

Dr. Phillip Damon, UCSB, to lecture at UCSD

April 24, 1964

Dr. Phillip Damon, Professor of English at the University of California, Santa Barbara, will speak on "Myth and Identity in Homer" at the San Diego campus of the University on Tuesday, May 5.

The lecture will be given in Sumner Auditorium, Scripps Institution of Oceanography at 8:00 p.m. The public is invited. Admission is free.

Dr. Damon appears in San Diego under the University's All University Faculty Lecture Series, designed to bring outstanding scholars from one campus to another.

Known as an expert in classical literature, mediaeval literature, classical and medieval philology, and comparative linguistics, Dr. Damon has been a member of the Santa Barbara faculty since 1959.