THE LOBBY, MARYLAND HOTEL

THE MARYLAND is the latest addition to San Diego's select hotel list, having been formally opened March 15, 1916, and is one of the city's handsomest buildings—a steel frame structure faced with attractive cement brick.

With its 300 comfortable, steam-heated rooms, it is the second largest first-class hotel in San Diego. Being new and modern in every way and occupying the entire sunny southern exposure of the block bounded by Sixth, Seventh and F Streets, with a 400-foot frontage east, south and west, it is admirably located as regards the convenience of all guests.

BED ROOM, MARYLAND HOTEL

THE MARYLAND, although but newly opened, achieved an instant success, and now enjoys a steady patronage of permanent guests and travelers that places this new hotel in the front rank in San Diego. This quick growth is largely attributed to the popularity and wide acquaintance of the manager, Omer E. Lilly, who made thousands of friends during the five and one-half years he served on the U. S. Grant Hotel staff. Mr. Lilly has built the success of his hotel around the watch-words: COMFORT and SERVICE, until The Maryland has come to be known as "The Attentive Hotel."

THE MARYLAND rooms offer you the luxury of complete hotel convenience and comfort at economical prices. A welcome new departure here is the arrangement which provides a toilet and lavatory in every room which does not have a bath or shower. All rooms have been newly furnished throughout.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

Though catering in general to a commercial, family and tourist trade, The Maryland will be best known as the House of Welcome for commercial travelers. It is more than a commercial HOTEL—it is a commercial men's HOME. Here they will find the service which they, of all others, appreciate. For the traveling man, the location is ideal, being in the natural center of the section in which his business lies.

CALIFORNIA BUILDING, SAN DIEGO EXPOSITION

In every way has special attention been given to the convenience of commercial men. Sample rooms are in various sizes, and arranged to suit the different lines of merchandise. They can be connected with a room and bath, if desired. Particularly desirable are the four "special" sample rooms on the ground floor, which are very commodious and illumined by day light. In a word, The Maryland is headquarters for commercial travelers.

THE EXPOSITION is bigger and better than ever. It will be open throughout 1916. The best of the exhibits from the Panama-Pacific International Exposition were moved here from San Francisco, and installed at the greatly enlarged San Diego fair. Throughout 1915 the San Diego Exposition was pronounced a perfect gem by thousands from every part of the country; this year it is so much better that many distant visitors find it worth while to visit it again. When you come you will find the Maryland the logical place at which to stay. The direct electric lines to and from the Exposition pass the door. The Maryland's nearness to the shopping district, and its accessibility to all points of interest, afford the visitor every advantage in the way of business, amusements or sight-seeing. Watch for the Maryland free busses at boats and trains.
