

Media advisory on "New Games Day"

May 9, 1977

SUBJECT: The public is invited to "New Games Day," a free tournament offering creative, cooperative games for all ages.

TIME/PLACE: 12 to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 14, on the Revelle Field, University of California, San Diego.

CONTACT: Barbara Ann Firger, Public Information Office, 452-3120.

New Games Tournaments have been held across the country in recent years. Designed to encourage noncompetitive, creative play, the structure of the tournament is very fluid, with many people moving freely among a great variety of activities. All ages participate. Some of the games offered will be Earthball, Dho-Dho-Dho, Stand-Off, Boffing and Knots. In preparation for this event, a slide show will be presented at 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. May 10, 11 and 13 at the Side Door on Revelle Campus. This presentation will explain the philosophies and other background information behind the New Games. From Tuesday, May 10 to Saturday, May 14 the "Earth Ball," a 6' diameter canvas ball used in the games, will be on display at various places on campus.

(May 9, 1977)