five-eighth, getting rid of the ball from simply impossible positions to eager supports. It was a though he had no intentions of being tackled on the gravel surface.

Tessmann opened the scoring in the ninth minute after a bungle from dummy half, close to the European line. The pass went astray and the prop, skirting around behind the ruck, picked up the loose ball and beat some flimsy defence to score under the posts.

In the 15th minute, Lewis produced some of his magic to set up the second try, scored by Kiwi fullback Robin Alfield. Lewis made a break, followed by a strong run and when cornered, threw an overhead pass to the fullback.

Meninga's conversion attempt, from wide out, just missed. Oceania 10-0.

Europe were next to score, and it was a brilliant solo effort by the talented Hanley which brought up their only points of the match. From an orthodox backline move, Hanley stepped through a gap, brushed aside Tessmann then pointlessly beat fullback Alfield to score in the corner.

Again, the conversion was astray. Oceania 10-4.

This try seemed to stir the visitors, who quickly hit back with a try, Tessmann's second, just four minutes later. The prop made the initial bust and then unloaded to the ever-alert hooker, Howie Tamati, who was pulled down just inside the quarter. Tessmann, backing up, went from dummy half, ran 15 metres, took two defenders with him and scored beside the posts.

With Meninga off the field, Lewis took over the goalkicking, but missed a sitter. Oceania 14-4.

One minute from the break, came the try of the match. Meninga's replacement, PNG winger David Noifa, started to move with an elusive 40-metre run from well inside his own half after retrieving a kick.

From the play the ball, big centre Gene Miles sent a perfect pass to the flying Pearce who put winger Dean Bell away. When cornered, Bell floated a long pass back inside the posts.

Now it was Tessmann's turn to add the extras, but he too missed a sitter. Oceania 18-4, at halftime.

After just five minutes of the second half, it was obvious the Europeans were going to be swamped when Alfield, Boustead and Mortimer combined. Alfield fielded a kick, beat two defenders, linked up with Boustead, now playing in the centres, who sent Mortimer over under the posts.

Hooker Tamati converted, Oceania 24-4.

Queenslanders Lewis, Miles and Boustead combined for the next try, in the 55th minute. Lewis put Miles into a gap with a superb delayed pass and the big centre drew the final line and sent Boustead over under the posts.

And almost before the crowd could blink, the flyer converted his own try, using the left foot. Oceania 30-4.

Seven minutes later Mark Graham crossed under the posts, simply by walking through paper-thin defence. And one of the biggest cheers of the day went up when PNG forward Ekon Togili converted. Oceania 36-4.

From the kick off, which had not varied once from Europe in the entire match to this stage, Graham and fellow Kiwi McGahan combined to humble the home team.

McGahan leapt high to take the short kick-off, and found himself almost in open spaces. When caught by the cover, he found Graham backing up inside and off-loaded to him. Graham in turn was cornered, but his inside pass found McGahan who raced over between the posts.

Kevin Tamati took this conversion attempt and like his cousin, was successful. Oceania 42-4.

McGahan was next to score, in the 68th minute, when he ran 30 metres after taking an intercept. The wide-angled conversion attempt from David Noifa was astray. Oceania 46-4.

Gene Miles scored the next try, a solo effort, six minutes from fulltime, but Mortimer missed the conversion, despite the style and finesse of Mick Cronin. Oceania 50-4.

The boys from PNG settled the dust at the ground with the final try, two minutes from the end. It was scored by Ekon Togili, but the ball passed through at least 10 pairs of hands before the stocky second-rower went over midway between the uprights and touch.

Gene Miles maintained his kick was good, but both judges ruled it wild. Oceania 54-4.

The Man Behind East

Benny Bogg

BEFORE anyone can start coaching any game, one must know his individual players potentials, weaknesses and how the individual players can improve. The intending coach must understand individuals as players and the players must know that you are their coach. This is the firm belief of the man behind East, Nelson Passingan.

Nelson Passingan, 36 from Umbukul Village in New Hanover is currently East's Rugby League Club Coach in Port Moresby. But many people will know him as a Paga veteran, player and coach.

"Before I took on Easts, I had to study who my boys were. I looked at their physical and mental capabilities and also their approach to the code of Rugby League.

"I believe I did well, because Easts came from nowhere to take on Brothers in the Kool Cup Challenge. I always emphasise that my players are the best. I picked out of the 100 members of the club, 20 who represented East in the Kool Cup competition.

"The tactic we employed during the Easter break was as such - when we attack, we rip the defence of the opponents, so that they become an attacking mob. This allowed us space to break in for our tries.

"I was very disappointed when we lost to Brothers last Monday, but more than that I was pleased that we went to the finals. We failed to be winners because we never lend a solid tackle." Mr Passingan said.

Nelson Passingan started his sporting career as a soccer player. He played for Rangers Club in Port Moresby in 1969, when he was a young lad working with the Public Works Department.

In 1970 he switched over to GFC. But in 1971

Passingan together with Leo Pokotau and Moso Saleu, formed the Works & Supply or Public Works Team. He was a good striker and in every game he would score up to 6 goals.

In 1971, when a soccer team was selected to go to the 4th South Pacific Games in Tahiti, Passingan missed out in the final selection. And soon after he quit playing soccer.

That same year he joined the Paga Hill Rugby League Club, through a friend, Andrew Nema, a long time Paga Hill player. In his first game in "C" grade Passingan scored 6 tries. In his first game in "Reserve" grade he scored 3 tries. On the same day he plays in the "A" grade and scored two tries under the posts.

Passingan played for Paga "A" grade until 1974.

Recalling those days Passingan said, "In those days, the whiteman ran the club."

When Tony Lavutul

became president of Paga Hill in 1974, Passingan assisted in coaching. In 1975 he became Paga's President and coach. Passingan went back to playing again, though this time in the "C" grade and the "Reserve" grade because of work commitment.

He was only 25, and already a coach and president of a big rugby league club. Maybe the youngest too. In that year (1975) he took Paga into victory as first premiers of Port Moresby and that was after 8 years of carrying the sick title "Wodden Spooners."

Passingan also took Paga (Port Moresby) to Lac in 1975 and won the Cambridge Cup title from Mt Hagen Brothers.

In 1978, he was transferred to Mt Hagen where he was then appointed coach of Mt Hagen Brothers. That year rugby fans saw his team walk over Wests of Port Moresby and the Cambridge Cup competition in Lac.

Passingan - The man behind Easts.

In that year Nelson Passingan was elected by Highlands zone Rugby League, to be the trainer of the zone. "We won by defeating Southern Zone. Uwe Sabume was the coach."

In 1980, he was elected Mt Hagen Coach, to coach the side at the Highlands Zone Selection competition.

In 1982, Nelson Passingan was selected by PNGRFL to be the first ever PNG trainer for the Presidents 13. Uwe Sabume was the coach.

"Thinking back, I have a level one certificate in coaching Rugby League, which I obtained in Australia in 1977."

"Passingan was appointed the public relation officer for the touring British side, by the PNGRFL in 1982.

"From my experience behind me, I still believe that there is a lot to learn before you can call yourself a coach. PNG has a lot of talented players. So whatever a coach does, he must read well his individual player in order to reap the best results from his team.

"To be a coach, one should be a committed member to his club or team.

"Back to my own club, Easts, I am working on discipline and still trying to learn more about individuals. At the end of the second round and before the finals, if Easts listen to me, we will not be on the bottom of the ladder. We will be running for the title."

Community Corner Tools for Teachers

Last week we learned how to make an electromagnet and an electric buzzer. This week we are going to look at the uses of electromagnets.

If your buzzer does not work:

1. Test the batteries to see that they are not flat (will they light a lamp?).
2. Check all the connections (joints) in the buzzer.
3. Make sure that the end of the electromagnet is close to the vibrator. If it is touching the vibrator, it will not work.
4. Check to see that the contact is touching the vibrator when you start. The buzzer makes a buzzing sound as electricity travels through the circuit.

USES OF ELECTROMAGNETS

A. The Car Horn

It consists of a piece of iron which is bolted in the centre of a circle of thin metal. The piece of iron can vibrate up and down like a drum as the circle of metal is bolted down at its edges. So if the iron vibrates, a sound is produced.

This is how the sound of a car horn is made. Now let us learn how an electromagnet makes the iron move up and down.

On the diagram "A" is the thin metal circle. When this vibrates it makes the sound of a horn. "B" is the piece of iron which vibrates up and down.

On this diagram "C" is an electromagnet. When electricity flows through "C", the iron "B" is attracted to it. This bends the metal "A" a little. If electricity is stopped flowing through the electromagnet, it will stop attracting the iron. So the iron springs back up as the metal circle "A" is springy.

For the horn to make its sound, the metal circle "A" must keep moving up and down. So the iron "B" must keep being attracted to the electromagnet, then springing away from it.

On the diagram the electricity flows through two pieces of metal which just touch at "D". If these two metals move apart, only a little, then the electricity will not flow through.

On the diagram, as the iron "B" moves down to the electromagnet, it touches a springy bar of metal "E". This moves a little and makes the two metals move apart at "D". Then the electromagnet no longer attracts the iron. So the iron "B" and the springy metal "E" springs back up. This closes the contact at "D" which allows electricity to flow again. Then the iron "B" is pulled down, it moves the metal "E" and stops the electricity flowing. In this way the metal "A" vibrates up and down. This makes the sound of the car horn.

QUESTIONS:

1. What is an electromagnet?
2. What moves inside a car horn when you press the button on?
3. Why does it move?

(Answers next week).

We all love sugar. With our National sweet tooth consuming close to 30,000 tonnes a year, we were paying a huge sugar import bill, but not any more. The Ramu sugar project at Gusap in the Madang Province is the largest and most successful agricultural project ever undertaken in Papua New Guinea. Now Ramu has 6,000 hectares of sugar cane under cultivation and a factory capable of processing 3,000 tonnes daily into the natural cane sugar that we buy in our local stores today. And Ramu, as well as supplying our nations sugar needs, produces an export surplus that is very much in demand overseas for its "natural cane" qualities
