

Revelle elected as member of American Philosophical Society

May 9, 1960

Dr. Roger Revelle, Director of The University of California, La Jolla, has been elected a member of the American Philosophical Society.

An outgrowth of a scientific club formed by Benjamin Franklin, the Society was incorporated in 1780. Its membership of 600 includes some of the nation's most eminent scholars. The full name of the Society is American Philosophical Society Held at Philadelphia for Promoting Useful Knowledge.