

Media advisory on "Energy: Prospects and Challenges" Symposium

May 26, 1977

TOPIC: "ENERGY: PROSPECTS AND CHALLENGES" -- A DAY-LONG SYMPOSIUM TO BE HELD AT UC SAN DIEGO

LOCATION: Mandeville Recital Hall, UC San Diego

DATE: Friday, June 3, 1977 TIME: 9 a.m.-12:30 p.m. and 2-4:30 p.m.

PARTICIPANTS: MELVIN CALVIN, professor of chemistry, UC Berkeley, and Nobel laureate. WARREN E. FALCONER, director, Physical Chemistry Laboratory, Bell Laboratories, Murray Hill, New Jersey. ROGER R. REVELLE, professor emeritus, UC San Diego. JOHN R. THOMAS, president, Chevron Research Co., Richmond, California. JOHN L. WINGER, vice-president, Chase Manhattan Bank, manager, energy and economics division, New York.

REMARKS: The media is invited to attend all sessions of the symposium. Participants will be available for interviews during the day. The symposium is sponsored by the UC San Diego Department of Chemistry, the UC San Diego Energy Center and the Esmark Foundation.

CONTACT: PAUL LOWENBERG, Public Information Office, (714) 452-3120 or KURT SHULER, professor of chemistry, (714) 452-4337.

(May 26, 1977)