Beware of false prophets promising a brighter future for PNG

IN THIS column last week, our concluding paragraph was:

"Our hunch is that if we do not get into civil unrest of some magnitude in this country, then we are creating conditions for the rise of a dictator. If that happens, then let us pray it would be a benevolent dictator and not otherwise. This is the way history unfolded itself in Africa and the Americas. We already have likely candidates on the political scene busy spending public money and singing out daily praises for themselves in the local media."

It is our view we cannot see a way out of the phenomenon of bribery and corruption in this country, largely because it has permeated the whole spectrum of the PNG society, so that it has now become a way of life in this country. In fact it is now a multi-million kina business.

Coupled with bribery and corruption, it is a further phenomenon whereby the system in place systematically undermines the will of the people so that in time, the people feel powerless, voiceless and that way, the people lost interest in what is happening in and around them, as they concentrate on looking for the next meal to place on the dining table. We have now seen what has happened to the Leadership Code and the Environmental Act 2000. Even the parliamentary process has been corrupted by the government so that there is no longer a free debate on issues of national importance.

The events of the last parliamentary session is a classic example of what happens when you allow a government to feel invincible. The more powerful the government gets, the more vulnerable the people become so that given time, the people will simply accept any treatment dished out to them.

Slowly but systematically the government is depriving the people of the appropriate avenue to seek redress for any wrongs committed by the government and big businesses which can afford to generate huge funds for the government. Thus, the partnership is now between the politicians in government and big businesses and there is no room for democracy, freedom and individual rights of the ordinary people. The slogan now is: 'I have the mandate by the people to do as I please'.

It is our view that the phenomenon of bribery and corruption is here to stay. It is not possible to eradicate it. However, we are further of the view that a far more sinister case scenario is now unfolding in this country as a direct consequence of corruption.

And that is, corruption has caused a far bigger problem and that is the systematic destruction of the concept of fair play by observance of established rules in an impartial manner. When you look at it closer, you will realize that this is the core function of the rule of law which in turn, sustains our parliamentary democracy under a written constitution.

Yes, on a superficial level, the legal system in this country still functions daily but the concept of fairness that the legal system ought to sustain has long been corrupted so that issues of interpretation and application of the law including enforcement are not totally devoid of the spirit embodied in the legal and judicial system. Yes, we are enforcing the letter of the law, but not the spirit of the law which gives the legal system its sanctity or its moral foundation.

Take for instance, a case scenario where there is a police warrant of arrest for a prominent person. In the normal course of events, the criminal justice system should be allowed to take its course so that the police should proceed to arrest that person and bring him before the court of law to be dealt with. This is what happens in older democracies like England, Australia and New Zealand. In the normal course of events, the law courts in these countries will not grant orders stopping the police from performing their functions.

However, in this country, the superior courts like the National Court readily dish out court injunctions stopping the police from arresting people against whom the police have already obtained arrest warrants from the lower courts.

This is totally wrong for two reasons: Firstly, the superior courts must respect the integrity of the lower courts which have issued the warrants for arrest after consideration of the police case put before the Magistrate. Secondly, the criminal justice system must be allowed to take its course without any interference from the superior court until the case, in its normal transition, reaches the superior court.

Unfortunately, in this country, the superior courts will jump the queue to stop the police and the lower courts from performing their routine functions.

The case of obtaining restraining orders against the Ombudsman Commission is another classic case of the superior courts interfering with the jurisdiction of the Ombudsman Commission. Where there is a leadership dispute between the leader and the Commission, the national court must not be allowed to grant injunctions against the Commission or the Tribunal from exercising their constitutional functions.

This is what we mean when we say that the whole system of interpretation and application of the law including enforcement have been corrupted in this country so that we are no longer enforcing the law within the spirit of the law.

Thus, if the leader has any complaints against the Commission or the Leadership Tribunal, then he has the right to go to the superior court to upset the decision of the Commission or the Tribunal AFTER these institutions have conducted their investigations and AFTER they have made their determinations known but NOT BEFORE. The law enforcement agencies, including the lower courts must not be stopped from their routine functions. The higher courts in turn must wait for the case to reach them in the normal course of events before they exercise their supervisory jurisdiction. In our view, the superior courts of law are crossing bridges long before they even sight the bridges for themselves. They are corrupting the system of law and law enforcement in this country.

In conclusion, we say that bribery and corruption in this country is here to stay. Regardless of what effort we may put into the fight to control or even eliminate it, we will not succeed. The primary reason for our pessimism is that the people in positions which can make the difference are themselves corrupted so they are not likely to take any action against bribery and corruption. The very people who ought to take remedial action are the biggest beneficiaries of bribery and corruption themselves and they are the very people who are partaking in it.

This now takes us to the next level and that is on the moral plane. We can only call on these corrupt people to look at the phenomenon of bribery and corruption as a moral issue. We can only call on them to look deeply within and decide if they are doing the right thing. We can only plead for them to see that there is no self respect for anyone engaged in bribery and corruption and furthermore, there is no public respect for these people and their families. And ultimately, when it is time to die the fruits of bribery and corruption will not send these people to a happy life and neither will they take with them the proceeds of bribery and corruption.

We end with a biblical saying: "How does it profit a man if he gains the whole world but suffers the loss of his soul?"

Advertising sustains Wantok operation

Toktok i kam long Advataisin Menesa; Kevin Dauda

IT may not be general knowledge to many readers that the revenue any newspaper company generates to sustain its operations comes from two main income streams, circulation and advertising sales.

Wantok Niuspepa is no exception, however, the only difference is that here, advertising sales single-handedly accounts for almost a good 50-60% of its revenue with the balance subsidized by donations from overseas church partners mainly in Germany.

Circulation sales is minimal as up to 40% of the total print run is distributed free using the share-holder churches extensive network throughout the country.

Selling advertising space for Wantok Niuspepa has always been challenging. Perceptions do influence buying decisions and many a potential advertising clients perceive that since they rarely see the paper, it is not read widely enough. Hence, they do not fully grasp the importance of advertising in Wantok Niuspepa.

Hardly does it ever occur to them that perhaps they do not see the paper as they are actually not the targeted readership!

Therein lies the challenge for our advertising sales personnel to convince potential advertisers that the paper is not a mass circulated publication but rather a newspaper that is directly targeting a niche readership base, the grassroots to middle income earners.

This is the largest market in the country and some of our valued advertisers have discovered that and have stuck by the paper since the beginning to target Wantok Niuspepa's huge readership.

On the occasion of our 40th anniversary, I wish to extend our sincere appreciation to our clients especially our long term advertisers who have and continue to advertise in Wantok Niuspepa.

Also to our valued readers we extend our gratitude and encourage you to keep on reading Wantok Niuspepa. Tok Pisin is a vibrant and progressive language and is part of our identity as a nation. Wantok Niuspepa endeavors to be the custodian of this popular language.

Lastly, I pay tribute to the past and present staff members especially in the advertising department who have and continue to strive to sell the paper. For those who have been in the 'A' Team of Word Publishing Company would know that this is where the 'real selling' takes place.

A newspaper with deep Christian values

FIRST of all I would like to congratulate WANTOK NIUSPEPA, all its staff, past and present, for faithfully bringing it to print for these past forty years. I have been aware of its struggles during those years, and the generous support it received, both locally and from overseas, to continue its endeavours. The main aim of the paper was to tell the stories of the grass root people and also to inform the grass root people about the rest of the world. While it was started by Fr. Frank Mihalic SVD, a priest of the Catholic Church, it did not take long before the other three churches joined the Board of management, and thus it became the combined effort of the Lutheran, Anglican, United and Catholic churches. It was not meant to be a specifically church news paper, but rather a news paper with deep Christian values. It did not promote or want to advertise anything that would harm or endanger the cultural and family values of the people.

I think that the editors and journalists and all staff have done this faithfully.

I have been closely associated for the past ten years with the Board and management of Word Publishing Company as chairman of the Board. It has been my privilege to see the Company start again in the present location on Waigani Drive, after the attempted and partially successful, burning of the Word Publishing main office in 2003 ?? More than half the library was burned; over two dozen computers were burned; most of the backup material was destroyed. It was an uphill battle to continue. But continue we did and even in that week of the fire, with the front page of the WANTOK showing the results of the fire, the paper continued to be printed with the generous help of The NATIONAL.

Another point of pride has been the complete localisation of all the staff of Word Publishing. It has been a joy to see these professional men and women from various parts of PNG, work together as a team, week after week to produce the WANTOK news paper in the format and style it is today.

There is also the recognition that the WANTOK news paper was often the foundation or starting point for many of the other news paper journalists working for the other local news papers.

The challenge for WANTOK continues be, to tell of the good things that happen in PNG and the world; to tell of the needs of the marginalised and the people who have no voice; to seek justice and honesty in all human relations, be they Government or Business, Church or Family.

Again, I want to congratulate and thank all of the staff of WANTOK and hope that they will continue to improve and promote the work of Word Publishing.

They will be ever scribbling

By ALPHONSE BARIASI

I believe in work after death. Spare me the notion of an eternity in blissful idleness. And I think some professionals will have great fun while others switch jobs. But the band of men and women known as journalists are in for a party.

Pity some others for they could be unemployed. Why a physician if there is neither disease nor pain? Soldiers, policemen and correctional officers will enter the pearly gates armed with job applications for new careers.

Lawyers had better burn their practicing certificates because there'll be no court except the one which will have exonerated all before they enter life after death.

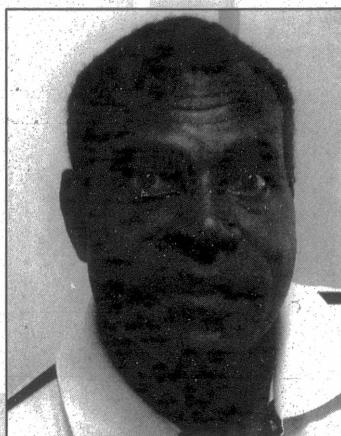

For those in the "creation industry" - architects, engineers, designers, horticulturalists, artists and musicians - there is no limit to stretching their imaginations to create anew as per-mited by the grand creator.

Above them all, the humble journalist is headed for a singing of a time. The PNG journalist, now labouring with many faults none less than the Grand Chief and others in his mood pounce upon occasionally, will have found a very appreciative audience. It will all be developmental journalism and glad tidings only; informative, inspiring and pure entertainment.

Here, the limitations to the PNG scribe are aplenty: limited investigative reporting skill; grappling with a limited vocabulary of the English language; and the lack of technical savvy and technology. There, language will not be a worry; the mind will have grasped the entire vocabulary of the universal language of the cosmos and much else besides.

Technology or a lack of it will not be a problem either as every imaginable gadgetry known in the information world will be available to the reporter. The roving reporter will enjoy first class travel on inter-planetary space-craft to give an account of the countless joys of life and unlimited advances in the next world.

Thankfully, no story on the ravages of climate change and AIDS, nor the moral dilemmas of gay marriage and abortion, will make the headlines.

I am gearing up for the fun while here today and being afforded a foretaste. And for that I owe the years of my training plus the highs and lows of formal employment to many. Credit for the beginning of a career reluctantly chosen rests mainly with two American priests.

Frank Mihalic taught me basic news writing at Divine Word Institute, and at my graduation in 1987, Jim Franks handed me a plane ticket to Word Publishing Company.

Both priests have sadly passed on but I do cherish the moment Jim Franks called me in and put me onto Fr Ken Feehan at St Benedict's Teachers College in Wewak. Feehan called in regards to the booboo I made in reporting that he had met then Prime Minister Rabbie Namaliu over a land dispute by the nearby Saure villagers.

The interview for that blunder was conducted in Tok Pisin but the copy was in English. The clergyman spoke too quickly for me over a phone line not entirely crystal clear. And of course I was too timid to ask repetitions.

The result: according to The Times of Papua New Guinea, "the college principal held a meeting with the Prime Minister" when the two gentleman had not as much as say "hello" to one another that week.

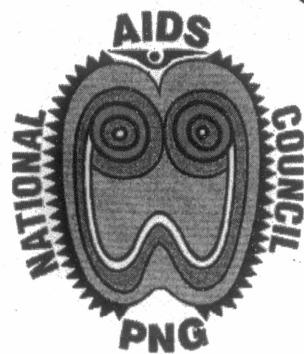

As a very inexperienced reporter and an emotional one at that, I burst into tears.

Jim Franks would not let one unfortunate incident thwart a career. "You take life too seriously," he admonished. This sticks with me and comes in handy whenever I make a boo-boo again.

To my other mentors and colleagues, may God bless your hearts: Anna Solomon, Neville Togarewa, the late Ori Maeaoka (a trusty supplier of BH cigarettes), Patrick Matbob and Anthony Balpingeri, among many more whom space cannot permit me to name.

My time at Word had been a blast because of you but I was too impetuous then to know. May you keep scribbling even in the next world!
