

Freshman barbecue

September 4, 1964

With every bite of barbecued beef they take, the members of the first freshman class of the University of California, San Diego, will be setting traditions.

In fact, everything the 185 freshmen do from now until September 1965, will carry the overtones of tradition. Although sitting in classes, studying in the library, or attending a Saturday night dance is nothing new in the college world, all of these things will be taking place for the very first time this year at UCSD.

Since the 64 girls and 121 boys of the Class of 1968 will be the first to attend UCSD, their every move is likely to be watched and recorded more closely than any of the succeeding classes.

That is why the barbecue, scheduled for Sunday, September 13, as the kickoff of a busy student Orientation Week, is so important. It will mark the first time that the members of the class have gathered officially as UCSD freshmen.

It will also be the first opportunity for the community to get a look at the pioneering students and the beautiful new buildings at the University.

Because the barbecue is the first official function, the Honorary Alumni of UCSD which is sponsoring the event, has gone all out to make it a memorable occasion.

It will start at 3:00 p.m. on the upper campus of the University located at the junction of U.S. Highway 101 and La Jolla Shores Drive. The freshmen students and the UCSD faculty will be the honored guests. Lieutenant-Governor Glenn M. Anderson and Navy Astronaut Lieutenant Alan Bean will head the list of distinguished visitors.

Music for the barbecue will be provided by the famed Arthur Lyman Quartet from Hawaii. The barbecue is open to the public at a cost of $10.00 per couple. Proceeds will go to the scholarship fund of the Honorary Alumni.
