TO: Delegates For A New Immigration Policy

I very much regret that I am unable to be with you in person at this historic meeting. I thank you for the opportunity to speak with you briefly by way of this written communication.

As the founder of California's Council on Intergroup Relations, the California representative on the Border States Commission, and the Chairperson of the Commission of the Californias, I have had considerable occasion to ponder the fate of the undocumented worker.

It has been with some astonishment and considerable concern that I have observed the sudden preoccupation of the communications media with the "problem" of "illegal aliens." The inflammatory coverage by the media of the issue of aliens is, in my opinion, a classic example of the media creating problems. It used to be that Blacks were considered the problem--even though we knew that the real problem was racism. The problem is not undocumented workers. The problem is the state of the economy. If all undocumented workers were removed from the United States, we would still have problems with the economy.

The solution to this problem is full employment for all persons living in California. The solution is economic development in California--and in Mexico, as determined by Mexico. It is in precisely these areas that I have concentrated my efforts for the past three years as Chairperson of the State Commission for Economic Development; I intend to continue doing the same for at least the next five years.

The proposals for solution that have been made by the Federal administration, it seems to me, represents a starting point for dialogue--a beginning effort, to come to terms with an extremely complex issue. The proposals may, in fact, be well-intended. I am always inclined to give the benefit of a doubt. I am also always concerned more with consequences than with intentions.

In considering any proposals or legislation, the key question to be asked must be, "What are the human rights implications?" We cannot--and must not--and will not--tolerate any immigration policies that result in discrimination against any and all Spanish-speaking peoples.

That this Conference also withhold any political support to Governor Brown, Senator Edward Kennedy, and any other prospective Presidential candidate until such time as those candidates take a political position calling for ending the violence involving the violation of human, civil and constitutional rights against persons of Latin and Mexican ancestry by the I.N.S., U.S. Border Patrol and U.S. Customs and calling for ending the policy of militarizing the U.S.-Mexican border.

(Note: The three resolutions were passed unanimously.)

HISPANIC CIVIL RIGHTS CONFERENCE

Resolution No. 1:

On behalf of the Immigration Caucus, the following resolutions are:

That the first Hispanic Civil Rights Conference withhold any political support or endorsement to President Jimmy Carter, expected 1980 Presidential bid because of his bankrupt Immigration policy which has included:

- b. The construction of the Carter curtain along the U.S.-Mexican border, and
- c. The militarization of the U.S.-Mexican border.

Amendments:

1. That the State of California Legislature and the U.S. Congress convene legislative hearings to set the Federal policy of locating Viet Namese refugees in communities where there is a high concentration of Hispanics;
2. That the United States Government immediately halt all deportation of undocumented workers until a more rational comprehensive Immigration policy is developed.

Resolution No. 2:

That the Conference also endorse the Committee on Chicano Rights all organizations call for full-scale congressional hearings and investigations by the U.S. Senate Judiciary Committee and the U.S. House of Representatives, SubCommittee on Immigration into the issue of violations of human, civil and constitutional rights by the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service, the U.S. Border Patrol, and the U.S. Customs along the U.S.-Mexican border, and the Chicano-Latino communities.

Resolution No. 3:

That this Conference also withhold any political support to Governor Brown, Senator Edward Kennedy, and any other prospective Presidential candidate until such time as those candidates take a political position calling for ending the violence involving the violation of human, civil and constitutional rights against persons of Latin and Mexican ancestry by the I.N.S., U.S. Border Patrol and U.S. Customs and calling for ending the policy of militarizing the U.S.-Mexican border.

Latino Rally Protests Abuse, Demands Candidate Support

By RICARDO CHAVIRA

Staff Writer, The San Diego Union

SACRAMENTO — Charging that police brutality and civil rights violations against Hispanics "have reached epidemic proportions," representatives of several national Latino organizations yesterday vowed to not endorse any presidential candidate who fails to take a stand against those abuses.

The action was one of several resolutions adopted here by what organizers called the first Hispanic Civil Rights Conference.

In day-long proceedings that included dozens of persons testifying about alleged police abuses and civil rights infringements, conference participants also voted to call for a moratorium on all deportations of undocumented workers, stiffer federal laws governing deprivation of constitutional rights by police officers, establishment of a pilot state office to monitor police abuses, a state Freedom of Information Act similar to the federal statute, civilian police review boards, congressional investigations of reported Border Patrol misconduct, a re-evaluation of Vietnamese resettlement policy and a Mexican-American to replace former Immigration and Naturalization Services director Leonel Castillo.

The meeting also was attended by several Mexican-American government officials, including U.S. Attorney for California's Eastern District Herman Sillas. He said he would present the group's demands to U.S. Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti.

Thursday, Civiletti promised a gathering of Hispanics in Washington that the Justice Department will no longer delay investigations into cases of reported civil rights violations because local authorities have not completed their probes.

But representatives of such groups as San Diego's Committee on Chicano Rights, the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) and the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund (MAL-DEF) dismissed the promise as one of many made by the Carter administration to Hispanics.

Herman Baca, chairman of the Committee on Chicano Rights and author of the motion to withhold endorsement of presidential candidates, claimed the Border Patrol "is the oldest police brutality issue for Mexican-Americans." He also said that "as killings and the militarization of the border continue, the Carter administration and Sen. (Edward) Kennedy, D-Mass., ignore our calls for investigation." Witnesses told of cases of alleged police abuses — ranging from illegal detention of undocumented persons to physical attacks upon families.

Paula Corral, a Stockton mother of eight, told those at the conference that police last week beat members of her family and knocked her to the ground after her son struck a man as the man was being arrested.

"They maced my little one (her youngest son), turned a dog loose on us, and hit us. It was a police riot," she said.

A resolution was passed demanding that Sillas investigate the Stockton police Department for its "11-year history of abuses against Hispanics."

Participants echoed the theme that media reports of Latinos becoming a powerful ethnic group in the 1980s are false.

"They (the media) make that conclusion because of our numbers," said Esther Estrada, community liaison for MAL-DEF.

"But we won't unless our people are educated and our community is mobilized," she said.

Her travels across the country, said Estrada, have convinced her that police brutality against Hispanics is on the rise.

She attributed the rise to a "backlash" by those in America who feel threatened by the rapid growth of the Latino population.
