POWER BELONGS

TO THE PEOPLE

POWER SHOULD COME FROM BELOW NOT FROM ABOVE

On Wednesday of this week there will be a General Assembly to determine how the College feels about the present distribution of power and initiative between the Board of Directors and the Provost.

From the beginnings of Lumumba-Zapata College, it has been assumed that the highest authority in the College will be exercised by the representative bodies of the College: the Board and the General Assembly. Lately, however, there has been a definite shift in power to the Provost, to the point where the Provost now claims that the Board is merely advisory to him. It is important for the future of the College that this question be resolved now in a clear and unambiguous manner.

The Board of Directors is an elected body, and as such springs directly from the people. All students, faculty, and staff members vote for representatives on the Board. By contrast, the Provost of the College is appointed by the Chancellor and by the UC Regents, people whose backgrounds and concerns are very different from those of the average member of Lumumba-Zapata College. Very often their ideas of education are also very different from the ones that are being developed here. The Provost, however good a person he may be in his own right, is compelled by his position to respond to the wishes and orientations of the people who appointed him, and who can remove him from office whenever they desire.

FOR THESE REASONS, IT IS IMPERATIVE THAT THE HIGHEST DECISION-MAKING AUTHORITY IN THE COLLEGE REST WITH THE ASSEMBLY AND THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS. Only in this way will it be possible to make the kinds of revolutionary changes in American education that are needed to make education relevant to the needs and concerns of Third World people. Only in this way can we hope to maintain the direction that was established by the students and faculty who were responsible for bringing Lumumba-Zapata College into existence. And only by speaking for yourself and having your elected representatives speak for you are you guaranteed a voice in how things are done here.

At the Assembly you will be asked to vote for one of two positions:

- 1) that the Board of Directors is advisory to the Provost, with the Provost having the final say;
- 2) that the Provost is only one member of the Board, and that he should be bound by the majority decision of the Board as are the other members. The issues the Board

The issues the Board deals with are vital to the College - such things as admissions criteria, faculty appointments, control of funds, the direction of the academic program, and so on.

When you vote, keep the following things in mind:

"The governing body of Lumumba-Zapata College shall be the Board of Directors The Board of Directors shall make the final ruling on all general college policy. It shall dispense and fill all FTE's budgeted positions and approve all administrative appointments."

----The Lumumba Zapata Demands

"The College Assembly is the source of authority in the college. It exercises this authority through the Board of Directors."

MARY WATSON

In each issue of the Lumumba Zapata Bulletin, there is an article introducing a new faculty member to the Third College Community. The sister that I interviewed for this issue, is neither "new" to Third College, nor is she a faculty member, however, she puts a lot of effort into helping Third College attain its goals. She is the wife of the Provost, Mrs. Mary Watson.

Mrs. Watson stated that she was very excited when the proposal for Third College was submitted, and now that the college is a little more than a year old, she likes the "sense of community" that the students seem to have. Although Mary is not around Third as much as she would like to be, and feels most of her information about the college is second hand, she remains very optimistic about the future of Third College. She stated no real preference in the college name, although she feels "Lumumba Zapata" is more personal and inspirational, than "Third College".

When asked her idea of the Third World concept, Mrs. Watson replied, "It is necessary because each different group (or country) in society would have trouble making impact on the status quo without some alliances". She commented that for a new college, Third is doing very well, and hopes that the small amount of tension that does exist within groups will lessen.

Mary attended UCLA, and has a degree in English. She met Dr. Watson at UCLA, while he was attending Graduate school. They have four beautiful children, Ruth, Jerome, Jennifer (who attend Torrey Pines Elementary School) and Elizabeth. Mrs. Watson is active in the community in which she lives, particularly with the school that their children attend. She believes its important for parents to know what and how their children are being taught.

SOFA (Strongly Oriented for Action), is one of the programs that she is working with. Its an interracial program, although geared for Blacks. The group sponsors a nursery school, which has "free" tuition to Black and Chicano children. Mrs. Watson, would like to encourage more participation on the part of minority students at UCSD (especially this summer). Any interested students or parents may contact Mrs. Watson for information.

Mrs. Watson is supportive of many activities both on-campus and off. She's a great asset to Third College, and a beautiful Black lady to know.

TONY NGUBO Breaks the tradition of Boredom in URS

Students enrolled in the URS 6B course have expressed a great deal of dissatisfaction about the lectures during the Winter Quarter. The lecture series was divided into three categories: social costs; health care; and criminal justice/anti-poverty program. The lectures were generally informative, but were presented in a poor manner.

On Friday, March 3, Tony Ngubo lectured on the anti-poverty on the anti-poverty program, and broke the tradition of boring URS lectures. Mr. Ngubo, originally from South Africa, is a sociologist at UCSD. His lectures in Third World Studies have also generated positive response from students.

He began his lecture with a definition and introduction to Foreign Aid Policy in the United States. The Foreign Aid Policy is designed to invest capital into foreign underdeveloped countries for the purpose of providing an "initial push," enabling those countries to generate sustained growth. The anti-poverty program is directed at eliminating poverty by fusing capital into communities, to give them a "push" to generate their own income. Mr. Ngubo went on to explain how these programs do not accomplish their task.

During his lecture, he referred to his own experiences with programs designed to eliminate poverty, and who actually benefits from them. Tony Ngubo is an excellent lecturer, and has great ability to hold the interest of the students. After the lecture he received applause from the URS students, something you rarely see in 201.

Sisters BASKETBALL TEAM

Last quarter, under the direction of Bob Moss, the only Black man on the Physical Education Staff, the brothers of UCSD formed an all Black basketball team. They call themselves the "Black Hawks." This quarter, the sisters got together to do our thing on the court, and we call ourselves the "Kitty Hawks."

On Friday, February 18, we played our first exhibition game, during half time, vs the BSU of San Diego State University. During the 12 minute time period, the "Kitty Hawks" scored only 2 points and the "Ebony Foxes" (SDSU), scored 8 points to win the game.

After only one week pf practice, my team mates made a great effort in the sport of basketball. The members are Andy Seagraves, Barbara Flournoy, Mary Eastman, Bernice King, Brenda Thomas, Cindy Fisher, Sheila Walker, Sheila Owens, Linda Mayes, Jackie Wilson, Rhonda Butler, Glenda Bennett, and myself, Pamela Hayes, coached by James Robinson and Bob Spriggs.

Plans are now being made to schedule a tournament of games with Cal-Western, USD, Irvine, and SDSU again.

ANOTHER NEW PAPER

A project is now being taken up by 4 Third College students. These students are Taboo, Tony Barnwell, Bill Snead and Felipe Zatarain. The project is for Oscar Gandy's TV class. It concerns Third College and its present direction.

This article is an introduction to a series of articles to be written by myself and other writers on the subject of Third College. It is hoped that we will be able to show all sides of Third College, to give Third College people the opportunity to view in writing the beginnings to the present. We will also try to analyze the situations of today in order to forecast the direction of Third College.

The ultimate end of these articles is to establish a Third College newspaper to give Third College people the opportunity to view what is happening during meetings, assemblies and other Third College activities.

More interested persons are needed. You don't have to write on a weekly basis, but we do need contributions. We need articles on Third College, its meetings, activities of AASA, BSU, MECHA, and UNA. We would like biographical sketches of Third College students, faculty and staff. For information, contact Felipe Zatarain, PO Box 5232, La Jolla, California, or 832 Serra.

-Forever Forward - Felipe Zatarain.

RETRACTIONS *

REGRETS, but the quotas quoted for admissions next year in the last issue reflect the '71-'72 academic year student population rather than the recruitment progress report for next year. Therefore, the total number of Blacks enrolled this year is 135 or 37.19% and Chicanos, 102 or 28.09%. In the "Others" camp, 11 or 3.03% Native Americans; 21 or 5.78% Asian Americans; and 94 or 25.89% Whites are enrolled bringing the total number of "Others" up to 126 or 34.70%. The Black students then are over the quota by 3.86%, the Chicanos are under by 5.24%, and the "Others" are over by 1.37%.

CALENDAR & EVENTS

ALL THIRD COLLEGE PICNIC

ALL Third College students, faculty, staff, and family, reserve Saturday, April 8 for an all day picnic at Paco Picasso State Park in the Cuyamaca Mountains.
