Polling Begins

An international observer team is already in the country to observe the PNG elections and report on its progress. Part of the team which included the Pacific Island Forum Secretariat Legal Advisor, Ms. Shennia Spillane (left) and Commonwealth Secretariat Political Advisor, Pacific/Caribbean Section, Mr. Albert Mariner (right) were briefed on the election progress by the Electoral Commissioner, Mr. Andrew Trawen at his office on Thursday 21 June, 2007. Here Mr. Trawen is displaying candidate poster and an electoral roll flanked by Ms. Spillane and Mr. Mariner. A happy Mr. Trawen says the printing of candidate posters, ballot papers and electoral rolls are complete and are being distributed to all locations before polling commences on Saturday, June 30, 2007.

Papua New Guineans go to the polls over the next two weeks to elect 109 representatives to the 8th National Parliament.

Voting begins tomorrow, Saturday, June 30, 2007 and is expected to end on Tuesday, July 10, 2007.

More than 2,000 candidates are vying for the 109 seats in Parliament.

Counting of the ballots should commence after polling ends, and results should be known before the election writs are returned to the Governor-General on Monday, July 30, 2007.

Electoral Commissioner, Mr Andrew Trawen says polling preparations have been on target, with resources and personnel being moved to the polling locations in all the electorates.

He said ballot papers have already been dispatched to five provinces but all the ballot papers will be sent to all the provinces before the end of this month.

The Electoral Commission has set-up a Media Center in Port Moresby to provide relevant, accurate and credible information on the national elections, particularly polling, counting and declaration of results.

The Media Center at the Sir John Guise Stadium will be managed and run by PNG Media Council and media organizations will use the facility to inform the people of Papua New Guinea.

Under the law on the Integrity of Political Parties and Candidates, the Electoral Commissioner will advise the Governor-General of the political party with the highest number of declared candidates to form Government.

This will happen after all the declarations are made and the return of writs to the Governor-General. ■

AGRICULTURE

DAL Promotes Goat Farming

The Department of Agriculture and Livestock is embarking on goat farming in the Morobe Province.

After an awareness program last year (2006) and goat production training for 30 farmers this year, the Situm goat disposal project has been initiated with the distribution of first batch of goats to the farmers. The first batch of 27 animals were handed over to farmers from Situm, Nawae District during a ceremony attended by farmers and DAL officers.

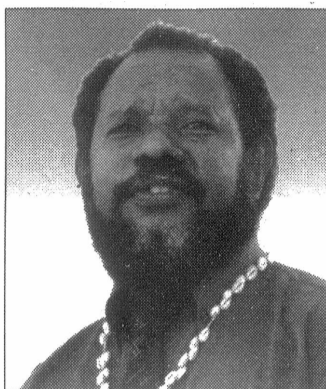

Based on the agreement which was signed with the Department, the first thirty farmers in the area will receive three female goats and a male goat will be shared among nearby farmers. The farmers have agreed to take care of the goats with the commitment that they pay in kind with three weaned goats that will be given to the next lot of farmers.

DAL's Northern Regional Director, Mr Masayan Moat, in making the presentation, urged the farmers to be more committed and called for teamwork amongst all stakeholders including DAL, provincial, district administration and LLG and the farmers to make the disposal programme an overall success.

He said the project was the start of a new concept in promoting livestock development at the rural community level. The aim of the goat disposal programme is to provide a system of sustainable goat population in the villages, train the people on goat management, and encourage people to realize potential and benefits of raising goats for rural families.

Mr Moat said goats are small animals that can be managed easily

Minister for Agriculture and Livestock, Hon. Sasa Zibe

by all family members and are adaptable to village lifestyles.

Goats are not expensive to manage and are able to do well on lower quality feeds and do not require improved pastures.

He added that goats are hardy animals that can survive and grow well on very poor conditions, and when given proper care and adequate nutrition, goat can provide food and cash income for rural families.

Mr Moat acknowledged the technical assistance provided by Filipino experts and technicians working under the Food and Agriculture Organization South-South Cooperation Programme. Mr Oliver Patlingrao, animal production expert, and Mr Florence Agustin, small livestock production technician, have been instrumental in supporting DAL in reviving the livestock programme and making the goat breeding and distribution programme a reality.

Morobe Provincial Agriculture Advisor, Mr Gioving Bilong echoed

Mr Moat's comments and reminded the people that goat farming is a potential income earner as well as protein needs. He said it was up to the people to make it work.

A farmer's spokesman, Mr Eddie Fenga, said farmers were happy to be involved in the goat farming project but stressed that the relevant government agencies must continue to provide technical assistance particularly in training, management, awareness and extension. He said the farmers were keen to try out the new concept.

"This project opens up new opportunities and more farmers are showing interest in goat farming. This is just the beginning - the overall success depends on the farmers. I challenge our farmers that one day we will sell goat meat to other people," he said. ■

Galip Nut Has Potential For Devt

Public Service Minister and Gazelle MP, Hon. Sinai Brown planting a young galip tree to signify the development of galip industry in PNG as NARI scientists and farmers look on. Pics by Senior Anzu Galip nut, an indigenous tree crop has potential to become a new export cash crop once it is domesticated and commercialized.

The National Agricultural Research Institute (NARI) has revealed this and commenced work to develop an industry for galip.

Thanks to the European Union (EU) and the Australian Centre for International Agricultural Research (ACIAR) for funding various research projects implemented by NARI to develop the galip industry which will go a long way to benefit Papua New Guineans. The birth of the industry was signified recently when a project on PNG Nut Development was launched at Keravat in East New Britain.

Research by NARI at its Lowlands Agricultural Experimentation (LAES) at Keravat for a possible development of galip into new ventures showed that this culturally important and indigenous crop can be developed into a major new cash crop industry for PNG which can generate income and other benefits for smallholder farmers.

A feasibility study on galip, funded by ACIAR at LAES between 2004-2005 concluded that galip was indeed a very feasible future export tree crop for PNG.

Among others, this study examined the chemical composition of the nut and other quality traits of importance to a nut industry.

The study also assessed the domestic and export markets and canvassed Australian nut buyers and processors.

Another initiative, funded by EU, to evaluate the commercialization of a range of alternative cash crops at LAES from 2003 to 2006 finally chose galip and nutmeg for major development.

During the launching of the project, Chairman of NARI Council, Dr John Kola said some 150,000 nut trees of galip will be established in East New Britain over the next two years.

This, Dr Kola said, is to provide the resource base to kick-start the new industry, adding that they will come from some 100 elite galip trees that have been selected based on quality and high yield from over 6,000 trees.

"These galip selections will be planted, predominantly in existing cocoa blocks, where they will act both as a shade for cocoa and provide a good cash income," Dr Kola said.

"Galip can also be used as a shade for other cash crops such as coffee, pepper, vanilla and kava - providing the basis for a versatile, sustainable and environmentally friendly farming system.

Dr Kola said the project will also establish a post-harvest unit at LAES for research, training and promotion of galip nut development.

ACIAR has also provided funding for research on the domestication and commercialization of galip nut based at LAES from 2006 to 2008.

This project focuses on further galip tree selection and clonal propagation.

Clones will offer the next level of industrial development for galip.

ACIAR will also fund a three-year galip post-harvest project commencing in July 2007.

The project will provide scientific and technical expertise, based on the Australian Macadamia industry, to work with, and complement that of the EU, to determine precise knowledge of post-harvest - the de-pulping, shell cracking, storage, drying, roasting, and packaging requirements.

Dr Kola said substantial investment totaling some five million kina has already been made.

He thanked EU and ACIAR for the recognition of the importance of cash crop diversification and financially contributing to the birth of the new galip industry for PNG. ■

Show Signifies Innovations In Agriculture Development

Innovations in agricultural development were showcased at a recent show at Bubia outside Lae.

The agriculture innovation show coincided with the 10th anniversary of the National Agriculture Research Institute (NARI).

NARI's Director-General, Dr Raghunath Ghodake said the event was aimed at promoting and creating awareness on the significant role of science, research and technology in innovative agricultural and rural development.

Dr Ghodake said the institute invited research and development organizations, extension providers, the private sector, NGOs, Women's groups, businesses, farmers and rural communities to display their improved technologies, innovations, innovative ways of improving and developing agriculture.

He said: "Visitors and participants from all walks of life, will thus have the opportunity to see these innovations first hand, whether based on scientific research, indigenous knowledge, or farmer practices. We believe by doing this, we can promote and improve agriculture in PNG."

He said to keep up with the importance of modern agriculture and with NARI's mandate, the event was organized around the theme, 'Science and Technology for Innovative Agricultural Development in PNG.'

"It is our belief that research, science and technology are at the heart of agricultural development in PNG," Dr Ghodake said.

He said the Agricultural Innovations Show also marked the completion of a decade of NARI's dedicated contribution to innovative agricultural development in the country through scientific research, knowledge creation and information exchange.

When giving his reflection on NARI's development and contribution.

Dr Ghodake said the institute's on-going commitment and contribution to national development is reflected in NARI's vision, which foresees a prosperous PNG agricultural communities.

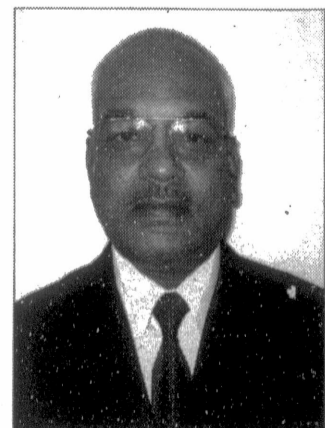

He said the prosperity implies economic, social and cultural well-being of all residents of PNG.

"As more than 85 percent of the people depend directly on agriculture, the prosperity of agricultural communities is the key for realizing national prosperity."

Dr Ghodake said NARI's focus is on food crops (indigenous and introduced), emerging and alternative crops and smallholder livestock and resource management issues.

This sub-sector of the agriculture sector remains the major source of livelihood for our people and contributes some K5.5 billion to the national economy every year.

However, he said many of the commodities produced in the sub-sector do not go through formal markets and their value and contribution remain un-noticed and under-estimated. ■

PM Pays Tribute To Former Journalist

Prim Minister, Sir Michael Somare, has paid tribute to former editor of Post Courier, the late Luke Sela.

Mr Sela died at Lorengau Hospital in Manus after a short illness recently.

Prime Minister said he was greatly saddened to learn of the death as he was one of Papua New Guinea's distinguished and widely respected national journalist.

Mr Sela was the first Papua New Guinean to be appointed Editor of a major newspaper in 1978, after a distinguished career in the Government Information Service in the colonial era and after self-government.

Sir Michael said Luke was a journalist of the "old school" and had a great sense of what was newsworthy and over the years he developed a most extensive list of contacts in government, business and the general community, who came to trust him for his integrity and honesty.

"I had the privilege of knowing him through his working life. He worked for my government when we secured self-government as Senior Information Officer in the Government Information Service.

Sir Michael said when Luke joined the Post Courier in 1976, soon after independence, he interviewed him many times. He was always a gentleman, courteous and respectful and travelled with him domestically and overseas and was always good company as well as wholly professional in his work.

He said Luke was a mentor and guide to many national journalists during his long career with the Post Courier until he retired to his home island in Manus.

Prime Minister said Luke served the media, his community and Papua New Guinea with great distinction.

He is survived by his wife, Nia and their children Robert and Annette. ■

Govt To Coordinate Donor Assistance

Chief Secretary to the Government, Ambassador Isaac Lupari.

The Government says it will strategically monitor and coordinate funds from all bilateral and multilateral donor agencies.

And it says it will soon put in place a clearly defined strategy that will prudently identify how best it can utilize funds from these donors.

Chief Secretary to Government Ambassador Isaac Lupari said in early June that the strategic coordination of the funds will ensure donor participation in the development agenda for Papua New Guinea and is enhanced through effective coordination.

Ambassador Lupari said the Government through strategic and effective coordination of donor funds could alleviate poverty and implement Papua New Guinea's development agenda.

He said every government department should negotiate and work together to draw up coherent conclusions to effectively monitor donor activities in Papua New Guinea.

"There is so much funds that the state can utilize for economic development and for poverty alleviation.

"However, we have lost site in terms of donor funding. Each government department is doing their own thing and talking to donors without coherent donor activities in this country," he said.

He said since the devolution of the Office of International Development Assistance (OIDA) PNG has been faced with many problems of coordination internally.

The Chief Secretary says the importance of coordination is to ensure that there is proper planning in utilizing donor funds, as there is no coordination plan among donors, which is contrary to the Parish Declaration, which called for improved coordination among donor agencies.

"The government after finalizing the strategy will soon embark on the first National Donor Consultation process to review donor funding in the country", said Ambassador Lupari.

He stated that the government believes this consultation process with key stakeholders will become an annual event and an avenue for discussing the major implementation issues.

Mr. Lupari also said the Government will use this avenue to spell out the National Investment Programme and will assign donor's lead roles in sectoral implementation process. ■

Petromin Operations Launched

Papua New Guineans can now participate in the ownership of their petroleum and mineral assets.

This was announced by Prime Minister, Grand Chief, Sir Michael Somare during the launching of the oil, gas and minerals company-Petromin (PNG) Holdings Limited on 6th June 2007 at the Crowne Plaza Hotel in Port Moresby.

Sir Michael said some years ago, Oregon took care of State assets in the petroleum and minerals sector and had the potential to be a lucrative State company.

However this company was sold among other State assets by the previous Morauta Government.

Sir Michael said: "First and foremost is the issue of Negative Pledge Obligation. As we have seen from the now shelved PNG-to-Australia gas pipeline project, the State had difficulties in arranging commercial borrowing without the sanctioning of international financial institutions like the World Bank and the Asian Development Bank.

"As long as there is direct control by the State-owned company, these financial institutions will invoke the negative pledge provisions of sovereign loan arrangements, thus making it difficult for the State to freely arrange for commercial borrowing."

By not subjecting Petromin to the relevant State oversight agencies, Sir Michael also said the company could operate as an independent entity with respect to conducting its business, including arranging for commercial borrowing from the strength of its balance sheet.

Petromin has a company Constitution which provides the basis upon which the Board and management will exercise fiduciary responsibilities.

The company also has a Trust Deed that has guidelines consistent with the company constitution within which management decisions will be guided with respect to conducting business.

Sir Michael hopes that in the future, Petromin will be listed on the Stock Exchange for Papua New Guineans to individually or collectively own the company through share trading.

In this way, he says Parliament would not have to amend the Act to facilitate this by removing those provisions which subjected itself to the State's control such as the Public Finance Management Act, Auditor General's Act and Public Accounts Committee.

"Then the Board and management of the Trust can make strategic decisions without going to Parliament.

"Some of the gains should be redirected into project specific areas like hospitality, transport industries, public housing, value adding investments for the domestic and export markets and building up our own domestic capital market," he added.

Sir Michael urged all Papua New Guineans to work together with the Board and the management of the company to ensure Petromin is successful in achieving its objectives. ■

EDUCATION

School Subsidy Disbursement Completed: Minister Laimo

Education Minister Hon. Michael Laimo has assured the people of Papua New Guinea that the disbursement of school fee subsidies by the government to schools has been completed.

Minister Laimo in announcing this in early June said the Government has always been committed in subsidising school fees for the children in Papua New Guinea.

"Education subsidy is not new to this government. Since 2003, with our improved financial performance we have committed K207 million annually for the maintenance and development of education infrastructure in the country", said Minister Laimo.

He said the Government's additional K100 million school fee subsidy this year will have a greater impact in the development of education infrastructure.

He said the government's

Minister for Education, Hon. Michael Laimo

education subsidy would cover all elementary schools, community schools, primary schools, high schools, national high schools, vocational centres and flexible learning institutions with open and distance education.

The Minister stated that tertiary institutions are already being supported by the Office of Higher Education through Tertiary Education Study Assistance Scheme (TESAS) and do not fall under the Education Department's Subsidy Plan.

He said the school fee subsidy would also cover some selected private education institutions that are privately run.

Minister Laimo said subsidising education in Papua New Guinea the Government believes that education is a shared responsibility primarily between parents and the Government.

He said the government has the responsibility of providing the environment and education infrastructure that will ensure the positive development of its human resource.

But he said parents have the responsibility towards their children's education in raising them to be good citizens in the future. ■

Senior Education Officers Meet In Lae For Annual Consultations

Senior officers of the Education Department met in Lae recently to attend the 2007 Senior Education Officers Conference.

Secretary for Education, Dr. Joseph Pagelio officially opened the Conference that was held at the Lae International Hotel.

In his opening address, Dr Pagelio challenged the participants to take note of the different presentations under the theme; 'Technical Vocational Education and Training - Skills Development for Nation Building.'

"This is an important conference which discusses important issues to do with education and also comes up with policies to move education forward.

"Vocational and Technical training helps the majority of our people in the districts and communities make a living and be self-reliant and productive," the Secretary said.

He added that his Department has been working to establish a cost effective technical education system, both public and private, that is responsive to changes and offers a wide range of courses appropriate to industry and communities.

Dr Pagelio said: "This theme aims to strengthen self-reliance and promote skills development in all schools especially high schools and technical and vocational institutions throughout the national education system.

"We must equip as many young people as possible with skills, knowledge, attitudes and values that enable them to improve their own lives, and contribute to the development of the nation.

"We will only achieve a better future for our young people if they are educated to be self-reliant and skilled, with strong moral values and attitudes.

He told the participants that he looked forward to the presentations and also mentioned the need for the education system to have good and honest leaders and managers to ensure efficient delivery of education services.

"Financial management also requires good managers both at school level and in the Department.

"As good leaders and managers we should prioritize our activities so that we do the essential ones well with the limited resources we have and the contractual obligations must be met," Dr Pagelio said.

He acknowledged the contribution and participation of donor agencies, churches and the community for their contribution to the development of education. ■

Pagelio Encourages Students To Enter World Children Picture Contest

Secretary for Education, Dr. Joseph Pagelio, is encouraging all young Papua New Guineans in primary and elementary institutions to participate in 15th Annual World Children's Contest.

The Japanese Government through its various ministries, including Foreign Affairs, Education, Culture, Sport, Science & Technology, Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries, and other corporate bodies are hosting the 15th World Children's Picture Contest in Japan.

The World Children Picture Contest is a global contest that aims to promote different cultures and customs and broaden children's horizons into the international sphere to enhance cooperation and friendship worldwide.

Children between the ages of 6 and 15 years are eligible to contest.

"This event provides an opportunity for all our young Papua New Guineans within the education system to develop their thoughts and expose their artistic talents. This will also enable them to promote Papua New Guinea's diverse culture at an international level," said Dr Pagelio.

The contest allows children all over the world to freely express their feelings about their daily life or world of fantasy through their artwork.

Last year's competition saw Ms. Margaret Kabe of Buba Primary School in the Morobe Province take out an award for her outstanding illustration depicting Papua New Guinea.

"I would like to congratulate Ms. Kabe for her achievement in receiving an award from last year's competition," said Dr Pagelio.

He said Ms Kabe's achievement demonstrates the many hidden talents, skills and knowledge young Papua New Guineans have. He added that competitions as such enable Papua New Guineans to show their talents as well as demonstrate Papua New Guinea's competitiveness in the international arena.

Education Secretary, Dr. Joseph Pagelio

He also urged parents and teachers to encourage their children and students to take part in the competition, adding that such events can be beneficial in the long run for young Papua New Guineans to enable them to be creative and to express themselves through art.

Application forms can be printed out from the "World Children's Picture Contest" page of the IE-NO HIKARI Association website.

Pictures and Application Forms must be submitted before October 31st 2007 to: IE-NO-HIKARI Association "World Children's Picture Contest" 11, Funagawaracho Ichigay, Shinjuku-ku, Tokyo 162-8448 Japan. Telephone: +81-3-3266-9037 Fax: +81-3-3266-9337 or email: culture4f@mva.biglobe.ne.jp

Each child may submit only one picture (728mm x 515mm or smaller, and no thicker than 3mm) and may choose their own themes for their picture.

Winners will be announced on the IE-NO-HIKARI website in mid-January 2008. ■

Informal Sector Exhibition Proves A Success

A tyre sculpture at work during the exhibition

A recent informal sector exhibition proved a success when individuals and groups of entrepreneurs displayed quality hand-made products.

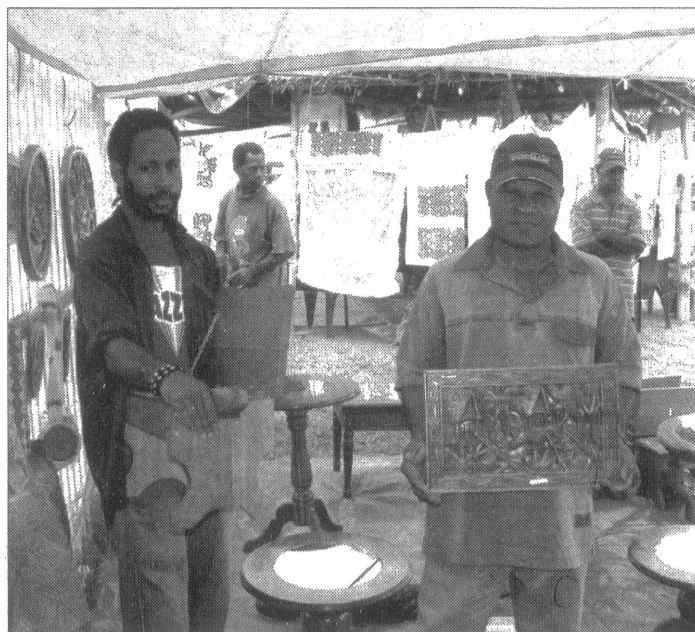

Apua carvers produced and displayed good furniture and household items such as coffee tables, coconut scrapers, security buttons, and many other timber products.

Apart from carving products made from rubber tyres and copper were displayed.

Using old rubber tyres, self-employed, Chris Dally of Gerehu has been making rubber products like belts, vehicle fan belts and mudguards including pot plants while others are involved in copper beating.

AusAID officials attended the exhibition and witnessed these beautiful carvings and copper products.

Infrastructure projects funded by ORD help transform the lives of people through the informal sector. ■

Apart from carved products, there were also products made out of old rubber tyres such as belts and pot plants. ORD Focused To Assist Pre-schools

The Office of Rural Development has contributed half a million kina to the establishment of an early childhood learning centre in the Moresby-South electorate.

And the funding has been spread to Moresby North-West, Sogeri, and some parts of Rigo; the Member for Moresby-South, Hon Dame Carol Kidu told a graduation of pre-school teachers under her program at Koki recently.

She started the school as part of a drive to equip children with basic understanding of education in the mid 1990 and since then, it has grown with well over 200 school kids taking part in her curriculum.

Coupled with the ORD funding, outside humanitarian donors like the Rotary Club of Port Moresby have been consistently sponsoring the program with text books.

The funds were from the Member's Grants and District Improvement Funds in Education.

Rotary spokesman at the graduation, Lionel Mellvine who is also a veteran Australian teacher in PNG said the Rotary Club appreciated the initiative by the Member in her drive to educate children at an early age.

He said Papua New Guineans must understand education is very important today as the country moves from traditional life style to a globalize society where its citizens have to educate themselves about new ways of life.

"The new ways of life come with different ways of doing and understanding things and you only learn that through the education process" Mellvine told the graduating teachers.

13 teachers graduated and will be posted to the different learning centers to teach children aged ranging from four upwards to begin classroom learning in reading, literacy and innumeracy.

ORD was represented at the graduation by its Human Resource Manageress, Ms Anna Igo. ■

Report Writing Vital: Lovoru

Deputy Director of the Office of Rural Development, Kelly Lovuru has stressed the importance of report writing skills during a recent course for public servants.

Mr. Lovuru said managers and supervisors are busy people whether they are in the public service or private sector.

They have the responsibility of making decisions and in most cases the decisions they make are based on the clarity of reports.

"They do not have to spend too much time reviewing reports that are ambiguous or writing that do not make sense.

"It is even more worrying if an organization sends an officer to another district or province to compile a report and he or she comes back with a report that is not understandable.

"In such situations public funds would have been wasted," he said.

He told the participants, their work involve Report Writing about projects they will encounter in the course of their duties, therefore the office expect complete and understandable reports about projects.

"When you write reports that are understandable you make life easier for your manager to understand and action immediately.

"And in doing so, the work is done on time and on budget and ultimately the service is delivered to our people because we handle projects initiated by our leaders who are Members of parliament.

Our main clients are the members of parliament and all reports about their projects must be perfect and accurate.

"Bad report writing frustrates decisions and in most instances projects do not get off the ground because decision makers are unwilling to decide on a job or contract with a report badly written," Mr. Lovuru said. ■

Launching Of Papua New Guinea's Agriculture Development Plan For 2007 - 2016

Agriculture Plan Launched

The Government has launched the National Agriculture Development Plan (NADP) to guide agriculture and rural development in the country.

Prime Minister, Grand Chief, Sir Michael Somare said agriculture was the backbone and foundation of any economy in both the developed and developing nations.

He was speaking at the launching ceremony held in Lae, Morobe Province.

"Here in Papua New Guinea, agriculture produces all food for subsistence and provides a base of employment and income generation for over 87 percent of the population," said Sir Michael.

Since the Somare Government took office in August 2002, a number of key policy initiatives, strategies and plans were developed. Among these was the National Agriculture Development Plan (NADP).

Sir Michael said: "The NADP is a sectoral strategy that is in alignment to and complements the Government's Medium Term Development Strategy 2005-2012.

"This plan has created a platform for local, district, provincial and national government and the private sector to venture into strategic partnerships with landowners and other stakeholders to utilize the available land, resources and technology in all 89 districts.

"This would also enable the vast majority of the rural population to participate actively in the economic development of this nation and thereby guarantee food security and improved standards for all citizens of Papua New Guinea."

"The Government is certain that the NADP will address issues relating to economic inequality and poverty among the rural communities by promoting smallholder agriculture development in tandem with medium to large scale commercial agriculture enterprises.

"This will then provide the framework to mobilize the rural villagers to utilize their customary lands productively and invest in income generating activities.

"It will also enable them to work their way out of economic and social inequality and spread the benefits to the wider community," he said.

Sir Michael acknowledged the Minister for Agriculture and Livestock, Hon. Sasa Zibe for his leadership, former Minister, Department Secretary, Department staff and all others who tirelessly worked to develop this important document. ■

Prime Minister's Statement

Since my government took office in 2002, we have deliberately introduced a number of key policy initiatives, strategies and plans to develop our nation.

These include the Medium Term Development Strategy 2005 - 2010, Agriculture Investment Incentives and Subsidies (Green Revolution) Policy 2003, the National Education Plan 2005 - 2014, the National Transport Development Plan 2006 - 2010 and the National Strategic Plan on HIV/AIDS 2006 -2010 and National Lands Development Program.

I am pleased that my government, has for the first time since our independence, developed the National Agriculture Development Plan (NADP) 2007-2016.

Agriculture is the backbone, foundation of our rural economy and heart of the nation. It produces all the food for subsistence and provides a base for employment and income generation for over 82% of the population.

My government, recognizing that agriculture has enormous potential and will continue to play an important role in sustaining the basic livelihood of our people, has developed this National Agriculture Development Plan (NADP) as a blue print to guide our future directions in agriculture and rural development.

The NADP has created a platform for the local, district, provincial and national governments, and the private sector to venture into strategic partnerships with land owners and other stakeholders to utilize the available land, resources and technology in all 89 districts.

This would enable the vast majority of the rural population to participate actively in the economic development of this nation and thereby guarantee food security and improved livelihood for all the citizens of Papua New Guinea.

The NADP will address the issues relating to economic inequality and poverty among the rural communities by promoting smallholder agriculture development, in tandem with medium to large scale commercial agricultural enterprises which will provide the framework to mobilize the rural poor to utilize their customary lands productively and invest in income generating activities.

This would eventually enable them to work their way out of poverty and social inequality and spread the benefits across the wider community.

It proposes a number of redistributive reform packages that would assist to unleash the productive potential of the rural population and contribute in achieving the Millennium Development Goals and the 5% national economic growth envisaged in the MTDS.

The enormous economic potential of the agriculture sector will be realized through proper management and implementation of the NADP.

As a renewable resource, it will continue to support the future generations on a sustainable basis when non-renewable resources; oil, gas and minerals have declined or been depleted. The cost-benefit analysis of the plan reflects high economic returns, besides the social benefits to the rural communities.

It is projected that revenue from the agriculture sector is capable of financing 40% of the national budget.

Greater integration of activities and linkages of central agencies, provincial and local level governments, donor partners, non-government organizations, private sector and others are absolutely necessary for the successful implementation of NADP.

It must be emphasized that implementing agriculture development, under the framework of NADP, serves as the precursor for rural development that will eventually lead to establishment of transport, utilities, schools, health centres and other economic and social infrastructures.

The overall success of future agriculture development will depend on its integration and partnership with other sector agencies responsible for road, sea, and air transport, lands, forestry, environment and conservation, health, education, law and order and others.

Therefore, the implementation of NADP is a very significant national development program that should be supported by all sectors and the general society, as the catalyst to stimulate overall economic growth and social development in PNG.

The importance of cooperation in order to achieve our common vision cannot be overemphasized. Only then can progress be achieved as envisioned in the NADP.

I am indeed pleased to note that under the framework of the NADP, agricultural development in Papua New Guinea will advance in a unified direction.

I congratulate the Minister for Agriculture and Livestock, National Department of Agriculture and Livestock, sector agencies, national and provincial departments, private sector, donor agencies, NGOs, farmers and the community at large for the successful formulation of the NADP and urge you all to combine your efforts for the effective implementation of the plan.

I am honoured to present the NADP to the people of Papua New Guinea.

MICHAEL T SOMARE, GCL, GCMG, CH, CF, KStJ
Prime Minister

Prime Minister Somare, Governor Wenge and Minister Zibe proudly display the NADP document shortly after the launch.

Priority Areas Of The NADP

Agriculture Research, Extension, Information and Training

The research, extension, information and training subcomponent is aimed at providing appropriate technology packages, backed up by extension information and human resources capacity building for farmers to effectively participate economically in agriculture activities in their respective communities. Outcomes include improved technology packages and delivery systems, increased knowledge and skills of farmers and extension agents, and efficient market intelligence networks.

Food and Horticultural Crops Development

The food and horticultural crops subcomponent will promote economic production of food and horticultural crops, for domestic consumption and for exports in crops that PNG has competitive advantage. Downstream processing will be promoted for value addition. Outcomes include increased production of local food crops and vegetables, establishment of efficient marketing systems, downstream processing and value adding facilities, reduction of imports (rice), increased income, employment and improved nutritional status, livelihood of rural households.

Tree and Industrial Crops Development

The tree and industrial crops sector aims at mobilizing the population in the various production areas, to increase on the productivity and production of the various crops. This will be achieved through rehabilitation of plantations, planting of new plantations/farms, promotion of nucleus estates where feasible, organizing farmers into co-operatives for production and marketing purposes, promote access to credit and markets and encourage downstream processing where feasible.

The tree crop sector will continue to play an increasing role in income and revenue generation for the country. Outcomes include increased production, productivity, and marketing systems, generate export earning opportunities, improved employment and income of smallholders and contribute to increased GDP.

Livestock, Aquaculture and Apiculture Development

The main aim of this component is to promote livestock, apiculture and aquaculture production for import replacement and to provide affordable nutritious food to Papua New Guinea.

This would entail rehabilitation of breeding centres, introduction of improved breeds, promotion of small and large livestock, and draught and pack animals for cultivation and transport. Outcomes include revitalized livestock industry, increased domestic livestock production, create employment and generate income, improved protein supplement, enhanced nutritional status, and contribute to import replacement.

Spice and Minor Crops Development

Spices and minor crops that are economically sustainable will be promoted as alternative export crops, through capacity building, supply of quality planting materials and post harvest quality management/control and improved marketing opportunities. Outcomes include revitalized spice industry, increased production, and improved processing and marketing systems.

Gender, Social and HIV/AIDS Related Issues

It is recognized that women's contribution to the wellbeing of society is essential in agriculture production in PNG. The gender, social and HIV/AIDS subcomponent goals are to promote equal participation of women in all aspects of agriculture and livestock development, so as to improve the status of women through economic development, and also to ensure that, gender, social and HIV/AIDS are mainstreamed in all agriculture development programs. Women would be empowered through training, skills development and small credit scheme in the production, processing and marketing of agricultural products. Outcomes include empowered participation of women in all aspects of agriculture development, and gender, social and HIV/AIDS mainstreamed in the agriculture sector.

Regulatory and Technical Services

The regulatory and technical services include agricultural quarantine, land use planning and development and Codex and food safety.

The quarantine component is to preserve and protect the animals, plants and fish from exotic pests, diseases and weeds in the interest of national, social and economic development, and also to facilitate international trade through export and import risk analysis and quality assurance systems and thereby contributing to the Government's export driven economic recovery policy. Outcomes include improved surveillance and intelligence systems on exotic pests and diseases, improved quality control and assurance on import and export products, improved human resource capacities.

The land use planning and development component will develop sustainable land resource plans for the provinces, enhance geographical presentation of land resources and maps, and improve land resource inventory and database management. Outcomes include improved land use planning, management and technical capacity.

Codex will promote against contaminated food and protect consumer's health, facilitate international trade by eliminating trade barriers and develop food standards and food policies in compliance with Codex requirements. Outcomes include improved food safety standards and consumer health.

Statement By Agriculture Minister

I have always maintained that Papua New Guinea's agriculture sector has a significant role to play in providing broad based income and employment to the vast majority of the population in the country, who live in the rural areas.

However, due to the absence of a national agriculture plan in the past, agriculture sector was driven on an ad-hoc basis, without proper coordination and control, and has faced many difficulties, with estimated growth well below expectations, except for one or two sub sectors that have fared well. This has apparently affected most rural population that depends exclusively on agriculture for their livelihood.

Among the factors identified as contributing to lack of growth of the agriculture sector are fragmented planning and lack of coordination, monitoring and evaluation. This situation has affected allocation of available limited resources to priority areas in agriculture.

To correct this situation, the Government directed the Department of Agriculture and Livestock to develop in consultation with all stakeholders, a well articulated National Agricultural Development Plan that clearly identifies priority areas for development and link the resource framework and budget to effectively implement agriculture programmes.

As the Minister responsible, I am now honoured to deliver this historical document; the National Agriculture Development Plan to the People of PNG. At last, after 32 years of independence, we now have a comprehensive and cohesive national plan that will not only pave the way for agriculture development, but also be a precursor for overall economic and social development in PNG.

The NADP will provide a unified direction in the next 10 years for all stakeholders including National and Provincial Governments, sector agencies, the 89 districts, private sectors, NGOs, Civil Society, Donor agencies and the farming communities at large. This will be a catalyst that will stimulate growth and sustainable development of the agricultural sector. Its main purpose is to underpin the MTDS of the Government and guide the development of the sector through the alignment of resources with identified priorities.

It is a known fact that 97% of land is owned by the people and about 80,000 school leavers are leaving school every year, and more than 87% of our people live in rural areas and depend very much on our biodiversity for their livelihood. For the first time, the NADP will absorb these people with their natural resources to actively participate meaningfully in micro agricultural development. Women, youth and the general population will benefit from the implementation of this plan as this will provide employment and income generating opportunities and will continue to sustain the livelihood of households.

The activities identified in the plan will be implemented in the 89 districts and therefore calls for strengthening of linkages, support services and increased capacity in the districts as the emphasis of this plan is to foster economic growth in the districts.

The strategic direction over the next ten years under the NADP is to continue to build and consolidate on the efforts achieved over the last 32 years. However, this time, the efforts will be more concerted and focused to realize sustainable growth in the agriculture sector, and ultimately contribute to economic and social advancement in PNG.

It is envisaged that adequate levels of funding will be appropriated by Government to ensure that programmes are funded to make the agriculture sector more productive. The major source of funding will be from the Government, however it is expected that the NADP will also attract donor funding and private sector investment particularly in the areas where tree crops are linked to Clean Development Mechanisms.

The way forward for the economy to grow is to develop strategic partnerships and form alliances through private and public sector arrangements, and the vehicle through which we can move forward, is through the NADP. Since 2005, the Government has introduced a number of 'Green Revolution' incentives to attract investment in the agriculture sector.

I encourage both public and private sector to take advantage of these and invest in the NADP.

On this note, I take this opportunity to acknowledge and thank the various agencies, departments, organizations and individuals who have collectively contributed to the successful formulation of the NADP, namely:-

The Government of PNG and the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, for their financial and technical support; The Chairman and members of the Economic Sector Ministerial Committee for their invaluable guidance and undivided support;

The Members of the National Agriculture Council for their support and endorsement of the plan; My predecessor, Hon. Matthew Siune, and former Department Secretary, Mr Mathew wela B. Kanua for initiating the formulation of the NADP; agriculture sector agencies and organizations.

In conclusion, I express my sincere gratitude and appreciation to the Secretary of the Department of Agriculture and Livestock; Mr Anton K. Benjamin and his NADP team and staff, as well as my Ministerial staff for their tireless and dedicated efforts in the coordination and formulation of the NADP.

Plan Brings Hope To Farmers

Papua New Guineans who have suffered too long from the lack of agricultural development now face a brighter future.

The Provincial Chairman for Agriculture in the Eastern Highlands, Mr Orike Bao, said the National Agriculture Development Plan will open up opportunities for men, women and children to participate in agricultural farming activities.

Mr Bao said the absence of an agriculture plan has had negative effects on the people who have had to struggle to make a living. People in many communities have faced the challenges of living in poverty and hunger despite the country having natural resources and abundant land.

Mr Bao spoke on behalf of the four regions after the regional representatives were each presented with a copy of the NADP document and a female piglet placed in a bilum. The presentation symbolized the launching of the NADP as a new agriculture plan that needs to be fully supported financially and with resources to ensure that the plan is implemented successfully in the next ten years.

Mr Bao said there has been lack of tangible development in the agriculture sector over the past 30 years since independence. Although there have been a lot of potential areas, very little has been done due to the absence of a national agriculture plan.

"But now I am very happy that the Prime Minister upon realizing and seeing the sufferings and the needs of the majority of our rural population has come up with the NADP as the way forward to develop the sector.

"The people have suffered for too long. Now they will be able to develop the sector knowing that the government will provide the resources," said Mr Bao.

He said the presentation of the female piglet means that the piglet needs to be fed daily until it is fully grown before being consumed. This symbolizes that NADP must be given its share of funding by the National Government for it to be effective in developing the agriculture sector.

But Mr Bao also sounded a warning that the Government must not take back what it has given away to the people. He also urged that the Government must ensure the NADP is not destroyed by critics and others who do not want to see it work. ■

LAW AND JUSTICE

Alotau Jail Looks To Literacy Upgrading

The introduction of literacy as part of the Correctional Service Rehabilitation program will blend well into some of the department's programs.

The Giligili jail in the Milne Bay province has achieved what it believes is a new crusade into achieving both a diversion approach and spiritual enrichment.

Jail commander, Superintendent Bamua Kubu, says the initiative is exciting for a lot of prisoners who are increasingly showing their interest.

Mr Kubu said, although the number of participants was small, their transformation as a result of their participation dovetailed a shift from the conventional CS initiated rehabilitation programs.

"It is a new concept and many of our illiterate detainees have benefited from this. We have seen changes in the detainee's lives and we are keen to ensure that this is sustained," he said.

He added that the jail was fortunate to have the support of the Summer Institute of Linguistics (SIL) through the engagement of Dr Yasuki Nagai, a Literacy Consultant.

This partnership has, according to Mr Kubu reinforced many of the opportunities the jail is offering to the inmates.

Mr Kubu said since its launching in September 2005, the Giligili Literacy Program trumpeted a new avenue, detainees and warders have dubbed it, a transformation program and is, designed to ensure that the participant:

- Builds his own character and fully realise his strengths and weakness;
- Improving literacy skills; and
- Understanding the word of God towards their spiritual enrichment.

"Because of the strong foundation, there are indications that it will improve. It is one of the jails' success stories, and we are proud that, it has achieved what we set out back in 2005," said Mr Kubu.

Dr Nagai also says that upon the successful completion of the course, the students/detainees can go on to competing their College of Distant Education (CODE) and start Grade 7.

"Six students have been selected from those who completed the Tok/Pisin/ Tok Ples Course and are now taking the Vernacular-English Bridging Course," added Dr Nagai.

A testimony from one of the participants, a repeated offender says this privilege has assisted him to realise his full potential.

In tears, he laments: "I have been rejected all my life, but through attending the literacy class I have now learnt to do something worthwhile."

The detainee was recommended to the Medium Security and then to the minimum security.

"Further more, the positive attitude and good behavior of the students have helped improve the atmosphere within the cells," says

Dr Nagai.

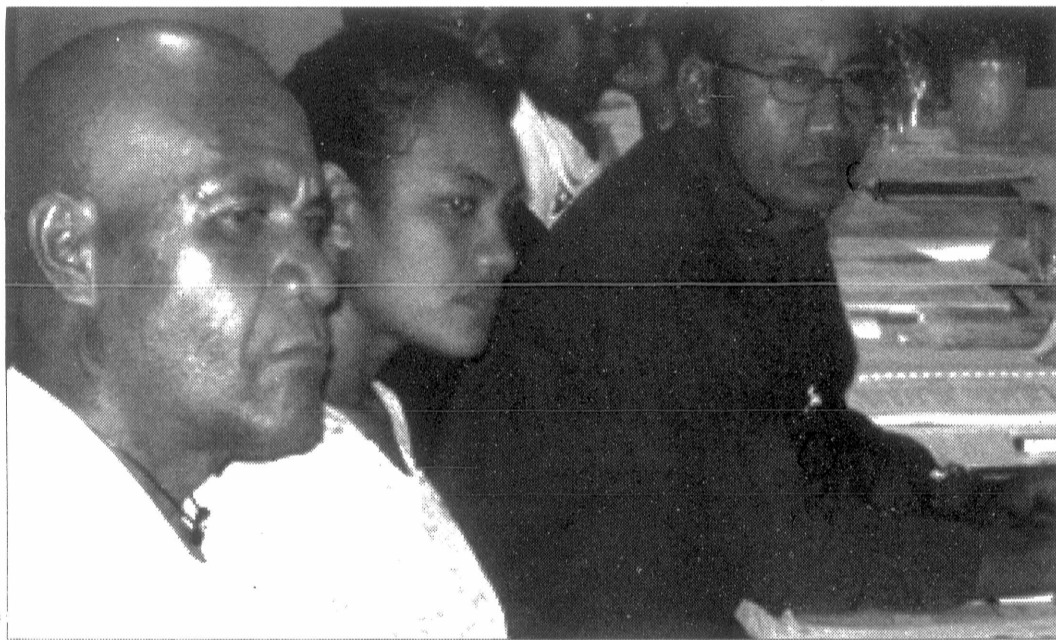

As the course designer, Dr Nagai, is optimistic, the success have been derived as a result of the commitment demonstrated by the students.

"These student's hard work has brought much fruit, not only in their studies but also in their vegetable gardens that supply greens for the detainee's kitchen," said Dr Nagai.

Literacy Training Coordinator, Corporal Uliowa Sulo and the Jails's Rehabilitation Manager, Inspector Kosia Bann have appraised the project and both believe that, it has to be complimenting to the time, detainees will spend while they are there. ■

Abau Probation Officers Get Training

Some of the participant's of the CBC Volunteer Probation Officer's from the Abau District listening attentively during a training session in Port Moresby.

Participants at the Community Based Correction's (CBC) Volunteer Probation Officer's (VPO) Training feel they can now effectively carry out their responsibilities.

Commenting at the week long conference in Port Moresby's Hideaway Hotel, the participants thanked the Community Justice Liaison Unit's involvement.

George Agi from the Gavuone village said the VPO concept was new to the area, and once established would assist the law and justice agencies.

"As a community leader, I strongly believe this training will give me the appropriate skills and approach to help address community law and order issues," said Mr Agi.

Mr Agi who is also a ward councillor further praised the CJLU for initiating the activity, adding that, the training will boost the community's endeavors.

President of the Gavuone Women's Fellowship, Lillian Ugave said the Workshop assisted her to broaden her knowledge.

"I have always wanted to help but lack the knowledge. And this training will help me assist in addressing law and order related issues," said Mrs Ugave.

She also added that it was the training that targeted a key priority area in the electorate, and she hoped this can make a difference in the community.

Cloudy Bay's Project Officer, Lucien Mekeo said the training would really assist the council step up their measures to address the law and order situation.

Ms Mekeo said it would also compliment positive developments in the electorate, such as the diversion strategy, guns surrender and vanilla training.

CJLU's Project Officer for the Central Province, Regina Rokam said, the interest shown by the participants reflected their willingness to work.

Ms Rokam said the local level governments were organized and the training would make an impact, upon its implementation.

"It is a great start to many of the fine initiatives set up by the community. The community is behind in terms of owning this initiative, so, we can expect some successes," she said. ■

Churches Promoting Rural Adult Literacy

Churches in Papua New Guinea are taking the lead role in promoting adult literacy among villagers.

The Tupiri Christian Church in Mendi, Southern Highlands, is among the churches that are conducting literacy courses for village people.

Similar classes are also conducted in Mt. Hagen.

Adult men and women have been attending literacy classes in Tok Pisin and English and have proven to be very successful.

They are now able to read and write in both languages.

Certificates are awarded to graduates of the literacy class.

Pastor Simon En of TCUC, is appealing for more teaching material and funding for his classes.

He emphasized the importance of his literacy class as being beneficial to the people. ■

HEALTH

Bougainville And Milne Bay Leaders Attend HIV/AIDS Workshop

The Autonomous Bougainville Government and the Milne Bay provincial administration are taking the lead in responding to HIV by having all parliamentary members and senior provincial administration staff, attend the HIV leadership Support Initiative Workshop.

This is expected to strengthen the response of leaders to the HIV epidemic in these provinces.

The theme of the workshop is: "The Power of Leadership - Making a Difference in HIV/AIDS". Research and experience in other HIV affected countries show that when leaders take an active profile in leading the response to HIV the disastrous economic and social impact of the epidemic can be turned around.

The Power of Leadership

Workshop is a component of a wider program of Leadership Support Initiative activities that has also included a PNG Parliamentary and Civil Society Study Tour of Uganda, Thailand and Cambodia in 2006. The LSI Study Tour confirmed that countries where there is strong political and administrative leadership, have dramatically reduced the incidence of HIV.

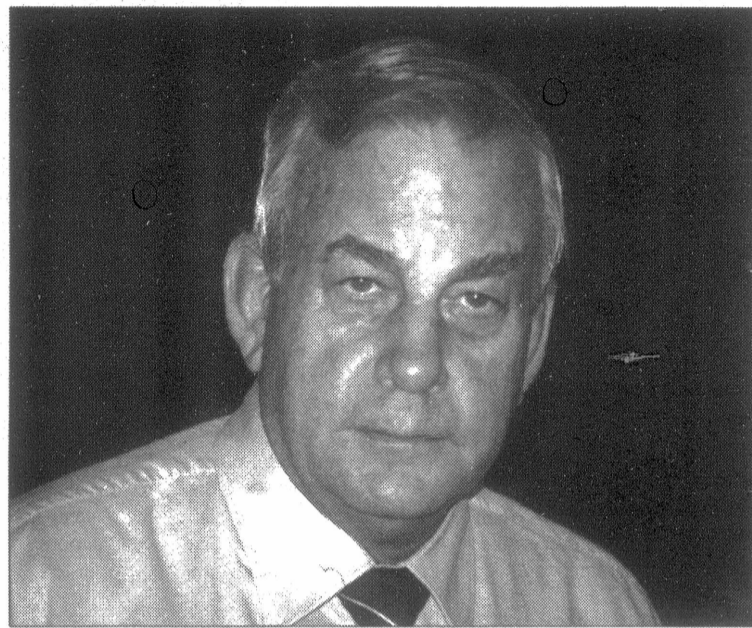

Hon. Francesca Semoso, Deputy Speaker of the ARB House of Representatives was one of the facilitators. Ms Semoso, who has recently facilitated LSI Workshops for PNG leaders was also a member of the LSI Study Tour to Uganda, Thailand and Cambodia and believes that committed and proactive leadership can have a big impact on building the HIV response in the country.

Since returning from the study tour, Ms. Semoso has been an active LSI advocate to Departmental Secretaries and government agencies like Eda Ranu, Internal Revenue Commission, Legal Training Institute as well as with some women groups.

On completion of the Bougainville and Milne Bay LSI Workshops, the leaders will be developing personal HIV leadership action plans as well as implementing provincial strategies. There is also the opportunity for provincial leaders to engage trained LSI coaches to support them in developing key breakthrough initiatives they want to achieve.

The Leadership Support Initiative is currently funded as part of the Australian Government's support for the HIV response in PNG. The LSI is designed to support the PNG government's National Strategic Plan for HIV/AIDS. ■

Lupari Promotes Transparency

The Government is putting into place measures to ensure proper management and transparency in the disbursement of funds allocated under the Memorandum of Agreement to landowner groups by the National Government.

The Department of Petroleum and Energy (DPE), the government agency responsible for implementing the MOAs will now take full responsibility for the planning and implementing of the MOAs.

Announcing this, Chief Secretary to Government, Ambassador Isaac Lupari, said it is important that measures are put in place now to avoid confusion and misunderstanding about the disbursement of funds under the MOAs.

The Government will review the Expenditure and Implementation Committee regulations and put in place policy guidelines on the screening, approving, disbursement and monitoring of the Memorandum of Agreement project benefits.

The Department of National Planning and Monitoring and Department of Petroleum and Energy will be working on these measures:

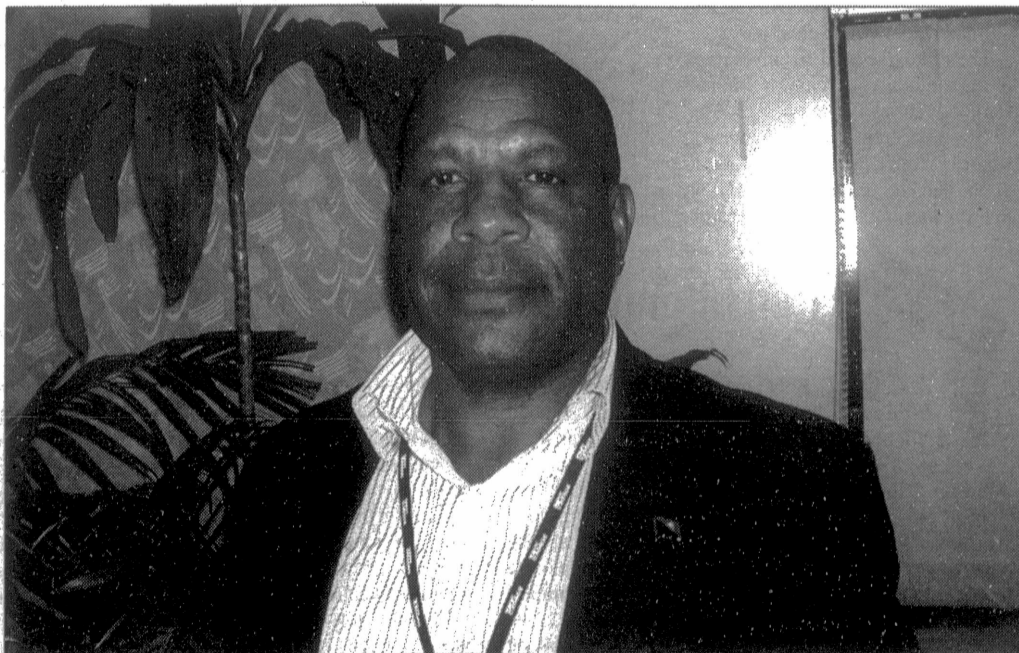

- The review of the EIC regulation which would include policy guidelines and screening, approving, disbursement and monitoring
- A comprehensive policy guideline which would provide for landowners inputs and participation in the selection of projects including selection of service providers
- The EIC Secretariat to be transferred to the Department of Petroleum and Energy from the Department of National Planning & Monitoring. The Secretary for National Planning & Monitoring to continue to Chair the EIC meeting until amendment is done for Secretary for DPE to assume Chairmanship

- The capacity of DPE be built to enable them to screen, evaluate and supervise the project implementation as well as establishing proper financial management system

The implementation of these measures will provide coherence in the process and promote greater and proper coordination between all stakeholders including the landowner groups, Ambassador Lupari said.

The Chief Secretary said the Prime Minister has been fully briefed on these matters and supports the implementation. ■

Special Support Grants Guidelines Up For Review

Chief Secretary to Government, Ambassador Isaac Lupari, has ordered an immediate freeze on further release of Special Support Grants (SSG) until an urgent review of the guidelines is undertaken.

Mr Lupari said he was concerned with the management of the SSG funds and how it is processed and disbursed without adherence to the established guidelines.

He said he is concerned that while the review is in process, SSG cheques are still being processed and paid to selected landowner groups.

He has directed the Secretary for Finance, Gabriel Yer to put in place the following measures:

- Department of Finance to take charge of processing payments while the Self Accounting Status of the Department of National Planning and Monitoring has been withdrawn.

- All claims for payments are to go through a proper due diligence process including thorough auditing examinations to ensure the validity of the claim; and
- All Government cheques including electronic transfer of funds from State Agencies and Departments must have 7 days clearance

"These temporary measures has been put in place until a full review of the SSG guidelines is completed and corresponding checks and balance measures, are put to protect the integrity of our financial management system," he said.

He said the Prime Minister had been briefed on this matter and fully supports the introduction of these measures. ■

Upon launching the stamp issue, Governor General, Grand Chief, Sir Paulias Matane gave a brief history on scouting.

He said: "Scouting originally began in 1907 with an experimental camp of 20 boys in the United Kingdom. Today, it is a million times bigger and involves girls, boys, men and women of every race, religion, culture, and in nearly every country of the world.

"In PNG, scouting commenced in 1926 at Hanuabada village in Port Moresby."

The following have been issued by Post PNG:

- Postage Stamp-four denominations (0.10t, 0.85t, K3.35 & K5.35);
- Souvenir Sheet;
- Souvenir Sheetlets;
- First Day Covers; and

Sir Paulias said: "Postage stamps are excellent ambassadors representing their country of origin, and are also statements of sovereignty for a country.

"These are the celebratory images marking the scouting in the world, also for the world to see that PNG is a member of the World Scouting body.

"Scouting and Girl Guiding are very important in society because they help to build characters of people to become purposeful, useful, productive and progressive in everything they do," Sir Paulias said.

He urged all administrators in all PNG schools to introduce scouting and girl guiding for the betterment of our young people and our beautiful nation.

He thanked the Scout administrators for their commitment and also thanked Post PNG on behalf of the scouts in Port Moresby and PNG, for the support in issuing the stamps and other commemorative assets for the occasion. ■

Sir Paulias Optimistic Of Tangible Outcomes

Governor General Grand Chief, Sir Paulias Matane hopes that the relationship between PNG and the Islamic Republic Pakistan would see changes in many areas of development.

And he says since 30 years of friendly diplomatic relations, the two countries have now significantly registered on real movement in the areas of trade and commerce, technical cooperation and exchange.

Sir Paulias made the statement at the Government House on the 15th of June 2007 when accepting the letter of credence by His Excellency Major General (RETD) Ali Baz High Commissioner, Designate of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan to PNG.

He said he hopes that Mr. Ali brings with him vast experience for the benefit of the people of PNG in his esteemed political-military background.

"With your colourful political-military background and vast experience, I am optimistic that you bring with you a breath of fresh air to simultaneously reinvigorate and super-charge our steady but ailing relationship and we could see more tangible outcomes," Sir Paulias told

The Governor General said both countries share common principles and objectives of the United Nations charter and also share the views and concerns in various global issues as members of the various international organizations.

Sir Paulias told Mr. Ali that he is pleased to hear that the government of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan headed by Prime Minister Aziz and guided by President Musharraf is pursuing policies designed to accelerate economic, social and political development in Pakistan, which would benefit and up lift PNG's development agenda.

However, Mr. Ali when presenting his letter of credence to Sir Paulias said: "The two countries are now registering for the progress in economic and political development and the benefits would be mutually shared."

He said his government appreciates what the government of Papua New Guinea does as the social and economic development of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan is the same as PNG's.

His Excellency, the High Commissioner of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan to PNG will be based in Indonesia. ■

Agriculture Technology Vital: GG

The role of science and technology is critical for innovative and sustainable agricultural development of Papua New Guinea, Governor-General, Grand Chief Sir Paulias Matane said this at Bubia, outside Lae.

Sir Paulias said improved agricultural technologies and new innovations and knowledge generated through scientific research can foster development when they are used in innovative ways by the farming and rural communities.

Sir Paulias was speaking at the inaugural "Agricultural Innovations Show" staged by the National Agricultural Research Institute (NARI) to commemorate its 10th Anniversary on May 9.

Sir Paulias said while scientific research explores truth and emphasizes clarity of thinking using systematic processes, technology development translates research outputs into practical application for farmers and rural communities to use.

And this, he said, where NARI comes in - science, research, technology development and ultimately knowledge creation.

Therefore, the need for investment in agricultural research was eminent for good returns.

"Results from many empirical studies worldwide have suggested a 30 percent or greater return on investments in agricultural research,

It is worth pondering that many developed nations invest at least two percent of their gross domestic product (GDP) in agricultural research because of the return the investment gives. We hope PNG endeavors to do the same," Sir Paulias said.

He stated that sustainable agricultural development needs to be based on efficient production practices and enhanced productivity of resources to generate high quality and competitive produce, adding that, in any developing national economy, agricultural development is fundamental and has proven to be the pre-requisite for economic growth and overall development.

Sir Paulias said agriculture forms the basic fabric of societies and development of the agricultural sector, thus creating the necessary and basic foundation for all other sectors to arise and contribute to economic development.

He said there are two main reasons for PNG to focus on agricultural development.

"Firstly, the majority of our population depend on agriculture to sustain their livelihoods, especially in the rural areas.

"Secondly, the agriculture sector has a huge untapped potential to create wealth and broad-based economic growth for PNG. This is so essential for sustainable development and for the prosperity of the people and our nation.

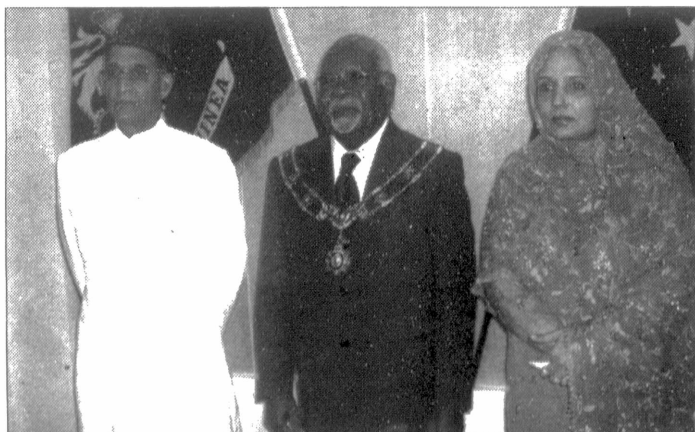

"In the immediate future, the sector's core contributions are in the areas of food security, cash income generation, employment creation, and poverty alleviation. In the medium to long term, the sector has potential to empower people and create wealth, thus bringing greater prosperity to the whole nation," he said.

The basic potential of the agriculture sector lies in PNG's rich natural resources - tropical environment, fertile and rich land and soils, ample rainfall and sunlight, and rich genetic diversity. PNG also has industrious and committed farming communities with a wealth of indigenous knowledge developed over thousands of years.

Sir Paulias said however, there are challenges at hand that the nation faces.

These include low income generation despite having rich natural resources; low productivity of resources; lack of full participation by skilled and hard working farming communities; huge imbalances in income levels across regions; inadequate access to free and open markets by farmers; serious health issues such as high blood pressure, heart problems, HIV/AIDS; and increasing exposure to climate change and global warming.

Sir Paulias said having exposed to the major challenges facing agricultural development, PNG needs to focus on some specific high priority areas requiring urgent attention. ■

State Lawyer To Assist Forestry

The National Forest Service and the State Solicitor's Office have signed an agreement for the secondment of SSO staff to the NFS to assist with legal matters relating to forestry.

This agreement is the first of its kind between these two government bodies.

NFA General Counsel David Ipassi said forestry has a lot of legal matters that frequently go before the SSO and most cases the matters were not attended to quickly due to workload.

State Solicitor, George Minjihau explained that previously, there was an officer at the SSO who was assigned specifically to handle forestry issues. However, during the restructure of the SSO, the arrangement was abolished.

The importance of re-introducing such an arrangement, since last year, SSO and NFS have been discussing this matter resulting in the eventual signing taking place on May 15th, 2007 by NFS Managing Director Kanawi Pouru and State Solicitor, Mr Minjihau.

The agreement will see a SSO legal Office based within the Legal Section of NFS.

The agreement is for 12 months with the view to extending it upon the success of the initial period.

Esther Poiou, 27, from Manus province who works with the Commercial Section of the State Solicitor's office will be seconded to the NFS.

She will start as soon as administrative matters are sorted out.

"I'm really excited to be seconded to PNGFA, I hope to learn a lot from this secondment and bring back my experience to SSO." Ms Poiou said.

Ms Poiou will administratively be reporting to SSO, NFS will provide the support services to enable her to effectively carry out her work. ■

Committee Commended

Members of the organizing committees to the 42nd Session of the International Tropical Timber Council have been commended for their effort in ensuring the success of the first ever ITTC to be held in PNG after 20 years of membership organization.

Five major committees were established for the session. These were: Budget, venue, trade, tourism and investment; land transport and security; protocol, CIQ (Customs, Immigration and Quarantine) programme; information technology, media, hotel accommodation & travel; and the PNGFA Technical Working Committee.

Further sub-committees were established which included budget, cultural dances, field trips and uniforms.

Ambassador Oaisa who is the acting Director General of PNG Events Council spent most of his time at the airport receiving and fare-welling the delegates, said that from comments he received from talking with the delegates, they were very pleased with the preparations.

In briefing before the commencement of the session with coordinators of the various activities for the session, both Mr Kari and Ambassador Oaisa gave this advise: "You are privileged to be representing Papua New Guinea in a very special way. Politeness in how to treat our visitors is very important as we showcase our country. The ACP-EU meeting has set the trend."

During the closing barbecue, Ambassador Oaisa said the goal of pleasing the delegates was achieved by everyone involved in organizing the 42nd ITTC Session. ■

PNG Ranked Top ITTC Host

The six-day 42nd Session of the International Tropical Timber Council (ITTC) held in Port Moresby from May 7-12th, 2007, ended on a high note with delegates classing Papua New Guinea's preparations for the session as the best ever.

As part of the session, the delegates were given options to fly to one of four destinations in the country. This included Panakawa in Western province, Lae, Morobe province, Mt. Hagen, Western Highlands and Rabaul, East New Britain province.

In the East New Britain, the 34 delegates that visited it took off their footwear and walked bare foot on the volcanic ash. Despite the heavy downpour, this did not deter them from stopping the bus they were traveling in from time to time to get snap shots here and there. A visit to the volcanic observatory was very exciting for them as they rained in question after question to the observatory staff.

When the Governor of East New Britain, Hon Leo Dion met and welcomed them to the province, the delegates spokesman said: "Before we came to Papua New Guinea, Mexico, the host of the last ITTC session out of Japan, we said, were the best ever to prepare a very good session."

However, having come to Papua New Guinea, we now say that Papua New Guinea beats Mexico's record, as having had the best preparations ever," the delegate said.

The 36 delegates that traveled to the Western Highlands were amazed at the tea leaf and coffee trees.

For most of them, it was their first time to see and feel the coffee and tea trees.

Those who flew to Panakawa, Western province were amazed at the immense forest cover that still exists despite constantly hearing about logging operations there.

On the farewell night, all the 150 plus delegates were presented highlands caps and bilums.

A staff from National Cultural Commission, Steven Waine commented that PNG Forest Authority did PNG proud by presenting PNG stuff to the delegates. ■

Nambawan Super, looking to the future

Introduction

I am privileged and humbled to make some remarks on behalf of the Board, Management, staff and all members of the Fund on this very special historic event.

First and foremost, our heartiest thank you to our guest of honor and keynote speaker, the Governor General of Papua New Guinea, Grand Chief Sir. Paulius Matane who has taken time to grace this momentous occasion, let alone a milestone event, where the previous name, corporate logo and image of POSF Limited were retired and a new beginning is given birth with the launch of - Nambawan Super. It is a fitting and more dignified tribute for all members of the Fund throughout the length and breath of Papua New Guinea.

Our thank you and gratitude is also extended to many distinguished guest from the private sector, government, church and community who have also joined us to celebrate this occasion.

We also extend humble apologies to all our members who, for obvious reasons, are not able to join us on this occasion and take this opportunity to say thank you for your continued trust, confidence and support in our respective roles as trustees and stewards of your lifetime savings.

Paying Tribute

The storyline of many corporate entities starts somewhere, takes form and evolves into a distinct corporate entity with a life of its own. Unlike mortal human beings, corporate entities if well managed and with good succession plans have a long life span and usually transcend time and generations.

The storyline of this Fund is no different and many gallant men and women participated in making the Fund what it is today. Some are here to celebrate with us, but others have sadly passed away.

Accordingly, it is only proper and the most dignified thing to acknowledge and extend, on behalf of the Board, Management, staff and members of the Fund sincere thank you and gratitude to all past Board, Management and staff for their diligent contribution and support in making the Fund what it is today.

The financial scorecards and performance of the main superannuation funds since the reform including their multiplier effect on the economy is clear testimony of the superannuation reform. To that end, it is only fitting that we recognize and acknowledge the contribution of those we passionately refer to as principle architects of the superannuation reform.

Many people have contributed to the superannuation reform, but the main reform proponents and drivers are the former Prime Minister, Sir. Mekere Morauta, KBE who had the political will, foresight and resolve to initiate and approve the policy framework of the reform. He was well supported by the Governor of the Bank of Papua New Guinea, Mr. Wilson Kamit, and late Mr. Koiari Tarata, former Secretary of Treasury who had both provided exemplary leadership and commitment in translating and implementing the superannuation reform.

Last but not the least of the reform architects is the team of technocrats who had the arduous task of putting the legal, administrative, and regulatory mechanism in place to make the reform become fully functional and operational.

They are the members of the original superannuation task force team, namely, Mr. Greg Taylor, Lady Mina Siaguru, and Professor John Nonggor and all their support staff.

Finally, although small but also critical is the role played by the Government of Grand Chief, Sir Michael Somare for respecting and allowing the reform process to continue free of political interference. We thank the incumbent Government for its political discipline and maturity.

Before we consider moving forward, it is important to briefly recount the some of the milestone events that underpinned the success of the Fund from the perspective of the incumbent Board of the Fund.

Initial Building Blocks For Growth

Before the Board and senior management were selected and installed in early 2003, they were required to go through a "fit and proper test" before they served on the Board or as managers. This screening process by the Police and the Bank of Papua New Guinea is the heart of corporate governance and transparency and was a very important step in appointing competent, creditable, professional, and independent Board members and senior managers to provide stewardship, guidance and leadership of the Fund.

The Board, I must say quite unequivocally, worked collectively to identify and crystallize the key management and strategic issues that set the foundation for the performance of the Fund. Some of the key management and strategic issues are:

- Management of many inherited legacy issues because of bad investment decisions, incompetence and to some extent graft and corruption.

- Working with Management to maintain normalcy of POSF business.

- Identified and appointed a Fund Administrator and Investment Manager.

- Identified and appointed a national as Managing Director.

- Made a firm conviction to increase and expand member services.

- Articulated and adopted a formal Investment strategy.

- Recovered accumulated debts including devising a strategy to claw back state debts.

- Implemented the superannuation reform and complying with the timelines set by the Bank of Papua New Guinea.

- Instituted change management by sequentially transforming the Fund from a bureaucratic public institution into a lean, efficient and more service orientated entity.

- Adopting a framework of strategic management in the Fund that resulted in clear articulation and adoption of corporate vision, mission and values.

- Introducing a performance management system with cascading effect to all the Managers, team leaders and staff in the Fund.

- Introducing and improving the Funds' property management to make the Fund become property manager of choice.

The foregoing strategic and management issues helped to crystallize the key business drivers of the Fund and set the scope, parameters and framework for the growth of the Fund in the past years and will continue to underpin growth in the next couple of years.

Leadership & Management of the Fund

Since 2003, so much has been done to grow the Fund's investments. That growth being 150% from K602.9 million to K1.517 billion by year end in 2006. This result can be attributed to many factors. The most significant being; political stability, prudential and workable superannuation reforms, strong macro economic performance and stringent supervision by the Bank of Papua New Guinea.

These external environmental factors have had strong bearing on the Fund's overall performance, but one cannot go past the back room champions who have been resolute, committed and passionate about making it all come together.

The solid position of the Fund is credited to the contribution of my fellow Board of Directors for their astute stewardship, their candour, independence and objectivity; the Managing Director, his Management team and every member of the staff. The Fund's employees must be complimented for their diligence, energy, hard work and perseverance in carrying out their duties. Credit is also attributed to all members of the Membership Committee and the Audit and Compliance Committee including all important service providers such as the Investment Manager - Kina Finance Management, Property Facilitator - Ashton Brunswick, and Fund Administrator - Kina Security Service; and many other partners and stakeholders who have contributed to the successful growth of Nambawan Super Limited.

International Portfolio

Regular review and revision of the Fund's Investment strategy is necessary because of our country's susceptibility to vagaries of international pricing and the constant shift and changes in the local, regional and international economic landscape. As a growing Fund with a large pool of liquid assets in a small and very constricted domestic market - it is prudent that the Fund diversify its portfolio beyond its country borders. This approach helps to mitigate the Funds' risks normally associated with low country rating plus allows the Fund to invest in international markets with hard currency.

Managing complexities of international portfolio investment is a serious concern for the Board which has worked hard with the Management and the Fund Manager to screen and identify some of the best in the business to manage the international portfolio which increased from K112.2 million in 2005 to K259.7 million in 2006. This growth, based on commercial prudence, will continue.

The two international portfolio managers are ABN Amro and Access Economics. Access Economics was engaged as an international portfolio manager during the year after an extensive and systematic process of selection. The partnership with Access Economics was consummated based on a strategic approach to offshore investments using their return targeted investment portfolio (TIP) approach. A major upside of TIP is its zero correlation with equity stock markets movements as a major tool in managing market inherent risks. Additional attractions were the key targeted return of 12%, global spread in strategically targeted investment portfolios, and the success rate of Access Economics.

Through this vehicle the Fund has diversified its investments beyond Australia to Europe, North America and South East Asia.

With proper controls and management, the Fund has now enhanced the economic value and maximized returns from the once controversial Cairns Conservatory, the only international property held by the Fund. The property has 100% occupancy and has increased substantially in value because of a booming water front development within the precinct of Cairns city.

Common Sense Must Prevail

At Nambawan Super Limited, we believe that to be complacent is to be careless. It is always wise to remain grounded, sincere and pragmatic. The ensuing message is that stakeholders must remember that fundamental external macro drivers also contributed to our overall good performance, and that those external factors might not necessarily provide the consistent strong financial returns and/or double digit interest rates and that this scenario might not be sustainable all of the time. It is therefore wise and prudent to keep that message in mind and allow common sense to prevail.

Member Choices

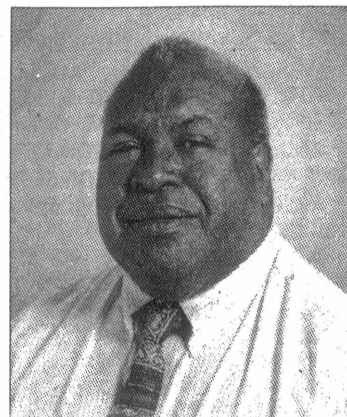

In a competitive superannuation environment, we subscribe to one of the basic principle of recognizing and upholding "a member's right to exercise independent decision and free will to join an Authorized Superannuation Fund (ASF) of his/her choice".

To that end, we have shown fair respect by facilitating the decision and choice of over 35 private sector companies to join Nambawan Super Limited. This flexibility generates healthy competition amongst Authorized Superannuation Funds and adds another dimension of check and balance in the industry.

Products & Services

The Board and Management have made a commitment to expand member services in terms of scope, intensity, accessibility, quality and simply meeting a specific need or expectation of members. To that end, Retirement Savings Account was introduced because of widespread testimonials and reported incidents of retired members loosing their life time savings due to ignorance, lack of knowledge, lack of discipline or succumbing to social pressures such as wantok system or other customary obligations.

Retirement Savings Account was established as an integrated product and service to ensure retired members set aside their funds in an RSA Account that generates tax exempt interest income with returns that are more attractive and higher than normal commercial bank interest rates and headline inflation.

Sir Nagora.

The product was introduced in late 2005 and increased from 18 accounts totalling K0.9 million to 218 accounts with a balance of K7.1 million 2006. Concurrent with the successful launch of the RSA product, the Fund has continued to expand its member services with the introduction of specialist Retirement Counselling Service. In maintaining an innovative stance, the Fund has extended the range of products and services to be concurrently rolled out in 2007 and in the next few years as part of the re-branding exercise.

Influencing Development

As a prominent and leading Papua New Guinea institution, the Fund is always proud, patriotic and passionate to share the dreams and aspirations of its people and in a small but very strategic way. Over the past years, Nambawan Super Limited has taken a strategic posture and well calculated step to leverage its economic muscle to influence positive change in the market place.

For example, it has negotiated, in good faith, with some local banks to make lending for housing more affordable and on less restrictive terms for our members and we hope this relaxed bank lending terms and conditions will be extended to as many people as possible throughout Papua New Guinea. The Fund, as a responsible and influential financial institution, is committed to finding smarter and intelligent solutions to bring influence to bear on critical national development issues or challenges without putting member funds at risk.

Nambawan Super Limited has also expanded the base of economic ownership and participation for many ordinary Papua New Guinea workers through a very diversified portfolio in merchandizing, hotel, property, mining, petroleum, media, agriculture, food, beverages, and most recently acquisition of profitable going concerns such as Arnotts (PNG) Limited in partnership with Comrade Superannuation Fund.

Members interest driving transformation

MANAGING DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT JUNE 2007

Mr Buskens.

The Fund has gone through in a short journey of time a relatively significant transformation and change. Together we have been able to meet the huge challenges and changes in the industry since the reforms were introduced in 2002. Throughout this transition, the Board and Management have at all times, placed members' interests first and foremost.

Together, the Board, Management & staff are committed to ensuring that at all times, they are prepared to mitigate the risks and maximize the opportunities brought about by the challenges that are being faced. Of course, achieving good returns and building retirement wealth necessarily involves a series of processes and tasks such as collaborating with key players from both within and outside the organization. Our priorities therefore, are directed towards effective and efficient management of the organization; from corporate governance, prudential investment and risk management practices, financial and civil society accountability, and investment in our human capital.

All of these actions are designed to, at the end of the day, bring about an even further and total independence from political interference plus help the Fund continue to operate within the prudential guidelines of the Bank of PNG.

Another key change brought about by the reforms is in dealing with the Funds historical inherent unfunded structure by the State as the principal employer. As a result of the reforms, the Fund started receiving a portion of the employer contributions directly from January 2003. Prior to 2003, the Fund only received employee contribution, while the employer contribution was paid to the Fund as reimbursement when the Fund paid out member benefits. The result of this is an ongoing liability from the State as the employer. This was estimated at K1.5 billion at the end of 2006.

Strategic Focus

Our vision, mission and core values were equally tested for their relevance and meaningfulness to members and stakeholders, alike. In all a total of nine (9) broad strategic goals were identified and eventually adopted. The most significant are; enhancing member services and products; improving organizational capability; strengthening and fostering relationships between the Fund and its service providers and taking an innovative and leading role in the area of domestic personal savings.

Member Housing

Housing for the majority of Papua New Guineans is a critical need and members of our Fund are no exception. The Board of Directors recognizes this and is committed to constantly assessing circumstances and opportunities to address the massive shortfall our country faces. It is not only the shortage but affordability that is an issue at the national level.

A pilot housing project at Garden Hills in Port Moresby began with the construction of twenty five (25) kit homes supplied by Steamships Hardware. We have since progressed to 8 Mile Malolo Estate, on the outskirts of Port Moresby. Drawing on the experience from the Garden Hills project, the Fund is planning to build up to 250 houses at the 8 Mile premises. Sale of house and land packages is expected to commence in the last quarter of 2007.

The Fund also owns 340 hectares of land at 9 Mile which is being earmarked as the next project after 8 Mile's Malolo Estate. The Fund is also looking at similar opportunities in other main centers of the country.

Casuals & Ancillary workers

One of our main concerns is that a relatively large number of casual and ancillary staff in public sector agencies do not contribute to superannuation.

This is in spite of them being on the payroll for more than three months.

The Fund began an education and awareness program recently with newspaper advertisements and is working jointly with the Department of Personnel Management to raise the awareness of this important and worthwhile initiative.

Member Education & Awareness

A large proportion of members such as teachers, district and health workers live and work in the rural areas of the country where access to communication is often difficult and limited.

We recognize that constantly improving and expanding member education and awareness activities will enable members to better understand, appreciate the purpose and objectives of the Fund.

Having this knowledge, we believe, helps members to better plan and make informed choices about their retirement savings. A number of initiatives were commenced to expand member communication systems;

•Information Kiosks launched in Kavieng, Goroka, Alotau, Wewak, and Kimbe with another seven (7) planned launches in 2007 enabling the Fund to have a presence in sixteen (16) provinces out of nineteen (19) in the country.

•Regional visits /conferences by our Member Awareness Team. •A (internet) web enablement for members was developed to help access statements and other pertinent information.

The Fund has gone through in a short journey of time a relatively significant transformation and change.

Together we have been able to meet the huge challenges and changes in the industry since the reforms were introduced in 2002. Throughout this transition, the Board and Management have at all times, placed members' interests first and foremost.

Fund has come a long way

From 1972 to 1990 there existed a statutory body called Public Officers Superannuation Fund - this was governed by a Board established by the Public Officers Superannuation Act Chapter 66.

Under that Act married women were not allowed to contribute to the fund. If they were already married and began employment with the Government they were not allowed to contribute. Also, if they were single and employed by the Government they stopped contributing if they got married (unless they were considered heads of families).

This was changed from January 1989 where married women were allowed to elect to contribute. From January 1991 they had to contribute.

Additionally, from 1972 only permanent public servants have been required to contribute to the superannuation fund.

As of January 1991 non permanent employees had two weeks to elect to contribute after completing 12 months service.

All these changed when the Superannuation General Provisions Act came into force in January 2003. From 1st January 2003, it was made mandatory for all employees of a qualifying employer in Papua New Guinea had to contribute to a superannuation fund.

The reforms brought about under the Superannuation Act were the initiative of the Morauta Government. Several economic issues brought to light the dire need to protect and secure the future savings of thousands of Papua New Guineans.

The Morauta Government established a Task Force to look in the operations of the superannuation and insurance companies in Papua New Guinea. The task force was made up of Lady

The organisation became a separate entity on its own and was called State Services and Statutory Authorities Superannuation Fund.

The SS & SASF was established to give employees of Papua New Guinea's Government Departments and Statutory Authorities the chance of a brighter and secure future. SS & SASF was in operation for two years.

In August 1993:

By virtue of the State Services and Statutory Authorities Superannuation Fund amendment Act 1993, the title of the principal act, the SS & SASF act (1990) was repealed and replaced with the Public Officers Superannuation Fund Act (1990).

The name of the Fund was also changed to Public Officers Superannuation Fund (POSF).

Reforms were initiated under the Superannuation General Provisions Act 2000.

2002:

The POSF Board of Directors incorporated a company under the Companies Act known as POSF Limited to act as the Trustee of the Fund in December 2002. POSF Limited was then licensed by the Bank of Papua New Guinea which was made the regulator of the superannuation industry in the country. Since then we have been operating within that legislation.

"We care for your future!"

Reforms under the Superannuation General Provisions Act

As part of the reforms under the Superannuation General Provisions Act 2000, the former POSF Board of Directors incorporated a company under the Companies Act known as POSF Limited to act as the Trustee of the Fund in December 2002. POSF Limited is licensed by the Bank of Papua New Guinea as the regulator of the superannuation industry.

The Board of POSF Limited comprises six Directors:

- A director nominated by the Secretary for Treasury
- A director nominated by the Secretary for Personnel Management
- Three independent Directors, one of whom is a non resident Director
- The Managing Director

The organization adopted best corporate governance practices and established sub-committees within its Board. The Board sub-committees are:

- Audit & Compliance committee - to assist the Trustees in objectively reviewing the processes, systems of internal control and management of financial risks.

- Membership Committee - made up of representatives from the union associations and two members of the Board. The Committee provides an avenue for members to contribute to the decision-making process of the Fund and assists the Trustee in dealing with complaints or inquiries about the operations and management of the Fund.

As required by the new Superannuation Act, the Trustee POSF Ltd the outsourced the function. The separation of activities in this way gives members greater confidence that their funds will be prudently invested.

The Trustee POSF Ltd also completed the transfer of members' funds administration to Kina Investment & Superannuation Services Ltd (KISS) after the company was appointed under the Superannuation (General Provisions) Act.

Perhaps the most significant change that POSF has had to go through is the culture shift and work ethic towards private sector practices. The fact that the Superannuation Act has expanded the POSF superannuation base from being just for public servants to include Everyone - whether you are from the private sector, informal sector or a casual staff; has broadened the scope for POSF to increase its membership.

Likewise, the Reforms of the superannuation industry gave employers and employees the choice of contributing to any super fund in Papua New Guinea. This is a critical element of restructuring the market as it opens up the industry to competition and drives service standards up.

At the same time, the new superannuation environment promotes retirement wealth generation and quality of service for members. The Superannuation Act 2000 offers better protection of members' funds by providing:

- 5 year Road map for the Fund
- 9 broad strategic goals
- Enhancing member services & products through improvement of organizational capability; strengthening and fostering relationships; and taking an innovative & leading role in the area of improving domestic culture of savings

At the end of 2005, the POSF had 18 private sector employers contributing. But the Fund is concerned that there are many ancillary & casual workers not contributing to any super fund. Awareness campaigns have been stepped up in the last 2 years to educate Papua New Guineans about the need to have retirement savings. Regional trips and visits to work places to speak to staff have become a major part of this awareness campaign. In August this year, the staff from the Nambawan Super will begin regional trips to speak to employers & employees with the first one to be held in Port Moresby.

At this juncture, I wish to sincerely thank the Board for its guidance, counsel, leadership and commitment, our core service partners, Kina Funds Management & Kina Investment & Superannuation Services, and our property facility team (Ashton Brunswick, M&E Partnership, Pacific Architects Consortium) for their support and cooperation. I wish to also acknowledge and take this opportunity to thank other key stakeholders that have worked with us in the reform process, namely, the Bank of PNG as the regulator, the Department of Treasury and Finance, and Department of Personnel Management.

As we move forward into a new era with the launch of our new brand - Nambawan Super, I would like to pay tribute to the employees of POSF Limited who have continued to work hard and demonstrate commitment and loyalty. They have truly embraced change and played another part in yet another successful changeover.

Some of you may say, "so what's in a name?" The POSF journey has been nothing short of remarkable. Since the 1970's, this organization has gone through an amazing metamorphosis. It began life much like a pupa, breaking out of its government-controlled shell, crawling slowly with one little step at a time like a caterpillar; then flying with its wings spread out after the 2003 reforms. This organisation is now ready to show its true colours, with the new brand under its wings.

Nambawan Super, diligence in the face of challenges

Perhaps the legislators should look at expanding the superannuation net, to include our large rural population, informal sector, and the self employed. Currently, these people are missing out on a very vital service for their future.

If we look at the countries that are economically strong and have high savings rate compared to consumption, one of their main assets is the superannuation scheme for their population.

Our country is at present enjoying a resource boom which will one day end. But the funds from the superannuation pool, is an attractive sustainable resource.

It is time now to save and invest for the future.

Only recently, the law governing POSF Limited was relaxed to allow the organization to obtain membership from the private sector as well.

A level playing field has now been created for all superannuation funds in Papua New Guinea to attract and retain customers from all walks of life.

Today, we will witness POSF's first step in that direction with the unveiling of a new logo and brand name of the organization.

An exciting new look, a new image and a new attitude towards the market-at-large awaits.

Once again, POSF will be put to the test.

But as history has shown, POSF under its new name will, I am sure retain its position as NAMBAWAN - proving that what counts most is its diligence in the face of challenges.

Ladies & Gentlemen, I am proud to officially launch - NAMBAWAN SUPER - formerly known as POSF Ltd.

Primary Mandate

The vision of the Fund is to build value and maintain the highest level of benefit and service quality for members. Its primary mandate is to facilitate and manage savings for the day and time when a member retires.

This ethos must not be diluted by any pressures in making the Fund become a total solution for all of the social problems faced by members. Clearly, this is not fair and the Board is mindful of this overriding statutory responsibility.

That responsibility must be balanced by its moral obligation in adopting low risks solutions by forging strategic alliance with members, employers and other stakeholders so that a balanced cohesive approach is used to tackle challenges in such areas as member housing, health and lifestyle issues.

Conclusion

In conclusion, I wish to congratulate all stakeholders, staff and management who have worked tirelessly in the last few months to bring to fruition the launch of our new brand - Nambawan Super.

NAMBAWAN SUPER FLAGSHIP PRODUCT - RETIREMENT SAVINGS ACCOUNT

Situations that called for RSA The concept of having funds professionally managed after retirement is not well established in PNG.

All too often, people who have saved superannuation money all their working life, find that once they collect their benefits, entrenched spending habits, cultural/traditional demands see their money used up quickly.

Benefits in excess of K100,000.00 have been known to be completely dispersed in less than a couple of months.

The most common reason that people don't manage this situation is that they lack experience in handling large amount of money.

Members currently withdrawing from Nambawan Super have their benefits paid directly into a bank account. This leads to:

- Instant access to large sums of money. No advice on "options". No consideration to "longer term" financial needs.

Taxation Amendments

In the 2004 Budget, the Government introduced amendments to the Taxation Act (Superannuation) allowing members to place Superannuation payments into an account and as long as certain withdrawal limits were observed, no taxation would be payable on:

- Payment from Superannuation Fund to Nambawan Super product Retirement Savings Account. Interest credited.

Withdrawals from Retirement Savings Account, or

- On death. Taxation Conditions. For members of a Retirement Savings Account not to pay tax they must:

Not withdraw more than 30% of the balance in a financial year whilst the balance is over K20,000.00

Not withdraw more than 50% of the balance in a financial year whilst the balance is over K10,000.00 but less than K20,000.00

Not withdraw more than 50% of the balance in the first financial year the balance is under K10,000.00

From then on all withdrawals are tax free

Features:

- Maximum Investment K100,000.00. Regular Fortnightly Income - vary once a year. Minimum Investment K10,000.00 - for Regular income. Lump sum Withdrawals - 2 withdrawals per year. Minimum Investment K1,000.00 - for no. regular income. Funds invested into Nambawan Super. Retirement Counselling.

Ensures your retirement period is free from restrictions and is fulfilling for You. As a retiree, You are able to fulfill Your expectations and are able to participate fully in your community. As a retiree, You can feel that You are Not a liability or burden to your family and the community.

CHALLENGES

- Changing member mind-set to save for long-term preservation principle. Other member products, life insurance, housing & education. Promotion of good corporate governance, transparency and accountability, good business ethics.

SUMMARY

- Reform agenda, need to push on at national level with our national priorities. Adopting best standards in corporate or public governance, open & transparent industry. People appointed on merits. Performance based systems, benchmarking and processors. Better monitoring and measurement in place. Corruption breeds and thrives on a structurally weak system.

The Membership Committee of Nambawan Super plays an important role in the decision making process of the fund.

The Committee comprises of representatives of union associations and major companies that have diverse, complementary backgrounds and are independent of management and the company. At least one member of the Committee is a nominee of the Department of Personnel Management as determined by the Board.

Through this membership representation, the Committee provides assistance to the Board of Directors in fulfilling its responsibilities to its fund members and ensures that member's interests are always taken into consideration.

Absent: Eimi Kaptigau, Peter Luga and Helen Are'e.

A long serving member of the Committee representing the PNG Teachers Association, Mr. Martin Kenehe, recently stated that:

"as a long serving Committee and former Board Member, I have witnessed most of the transformations that took place to the former POSF that has seen it transform into a vibrant and successful organisation. The changes to the industry through the reforms and introduction of governing legislation have produced numerous rewards for the fund's members which have also been a result of the strategic management and adopting of a corporate vision, mission and values of the fund by its Board, Management and Staff."

Mr. Kenehe was excited about the future of the fund under its new name "Nambawan Super" and saw the Membership Committee's role in this journey as been equally important in ensuring that the interests of members continued to be a priority.

The Retirement Savings Account, a great product

Testimonial

My name is William Alu, I am 60-years old and am from Hula Village in the Central Province. I am married with seven children and two grandchildren.

I was an employee of the Education Department and joined the POSF in 1971. At the age of 58, I decided it was time to retire.

I had heard about a new product that had been introduced by POSF called the Retirement Savings Account. I was very interested in this account because I had heard many stories about people using up their retirement benefits in a very short period of time. Also, being from a culture that is interdependent, I know the pressures to contribute to traditional ceremonies such as bride price and death and also supporting family and extended family financially.

So when I retired in 2005, I invested K50,000 in an RSA. With the balance of my benefits I started a small contracting business. I am proud to say I am financially independent today. Investing in an RSA was one of the smartest decisions I have ever made.

Putting money in the bank would have allowed me easy access to the money where I may misuse it, the interest returns at the bank are not so good and the bank also charges fees which would cause my balance to decrease.

By keeping it in an RSA, the money is professionally managed and protected, the interest returns are very good and the tax exemptions benefit me greatly.

I use the RSA as a back up account. I take money out when important needs arise such as school fees. Otherwise, I live of my earnings as a contractor and I also have savings in the bank.

Investing in an RSA has enabled me to meet the difference of one of my child's University Fees as well as buy a computer to assist with their studies. I have also been able to build another house at the village.

My advice to other people who are soon to retire is to consider investing their benefits in an RSA and let your money work for you.

There is no need to touch it and once the interest starts to build you can live of the interest and let the principle investment keep earning money for you.

Paradise Foods Limited now locally owned

Paradise Foods Limited, formally known as Arnott's Biscuits (PNG) Limited last month became a wholly PNG owned business when shares in the business that were owned by Arnott's Biscuits in Australia were bought out by two prominent PNG companies.

Nambawan Super Limited is the major shareholder with 85 per cent shares and the remainder of the shares are held by Comrade Trustees Limited.

Paradise Foods is also celebrating over seventy years of manufacturing in Papua New Guinea and sees the purchase as a very positive outcome for the company and its employees.

Being a PNG owned company will allow Paradise Foods to better focus on their core Papua New Guinea market, and to grow their sales in the export markets. This growth will enable the company to continue to develop and provide new employment opportunities, and further expand its manufacturing facilities.

Paradise Foods is the oldest, continuously operating manufacturing company in Papua New Guinea's history.

Thousands of people have worked for Paradise Foods over the years, and millions of people have enjoyed the delicious taste of freshly baked biscuits, made right here in PNG. Paradise Foods has two state of the art manufacturing plants, one in Port Moresby and the other in Lae.

They have depots in Mt. Hagen and in Rabaul, and sales offices in many of the major towns throughout the country.

They make biscuits, snacks, breakfast cereals and two-minute noodles to "world's best" manufacturing practices, and are proudly exporting their "PNG Made" products to Australia, New Zealand, the Solomon Islands, and even Antarctica, and to many other countries throughout the South Pacific.

Their famous products include the 'Paradise', 'Morobe' and 'Arrow' brands for their biscuits, 'Arrow Snacks', 'Mamamia' and 'Kwikitain' brand noodles, and 'Sun Up' brand breakfast cereals.

Products like Hi-way Beef, Cream Crackers, Gold Nuggets, Wopa and Nambawan biscuits are brands names that are instantly recognized by everyone throughout Papua New Guinea.

The company's history began when Robert "Scotty" McEwan, a master baker, came to work for New Guinea Goldfields in Wau, in 1932. After his first leave he decided to resign from the company and establish his own bakery at Salamaua, which was the gateway for the Wau-Bulolo goldfields.

Captain Richard Mant arrived at Salamaua in 1933 and established another famous Papua New Guinea company, Carpenters Airways, to provide air services to the goldfields. He saw an opportunity to set up a bakery in the mining town of Wau. However, he soon found that flying airplanes did not give him enough to properly manage the bakery, so he entered into partnership with "Scotty" McEwan, combining their two bakeries, with Scotty taking over the management of both.

In 1937 the two partners formed the company "Morobe Bakery Pty Ltd" to raise additional capital and enable them to buy some biscuit-making equipment to make "ration" biscuits. Although the bakeries were completely destroyed during Malahang, in Lae.

Meanwhile, Paradise Bakeries had began its operations soon after the war as a small café in Rabaul, where Mr & Mrs Wong Kam Fai sold fried dough and tea. The family expanded the business into making scones, and then bread and other bakery products, which they began to sell to other local stores.

Mr Wong also saw the opportunity to make "ration" biscuits, and in the 1950's he purchased some second-hand equipment and the "Nambawan" brand of biscuits was born. In 1966 the business expanded to Port Moresby. In 1979, the business was moved back to Taraka in Lae.

Thirteen years later in 1992, Paradise Bakeries was sold to Morobe Bakery so that the Wong Family could concentrate on their newly-established Australian biscuits manufacturing operation. Arnott's Biscuits (PNG) Limited was officially formed then with the merging of the Morobe Bakery and Paradise Bakeries Groups of Companies which included the acquisition of the Arrow Brand.

Last month, Nambawan Super Limited became the proud owner of Arnott's Biscuits (PNG) Limited with 85 percent shareholding, renaming the company as Paradise Foods Limited.

Paradise Foods Limited now employs well over 500 people throughout the country. Paradise Foods Limited is truly a Papua New Guinean owned leading and historic company.

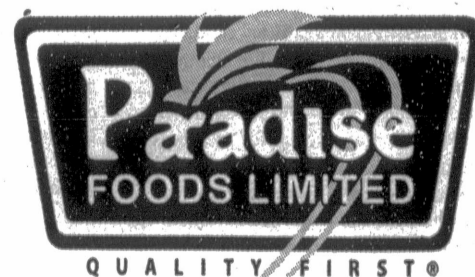

Mr Wong also saw the opportunity to make "ration" biscuits, and in the 1950's he purchased some second-hand equipment and the "Nambawan" brand of biscuits was born. In 1966 the business expanded to Port Moresby. In 1979, the business was moved back to Taraka in Lae.

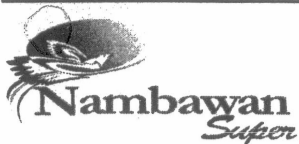

the Second World War, Scotty McEwan soon returned when it was over, re-building a bakery in Butibum Village, Lae. The company flourished in the post-war period leading up to self-government. In 1972 Arnott's Biscuits were invited to become shareholders in Morobe Bakery to assist in financing their new factory at

Thank you Nambawan Super

My name is John Oka from Gumine, Chimbu Province; I am married with six children. I have been with the PNG National Museum and Art Gallery for the past seven years.

I worked previously in both the Public and Private sectors but was unable to get any assistance to build a home for my family. I decided to try the Nambawan Super housing advance scheme and am so grateful that my application has been successful.

I am planning to use my housing advance to build a small house at 9-mile on the outskirts of Port Moresby.

The Nambawan Super housing advance scheme is a very good initiative because many Papua New Guineans are finding it difficult to secure, affordable accommodation and it is not easy to obtain money to help build a house.

Another good thing about the housing advance scheme is the affordable repayment plan. You only have to contribute 2% of your salary on top of the 6% you are already contributing towards repaying the housing advance. This is a blessing for us small income earners who would find life very difficult if we had to pay huge loans with large amounts of interest.

At least at the end of this, I will have a house for my family with an iron roof and walls to provide shelter and which we can call home.

I encourage all members of Nambawan Super who are in need of a home to apply through the scheme and benefit from it as I have done.

Thank you Nambawan Super from me and my family.

Sir Bishop Brian happy

When Sir Bishop Brian Barnes was invited to bless the launch of the Nambawan Super's new name and logo last Saturday, he was all too happy to do it.

Sir Bishop Brian is a member of the Nambawan Super Fund and has been for years. He started contributing to the Fund in 1976, one year after Independence, after he became a naturalized citizen of Papua New Guinea.

He had been working as a Government Chaplain attached to the Police Department in Papua New Guinea since his arrival in the country in 1968. After he retired in 1988, he automatically went on a pension and has been receiving fortnightly payments from Nambawan Super.

"My pension payment goes into my account every fortnight. Every year, when interest is announced my money is rolled over."

Two years ago, when the newly introduced Retirement Savings Account began, he became one of the first account holders.

When asked how he feels about the new name change, he said: "I am happy with the Fund. I really should be thinking of who should benefit when I pass on."

With dedication, loyalty, and will power comes job satisfaction

Rakatani Igo from Porebada village in the Central province is the longest serving staff at Nambawan Super.

After being with POSF for 22 years, Rakatani has no doubts that loyalty and perseverance does pay off.

She started work when the POSF was just a section within the Department of Finance. As changes occurred, she chose to move from the department to the entity which has finally become Nambawan Super.

Her responsibilities within the organisation have included being the Executive Secretary for 13 years where she served two Chief Executive Officers.

Structural changes within the organisation has seen her take up roles as Human Resources

Officer for 5 years and a Liaison Officer within the Member Benefits Division for 4 years which is where she is currently.

Her message to the young officers - "With dedication, loyalty, perseverance and will power comes job satisfaction so strive to achieve your best."

Rakatani Igo.

"We care for your future!"
