CHANCELLOR'S AWARDS PRESENTED TO INTERNATIONAL CENTER VOLUNTEERS

The International Center at the University of California, San Diego honored seven volunteers this year with the 1991 Chancellor's International Center Volunteer Awards. The awards were made recently at the Friends of the International Center Annual Dinner. International Center Director Mary Dhooge, created the awards in 1984 with the assistance of a grant from the Chancellor's Associates.

The awards, presented by Lindy Nagata, special assistant to the chancellor, were as follows:

* Friends Member of the Year, Ralph and Margaret Fogerty. Ralph and Margaret Fogerty of Pacific Beach were honored as Host Family of the Year in 1985. They are the first recipients in the history of the Chancellor's International Center Volunteer Awards to be recognized a second time.

* Organization of the Year, Golden Triangle Rotary Club. Golden Triangle Rotary Club, a strong supporter of the Center, now sponsors two International Cafe lunches each year.

* New Volunteer of the Year, Jim Henderson.

Jim Henderson, a San Diego resident, spent endless hours as an orientation assistant helping students and scholars. He also opened his home and hosted several new UCSD arrivals.

* Tutor of the Year, Augustus Lestick.

As a tutor for the International Center, Augustus Lestick of San Diego is skilled at everything from teaching colloquial English, to helping students prepare dissertations in difficult academic fields.

* Host Family of the Year, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dooyema.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Dooyema's active commitment to furthering international exchange and understanding through the Host Family program has earned these Encinitas residents this well deserved recognition.

* Study Abroad Returnees of the Year, Carlos Garza and Tyrone Harvey. Carlos Garza and Tyrone Harvey have been terrific assets to the Education Abroad and Opportunities Abroad Programs. Harvey and Garza, both San Diego residents, have been invaluable as counselors and advisors to students interested in working and studying abroad.

* International Club member of the Year, Michelle Soracco.

By devoting hours of her time and enthusiasm, La Jolla resident Michelle Soracco contributed directly to the International Club's unparalleled success this year.
