Despite the presence of a few potentially bullish items this morning, the cocoa markets of London and New York ended fairly quiet sessions with moderate losses. The early dealings in London included a sharp rise in the value of the Euro against the Pound (and the Dollar) which came as a result of an early round of intervention by the European Central Bank (ECB). The impact on cocoa was expected to be Bullish, as a initial removed the immediate threat of fresh origin sales from Ivory Coast shippers. Unfortunately for the bulls, that never happened. The inability of the New York market to rally, coupled with an afternoon retracement for the Euro to spark an afternoon decline in London which ultimately pulled the nears roughly 1D pounds off of the a.m. highs. The apparent emergence of hedge setting from Ivory Coast sources in the afternoon also added to the downside pressure of both markets while options related selling in New York ahead of today's expiration of Dep00 options magnified the decline further.
