UCSD CONNECT. Where Entrepreneurs Come for Results . . . . and the best place for venture capitalists to meet entrepreneurs.

Want to meet 30 of the best and brightest new companies San Diego has to offer? Make plans to spend February 21 at the Sheraton Harbor Island. The day-long forum will feature groups of presenters punctuated with interesting speakers.

If you're looking for the next trend, the newest application or a future standard, come to UCSD CONNECT's Technology Financial Forum. Now in its seventeenth year, the Financial Forum has established a reputation, based on solid results, for showcasing leading-edge technology and innovation. San Diego companies are propelling new technologies in industries such as telecommunications, Internet infrastructure and software, and biomedical devices.

San Diego has tremendous momentum, powered by the core technologies the region is known for, and the continual in-migration of international and national companies who want to be where the action is. In the third quarter of 2000 San Diego raised $472 million in venture capital, more than double the third quarter of 1999. Companies that presented at this Forum last year have raised over $200 million in new capital in the last nine months.

Participating companies complete a rigorous screening and presentation training. To further qualify them, all companies have already received venture capital or significant seed investment. Only technology related companies are chosen to present. This includes software, Internet, electronics, computer hardware, telecommunications, biomed and bioinformatics. Technology descriptions of invited presenters will be posted in mid-January on CONNECT's website - www.connect.org.

Entrepreneurs come to CONNECT for results, including access to the venture capital community. CONNECT's Technology Financial Forum is committed to making connections that work - selecting the most promising companies and preparing management to tell you what you need to know - so that you can be assured that your time at the Forum is time well spent.
