

A series of incidents occurring on college and university campuses across the United States have reflected our nation's current divisive political climate. Unfortunately, late Friday evening graffiti promoting the deportation of undocumented immigrants and the construction of a wall on the border of Mexico was discovered chalked on UC San Diego's campus sidewalks. This graffiti runs counter to our campus values of equity and inclusion. We value diversity and respect for all cultures.

This is so pathetic, it's comical. What a bunch of whiners, and pansies. "Oh, someone wrote something in CHALK in favor of Trump! I have to go to my "safe zone". I feel so threatened.". Not sure if I should puke or ROFLMAO!!

I chose to make a photo collage for the creative portion of the assignment by pulling up an article on the recent anti-immigrant chalking and showing UCSD's statement in response and some of the comments the chalk statements attracted, as well as the disregard commenters show for threats that genuinely scare many.
