For Hoo-ver is our choice a-gain
Al-to-geth-er, raise your voice a-gain
HOO-VER'S GO-ING BACK A-GAIN!
North and South and East and West
All want a man that's stood the test
If this land de-serves the ve-ry best
LET'S SEND HOO-VER BACK A-GAIN!
Get on the band wag-on now
There's just one driv-er and how!
For what this Na-tion real-ly needs
Not one who fol-lows, but who leads Here's the mot-to that the whole world heeds,

Ceremony for Fing Day.

It happened that this opening of the republican convention, the initial move of the 1932 presidential election campaign, which probably will be the most bitterly contested since McKinley and Bryan fought through another depression in 1896, fell upon Flag day. That was the occasion for a ceremony that was unusual to national political conventions.

Senator Simeon D. Pess of Ohio began rapping for order at 11:25, but did not obtain it until ten minutes later, when, with an impressive gesture of his upraised right hand, the color guard of the Commonwealth Edison Legion Post came to attention.

With the national colors and flags of regiments that have been honored for gallantry under fire, the color guard moved to a position before the platform. As it stood there, with color standards lifted high in the air. Senator Fess recited the oath to the

Republicans Hope to Win on "Safety and Sanity" Plea

Roosevelt's Nomination Upon a Weak Platform by Democrats Believed by Hoover's Party to Give

Its Chances a Boost.

By RAY TUCKER,

World-Telegram Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Major decisions of political strategy agreed upon here by administration leaders before quitting the convention city indicate that President Hoover will seek re-election with the most conservative appeal in recent political history.

The selection of Ex-Representa- who was Chief Executive there tive Everett Sanders of Indiana as when Sacco and Vanzetti were national chairman, the platform electrocuted. Even "General" Jacob and the men running the President's campaign show that the G. O. P. will try to reset the 1924 and 1896 stages. a those years the alogan was that only the Republicans could be entrusted with the responsibility of government because the Democrats were irresponsible. Whether this tag will stick depends, it is conceded, on what the Democrats do with respect to economic issues, prohibition and their candidate.

Hope for Weak Platform.

The Republicans are hoping the Democrats will adopt a platform vague and weak on prohibition and economic questions, and nominate a man who will not appeal as a bold, honest figure. Privately many of them are praying that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York will emerge as the victor from next week's Democratic powwow.

Party strategists hope, as did McKinley, Mark Hanna and Coolidge, that in time of economic stress the voters will flock to the 'safe and sane" standard.

Brown Is Real Leader.

As indicative of this sentiment. two men who played a prominent part in the convention were Governor James Rolph of Hoover's home State, who declined to free Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, intends to make.

S. Coxey, who headed Coxey's Army, a delegate, seemed milder than usual.

The choice of Mr. Sanders in place of enator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio has little political significance except as a possible bid for Coolidge's campaign support, Mr. Sanders was Coolidge's White House secretary, and the two are still on close terms.

It means that Hoover, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown and Ogden L. Mills of New York, Secretary of the Treasury, will run the campaign. Mr. Sanders will, it is expected, be only a figurehead. He was named because old guardsmen on the National Committee opposed the selection of James R. Garfield of Ohio, chairman of the Resolutions Committee.

Resenting Mr. Brown's domination of the convention, the practical politicians insisted on a different personality, especially as Garfield made enemies in the prohibition fight. At the capital and in Indiana Mr. Sanders is not regarded as a forceful or independent figure. He has been assailed by some Senators as a lobbyist since he puit the White House. He is ultra-conservative and unemotional, and he was chosen because he is the ideal figurehead Tom Mooney, and Ex-Governor for the sort of fight the G. O. P.

Honorable Bertrand H. Snell. Permanent Chairman Republican National Conventions

Chicago, Ill.

I have your telegram advising me that the Republican convention has renominated me as the party's candidate for President of the United States, I am deeply grateful for the highest honor that the party can confer. It marks your approval and your confidence. I shall labor as I have labored to meet the effects of the world-wide storm which has devastated us with trials and suffering unequaled in but few periods of our history. That storm still surrounds us. The measures which we have adopted and the policies which you have outlined will, with patience and courage, restors confidence and with it employment, agriculture and business. These policies and measures will hold our hard-won Amer-Ican system of ordered liberty and government. Our youth will continue to find that the doors of equal opportunity are open.

But beyond platforms and measures there lies that sacred realm of ideals, of hopes and aspirations, those things of the spirit, which make the greatness and the soul of the nation.

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CHICAGO, June 15 .- The text of the address of Joseph B. Scott of Los Angeles, nominating President Hoo-ver was as follows:

This convention has almost completed its task. The work of the delegates here assembled will soon find reflection in the campaign of 1932. Consecrated by the spirit of service we go forth with courage and confidence to meet the vital issues of this challenging period.

The fathers of the nation not only pioneered the wilderness in their day with the courage of the backwoodsman; they searched with the hardihood of the frontiersmen for liberty and constitutional authority just as we must search. They cut paths through the jungles of ill-starred experiments in government to create the heritage which has been handed on to us and which it is our duty to protect.

The destiny of the nation is largely in our hands as members of the Republican party. No one can survey the horizon without an overwhelming sense of the responsibilities resting upon us. Millions of anxious and bewildered men, women and children are watching us, praying that God will strengthen and enlighten us so that out of our work may come the dawn of a new day, full of hope and promise. It is in that spirit of hope and confidence and with humility that I address you. I am not the one to talk to you of the problems of finance, of agriculture, of industry, of commerce or of trade.

There are other and abler men from whom we can learn of those things. They are far more qualified to speak to you than I am.

Republican National Committee, The Stadium, Chicago. June 16, 1932.

Honorable Herbert Hoover, The White House, Washington, D. C.

I have the honor to inform you that the Republican National Convention has just conferred upon you the highest honor within its power to bestow, a renomination for the Presidency of the United States. I desire to extend to you personally, as well as officially as chairman of this convention and on behalf of the delegates here assembled and the people of the nation, our best wishes. We pledge our support in your arduous duties as Chief Executive.

Weapons of Assault at Work.

Today the skeptic and the cynic are still around and about us. It has always been so-it will perhaps always be so. Years ago across the floor of the House of Commons that gallant Irishman and stalwart friend of America, Edmund Burke, stopped the tirade from the Tory benches by riveting them with the scornful query, "Who can refute a sneer?" The weapons of contemptuous assault and scurrilous innuendo are at work today throughout the land in vain efforts to besmirch the character of a great

We have need of introspection We have cause to stimulate selfexamination. Each in the form of his own conscience had better take time out to reflect that in this bi-centenary of Washington's birthday the man who holds highest aloft the standard the more attracts the hosts of the opposition. We had to have a Valley Forge to learn the value of our political heritage. We had to have the Emancipation Proclamation and the Gettysburg Speech, to understand the Declaration of Indeperdence.

The fathers who gave us this government were not graduates from soap boxes. They were cul-tured, thoughtful, educated men, dominant leaders of their day and generation. Unlike many of us today, they sacrificed themselves to the detriment of their own personal fortunes in the service of their fellow-men and to the end to His "Human Sympathy." Special to THE NEW YORK TOWER. CHICAGO, June 16.—The text of Mrs. Pratt's address seconding Mr Hoover's nomination follows:

Mr. Chairman, delegates and alternates to the Republican Ne-tional Convention: Four years ago the Republicans, in convention at Kansas City, nominated as candidate for President of the United States a man who, four months later, was overwhelmingly elected to that office by the people In the light of subsequent events those were, comparatively speak-ing, carefree days, but "we builded better than we knew." Time and experience have demonstrated the wisdom of our choice.

We are here today to reaffirm our faith in the President. We do it with a deep appreciation and this critical period in our nation's history, we have in the White House a man of unparalleled resourcefulness, imagination, human sympathy and understanding, and, above all, a man of recognized ability—ability coupled with a wide grasp of our country's needs, not alone here at home, but in its re-lations with the other nations of the world as well.

A man of courage, vision and singleness of purpose, he has stood fearlessly and uncompromisingly against the forces of destruc-tion and unrest which have been at work, not only throughout our own country but throughout the entire world, using at all times every means within the power of his office to combat these forces. He has been tested as by fire and has proved worthy of our ut-most confidence and unwavering loyalty. His record constitutes a challenge to any man who aspires to public office.

The hesitancy of the Illinois leaders with regard to proposing the nomflation of Gen. Dawes is due to his Washington statement in which he diclared himself not a candidate and aquested his friends not to embarrass him by their support. As a result the Bawes movement is one for drafting the general against his will promoted by others than his friends and neighbors.

R. B. Creager, national committeeman of Texas, reiterated that the Texas delegation will place Gen. Dawes in nomination if Illinois should not 65 so. He made arrangements with the Arkansas delegation to yield to Texas at the beginning of the roll call for that purpose.

Dolly Gann Works for Curtis.

Mrs. Dolly Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, was at headquarters during the day discussing with administration leaders the crtais in her brother's political fortunes. She said fiterward that her brother's renomination is assured.

A different opinion came from the faders whose canvass of the situation disclosed delegations whose members constitute an overwhelming majority of the convention shot through with dissatisfaction with the prospect of the renomination of the Vice President. From every side came the same argument, the burden of which was that Mr. Curtis, who will be 73 at the beginning of the next presidential term, is too old for the presidential job if he should be called to it and too dd for the rough and tumble campaign which it will fall to the lot of the vice presidential candidate to make this year.

The failure of Senator L. J. Dickinson, Republican keynoter, to mention prohibition aroused criticism in many congressional quarters. For the most part, senators and representatives had no comment to make. Some of the reactions follows:

Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.]

Rep., Mich.]—"They have left the prohibition issue to the convention, which, of course, can not ignore it."

Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.]—"President Hoover and Senator Dickinson are fighting to avoid the important problems of the moment. The speech is a patchwork of the past and completely ignores the pressing present—particularly with respect to prohibition."

Senator Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.]

"I shall not study the speech because I don't believe it is good enough to enthuse me."

Representative Earl C, Michener [Mich.], acting Republican leader of the house—"The speech in the main deals fairly with the situation, but there may be some things with which I am not in harmony. It clearly leaves prohibition for the convention to settle."

New Draft Is Offered.

The new draft started off with an avowal of devotion to the constitution and, to the enforcement of all law. Then it went on to swat the nullificationists by declaring that the failure to enforce any law would be nothing short of national dishonor.

From that point the plank approached President Hoover's notion that the issues of this election are primarily economic and that the prohibition question should be eliminated. The declaration recited that in the midst of economic distress involving much more serious matters than prohibition the question of what to do about the 18th amendment ought not to be a partisan political issue.

The proposed draft next placed the party on record as being opposed to a ubmission of the prohibition question that limited the choice of the voters to retention or repeal of the 18th amendment.

Suggest Modification Door.

In this manner it was suggested that the form of submission should leave the way open for some sort of modification. The plank wound up with a commitment to the protection by the federal government of states electing to remain dry from inroads of liquor from states electing to go

Whether the revised plank would reove any more acceptable to the President than the first one none of the high command would wenture to predict. That it was not being looked upon any more favorably by the dry organizations and by the advocates of upqualified repeal was apparent.

CURTIS HIGHLY PLEASED

Both Sides of Senate Cheer Party Selection of Vice President.

WASHINGTON, June 16 — (AP) - A smiling Herbert Hoover and an equally pleased Charles Curtis swung into campaign step tonight for the long, hard march to the November elections.

President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover heard over the White House radio the Chicago ceremonies re-nominating him as the Republican presidential candidate.

Later from his office he sent a telegram to Representative Snell, who presided over the convention eaying in part:

"If the American people shall again commit to me the high trust of this great office I pledge to them the full measure of my devotion to their service."

The result of the balloting on the vice presidential nomination was announced in the Senate while the vice president was in the chair. There was a fourst of applause from senators proved and chart sent a salegran to

"I feel very sure," part of it said, "that the record of the present administration is such as to insure the election of the entire Republican ticket in November."

Sanders to Run Campaign.

Word from Chicago that Everett Sanders, former secretary to President Coolidge, would be the next chairman of the Republican National committee received quick confirmation from the White House.

Banders, in addition to having served with Mr. Coolidge, was for some years a member of the House from Indiana. He will succeed Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio.

A virtual decision has been reached also that President Hoover will make his acceptance speech from the south portice of the White House late in July or early in August. In 1928 he delivered it at his Palo Alto (Cal.)

Sanders probably will come to Washington soon to discuss campaign plans and then return to Chicago where, under present plans, headquarters will be established.

The first thing the President did after his nomination was old familiar business with him, posing for pictures with groups on the south lawn of the White House grounds. There were nearly 500 persons present who gave him a round of applause as he came down the steps,

Selection Pleases Democrats.

In the House the news of Mr. Hoover's choice was received with applause from both sides of the chamber, Democrats stood and cheered even after the Republicans had taken their seats.

"That," said some of the Democrats, "fixes things fine!"

President Hoover heard nearly all the demonstration for him at Chicago over the radio. He left the Juncheon table later when informed that the balloting was beginning and heard the names of states called and their almost unanimous vote for him.

Mr. Hoover had appeared tired when he came to work this morning, having remained by the radio until after midnight last night to hear the debate on the prohibition plank. He was obviously pleased at the adoption of the administrationnonsored anientenion plank instead

Hoover Nominator's Address Stirs Rallies at Convention

A series of demonstrations for President Hoover were set off by the praise of the President by Joseph Scott, of California, old friend of Mr. Hoover, who placed his name before the

Golden State Group trooping in single sie through an Bands, Horns, Organ All Set for Great Demonstration.

CHICAGO STADIUM, June 16 .-A)—California led a loyal tumult today as a Republican national convention by first ballot acclamation made her adopted but favorite Republican son, Herbert Clark Hoover, its choice for the Presidency.

A negligible fringe of dissenting votes again, as four year ago, stood between the President and the absolute unanimity of the 1,154 delegated representatives of the party that he should carry on for another four years.

The Californians came prepared for this renewed showering of party favor upon them. They were armed with every implement of political demonstration modernly known to the great game. They found hundreds eager to help them use or display their equipment.

And they embroidered it all with that all but last word of the day. the talking movies, showing a dimly visible picture of President Hoover in action on a high screen, while his voice rolled out of the hall loud speakers to add to the din on the convention floor in his honor.

There was noise, the clashing music of competing bonds and the overhead voice of the mighty pipe organ as the carefully prepared great spectacular moment of the convention came, As Joe Scott of California, selected to place the President in nomination, stretched on tip-toe under the glaring lights to shout the name of Hoover into the bellowing ion. amplifiers, the uproar tore loose.

Down in front the Californians caped up to follow Governor Rolph and his bear flag and the state standard into the aisles in a wandering, shuffling parade, Already every other standard for delegates or alternates was up and moving and the band and organ roared into that "Callfornia, Here I Come" that has been the Hoover theme song through his whole political career.

entrance at one side to plough along puffing, tooting and pounding its big and little drums almost unheard in the general din. Hundreds of Hoover horus, scattered before the big moment came, joined in the uproar and national flags, big and little, cropped out all over the convention floor.

Delegates more eager to see than to march climbed to their chairs tooting or waving as the fancy took them. A great blue-and-gold Callfornia-Hoover banner appeared from nowhere and went jerking and jigging through the jammed alales.

High against the flag-draped roof half a dozen big netting bags began disgorging a slow, colorful shower of toy balloons all over the great hall. Green, blue, red, yellow they came floating down like a strange multicolored rainstorm of supersized drops.

They rained over the platform, where party dignitaries like National Chairman Fess, Secretary Mills, Convention Chairman Snell and Mr. Hoover's own political secretary, Walter Newton, batted and tossed them in an impromptu game. They even fell into the mouths of the big borns of the band trooping about the aisles, seeming to add to the strain on the puffed cheeks of the bandmen who knew not of the little gasbags muzzling their efforts.

From several entrances clusters of high-held staffs fought their way in and slowly unrolled in the sisles Hoover slogans like "Press on With Hoover in huge blue lettering on the heads of the shuffling demonstrators in strange serpentine fash-

A platoon of camera men, yelling frantic stage directions to the marchers, added their share of both noise and lighting effects to the picture. Their flash bulbs winked and blinked from the rail of the platform and press stand where the photographers perched perilously. There was a mutter of thudding reports as man after man in his haste dropped spent vacuum bulbs to explode on the floor and shower the On signal, a second band came feet of the slow moving crowd in the sisles with tiny glass fragments, soon ground to dust.

There was so much general noise that cheering or yelling seemed hopeless in competition with the bands and the organ and all the tooting horns. Yet every time the music stopped for breath, the loyal delegates got in a bit of vocal effort.

Sing as They March.

At one point the organist switched his great instrument to the strains "Onward Christian Soldiers." played and repeated in full volume and slow cadence. Some caught it up and sang as they trudged. It gave a momentary touch of solemnity to the spectacle.

From a big white hanging screen on the north wall of the arena, the motion picture of the President loomed a bit vaguely, while his own voice, electrically recorded and greatly magnified by the amplifiers sounded in the noise in familiar tones where they could be heard. Many of the delegates or those in the galleries did not catch sight of the picture. The lighting conditions were against a clear-cut reproduction. They heard the voice, however, and looked about for the source.

In the end Chairman Snell stilled whose electoral vo the uproar with his gavel aided by vast grunts from the organ to call the white backgrounds. They went attention. Then the convention have not change weaving and twisting along over settled back to its two ballots after you could note a deluge of nominating and second today that the oratory that recreated for 1932 the Hoover-and-Curtis ticket that marched to a great victory at the try will respond polis four years ago.

Dissension Raised Over Prohibition Plank Is Drowned Beneath Waves of Enthusiasm in Closing Hours of Chicago Conclave; Rolph Leads Big March Around Stadium; Everett Saunders Is Chosen Party Chairman.

CHICAGO, June 16 (A.P.)—The Republican convention united behind the Hoover-Curtis ticket today, then disbanded to labor mightily for it from now until November.

A lone ballot sufficed in each case, the President winning renomination by 11261/2 of the 1154 votes, and his 1928 running mate gathering 6341/4 in quick order.

What there had been of dissension over the ticklish prohibition plank was drowned in the closing hours beneath waves of enthusiasm. Especially did the President triumph. Opposition votes were divided, with 13 for Senator Blaine of Wisconsin, 41/2 for Calvin Coolidge, 4 to Dr. Joseph I. France of Maryland and solitary counters for Charles G. Dawes and James W. Wadsworth of New York.

Curtis had no less reason for satisfaction, in view of the Republican precedent against renaming vice presidents that has been broken since Civil war days only by the choice of "Sunny Jim" Sherman of New York in 1912. When the end of the roll was reached, the swarthy Kansan still was 20 behind the necessary 578, but Pennsylvania put him across instantly with a switch of its block of 75.

Worn by the long and feverish hours of last night and early morning, the convention lifted itself by its own bootstraps for a noisy half-hour demonstration to welcome the Hoover nomination, submitted by his friend, Joseph L.

Head of Junta Which Deposed President 12 Days Ago Is Taken When Palace Stormed by Revolutionists.

SANTIAGO, Chile, June 17 (Friday) (A.P.)-Col. Marmaduke Grove, leading member of the new Socialist Junta that deposed President Juan Esteban Montero 12 days ago, was captured early today in a counterrevolutionary overthrow of his regime.

Leaving out the differences in the two platforms on prohibition, it is expected that the Democrats will attempt to frame an agricultural plank which will go farther in promising relief to the farmers of the Middle West and Northwest than the Republican Convention has done. The Democrats, however, will face an embarrassing question in dealing with the Marketing act and the Farm Board. If the Demo-crats declare for abolition of the Parm Board, they will be accused of benefiting the special interests which have long fought it

Republican leaders are but little worried over what the Democrats may do on tariff, since many of the Democratic leaders in Congress have urged protective rates on commodities or articles in which their localities are concerned.

And if given the opportunity he was going to endeavor to stampede the convention by calling for the nomination of former President

A huge crowd, although not as large as that of last night, was in the stadium today for the wind-up of the convention.

While nominations for Vice President were being made, Chairman Snell interrupted the proceedings to have a clerk read a message from President Hoover.

After expressing his appreciation of the renomination, the President pledged a continuance of his best efforts to solve the perplexing problems confronting the people of the Nation.

"I shall labor as I have labored." the message stated. "to meet the effects of the world-wide storm which has devastated us with trials and suffering unequaled in but few periods of our history.

The principles and policies of the Republican Party as enunciated in the platform adopted last night were commented upon by the Pres-

"But beyond platforms and measures," he continued, "there lies the sacred realm of ideals, of hopes and aspirations—those things of the spirit which make the greatness of the soul of the Nation. These are our objectives, and with unceasing effort, with courage and faith in Almighty God they will be attained.

"If the American people shall again commit to me the high trust of this great office I pledgs them the full measure of my devotion to their service."

The President's message came to the convention in response to an "unofficial" notification of his renomination wired by Chairman Snell. The official notification will take place later when a delegation from the convention will visit Mr. Hoover at his California home.

Scott concluded his speech nominating the President at 12.20 clock. The vell lell from a large illuminated photograph of Mr. Hoover high above the platform. This was the signal for the pandemonium that continued without sign abatement for a half-hour.

It would have gone on for one hour but for Snell, who, after repeated efforts, finally restored a semplance of peace and quiet to the convention. Bnell was anxious to proceed with the work of the conclave, so that the delegates could get started on the homeward trek.

Banners Unfuried

Two huge banners carrying the alogan "from Maine to California press on with Hoover" were un-furled in the centre of the hall. Photographs of Hoover appeared in every section of the stadium. Balloons of varied hus were released from nets aloft in the flag-bedecked rafters. Beveral bands blared and the delegates began the time-honored convention practice of marching around the floor.

Horns tooted, men and women shouted as the parade got under way with California, home State of the President, leading. The band mruck up "California; Hera We Come."

As the noisy demonstration continued, Chairman Snell, Senator Simeon D. Fess, retiring chairman of the National Committee; Secretary of the Treasury Mills, and Lawrence Richey, secretary to the President, led the cheering from the platform.

"Talkies" Disregarded

This group of ardent Hoover mon seemed well pleased as they looked down on the convention floor and saw the tall, grayhaired Benator Bingham marching around with the Connecticut standard. That looked like harmony after the bitter prohi-bition contest of last night.

On one side of the hall a white screen was suspended, the flood lights were turned off and the delegates were confronted with a talking picture of President Hoover.

Snell tried to quell the racket long enough to listen to the President. But the delegates were then in no mood for quiet, Around and around they marched, shouting and singing as the band awung from one lively tune to another.

Spectators in the galleries joined with the delegates in singing "On-

With the selection of candidates for President and Vice President as the chef business of the final day. the session scheduled to start at 11 o'clock this morning was late in getting under way.

Joseph L. Scott, of California, father of two Catholic priests, placed President Hoover in nomination. For a half hour Scott reviewed the achievements of Mr. Hoover during the three and one-half years he has been in the White House.

popularity, this nominating phase of the convention would have been a tea party, serene, undisturbed.

Convention Hears Praises

For two-hours and three minutes from the time Chairman Snell called for nominations until the start of the rollcall, with the exception of about half an hour devoted to extolling the virtues of "Competitor" France, Hoover's ears must have burned in Washington as the convention heard his praises.

An old friend, a Californian, Joseph Scott, placed the President in nomination. California thus had performed this distinctive honor twice. In 1928 it was John L. McNab, of San Francisco, here as a delegate, who did the honors for Hoover at Kansas Otty.

Scott, vigorous, gray - haired, beetle-browed "plain man" by his own designation, pictured Hoover as "the ideal standard-bearer of the Republican party," a man who has given and is giving his entire time, energy, his whole being to service in behalf of his fellow man,

Virtues Extelled

There was a great strewing around of "L's" as Scott, who was born in England, went on to extol the virtues of the President.

Scott said that in these days of "stark communism and ill-starred militarism, we had better renew our course by the fixed stars of the eternal principle that fundamentally must live and will live if, with God's help, we do our full duty.

"The President's life," the Califormian said, "typifies the spiritual values" and "exemplifies the undaunted courage of the real American sprung from the grass roots of the Nation." He added:

"The weapons of contemptuous assault and acurrilous innuendo are at work today throughout the land in vain effort to beamirch the character of a great American.

Call Roll of States

Then begins the call of the roll by States. California has named The convention secretary Hoover, drones on through the list. He reaches Oregon. He pauses. L. B. Sandblast, powerfully built man, who last night refused to put Oregon's banner in a parade and had a fight about it, takes the platform.

He is to nominate Senator France. He just gets warmed up when the loud-speaking system goes bad. He cannot be heard fifty feet away. Cries of "louder" reach him from all points of the hall. Nothing is done about it. He tries his best, but it is not enough.

Pinally it is on again. He is sayine:

"If you shall nominate this man for President, you will, I believe, advance the interests of the Republic through a certain victory next for the Republican November Party." Nominates France

Then a bit later, "I nominate as the Republican candidate for President, former Senator France, of Maryland."

"The Democrats blame Hoover for everything, forgetting what had happened before Hoover was elected. We have been through the worst crisis the world has ever seen. The trip to the convention was proved. There is no question that the people are entitled, at this time, to the right of expression on the liquor question. Both the Republican and Democratic platforms recognize that right. President Hoover, however, stands by his guns and is determined that dry states desiring federal protection shall have it. More federal protection shall have it. More power to him. HEADED STATE CHEERING

"I never saw a more enthusiastic demonstration in my life than when our beloved Joe Scott nominated Herbert Hoover. For 30 minutes it was a wildly enthusiastic demonstration, such as Chicago has never heretofore seen and it was my honor and pleasure to be appointed by Gov. "Governor Rolph was chairman of our state delegation, and he certainly was a credit to the state. The New York Times referred to Rolph and Governor Puller of Massachusette as the two outstanding personalities at the Republican convention. Califor-

In his concluding remarks, Col. Fietcher told how gallery demonstrations had hindered adoption of the resubmission plank. He offered the opinion that future conventions, where a great issue is at stake, should not be held near so large a city as New York or Chicago.

Advocating support of the party plank and of President Hoover, J. K. Ward, chairman of the San Diego county Republican central committee, spoke briefly.

"I am astonished at the reaction in San Diego on the Republican prohibition plank," he stated. "There is a remarkable lack of understanding of what it really means. The Republican plank is much less vague and much more definite than the Democratic plank.

"The Democratic plank calls for cutright repeal while the Republican resubmission plank asks for an expression of the will of the people. The Republican plank shows evidence of adroit statesmanship and is an astube bit of work.

"It offers a specific process for arriving at a desired end.

"The eighteenth amendment has accomplished good, there is no doubt of that. The Republican plank tends to salvage that good and is intended to protect states that prefer prohibition. The Democratic plank merely suggests the desired end.

"Resubmission is really a nonpartisan problem. For that reason the Republican plank will appeal to the conservative voters of both parties."

HNOMINEES ARE CHOSEN ON FIRST BALLOTS

Only 23½ Votes Are Cast Against President Who Gets Big Ovation.

CHICAGO, June 16.—(A. P.)—The Republican convention united behind the familiar Hoover Curtis ticket banks, the line of to labor mightily for it from now until November.

A lone ballot sufficed in each case, the President winning renomination by 1,1261/2 of the 1,154 votes and his 1928 running mate gathering 63414 in quick

What there had been of dissension over the ticklish prohibition plank was drowned in the closing hours beneath waves of enthusiasm. Especially did the President triumph, the merest scattering votes in opposition being divided with 13 for Senator Blaine of Wiscousin, 41/2 for Calvin Coolidge, 4 to Dr. Joseph I. France of Maryland and solitary counters for Charles G. Dawes and James W. Wadsworth of New York.

Put Over by Pennsylvania.

Curtis had no less reason for satisfaction, in view of the Republican precedent against renaming vice presidents that has been broken since Civil war days only by the choice of "Sunny Jim" Sherman of New York in 1912. When the end of the roll was reached, the swarthy Kansan still was 20 behind the necessary 018 but Pennsylvania put him across instantly with a Quwitch of its block of 75.

The other votes were distributed this way: Harold MacNider of Iowa, 183%; James G. Harbord of New York, 161%; Alvan T. Fuller of Massachusetts, 57; Bertrand Snell of New York, 56; J. Leonard Replogie of Florida, 23%; James Cousens of ran, 11; Charles G. Dawes of Illinois, 9%; David S. Ingalis of Ohio. 5; Patrick J. Hurley of Oklahoma, 2; William S. Kenyon of Iowa, 2; Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, 1; Edward Martin of Pennsylvanie, 1.

Worn by the long and feverish hours of jast night and early morning, the convention lifted itself by its own bootstraps for a noisome half-hour demonstration to welcome the Hoover nomination submitted by his friend Joseph L. Scott, of Los Angeles

"Mr. Hoover, though the opposition has attempted to saddle the blame upon his shoulders, is not responsible for present conditions. He did not want them; he did everything to avoid them, but in the face of such

McNab, delivering one of the most for offering no definite plan for relief.

"Mrs. Harry C. Clark and Mrs. V. M. Miler have more than outdone themselves in selling tickets. thank Mrs. Clark and her committee enough for their co-operation. And also my thanks goes to all Republic-ans who have assisted us in putting over what I believe will be San Diego's most interesting campaign event of the season."

To Name Winners

The price-winners in the erticle writing contest sponsored by the Young Men's Republican league will be announced at the Municipal Pier ballroom at 8:30 o'clock.

The papers were judged by Repub-lican leaders in Los Angeles, and the results were received in San Diego resterday, according to Dr. Ralph S. Roberts, president of the Young Men's Republican league of San Diego county, who added that it had been decided not to divulge the names of the wiscone restor to the wiscone restor to the restore to the restor the winners prior to the Hoover ball this evening. In addition to the prise winners, one young man and one young woman who have been given honorable mention will be introduced at the same time that the checks are awarded.

"There were more than $4 easys turned in," Dr. Roberts said, "All of them were of such excellent quality.

them were of such excellent quality the judge had the utmost difficulty in choosing the winner. The two that were finally picked, not only were well-written but contained much information and put forth an entire-ly new light on many of the campaign issues. The young man who won first prise will receive $10 in addition to the $25 first prise, being a first-time voter for president."
