

Elizabeth Manchester gives free recital

April 1, 1967

Harpichordist Elizabeth Hamilton Manchester will present a free recital open to the public on Saturday, April 8 at the University of California, San Diego.

The recital, sponsored by the University's Early Music Society, will begin at 8:00 p.m. in the Humanities-Library Auditorium on the campus, and will feature works by Scarlotti, Handel and Bach and selections from English and Spanish Renaissance composers.

Mrs. Manchester is currently on the music faculty of Mesa College and teaches harpsichord for University of California at Los Angeles extension courses. and workshops.

A former student of Malcolm Hamilton, she has performed with the Huntington Park Symphony and is a member of the Clements Pro Musica Consort.