BANK OF PAPUA NEW GUINEA

MONETARY POLICY STATEMENT

BY THE GOVERNOR OF THE BANK OF PAPUA NEW GUINEA

MR. L. WILSON KAMIT, CBE

PORT MORESBY

31 July 2006

Objective of Monetary Policy

The objective of monetary policy in Papua New Guinea (PNG) is to achieve and maintain price stability. If achieved it will lead to:

- ◆ Confidence in the kina exchange rate and management of the economy;
- ◆ A foundation for stable fiscal operations of the Government;
- ◆ Certainty for private sector businesses to plan for long-term investment and development; and
- ◆ A stable macroeconomic environment conducive to economic growth.

Executive Summary

Papua New Guinea has experienced relative price stability since 2003. The Bank of Papua New Guinea (Bank) expects that this and other favourable macroeconomic conditions will continue in the second half of 2006 and over the medium-term. Therefore, the Bank will maintain a neutral monetary policy stance during this period. This stance is based on the following expectations:

- ◆ Headline and underlying inflation will remain at around 2.5 - 4.5 percent;
- ◆ Stable kina exchange rate against the currencies of PNG's major trading partners;
- ◆ Prudent fiscal management by the Government;
- ◆ Private sector credit growth will continue in 2006 and the medium term; and
- ◆ Gross Domestic Product (GDP) growth to be higher than the Government's projections of 3.5 percent, as indicated by the fast growth of private sector credit.

However, the risks to price stability include high volatility in the exchange rate, the potential adverse effects arising from rapid growth in monetary aggregates, the high crude oil prices and any fiscal slippages from the original 2006 Budget or the Supplementary Budget to be presented in August 2006, and in the lead up to the 2007 National Elections.

In this respect, the Bank will re-assess and if necessary make changes to the monetary policy stance to counter any adverse effects on the maintenance of price stability.

The effectiveness of monetary policy to curtail any threat to price stability will be limited if it is not supported by fiscal and other policy measures. Therefore, a closer co-ordination of policies by the Government and the Bank is necessary in sustaining macroeconomic stability and economic growth over the medium-term.

1.0 Monetary Policy Discussions

1.1 Monetary Policy Assessment and Issues

In the first half of 2006, the Bank maintained a neutral monetary policy stance. Consistent with the stance, the Kina Facility Rate (KFR) was maintained at 6.0 percent reflecting low inflation, stable exchange rate and favourable macroeconomic outcomes.

Macroeconomic outcomes for the first half of 2006 were broadly in line with the Bank's expectations outlined in the January 2006 MPS. Annual headline inflation was 2.3 percent to June 2006, driven by stability in the exchange rate and lower foreign inflation. The Trade Weighted Index (TWI) and Real Effective Exchange Rate (REER) remained relatively stable over the first half of 2006.

Interest rates have generally continued to remain low given the high level of liquidity in the banking system. The low interest rate environment combined with sound fiscal management, removal of foreign exchange control restrictions and political stability led to a pick up in business confidence and increased lending to the private sector by commercial banks. The increase in lending has enabled the private sector to expand business activity and generate employment.

Annual growth in broad money (M3*) and reserve money were 46.4 percent and 32.3 percent, respectively, to June 2006. The growth in broad money was accounted for by a significant increase in the net foreign assets of the Central Bank and net credit to private sector. The very fast growth in broad and reserve money are of concern to the Bank as they could lead to inflationary pressure.

Preliminary estimates of the fiscal operations of the National Government over the five months to May 2006 showed an overall budget surplus of 1.4 percent of nominal GDP, due to higher than budgeted mineral tax receipts. Given this outcome, the Government should be able to achieve its objectives within the original 2006 Budget parameters or the Supplementary Budget to be presented in August 2006. However, the Government should restrain recurrent expenditure because if the mineral prices fall in the future it will be difficult to adjust expenditure downward. The focus should be to increase development expenditure that will generate growth and reduce poverty as stated in the Medium Term Development Strategy (MTDS).

The Government's debt management strategy of restructuring debt from short to longer term to reduce refinancing risk has led to issuance of Inscribed stocks. This has in turn led to a very substantial increase in interest cost on domestic debt by 32.7 percent in the first five months to May 2006, compared to the same period in 2005. Such a substantive increase in interest expenses and recourse to domestic borrowing is in the Bank's view inconsistent with the medium term debt strategy. The Government was advised by the Bank to retire some of its expensive foreign debt and cease further issuance of Inscribed stocks.

The low domestic interest rate environment poses a concern to the Bank as interest rate differentials widen between PNG and its major trading partners. This could lead to capital outflow from PNG to substitute financial markets and create macroeconomic instability.

The Bank will seek to adopt appropriate monetary policy management strategies that will help sustain price stability over the medium-term.

1.2 Monetary Policy Stance

Based on the Bank's assessment of macroeconomic developments in the first half of 2006 and expectations of low inflation, it will maintain a neutral monetary policy stance in the second half of 2006 and over the medium-term.

2.0 Developments and Expectations

2.1 International Developments

World economic growth is expected to be stronger in 2006, compared to 2005. In the latest World Economic Outlook (WEO) of April 2006, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) forecasts global real GDP growth of around 4.9 percent in 2006, and easing to 4.7 percent in 2007. The United States (US) and China are the main forces behind this growth, while the Japanese economy is also gaining momentum. The recovery in the Euro area is improving, while growth in the emerging economies like India and Russia remains strong.

The neutral stance of monetary policy is based on the following expectations in 2006 and the medium-term:

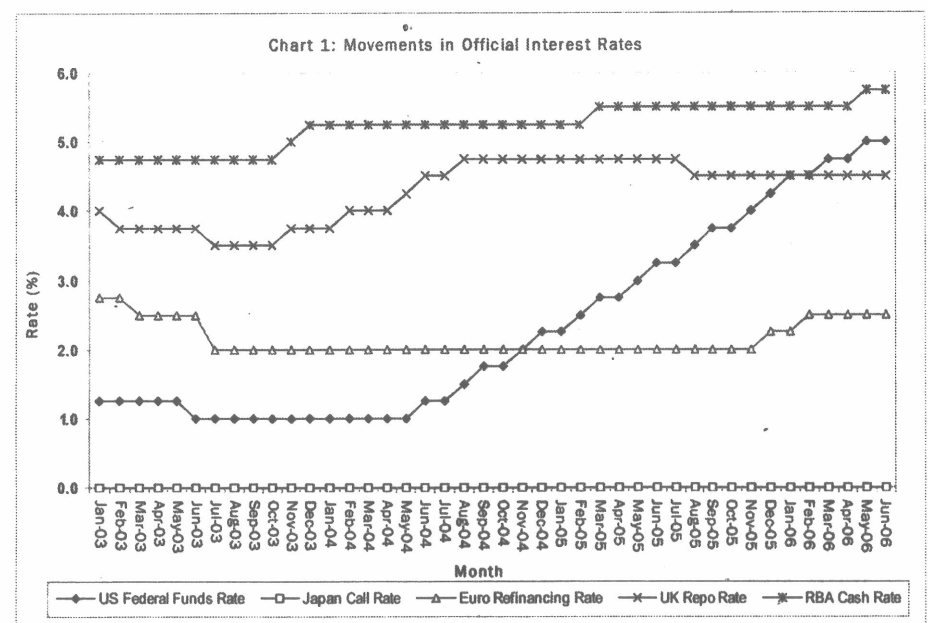

Despite the positive outlook for economic growth, there are three major uncertainties. Firstly, the high crude oil prices whose impact have been moderate than generally expected, is still a concern as the full effect of the price increase may not have passed on to consumers. This situation could worsen given the crisis in the Middle East. Crude oil prices remained well above US$60 per barrel throughout the first half of 2006, and are trading around US$75 per barrel in July 2006. Secondly, the narrowing of interest rate differentials between the US and the other industrialised countries could lead to an appreciation of the US dollar. The high interest rates in the US could also dampen investment and lead to a slow down in economic growth. Finally, the continued global trade imbalance created by the current account and fiscal deficits in the US, funded by surpluses in China, Japan and India and oil exporting countries, has a further upside risk for an appreciation of the US dollar.

- ◆ Inflation will be around 2.5 - 4.5 percent;
- ◆ Stable kina exchange rate;
- ◆ Continued prudent fiscal management;
- ◆ Credit growth to the private sector to continue; and
- ◆ GDP growth could be higher than the Government's projection of 3.5 percent as indicated by the faster growth in private sector credit in 2005 and 2006.

The Bank expects broad money to grow at 21.5 percent and reserve money at 11.0 percent in 2006, substantially higher than needed to support private sector activity. The high level of free liquid reserves, if lent by the banking system, is expected to continue to generate private sector growth, given the low interest rate environment, removal of foreign exchange control restrictions and other impediments to growth by the Government. In the medium-term, credit growth is expected to continue as commercial banks introduce new lending products, particularly to the mineral companies, which are now allowed under the liberalised foreign exchange control regime to borrow from the domestic banking system. The level of net foreign assets is expected to increase moderately in the medium-term.

Inflationary pressures have resulted in tightening of monetary policies by major central banks following rising crude oil prices, growing capacity utilisation and tight labour markets (see Chart 1). The IMF inflation forecast for 2006 is expected to average around 2.3 percent in industrialised economies, and 5.4 percent in other emerging market economies and developing countries. For 2007, the IMF forecasts slightly lower inflation of 2.1 percent in industrialised economies, and 4.8 percent in other emerging market economies and developing countries.

The Bank expects the Government to demonstrate prudent fiscal management and continue to redirect expenditure to priority areas such as health, education, law and order, and physical infrastructure. The implementation of public sector reforms, removal of impediments to trade and investment and export-led growth will also contribute towards moving PNG to a higher path of economic growth.

Source: Respective central banks' websites

Whilst the Bank expects the medium-term assumptions to hold, the risks could come from:

In the foreign exchange market, the US dollar weakened against the other major currencies in the first half of 2006 reflecting expectations that the US Federal Reserve is close to ending its interest rate tightening cycle. Consequently, the US dollar depreciated by 1.25 percent against the Australian dollar, 7.22 percent against the euro, 2.35 percent against the yen and 6.33 percent against the British pound sterling.

- ◆ Volatile movements in the exchange rates of PNG's major trading partners;
- ◆ Fall in international commodity prices;
- ◆ Fiscal slippages arising from the Supplementary Budget and in the lead-up to the 2007 National Elections;
- ◆ Effects of past increases and any further increases of crude oil prices;
- ◆ The very fast growth in monetary aggregates; and
- ◆ Other unforeseen external and domestic shocks.

In this respect, the Bank will be cautious and if necessary make changes to the stance of monetary policy to counter any adverse developments that may threaten the maintenance of price stability in 2006 and the medium-term.

1.3 Conduct of Monetary Policy

2.2 Domestic Economic Conditions

The MPS provides the overall monetary policy framework, while the KFR remains the instrument for signaling the Bank's monetary policy stance with an announcement by the Governor at the beginning of each month. Following the announcement, Open Market Operations (OMOs) will be conducted to support the Bank's monetary policy stance. The OMOs will involve the auction of Central Bank Bills (CBB) to licensed financial intermediaries and Treasury bills to the public and the banking system, as well as Repurchase Agreement (Repo) transactions with commercial banks. The Bank's intervention strategy in the foreign exchange market will be to smooth out any volatility in the exchange rate where necessary. The implementation of monetary policy will be within the reserve money framework, where the Exchange Settlement Account (ESA) balances of commercial banks will be maintained at non-inflationary levels.

Data from the Bank's Business Liaison Survey (BLS) indicates strong growth in nominal sales of 27.0 percent in 2005 and 16.7 percent in the March quarter of 2006. There were higher sales by all sectors in the March quarter of 2006. Formal private sector employment grew in the March quarter of 2006 by 8.1 percent, compared to the corresponding period in 2005. This was due to higher employment in all sectors except the transportation sector. Based on these and the strong increase in private sector credit, the Bank expects that real GDP growth could be higher than the Government's forecast of 3.5 percent (see Chart 2).

Over the medium term, macroeconomic stability, the Government's policy on removal of impediments to trade and investment, promotion of export-led growth and production for domestic consumption, infrastructure improvements and institutional reforms will stimulate growth in economic activity. Resource-based projects including the PNG Gas project, the Ramu Nickel mine and other smaller mines should also contribute to the expected growth and employment over the medium term.

gross foreign exchange reserves was US$1,002.9 (K3,011.8) million. At the end of 2006, it is expected to be around US$967.0 (K2,970.9) million, sufficient for 6.2 months of total and 10.7 months of non-mineral import covers.

The latest IMF price projections indicate that international prices of some of PNG's non-mineral exports will be higher in 2006, compared to 2005. According to the mineral companies, most of the mineral prices are expected to increase in 2006.

The export volumes of most of PNG's major non-mineral commodities and petroleum products are projected to increase in 2006, compared to 2005. Further increases in export volumes of most of PNG's major non-mineral commodities are projected over the medium-term, due to the Government's Export-Driven Growth Strategy, infrastructure developments, new plantings of crops and production from the Autonomous Region of Bougainville.

Other main assumptions underlying the balance of payments projections for 2006 and the medium-term are:

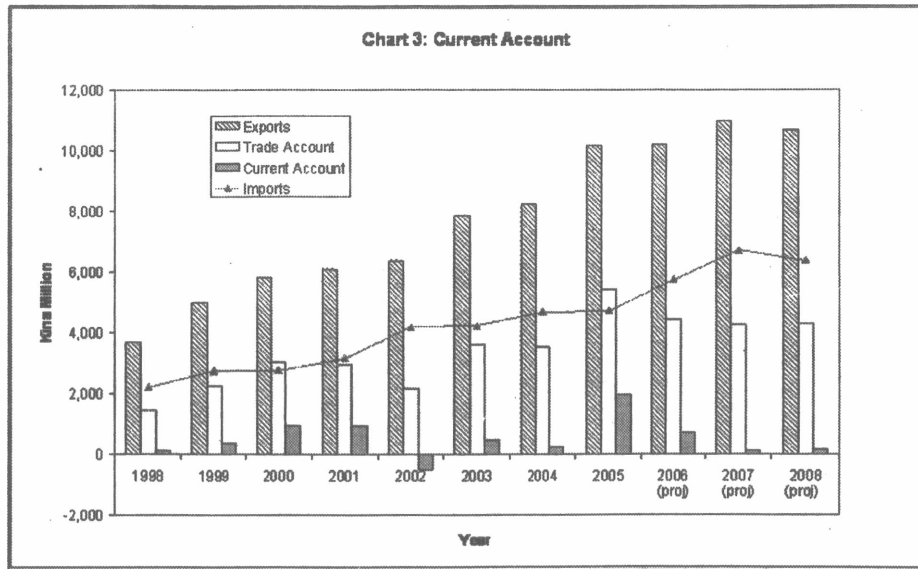

- ◆ Stability in the kina exchange rate;
- ◆ Exclusion of the PNG Gas project;
- ◆ The commencement of construction of the Ramu Nickel mine in 2006; and
- ◆ The commencement of construction of Simberi gold mine in 2007.

2.3 Balance of Payments

Preliminary balance of payments data for the five months to May 2006 showed an overall surplus of K545.0 million, compared to a deficit of K182.7 million in the corresponding period of 2005. This outcome was the result of combined surpluses in the current and capital and financial accounts. The surplus in the current account was due to a higher trade surplus and lower net service payments. The surplus in financial and capital accounts was due to net inflows of foreign direct investment to the mineral sector, liquidation of short-term money market assets, drawdown of foreign currency account balances of mineral companies and increase in net foreign assets of commercial banks.

Source: Bank of PNG

Consistent with the Bank's expectations, the liberalisation of exchange controls in June 2005 had a limited impact on the balance of payments. Outward portfolio investments increased in the twelve months to May 2006, compared to the corresponding period of 2005. The increase was due to short-term money market investments by residents. In addition, the removal of the Exchange Control Regulation Clause on the retention period of export receipts led to an increase in funds held offshore. However, higher current account receipts more than offset these developments, which contributed to the stability in exchange rate.

In 2006, the balance of payments is projected to show an overall surplus of K677 million, compared to a surplus of K255 million in 2005. This outcome reflects a projected current account surplus of K722 million in 2006, which is partially offset by a lower deficit of K45 million in the capital and financial accounts. In the medium term, the balance of payments is projected to show surpluses in the overall balances (see Appendix - Table 2).

The level of gross foreign exchange reserves at the end of May 2006 was US$941.6 (K2,860.9) million, sufficient for 7.2 months of total and 9.9 months of non-mineral import covers. As at 26th July 2006, the level of

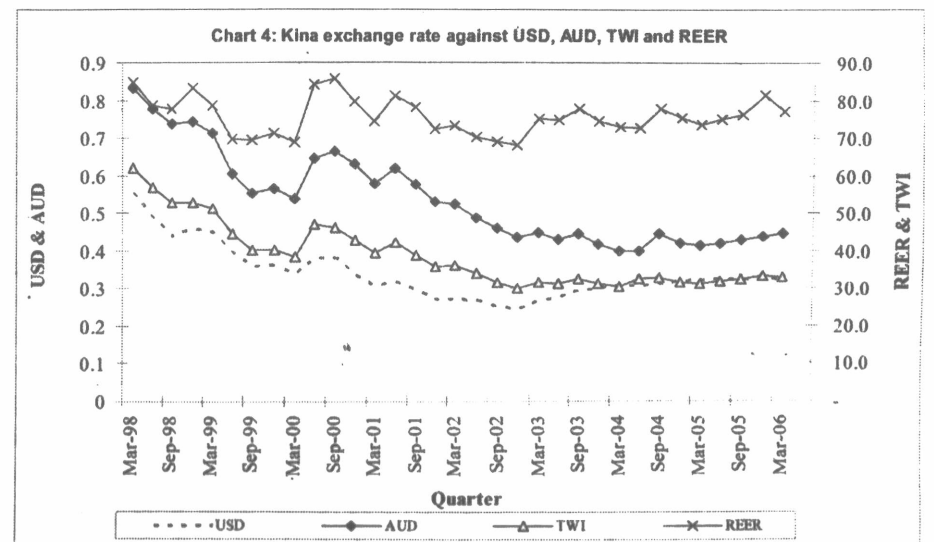

2.4 Fiscal Operations of The National Government

Preliminary estimates of the fiscal operations of the National Government over the five months to May 2006 showed an overall budget surplus of K222.7 million, compared to a surplus of K257.7 million in the corresponding period of 2005. This represents 1.4 percent of nominal GDP. The surplus reflected higher mineral tax receipts, which more than offset increases in recurrent and development expenditures. The budget surplus was used to repay net overseas and domestic loans of K88.0 million and K134.7 million, respectively.

The Government continued to redeem Treasury bills and issue Inscribed stocks. During the first half of 2006, the net retirement of Treasury bills was K210.4 million while net issuance of Inscribed stocks totalled K370.4 million.

2.5 Exchange Rate

The kina continued to strengthen against the US and Australian dollars during the first half of 2006. It appreciated against the US dollar from US$0.3230 at the end of December 2005 to US$0.3260 at the end of June 2006. The kina also appreciated against the Australian dollar from A$0.4400 to A$0.4440 (see Chart 4). The appreciation of the kina exchange rate was a result of high foreign exchange inflows from export receipts. The TWI and REER remained relatively stable since 2003.

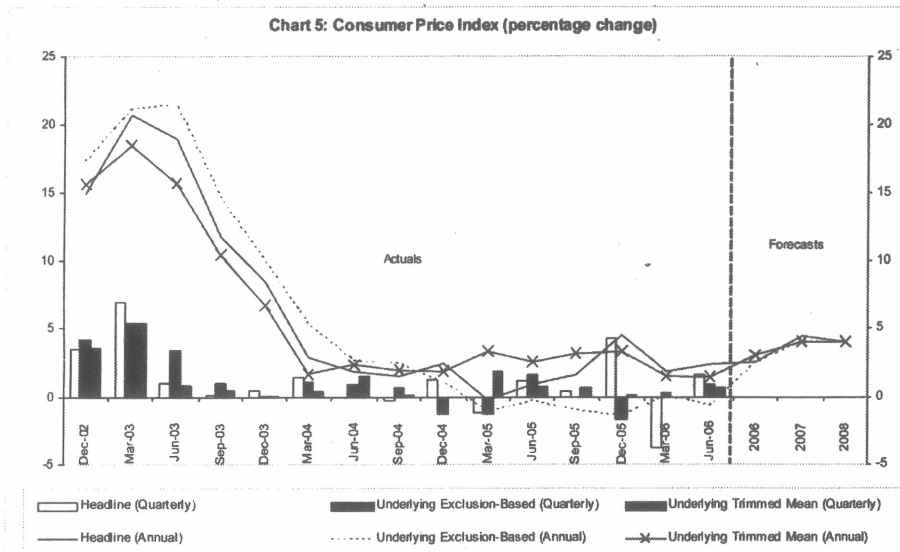

Source: Bank of PNG

2.6 Inflation

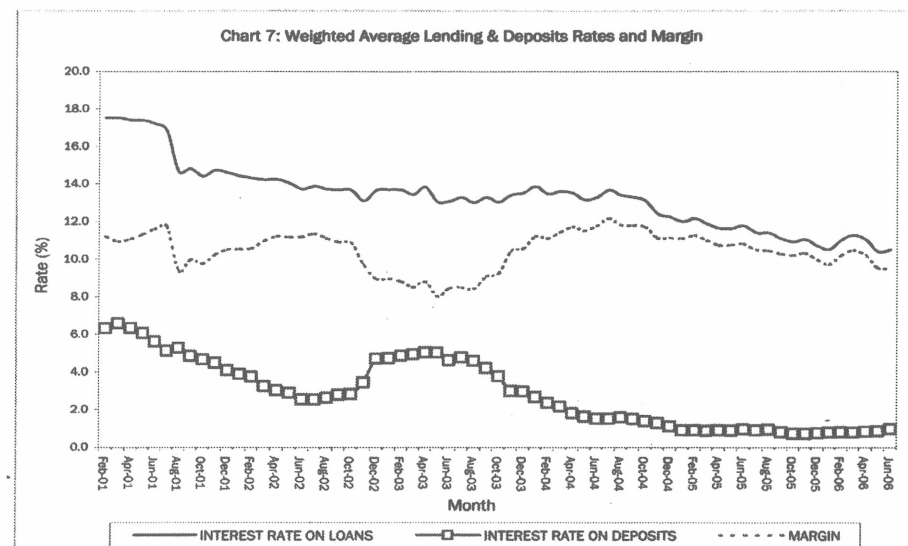

Annual headline inflation was 2.3 percent in June 2006, compared to 1.8 percent in March 2006. The low headline inflation outcome was matched by low underlying inflation rates during the quarter. Annual trimmed mean inflation was 1.4 percent, compared to 1.5 percent in the March quarter. Annual exclusion-based inflation was negative 0.6 percent, compared to 0.1 percent in the March quarter. The headline and underlying inflation for 2006 and the medium term are projected to be around 2.5 – 4.5 percent (see Chart 5 and Appendix-Table 2).

Commercial banks maintained their Indicator Lending Rates (ILR) between at 9.45 – 10.70 percent during the first half of the year. The weighted average interest rate on total deposits increased from 0.75 percent in December 2005 to 0.97 percent in June 2006, while the weighted average lending rate on total loans decreased from 10.71 to 10.49 percent during the same period. However, the spread between the weighted average lending and deposit rates continued to remain wide at around 10.0 percent (see Chart 7).

Source: Bank of PNG & National Statistical Office (NSO)

Source: Bank of PNG

The expected low inflation in 2006 is based on the assumptions of stability in the kina exchange rate, low foreign inflation in PNG's major trading partners and prudent fiscal management by the Government. However, the risks to these assumptions are:

Total liquidity of the banking system increased by 18.1 percent between December 2005 and June 2006, mainly due to mineral tax inflows. As a result, Repo and CBB transactions were conducted to manage liquidity and maintain real interest rates.

- ◆ Decline in the kina exchange rate triggered by a fall in international commodity prices;
- ◆ Further significant increases in monetary aggregates including broad money;
- ◆ Fiscal slippages arising from the Supplementary Budget and in the lead up to the 2007 National Elections;
- ◆ Further increase in crude oil prices and its second round effect; and
- ◆ Destabilising capital outflows as a result of low domestic interest rates.

Lending extended by the banking system to the private sector increased by 25.2 percent during the six months to June 2006. The advances were mainly to the building and construction, and transport sectors, reflecting increased activity in these sectors. The growth in private sector credit was broad-based with lending to the fisheries and forestry, building and construction, commerce, transportation and communication sectors as well as for alluvial mining, other businesses and households. Lending to the agriculture sector however declined since June 2005.

2.7 Monetary and Financial Market Developments

The Bank maintained a neutral monetary policy stance during the first half of 2006. Whilst the KFR was kept unchanged at 6.0 percent (see Chart 6), the trading margin for the Repo was reduced by 1.0 percent in total to 200 basis points on both sides of the KFR.

The level of broad money supply (M3*) increased by 14.3 percent during the six months to June 2006 as a result of growth in net domestic credit and net foreign assets of the banking system. Reserve money increased by 1.7 percent over the same period (see Appendix – Table 1).

Interest rates for short-term securities remained stable in the first six months of 2006. The Government did not issue Treasury bills since May 2006, following cash surpluses. As a result of the absence of the Government in the Treasury bill auction, the Bank issued additional CBBs to diffuse liquidity from the banking system and maintained ESA balances at around K100 – K150 million, compared to the higher levels in 2005. This enabled short-term deposit rates to increase during the period.

TRADE AND INVESTMENT

Gas Exports To Promote Growth

Papua New Guinea's biggest investment commitment, the Gas Project is important for future growth prospects and the development of a domestic downstream processing industry.

Minister for Petroleum and Energy, Sir Moi Avei, when outlining the government's gas commercialisation policy, said the backbone of the gas policy is the PNG Gas Project, which will commence exporting gas to Australia by the year 2009.

He says PNG's proven gas reserves, are currently 'stranded' in the Southern Highlands Province.

The PNG Gas Project will finance the infrastructure that is necessary to enable the gas to be commercialized for both export and domestic downstream processing.

Sir Moi added that the Project will also signal to overseas investors that PNG can deliver multi-billion dollar projects.

"We have abundant gas reserves and are strategically located in the fast growing Asia Pacific region.

"The Somare Government's gas commercialization policy is designed to capitalize on these advantages", Sir Moi said.

The Government also wants to see that PNG is active across the whole gas industry value chain, from exploration and development through to value-adding and electricity generation.

Sir Moi said the gas commercialization policy is an integral component of the Medium Term Development Strategy, hence, it would provide revenues to fund MTDS priority programs, and further promote the economy's transition to one based on value-adding industries.

The government believes that this policy will also create jobs and training for Papua New Guineans and help modernize the economy and workforce, he said.

Apart from that, the gas commercialization policy will also promote gas-fired electrification and the distribution of Liquefied Petroleum Gas (LPG) for household use, which will impact on the living standards of the people, he said.

"The public must have a clear understanding of this essential point. The PNG Gas Project is, and must remain, the backbone of the gas commercialization policy.

"If the Project does not proceed, there will be no prospects for downstream processing and only limited options for gas-fired electrification," Sir Moi said.

He further clarified the proposed establishment of a domestic LPG plant adding that an LPG plant was a central component of the government's plans for downstream processing.

While negotiating the PNG Gas project with private partners, the Government also demanded that the Project accommodates third party investors who wish to invest in downstream processing industries, which also includes LPG.

Sir Moi said that their successful negotiations achieved a workable gas off-taker and access arrangements.

He said negotiations are also underway to ensure that competitively priced gas is made available to domestic downstream processors.

Sir Moi also expressed confidence that some companies may soon announce their plans to invest in downstream processing and to participate in the development of the Konebada Petroleum Park and the auxiliary pipeline that will deliver gas to the Park.

While negotiating sale contracts with potential gas buyers in Australia, including Santos Ltd, the Government further approved in principle, the sale of a very limited quantity of LPG-rich gas for a period of between five to six years.

Sir Moi said the decision was necessary in order to improve the economics of PNG Gas Project and to ensure that it proceeds. ■

PNG Begins Corned Beef Exports To Fiji

Papua New Guinea is now able to export canned corned beef including Ox and Palm brand to Fiji, following an amendment to the Animal Importation Regulations by the Fiji Government this year.

The new amendment came into effect on 12 May 2006 following the amendment to the Animal Importation Act, on 13 March 2006.

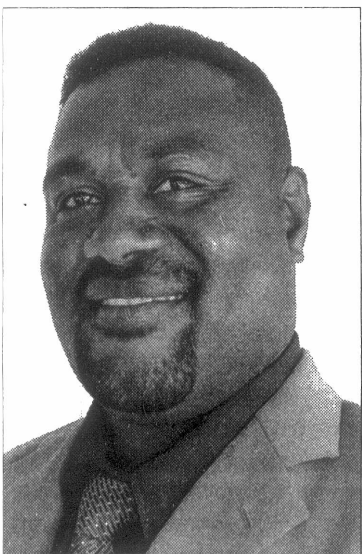

The appropriate regulation was noted in the PNG National Government Gazette on 4 May 2006.

Minister for Trade and Industry, Hon. Paul Tiensten says the new regulations for the Fiji market come under the following categories:

And he says under the bilateral trade arrangement, cooked beef from PNG contained in hermetically sealed cans may be imported into Fiji subject to the following conditions:

- That beef carcasses for canning are only those imported from either New Zealand or Australia, provided that such carcasses are derived from animals killed in a duly registered or licensed slaughtering establishment or have been processed and prepared in a duly registered or licensed packing house;

- That cans of cooked meat are those produced or manufactured in Papua New Guinea at a cannery

Minister for Trade and Industry, Hon. Paul Tiensten

approved by a Chief Executive Officer responsible for Agriculture in Fiji;

- The cans are accompanied by a certificate issued by a veterinary officer of the Government of Papua New Guinea, certifying that the requirements of the above are complied with.

Mr Tiensten has congratulated officials from both governments in resolving the matter and urged the Hugo Canning Company in Port Moresby and James Barnes canning in Madang to commence exporting corned beef products to Fiji.

Mr Tiensten, has also thanked the new Fiji Government for making it possible for PNG corned beef to reach consumers in Fiji. ■

Japan Funds Health Program

A K7.7 million program that will address hardships and various threats faced by women in mobile PNG communities, with emphasis on the fight against HIV/AIDS was launched in Port Moresby this month.

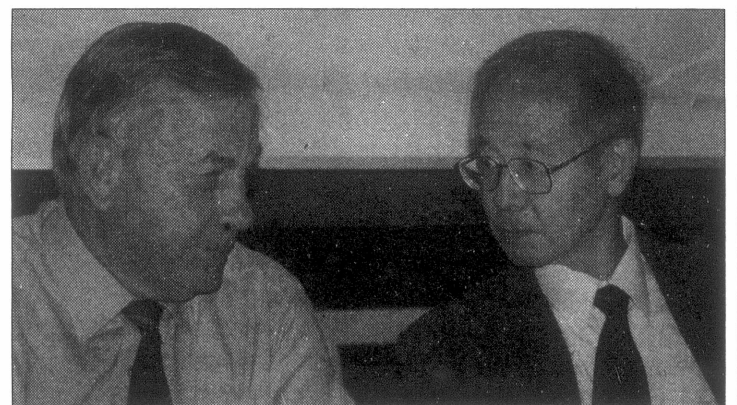

The program titled; 'Strengthening Human Security for Women in Mobile Population through Health Education and HIV/AIDS Care,' is being funded by the Japanese Government, through the Trust Fund for Human Security, established by the United Nations in March 1999.

Since the inception of the Trust Fund, there are 150 projects being supported by the various UN agencies, which address threats to human life, livelihood and dignity from the perspective of human security.

Japan's Ambassador to PNG, H.E Mr Kanji Hanagata, said the objective of the fund was to translate the concept of human security into concrete activities implemented by the UN agencies, through supporting projects that address poverty, environmental degradation, conflicts, landmines, refugee problems, illicit drugs and infectious diseases such as HIV/AIDS.

The project is also being designed to strengthen the capacity of local health systems to provide quality health care for the mobile population in the country.

Mr Hanagata expressed confidence that the project would encourage women in mobile communities to access health services and improve health conditions and the quality of living.

Health Minister, Hon. Sir Peter Barter with the Japanese Ambassador to PNG, HE Mr. Kanji Hanagata at the launch of the programme this month.

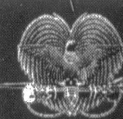

The World Health Organisation (WHO) and the United Nations Children Fund (UNICEF) will jointly implement the project

Meanwhile WHO Representative in the country, Mr Anthony Gomes, added that the spread of poverty, the limited availability of social services, violence and frequent natural disasters in the country, had forced people to move from rural areas to large cities for better security and for job opportunities.

Minister for Health, Sir Peter Barter paid tribute to the Japanese Government and the donors for their support in the fight against HIV/AIDS and other diseases.

Sir Peter said the support from the Japanese Government, through the UN Trust Fund was a vivid example of partners' commitment to continue supporting Government efforts to fight HIV/AIDS. ■

MINING

OTML On Mission For Economic Target

The giant Ok Tedi Mining Limited (OTML) says its new mission now is to focus on ensuring the economic benefits of the mine are greater than the environmental impact.

And that's from the Managing Director of Ok Tedi Mining Limited, Mr Keith Faulkner said this when referring to the environmental impact the mine has had on the Fly River system.

He said the 1999 risk assessment of the mine found the closure would have significant impact on Papua New Guinea's economy.

Mr Faulkner revealed this at the 2006 Mining Seminar held at the Crown Plaza Hotel, Port Moresby in early July 2006.

He said OTML has 82% share holding for the benefit of the people of Papua New Guinea and this makes it one of the unique mines in the world.

Mr Faulkner said the 2001 supplementary agreement on the continuity of the mine acknowledged such activity as the environment impact found that the impact was far greater than its economic benefits to PNG.

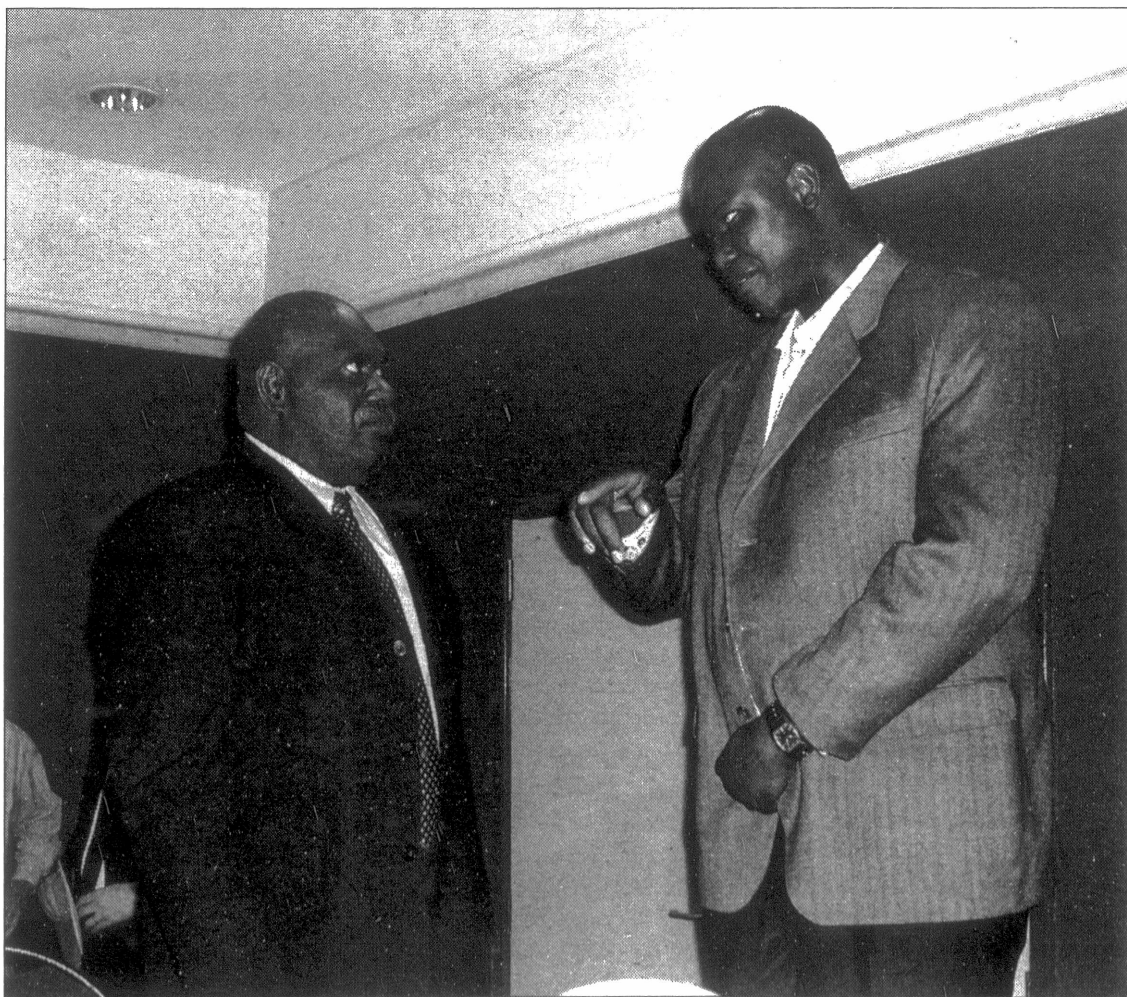

"Accordingly the company's present mitigation strategy to minimize environmental impact, is to reduce acid rock degradation in the mine tailings which could be achieved by environmental floatation at the mill," Mr Faulkner said.

He said this kind of strategy and others in line to achieve the target set for the economic growth of PNG with less destruction caused to the environment will be a success story in the near future. ■

Mining Seminars Vital for Sustainability: Akoitai

Mining Minister Hon. Sam Akoitai listening to a seminar participant at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Port Moresby.

Mining Minister Hon. Sam Akoitai has stressed that it is important to encourage mining seminars and conferences to sustain the mining sector.

Mr. Akoitai expressed concern over the future contribution of the mining industry on Papua New Guinea's economy.

He says unfortunately the life-line of all the major mining projects including OK Tedi, Porgera, Lihir, and Tolukuma are less than ten (10) years.

The Minister said this during the 2006 Mining Seminar held at the Crown Plaza Hotel in Port Moresby in mid July this year.

The Minister told more than 200 delegates from the mining sector that the mining industry contributes about 50% or more of PNG's export revenue since the Panguna days.

He said: "That is why it is vital to have seminars and conferences both internationally and locally to stimulate the exploration and mining interest in PNG.

"Hence, the significant contribution from the mining sector to the

Sydney To Host The Nineth Mining Conference

The ninth Papua New Guinea Mining and Petroleum Investment Conference will be held at the Hilton Hotel in Sydney, Australia later this year.

The Conference will be held from the 4th-6th December 2006 and is designated to stimulate investment in the Papua New Guinea mining and petroleum sectors.

And Prime Minister Grand Chief, Sir Michael Somare has been invited to open the event in the company of Minister for Finance, Hon. John Hickey, Petroleum and Energy Minister, Sir Moi Avei, Mining Minister Hon. Sam Akoitai and speakers from major resource operating sectors in Papua New Guinea.

The Conference will showcase the PNG mining and petroleum industry, focusing on the theme 'PNG Delivers on Expectations.'

Delegates attending the conference will be provided with comprehensive analysis of the major projects, issues and events currently dominating the mining and petroleum industry.

The issues would include the latest developments on the world class PNG Gas Project and new mining projects in the country.

The programme will also include commentaries on the Government's initiatives to support exploration, development and presentations on external perceptions of Papua New Guinea. ■ economy of Papua New Guinea can be maintained."

He stated that to contribute to this endeavour the government has instituted a fiscal regime that is conducive for exploration and mining development in PNG, which resulted in a significant increase (about 113%), the number of applications in 2003 and 2004 period.

"Most recently the government has also embraced other incentives that allow companies to bring sufficient capital funds into the country," said the Minister.

He said incentives provided by the Government have encouraged advanced prospects to proceed their developmental phases in projects such as Hidden valley, Simberi, Mt. Sinivit and Ramu.

Mr. Akoitai also said the national government has approved the establishment of the Mineral Resources Authority (MRA) Act in November 2005. ■

EDUCATION

Birth Registration To Be Compulsory For Enrolment

Birth certificates will soon become compulsory upon enrolment of children in schools throughout Papua New Guinea.

Education Department's Acting First Assistant Secretary for Policy, Planning, Research and Communication, Mr Uke Kombra said this at the launch of the Child Birth Registration campaign at the Maneamanea Primary School in the Rigo District of the Central Province recently.

The joint campaign by the Departments of Education and Community Development began in the Rigo District and will be extended to all the provinces.

Under the campaign, more than 8,000 schools and institutions in the National Education System will be used as registration points and teachers will become community birth registrars.

The campaign will also involve the registration of adults.

Mr Kombra said his Department will work closely with the Department of Community Development to ensure that every child in every school is registered.

"We will advise all Heads of Education Divisions in the provinces to involve all schools in their provinces in this exercise," he said.

He said a recent study had found that students did not even know their birth dates and parents and teachers' were guessing these information without having proper records.

Meanwhile, the Secretary for Community Development, Mr Joseph Klapat said at the launch of the campaign, that registering births is very important as it gives a person an identity.

He said the Education Department's partnership with his Department is a milestone and added that the campaign will ensure that every child in a school is registered.

Minister for Community Development, Dame Carol Kidu said that the campaign was timely.

Dame Carol said birth registration is important because Papua New Guinea cannot plan for social and economic development unless its population is registered.

"Our children are our most important asset and they deserve to be registered," she said.

UNICEF Country Representative Dr Isiye Dnombi said that the prosperity of Papua New Guinea depends on how its children are treated.

"If all our children have all their rights including registration of births respected Papua New Guinea can be able to plan for each child," said Dr Dnombi.

He said UNICEF is prepared to work in partnership with the Departments of Community Development, Education and Health to ensure total registration of births in PNG. ■

Quality Education For the Young

Minister for Education, Hon. Michael Laimo and Secretary for Education, Dr. Joseph Pagello welcomed by students at the Hagen Secondary School oval for the opening of the Senior Education Officers Conference on June 26, 2006.

Education Minister, Hon. Michael Laimo says every young person in Papua New Guinea must receive relevant and quality education and training.

Speaking at the Senior Education Officials Conference in Mt Hagen recently, Mr Laimo told the participants: "We have one general objective and that is to develop education further to help our children to become literate, skilled and honest leaders in future."

He said everyone must continue to work together to achieve the goal of providing opportunities for the young.

"I am glad that we have reformed our curriculum to provide a relevant basic education for Papua New Guineans while at the same time providing specialist further education and training for those able to make use of it," he said.

The Minister emphasized that the national curriculum emphasizes the teaching of ethics, morals and values in the schools.

The theme of this year's Senior Education Officers Conference was "Strong Ethics - Strong People".

Mr Laimo said this meant that everyone must develop education in a way that it will contribute positively to the development of strong morals and principles in our school system, workplaces and communities as a whole.

He said the consultations between the national and provincial officers are important because they enable common agreements and understanding to be reached on education policies and implementing the education reform.

"This is necessary to set priorities and guide future directions for developing education in Papua New Guinea," the Minister said.

The Minister also challenged Provinces to install effective and proper Provincial Education Boards to implement the National Education Plan for 2005-2014. ■

Aimo Proud Of Being Deputy PM's Teacher

The newly appointed Vice Minister for Transport and Works, Hon. Tony Aimo is a proud man today as he once taught the new Deputy Prime Minister back in 1982.

Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Transport and Civil Aviation, Hon. Don Polye attended Mt. Hagen High School in Western Highlands where Mr. Aimo was his Grade eight (8) English teacher.

Mr. Polye continued his education until he graduated from the PNG University of Technology in Lae as a civil engineer.

After their official swearing-in ceremony at the Government House this month, Mr. Aimo expressed his satisfaction over Mr. Polye's achievement.

"Being a teacher before, I am satisfied especially when a student I have taught has come this far," said Mr. Aimo.

Hon. Aimo said he had taught for twenty-two years and also experienced hard times during those years of teaching. Meanwhile he said he understood that teachers had genuine reasons to go on strike but he also urged that they have the heart for school children who are innocent.

He pleaded to all teachers to go back to school and continue their good work in teaching our future leaders, saying that the government has understood and taken their worries into account. ■

Cocoa/Coconut Program In Angoram Gets Boost

The cocoa and coconut program established in Angoram, East Sepik Province got a boost two weeks ago from its local Member of Parliament.

The gift is from the Member for Angoram and Minister for State Enterprises, Communication and Information Hon. Arthur Somare who committed K150,000.00 to boost the cocoa/coconut Program in his Angoram electorate.

Mr. Somare announced this commitment during his electoral visit from the 10th -13th July to Amboin outstation in the Karawari LLG. He also travelled to other villages in the Porapora Census divisions.

Minister Somare said, the Angoram cocoa coconut program has taken a while to reach this stage, because when it was introduced, the government had very little spending capacity despite the call for funding assistance from the PNG Incentive Fund they refused to support the program.

But that did not stop the Minister from pursuing the program to bring and restore services back to his electorate.

"We started off with K1.5 million last year.

"And Angoram District had a production of 400 metric tonnes and I'm proud to announce that this year we have produced the highest in the whole of East Sepik and other provinces in PNG with a total of 2000 metric tonnes.

"We have proven that the program is a success. It is not Arthur Somare's, ESP Provincial Administration nor the CCI's Program, but its for the people of Angoram who will benefit from the program," Minister Somare said.

He told the people: "It is your program as you brought it to this level of success, and you should be congratulated."

He has also donated 14 outboard motors to the Karawari District LLG to transport cocoa and coconut produce to market.

He said this was to go back to back with the cocoa/coconut program, which falls under another of his program, the Angoram Water Transport Program in line with the government's District Road Improvement Program (DRIP).

With this commitment of K150,000.00, sixty fermentries will be built and 1.5 million seedlings and other materials needed for the program will be supplied to the District.

Mr Somare also assured his people that he is already looking for a long-term contract buyer who will buy and market the Angoram cocoa/coconut products.

The Minister said this will ensure there is balance and price control even when the prices of cocoa/copra drops unlike what has happened

Wildlife Areas Launched

In Madang, four Wildlife Management Areas (WMA) belonging to the Riwo and Siar people have been officially launched.

The landowners from Riwo, Siar and Simbine village in the far north coast attended the launching ceremony.

Officials from the Department of Environment and Conservation, Madang Provincial Administration, Conservation Organisations and tour operators attended the occasion.

WWF PNG's Senior Protected Areas Officer, Ms Ruby Yamuna said: "These four WMAs were part of the twelve WMA submissions made in October 2005."

"This was pledged during a side event of the Pacific Island's Leaders Forum in Port Moresby last year," she said.

Three of the four WMAs from Riwo and one from Siar were declared with each WMA Chairman receiving the Gazettal Notices.

Officials who presided over these proceedings were Acting Assistant Secretary for Parks and Wildlife, Mr. Arthur Ganubella, and First Assistant Secretary for Conservation Division, Dr. Navu Kwapena.

The landowners of the WMAs also signed the consent letter for DEC showing their commitment to setting aside lands for protection under the laws of PNG.

"The letter is an agreement by them and the State hence any future land conflict will be avoided as the letters will have proof of their consent," said Mr. Ganubella.

Dr. Kwapena who handed over the certificates showed gratitude to the people of Riwo and Siar for setting aside their marine resources for protection.

He highlighted the future problems that will arise due to unwise use of resources and threw support behind their initiatives.

He was also pleased to say there are 14 other WMAs in Madang Province that are in the pipeline.

Congratulating the WMA Committees he said: "Work is now on you to follow rules that you had developed and also importantly monitor your activities so that you harvest enough resources and save some for the future."

According to Arron Jenkins of Wetlands International (Oceania): "The history behind the set up of these WMAs were because of shortage of specific marine resources."

"Old people in the village had complained about lack of fish and certain sea foods. Because of their pleas, we came to assist them in providing our technical inputs," Mr. Jenkins said. ■

PNG Sustainable Development Program Limited (PNGSDP) is assisting Hope World Wide (HWW) to deliver better rural health extension services to the Gumine District in the Simbu Province. This assistance will be delivered over the next twelve months which includes funding support for purchasing of medical equipment for the Health Centre. PNGSDP will also fund Hope World Wide to conduct better training for health workers in the district. The Board of PNGSDP has approved K249,277.00 for Hope World Wide (HWW) to purchase medical equipment and build the capacity of workers at the Gumine

Health Centre.

A funding agreement between PNGSDP's Chief Executive Officer, Mr Robert Igara and Country Manager of Hope World Wide, Mr. Luke Keria was signed in Port Moresby on 13th July 2006.

Mr. Igara said the funding was granted on the basis of a request by Hope World Wide PNG-a Christian non government international organization that currently has ongoing programs in the country.

Hope World Wide has several programs, including the distribution of books to schools, providing primary health care in several clinics, sponsorship program for under privileged children to attend schools, providing agriculture training and extension work in several urban centres in the country.

In 2005, Hope World Wide provided medical care to 43,593 people, education for over 30,000 youth and adults about HIV/AIDS and the distribution of library books to 637 schools in ten (10) provinces including Western, Bougainville, Milne Bay, Manus, Enga, Eastern Highlands, Simbu and East Sepik Provinces.

Mr. Keria said the books have come from Australia and New Zealand and soon computers would also be donated to his office.

"Along with each distribution of books, a questionnaire has been attached for feedback from schools. So far the outcome has been very positive," he said.

Hope World Wide will use the funds to purchase medical, surgical, diagnostic and obstetric equipment for health centres, aid post equipment, training and capacity building workshops for health workers, immunization and HIV/AIDS intervention programmes.

Mr. Igara said the assistance will also help in combating increased incidences of pneumonia and tuberculosis in the Gumine District.

"Funding of this project is made available through PNGSDP's Health Equipment and Facilities Program. Under this program, the Company provides funding support to Community-based organizations that support and promote sustainable development project," Mr. Igara said.

He said PNGSDP recognizes the valuable contributions being made by Hope World Wide to community services in and is prepared to support it to bring sustainable community development. ■

Private Hospital To Maternity Ward

The Government is looking into acquiring the MVIL Private Hospital in Port Moresby and converting it into a maternity ward for the National Capital District.

Discussions are on-going between the Health Minister, Sir Peter Barter, Health Secretary, Dr Nicholas Mann, the Board and Administration of the Port Moresby General Hospital, World Health Organisation Country Representative and the Independent Public Business Corporation (IPBC) to open and operate the idle hospital facility.

The MVIL Hospital was completed in 1995 to meet international requirements and was to have been operated by Motor Vehicle Insurance Limited as a Private Hospital but the huge costs of operating the health facility was not possible.

Hence, it never opened and has been sitting idle for almost 10 years.

Discussions have taken place between IPBC who owns the property, Chairman of the Port Moresby General Hospital, Sir Brian Bell, the Hospital Chief Executive Officer, Dr Alphonse Tay, and the Health Department represented by Health Minister, Sir Peter Barter, Secretary, Dr Nicholas Mann and Deputy Secretary, Dr Timothy Pyakalyia.

This has culminated in a visit to the facility by the stakeholders, who have agreed that a task force be established to investigate the costs required to open and operate a maternity and delivery ward.

Health Minister, Sir Peter says whilst the proposition looks very attractive, The fact remain that the standard of the hospital is perhaps beyond what the Government can afford.

"The hospital design itself requires full air-conditioning as there is little natural ventilation.

" It also lacks a lot of equipment including x-rays, operating tables, and biomedical equipment for it to serve a purpose.

"Somehow there has to be a solution and I am hopeful that by all working together, we will be able to find a way to utilize the facility if the best interest of the people of Papua new Guinea," Sir Peter said. ■

Cancer Rise Concerns PM

PPrime Minister, Grand Chief, Sir Michael Somare says rising cancer figures are a growing concern in Papua New Guinea.

"Cancer has grown to be a household disease and yet in PNG we do not have the basic equipment to deal with the illness.

"Many patients who can afford to go overseas but the majority of our people rely on what treatment is available at our local hospitals, like Angau Memorial,"

Sir Michael said.

He was speaking at the Angau Memorial Hospital fundraising event to purchase a cancer machine on July 15, 2006 in Lae.

He said the government provides funding for essential health services but needs community support from time to time for specific equipment.

"Your combined contributions will go a long way to raise funds necessary for the purchase of equipment," he told those who had gathered for the fund-raising. ■

B'Ville Must Maintain Peace: Sir Peter

President of Autonomous Bougainville Government, Hon. Joseph Kabui chatting with Chief Secretary to Government, Mr. Joshua Kalnoe and Foreign Affairs and Immigration Secretary, Mr. Gabriel Pepson in front of the House of Representative.

Minister Responsible for Bougainville Affairs and Health Minister, Hon. Sir Peter Barter has challenged Bougainvillians to maintain the progress of peace in Bougainville.

Speaking during the first Anniversary Celebrations for the Autonomous Bougainville Government in Buka on 15th June 2006, Sir Peter said: "Today is a day of celebration for Bougainville and Papua New Guinea as a whole."

"We all know there is a great deal still to do before we can be confident that peace is secure and normalcy has returned."

He said peace building remains a challenge for peace loving people in Bougainville and around the whole of PNG.

Sir Peter said there is clearly no time to lose but 'instead we have to get on with the job.'

He said that establishing the ABG was not just a matter of implementing a new set of constitutional agreements but setting up of new institutions and holding elections.

"As I have stressed, it was, above all, a matter of progressing a shared commitment to build lasting peace by peaceful means," Sir Peter said.

He said this is still the commitment we share, and the challenge we face - with the ABG playing a critical role on the ground.

He said the ABG has sent senior officials across to Port Moresby to present to him on behalf of the national government with a long list of functions and powers additional to those already under his authority - for which the ABG wants to take over responsibility in twelve months time.

The Minister said this shows that the ABG is willing to accept increasing responsibility for making policies and acting to put peace-building into practice.

However, the reports the national government has been receiving from the ABG indicate that good progress is being made in breaking down the barriers of distrust and suspicion. ■

Intergrated Approach Required To Promote Tourism: Polye

The Government's initiative to promote tourism requires an integrated development approach from all sectors.

These were the remarks of the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Transport and Civil Aviation, Hon. Don Polye during a recent media briefing on international air services in and out of Papua New Guinea.

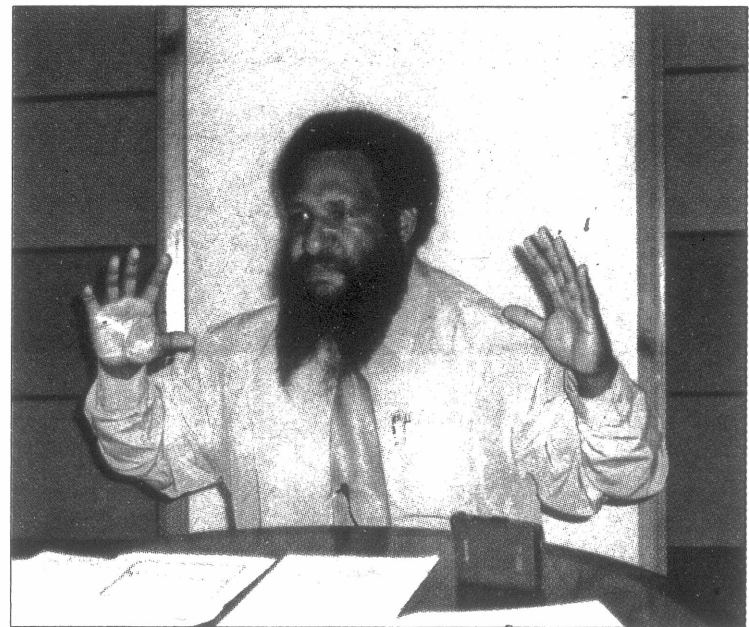

Minister Polye said the Transport Department has a role in facilitating air transport services in and out of the country.

But he said the hospitality industry will have to cope with the international standard hospitality services such as accommodation and leisure facilities.

"Advertising and promotion of PNG as a tourist destination is also a major cost," he said.

Pacific Forum Island countries have been pursuing cooperative arrangement to promote the region as a single aviation market to improve air services amongst member countries.

These initiatives are being pursued through the Pacific Island Forum Secretariat (PIFS) since 2000 and have culminated in the Pacific Air Safety Office (PASO) and Pacific Islands Air Service

Deputy Prime Minister and Minister for Transport and Civil Aviation, Hon. Don Polye makes an important point during the media briefing.

Agreement (PIASA).

"Reviews and negotiations of air services agreements with South Korea, China, Solomon Islands, Fiji and Australia are being undertaken to improve and promote international air services into PNG," Mr. Polye said.

He said the current policy and regulatory framework particularly in relation to international air transport services is conducive to promoting investment and competition in the industry.

"It is up to the airline industry the Transport Department and Civil Aviation Authority (CAA) facilitate opportunities and provide a safe, efficient, reliable and cost-effective air services to the traveling public," said Mr. Polye.

The Transport Department will continue to promote and facilitate new airlines entering the market in the course of negotiations and review of the air service agreements. ■
