$800,000 meeting place is hub of gay life on campus

Step onto a college campus these days and you might hear the remark, "That's so gay."

For many students, the words seem like a harmless way to poke fun at something. But for University of California San Diego senior Peper Anan, it's a personal attack on her sexual identity.

Anan, who considers herself bisexual, says she hears the sentence about once a month and always tries to educate the person about how offensive it is.

It's this sort of comment that she hopes will disappear with the creation of UCSD's first permanent Lesbian Gay Bisexual Transgender Resource Center. The center will officially celebrate its opening today.

It is billed as the largest of its kind among public universities in the United States. UCSD students and faculty alike hail the 2,700-square-foot facility, in the heart of the university, as a major milestone for the campus.

"We're coming into our own," said senior Rafael Colonna. "We've got a permanent space with a set budget. I think it's a big step for UCSD."

By many accounts, members of UC San Diego's LGBT community say they feel safe on campus and have not experienced overt discrim-

GOP primary victor wins seat outright

By J. Harry Jones

One candidate is a three-term supervisor. An outspoken conservative Republican, he has said he really doesn't like his opponent.

The other candidate is a former state assemblyman and more recently a Bush administration appointee, a conservative Republican who has said he really doesn't like his opponent.

Incumbent Bill Horn, 63, of Valley Center said he has never been involved in such a "slimy" campaign, and his opponent is responsible.

Bruce Thompson, 52, of Fallbrook said Horn's arrogance has created an untenable disconnect between the supervisor and the people he serves and that the time for change has arrived.

The June 6 primary is the election, as the two candidates are the only ones on the ballot. Whichever man gets the most votes will be the county's 5th District representative until 2010.

In his quest to retain his seat, Horn has raised almost ten times as much as Thompson, according to the most recent records filed with the Registrar of Voters.

Thompson is running a grass-roots campaign with what he says are a thousand volunteers. He believes he can win, despite the financial disparity.

"North County does not have a strong voice," Thompson said. "That's what I bring to the table, somebody who has been to Sacramento. Somebody who has been to Washington, D.C. Somebody who understands coalitions and how you get things done. Horn just doesn't seem to understand that. He doesn't play well with people."

Horn, meanwhile, contends his record speaks for itself. He said Thompson was an ineffectual assemblyman in the 1990s who is basing his campaign on negative rhetoric rather than ideas.

"I'll match my 12 years in public office against his six non-years in public office. The best thing that ever happened were term limits because it got Bruce Thompson out of the Legislature."

In recent weeks, Horn has come under fire for a financial deal he has with his chief of staff, Joan Wonsley, who is living in a million-dollar home in Carlsbad that Horn purchased three years ago.

After the arrangement was revealed, Horn acknowledged he incorrectly filled out some state forms listing his economic interests. He has since corrected them to show that Wonsley is joint owner of the house, having paid Horn $350,000 for a share in the property. He said he didn't realize he needed to list the income on the forms and that it was an honest mistake made by someone who has lots of assets.

The arrangement, however, caused rumors to resurface that Horn and Wonsley have been romantically involved, which both deny.

Thompson's campaign, though, is relishing this attention on Horn. Recently, Thompson released his federal tax returns to the press and is asking why Horn won't do the same.

"Bill Horn refuses to release his tax forms," Thompson said. "He refuses to divulge what really is going on with his finances and his finances with his chief of staff. I presume, and I think the voters will presume, he is hiding something. And the question is, what are you hiding, Bill Horn?"

Horn said he is not legally required to make his tax returns public, and for privacy reasons he will not do so.

Thompson also criticizes Horn for refusing so far to debate. Horn maintains he will participate in a few debates as the election nears, but as of this week none has been scheduled.

"I guess he's just scared," Thompson said. "I guess the reason he doesn't show up and doesn't want to debate is he doesn't want to talk about his failed leadership of the past 12 years and have that come to the light of day in public."

"That's not the American way. The American way is to talk about our communities. We talk about problems. We brag about the good things. But we show up for debates."

Horn said he is looking forward to confronting Thompson in public.

"I'm happy to debate the issues, if there are issues," he said. "I haven't heard any yet (from Thompson). All I've heard about is what a drag I am."

"To be honest with you, this is the slimiest, most unethical campaign I've ever been in. He started off on the low rung and he's gone lower. I have yet to talk about the issues or compare our records."

The county, Horn said, faces major problems, including illegal immigration, which he calculates costs the county government more than a billion dollars a year for such things as social, health, and public services. Although acknowledging the issues are complicated and that the supervisors have only limited control, he said he is doing everything he can to strengthen the border.

Traffic, and the growth that creates it, continues to be a problem, Horn said.

Thompson refers to Horn and "Bulldozer Bill," saying he has been consistently pro-development and has accepted campaign contribution funds by the hundreds of thousands over the years from developers.

"Everybody always looks at me and says, 'well what about all the new development you've had in North County,'" Horn said. "Well, in my 12 years in public office I doubt that we've built more than 2,500 homes in (my district). The biggest de-

5th District supervisor race

● Bill Horn, 63, of Valley Center has served on the county Board of Supervisors since 1995. He is a rancher, real estate entrepreneur and currently the board chairman.

● Challenger Bruce Thompson, 52, of Fallbrook served three terms as the 66th District representative in the state Assembly from 1994 and 2000 before being termed out. In 2001 President Bush appointed him to be a regional director of the U.S. Small Business Administration for California, Nevada, Arizona, Hawaii and Guam. He was co-chairman of the California Bush 2000 campaign.

● Because only two candidates are running in the June 6 primary, whoever receives the most votes will win the seat outright.

velopment we've had is 4S Ranch, and that was in Supervisor (Pam) Slater's district. And that traffic is farther down (Interstate 15), before the Lake Hodges bridge gets crossed in North County. Really, our traffic is flow-through traffic from Riverside, which we don't really have control over."

Thompson agrees that traffic is a major problem.

"Somebody has to step up to the plate and say, 'Hey, I'm willing to deal with this,'" he said, "... bringing county, state and federal leaders together to solve the problems. That's the big difference between myself and Horn. He refuses to do it. He blames other people. For every problem there is he blames other people."

Thompson says growth in North County concerns everyone.

"What kind of growth are we going to have?" he said. "When I go around, especially in the unincorporated areas, people are really concerned. They are scared to death about what is coming. They moved to a rural environment and now the county wants to change the rules on them and make this another Orange County."

"But again, Bill Horn is nowhere to be found. He's just kind of off in left field doing his own thing and thinking everything is fine."

ination. A report released in March by a campus committee found varied experiences, with one recurring theme being that students and faculty in the science departments have more concerns about jeopardizing their academic standing if their sexual orientation became public.

UCSD has had few reports of hate crimes involving sexual orientation. Campus police say there has been only one hate crime reported in the past four years, and no hate incidents.

The project's $800,000 price tag strikes some on campus as high.

"It does seem like a lot of money. I don't know if students would have approved it," said senior Joshua Norton, 22, a math major and president of the New Life Student Ministry, a Bible study group.

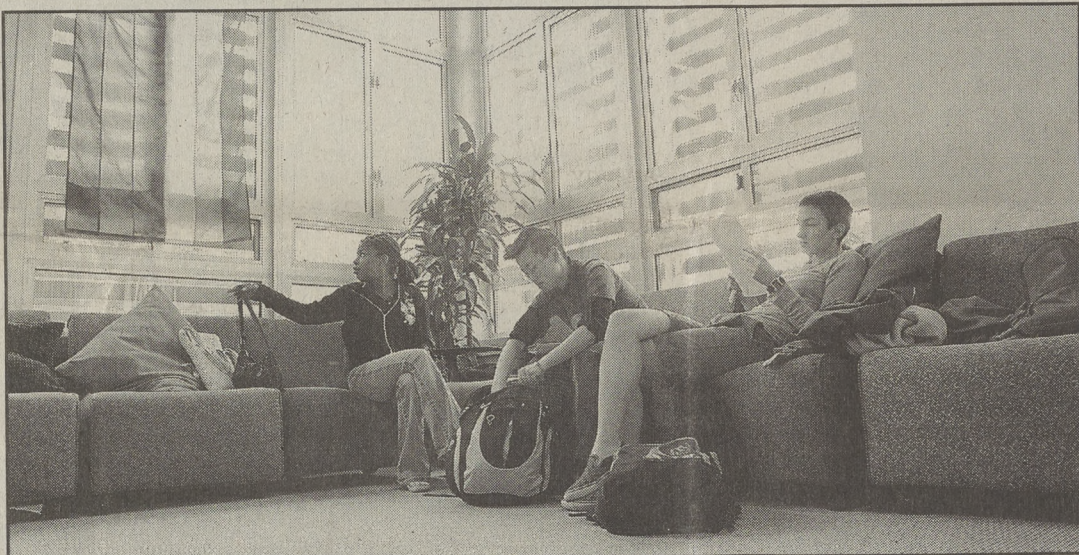

Norton said he supports providing services such as counseling for people in need but considers "promoting the homosexual lifestyle to be immoral."

Which brings up the question: Why spend the chancellor's discretionary money and other campus funds, including student fees, to build the center?

For UCSD lecturer Amanda Roberts, who holds her office hours at the center, it's about the future.

"The more we can do to provide diversity awareness," Roberts said, "the more we'll be raising a tolerant generation."

Experts say UCSD's investment is part of a trend that has intensified in the past decade. The first LGBT resource center opened in 1971 at the University of Michigan, and the rate at which others have followed suit has increased since the mid-1990s, said Ronni Sanlo, director of the LGBT Center at UCLA and the author of a how-to book on setting up LGBT centers.

That said, only about 3 percent of U.S. colleges — or 105 out of 3,500 — have established LGBT resource centers, according to the National Consortium of Directors of LGBT Resources in Higher Education.

The idea for UCSD's center was born 14 years ago when a student submitted a modest request to the chancellor to create a resource center for lesbian, gay and bisexual students and staff. The first LGBT resource office, dedicated in 1999, consisted of two small rooms inside the financial aid building. Three years later, the office moved to a 960-square-foot trailer and was renamed as a center.

Through the years, the center's mission has not changed: to provide a safe space for LGBT students, faculty and staff.

But the permanent center's expanded size and resources have already translated into more staffing and educational programming on campus. Three full-time employees, an increase from two, operate an annual budget of $180,000. In the coming weeks, the center's workers will organize sessions on LGBT issues for the campus police and athletic department.

It would be easy to miss the second-story center, if not for the rainbow flag hanging outside and the life-size images of Wonder Woman displayed in front. Located between Mandeville Center and the original Student Center, it features a "living room" with a bank of lounge chairs, multimedia conference room (the dining room), 3,000-book library kitchen and counseling room.

On a recent afternoon last week, the center was buzzing with activity. Several students sat in the front, eating lunch and working on laptops. A professor held office hours in a room in back.

The center's location near the middle of campus has helped it to double its foot traffic — from about 100 visitors to some 200 — in the two months it has been operating, Travers said.

"It's definitely a place where we can go to on campus that we know is safe," Anan said. "We think of each other as a family."

The process is competitive, and there are always more who need than we can give. However, it is a wonderful moment to be able to support our students' education in such substantial and concrete ways.

The first award is our oldest, most established award. The Michael L. Marx and Donald K. strong supporter of the UCSD LGBT Resource Center from the day it opened (back when we were a simple office in the Financial Aid building.) He was a stalwart member of the LGBT Speaker's Bureau, participating so regularly that I personally thought of him as "given" if I needed someone in a pinch. He was particularly interested in speaking about racism in our community, and was a strong advocate for bringing LGBT people together around race issues.

He also volunteered at the Resource Center before we transitioned to regular evening staff. Trent kept us open every Wednesday afternoon. The Resource Center benefited not only from his time, but from numerous donations of food throughout the year, and some fun pieces of decor and furniture (including the rainbow mobile hanging in the family room of our the new LGBT Resource Center).

Trent was honored as the first Volunteer of the Year at our Rainbow Graduation 2002. He was humble in receiving the recognition, and we had to beg him to come forward. But he did. He always stepped forward when needed.

Trent passed way from AIDS on September 8th 2003. Before the end of his life, he left the LGBT Resource Center a significant gift. From this bequest, each year we are able to award a cash gift to one of our community members who has gone above and beyond in volunteering, someone who carries on the work of Trent in our space. Congratulations again., John!"

UCSD at San Diego Pride!!

As the academic year winds down, we gear up for our largest summer event: San Diego Pride. If you are leaving for the summer but have an opportunity to return, this is THE weekend you want to be here: July 28, 29th and 30th.

For those who are around for the summer, our community comes together as a whole to plan and implement this powerful weekend of visibility and celebration. Before the LGBT Resource Center existed, the Umbrella Group had taken the lead role in organizing UCSD's role in the weekend, and it is with joy that we continue to honor that historic and continued role that UCSD staff have played in the success of this event.

We will be having four planning meetings over the course of the summer to brainstorm and prepare implementation plans for the parade and festival weekend. Your voice and vision (as well as hard work) is vital to making our float and booth a true reflection of our most creative and exciting ideas and connections. We have varied the times so that many folks will have the opportunity to join us in the fun. Please plan on making one or more of these dates over the course of the next 8 weeks!

The dates and times are:

Thursday, June 22: 4-5pm
 Thursday, July 6: 12-1pm
 Thursday, July 20: 4-5pm
 Thursday, July 27: 12-1pm

The theme for this year is "Equality: No Turning Back!" So get those creative juices flowing! If you can not make it to the meetings, but want to stay involved in the planning, please e-mail Samuel at s2santos@ucsd.edu, as we will have meeting reports mailed out to those who show up and/or want to be involved.

different way of understanding sexual orientation.

The Klein Grid measures actual sexual experiences, but also sexual attractions, fantasies, emotional preference, social preference, lifestyle and self-identification as they relate to a person's past, present and ideal future. Klein's research showed that these factors can change over time for an individual, and vary not just between but also within groups of straight, gay and bisexual people. He concluded that people generalize from their own experiences and feelings to assume, often wrongly, that other people must experience their own sexual orientations the same way.

As a result, Klein concluded sexual orientations are too complex to be broken into simple, well-defined categories.

From our own Paul Harris... "Support Tijuana Pride 2006! The Umbrella Group is sponsoring a trip to Tijuana for the annual Tijuana Pride Parade and Party afterwards. All are invited. We will carpool from UCSD at 10:00AM on Saturday, June 17th. We will park at the border and walk across to Ave. Revolucion.

If you have not been to Tijuana's Parade before it is a small and fairly disorganized, yet uplifting event. They do not have the financial and volunteer support that many others have, but it makes for an educational experience to see what our Parades/Festivals were like in their infancy. And who knows, maybe you will be moved to volunteer to help them out in the future.

We will meet to carpool at the Gilman Information Booth at UCSD at 10:00AM on the southern end of Campus. This should avoid most congestion with the Commencement exercises taking place at the northern end later.

You can park for free in Parking Lot 604 (aka the "pit") located just east of the Gilman Info. Booth.

For those who want to get together after the Parade, we will meet for lunch at Cafe La Especial at 2:00PM. It is located on the east side of Ave. Revolucion on the left side of the Hotel Lafayette. (You will need to walk down the stairway on the left side). The address is 718 Ave. Revolución, between Calle 3 & 4, Tijuana, 011-52-66-85-6654.

Based on previous years (and no website to rely upon) I am assuming the Parade starts at Noon around 4th and Revolucion, but we may have to do some hunting to find it. After lunch we will head to the Pride Party which is normally held at Los Equipales Disco Bar on 7th St. across from the Jai Lai Palace, just east of Revolucion.

No need to RSVP. Just show up with any friends at UCSD at 10:00AM to carpool down. Some folks may come back that afternoon or evening and some may choose to spend the night."

Queer By Nature is going on its annual Summer Break camping trip!!

This year we're going out to San Onofre State Beach for 4 days and 3 nights, leaving June 19th and returning the 22nd. The days and dates are open, so if you can't make it the first few, or need to leave

However, only 8 people max are allowed in each campsite, of which we have two reserved. Important!! This means that only 16 people can be staying with us at a time, so reserve your spot NOW!

If you are interested in coming out with us on our last event of the school year, which is shaping up to be totally awesome, please email us at qxn@ucsd.edu so that we can get an idea of how many people are interested in coming. because it allowed him the opportunity to work with and for the LGBT community as a faculty person.

"Shaun offered me that opportunity," Michael says, and he continues to be committed to the LGBT community through his participation on the LGBTRC Advisory Board, and beginning next year, on the Chancellor's Advisory Committee for Gender Identity and Sexual Orientation Issues.

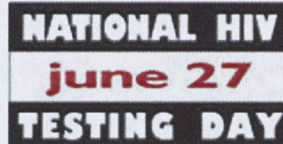

Michael wishes that more faculty, especially if they have tenure, would take a more active role in supporting the LGBT RC. Having just received tenure himself, Michael understands the challenges of working in a research-oriented university; but he also sees how the lack of LGBT faculty role models impacts students. Figuring out a way of facing those multiple challenges is something that Michael continues to work through, both for himself and with his colleagues.

Another challenge that Michael continues to take on is the Chancellor's 5K Run; he's won the challenge for the faculty division for the last two years, and looks forward to winning a third. We at the LGBT RC appreciate all of the support, time, and energy Michael has consistently given to us and to the LGBT community!

National HIV Testing Day

Tuesday, June 27, 2006

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that 180,000 to 280,000 people nationwide are HIV-positive but are unaware of their status. HIV counseling and testing enables people with HIV to take steps to protect their own health and that of their partners, and helps people who test negative get the information they need to stay uninfected.

Across the country, thousands of HIV counseling and testing sites, state and local health departments, and community-based HIV/AIDS service providers will participate in NHTD events, by holding health fairs, providing community and media outreach, hosting special testing-related events or operating extended hours.

To learn more about how to participate in NHTD, visit the NAPWA HIV Testing Day website, www.napwa.org/hivtestinfo/ or email nhtd@napwa.org.

meeting went off really well! Our biggest decision in the upcoming weeks will be deciding on how we want to represent UCSD in the parade, keeping in mind this years LGBT Pride Theme: Equality Now! No Turning Back. Here are the notes from the first meeting:

I. Here's what we're working with:

- a. The UCSD Pep Band, along with the marching contingent
- b. Our very own Shaun Travers in a convertible (he's being honored at SD Pride for winning one of its 2006 Community Service Awards) (yay!)
- c. A UCSD shuttle bus

II. So keeping these details in mind, here are some ideas we discussed to go along with the theme:

- a. No U Turn Symbol theme: Using the "No U Turn" Symbol as a thematic jumping point (thanks, Andy!) This idea includes using the symbol on the front of the shirt. Further developing this idea, we discussed going with the whole "construction worker" theme....maybe Village People?
- b. Breaking Out of Jail theme
- c. 70's theme

III. General Ideas:

- walking backwards
- making the shuttle appear as though its driving backwards
- hard hats (maybe pink???)
- dressed as professions not usually "seen" in
- on the backs of the shirts various words we don't want to turn back on....
- this slogan, "no turning back" (was used by the Women's movement at some point), seeing what they used and replicating it with our own twist?

IV. Here's what we Decided:

- a. Ilan (ilanush@aol.com) will be taking the lead on putting together t-shirt ideas, so email him your suggestions.
- b. Ryan, as a member of the Pep Band, will check in with the band for their ideas on we can use this years theme.

V. Here's what's next:

- a. Come to our next meeting at the LGBT RC at Noon on July 6th – we'll make more decisions, collectively!
- b. We still need volunteers to help table the festival booth, help set up the booth on Saturday, help tear down the booth on California. Her loss is particularly palpable to us, the members of her LGBT community.

The sexism and homophobia Chancellor Denton may have experienced are, unfortunately, too familiar on college campuses. The noticeable absence of mention of her partner in many notices and public statements exemplifies the entrenched, unspoken discomfort many have regarding our lives. This reality affects everyday struggles for many in our community.

The structures of power and privilege do little to support those brave underrepresented and marginalized community members who navigate them initially, especially at the highest levels. We all benefit from the risk Chancellor Denton took by being open about her life.

Our thoughts and prayers are with Denice's partner, Gretchen Kalonji, and with the rest of Denice's family and many friends. We have all lost one of the most visible, highly placed members of our community. We mourn that loss as we would any member, deeply and with much sadness."

Umbrella Group News

Debbi Blake stepping down as Umbrella Group Chair

From our own Debbi Blake, "Dear Umbrella Group, I've had the wonderful joy of being the Umbrella Group Chair since 2002 when I was invited by David Norris to be part of the executive committee. It has been a great journey and I've made strong friendships within the Umbrella Group, who will always be part of my life and mine in theirs, my friends. I look at the new energy and new members joining the Umbrella Group and it reminds me of when I joined the group. It is this energy, coupled with a professional move, that I believe it's a good time for me to retire as Chair and for the Group to vote on a new executive committee. My current position, Fiscal Manager of the Campus Community Center's, is being moved from the Cross Cultural Center to the Chancellor's Office. As a member of the Chancellor's Office Staff I'm unable to continue my role as Chair of the Umbrella Group.

I believe this is a great opportunity for the Umbrella Group with a multitude of possibilities. Please join me this Friday, June 30, 2006 for the Umbrella Groups/ LGBT Resource Center Staff Brown Bag Lunch. This week we'll be talking about the upcoming elections, Bi-laws and "Who Wants to be a Co-Chair". Elections are scheduled for July 12, 2006.

I would also like to thank Paul Harris, Rob Green, Sarah Archibald, Deb Morton and of course Rich Belmontez, for their support, energy and friendship. No one does this work alone, Thank you.

Thank you for the opportunity of being Chair, I hope I've served you well."

Most readers know Truman Capote as the author of Breakfast at Tiffany's and In Cold Blood; or they remember his notorious social life and wild and witty public appearances. But he was also the author of superb short tales that were as elegant as they were heartfelt, as grotesque as they were compassionate. Now, on the occasion of what would have been his eightieth birthday, the Modern Library presents the first collection that includes all of Capote's short fiction—a volume that confirms his status as one of the masters of this form.

From the gothic South to the chic East Coast, from rural children to aging urban sophisticates, all the unforgettable places and people of Capote's oeuvre are captured in this first-ever compendium. The Collected Stories of Truman Capote should restore its author to a place above mere celebrity, to the highest levels of American letters.

From the Assistant Director, Jan... "LGBTRC Advisory Board Member (and outgoing Chair) Agustin Orozco has a long history at UCSD, considering his 5 years as a student and almost 10 years as a staff member. As the Assistant Director of OASIS and the Coordinator for the Summer Bridge and Academic Transition Programs, Agustin has been connected to the LGBT Resource Center since it was the LGBT Resource Office in 1999. Agustin further developed his relationship with the LGBTRC as he continued mentoring the founders of the student organization Queer People of Color. When describing himself and his work within different communities, Agustin states, "I am a strong advocate for people of color issues, and I try to work on that in all aspects of my life." And indeed he does; in addition to the resources he provides to the UCSD community, he has also worked with the Latino/a Services Project at The Center in Hillcrest, Bienestar, and Arcoiris, a community organization for queer youth of color. Agustin is on the Advisory Board because he wants to see the LGBT Resource Center as a place that represents a full community of diverse queer people, and he continues to work with the RC to ensure the achievement of those goals.

Queer by Nature: Beach Day & Bonfire!

Saturday, July 22nd
La Jolla Shores

From our very own Kade Brittain, "So yeah! Hope everyone's summers are going well. As promised the first QxN event of the summer is on it's way. It's been decided that on July 22nd (a Saturday) we will be hosting a beach day culminating in a bonfire at La Jolla Shores. Yes, I know last time Shores didn't work out but I think I'm just gonna get there at 4am and if that doesn't work then I guess the queers are just cursed. hehe. Anyways it's just gonna be a laid back day on the beach with friends. Maybe some beach volleyball or soccer and as always frisbee. Of course there will also be swimming, bodyboarding and surfing galore (on your own for boards though).

We'll provide the wood and a canopy and 2 jugs of water but for food and such it's gonna be pot luck. It's recommended that you bring your own stuff for lunch and plenty of water cause 2 jugs won't last long. We'll figure out evening meal plans closer to the date. (Either ordering pizzas possibly or just having an early bonfire and going out to dinner afterwards.)

There isn't really any official hours for the event because I'm gonna get there probably way earlier than anyone to reserve the pit and as with all bonfires we'll probably just end up staying as late as everyone wants or until the life guards kick us off (probably around 10 or 11pm).

Just a few final notes....as always with shores and QxN alcohol isn't allowed (so don't bring any) and pets are not allowed on the beach until after 6pm. Aside from all that it should be your usual summer beachfest blast. Hope everyone can make it and if you have any questions or comments feel free to e-mail QxN at qxN@ucsd.edu. Thanks again y'all!"

Some of Agustin's favorite divas include Diana Ross, Chaka Khan, Etta James, Nina Simone, and Mary J. Blige. His love of music is accompanied by his appreciation for beautiful art, especially the work of Frida Kahlo. Agustin, from all of us at the LGBTRC, thank you for all of your dedication and commitment to our communities!

in wonderful energy and a warm smile to our space. Dr. Roberts, who is a Visiting Assistant Professor in the Department of Psychology, has been working for UCSD for eight years.

She was initially drawn to the LGBT RC for two reasons. First, she sought out the space for personal reasons, as a resource for herself to aid in her own process and experiences. Second, she utilized the space as a resource for a course she was asked to teach in the department of Psychology, Human Sexuality.

Aside from utilizing the space for office hours, Dr. Roberts also serves on the LGBT RC Advisory Board. She explains she serves on the advisory board to be a visible part of the community and to be supportive. Dr. Roberts further adds that she would like the community to know that she is fairly new, and still learning, and really enjoys being part of other people's learning, particularly students.

A little known fact about Dr. Roberts is that she enjoys snow mobile racing, at Dave and Busters. In fact, one her favorite activities is taking her children and partner to Dave and Busters, the four of them lining up side by side and racing against each other. Amanda, from all of us here at the LGBT RC, thank you for your enthusiasm, continued support and dedication to our community!"

Angry debate over marriage equality is sweeping the country, threatening to divide the nation like no other issue since the Vietnam War. Why has marriage suddenly emerged as the most explosive issue in the gay struggle for equality? At times it seems to have come out of nowhere-but in fact it has a history. Chauncey gives us the history of the shifting attitudes of heterosexual Americans toward gays, from the dramatic growth in acceptance to the many campaigns against gay rights that form the background to today's demand for a constitutional amendment. He also connects religious opposition to interracial marriage and desegregation just fifty years ago with opposition to same-sex marriage today. Chauncey illuminates what's at stake for both sides, making this an essential book for gay and straight readers alike.

Q-Quote of the Week

"I'd like to blame my atrocious appearance [in high school] on my trying to pass myself off as straight, but during the '70's even the gay people looked awful. We were the Bicentennial Class of 1976, and America seemed to be celebrating 200 years of bad

UCSD Umbrella Group - Membership Drive

From Fred West, Umbrella Group member, "The new fiscal year is a great opportunity to renew, and revitalize the UCSD Umbrella Group! During the year we organize potlucks, bonfires, camping trips, happy hours, just to name a few events. To do that we need you, and your valuable input!

Join the group's yahoo group at <http://groups.yahoo.com/group/UCS> the coming weeks, we will be electing a new board, and we'd like it to fully represent the diversity of our group. One great way to participate is to attend the Umbrella Brown bag lunches. Please join the LGBT Resource Center and the Umbrella Group as we host a series of brown bag luncheons over the course of the entire summer. This is a great opportunity to come together and connect with your fellow employees from across the UCSD community. The day of the week varies, so put them on your calendar now. We look forward to connecting with you (and with each other)!

Queer by Nature: Beach Day & Bonfire!

Saturday, July 22nd
 La Jolla Shores

From our very own Kade Brittain, "So yeah! Hope everyone's summers are going well. As promised the first QxN event of the summer is on it's way. It's been decided that on July 22nd (a Saturday) we will be hosting a beach day culminating in a bonfire at La Jolla Shores. Yes, I know last time Shores didn't work out but I think I'm just gonna get there at 4am and if that doesn't work then I guess the queers are just cursed. hehe. Anyways it's just gonna be a laid back day on the beach with friends. Maybe some beach volleyball or soccer and as always frisbee. Of course there will also be swimming, bodyboarding and surfing galore (on your own for boards though).

We'll provide the wood and a canopy and 2 jugs of water but for food and such it's gonna be pot luck. It's recommended that you bring your own stuff for lunch and plenty of water cause 2 jugs won't last long. We'll figure out evening meal plans closer to the date. (Either ordering pizzas possibly or just having an early bonfire and going out to dinner afterwards.)

There isn't really any official hours for the event because I'm gonna get there probably way earlier than anyone to reserve the pit and as with all bonfires we'll probably just end up staying as late as everyone wants or until the life guards kick us off (probably around 10 or 11pm).

Just a few final notes.....as always with shores and QxN alcohol isn't allowed (so don't bring any) and pets are not allowed on the beach until after 6pm. Aside from all that it should be your usual summer beachfest blast. Hope everyone can make it and if you have any questions or comments feel free to e-mail QxN at qxn@ucsd.edu. Thanks again y'all!"
