Bishop Van Lieshout, forty years on

By Victoria Villa-Juan Yos

THOUSANDS of Catholics in Lae, in the Morobe Province, flocked into the Sir Ignatius Kilage Out-door Stadium on Sunday the 4th of this month for a double celebration of 40 years of the establishment of the Lae Diocese and the 40th jubilee of Bishop Henry Van Lieshout as its first bishop.

Bishop Henry Van Lieshout was the main celebrant which was concelebrated by Arch Bishop William Kutz of Madang, the Apostolic Nuncio Arch Bishop Francisco Padilla, the bishops of Bougainville, Vanimo, Mt Hagen, Goroka and priests of the Diocese of Lae.

Also present and concelebrating was Fr Sheehy CMM who came all the way from Canada. From the Netherlands came Bishop Henry's sister and brother in law to be part of the festivities.

Catholic parishes as far as Menyama, Wau and Bulolo as well as across the sea from Siassi came to join the town parishes for the occasion.

Bishop Henry was carried in on a raised platform and escorted by a Tolai singing group to the altar and was welcomed again with an angelic choir echoing as Sr Majella guided it through.

The main message, in his homily, was the reminder to the people to have peace and unity among themselves. "Every time I pray I think of you and pray that we learn to love one another regardless of origin, status or colour" said Bishop Henry. He said we should thank God for being with us for the last 40 years and if we continue to ask him to be with us he will.

After the homily the Apostolic Nuncio Francisco Padilla, read a special message from Pope Benedict XVI who conveyed his cordial greetings and good wishes to Bishop Henry. Another message with congratulations came from Archbishop Robert Sarah, Secretary of the Evangelisation Congregation in Rome.

The scorching heat of the Sun was not an obstacle at all as the mass proceeded with the choir and kundu beats echoing the prayers.

A presentation of small children traditionally dressed and representing each province of the country, as a symbol of the mix of Catholics who make up the Lae Diocese, was well received. Then followed an eye-catching march-past by students of many of the Catholic agency schools who paraded to say thank you to Bishop Henry for all he had done for Catholic Education in the Diocese.

After the Mass Bishop Henry and guests were treated to a delicious meal prepared by the Catholic Women's Association. During the meal and for the rest of the afternoon everybody was entertained by the various parishes each saying thank you to Bishop Henry.

BISHOP'S 40 TH: "We should thank God for being with us for the last 40 years and if we continue to ask him to be with us he will."

Young at heart, age wasn't going to slow Bishop Henry down and he often danced along with the various groups. He expressed appreciation for the many gifts which ranged from money and material goods to traditional items. National pride says that a big man must be given pigs and yes, Bishop Henry received the same.

Bishop Henry Van Lieshout was one of a small group of early missionaries sent to Morobe in 1960 by the Missionaries of Mariannhill to help build up the faith and to assist in the development of the Church there.

Bishop Henry will be succeeded by bishop elect Chris Blouin when he will be ordained the second bishop of Lae on the 5th May.

Also present for the days festivities were the Hon Bart Philimon, Jerry Nalau, Lt Col Walter Natu Chief Instructor Defence Academy, Igam, Lt Col Carl Wrakonie, Commanding Officer Engineer Battalion, Igam.

Sir Henry Chow and Sir Soekandar Tjandra were also present along media reps from different media industries.

Free education political and misleading

IN recent weeks there has been discussion in the media about the need for a "Free Education Policy" for children in primary schools in Papua New Guinea said Br Andrew Simpson, Chairperson of the National Catholic Education Board in recent press statement.

The National Catholic Education Board, he went on to say, considers that there is no such thing as a free education policy and that in our country as we prepare for the 2007 national election, the promotion of this concept of free education becomes political and misleading.

The National Catholic Education Board supports the goal, he said, of Universal Primary Education in Papua New Guinea which recognizes the rights of all children to receive their right to receive basic education.

Within this goal of Universal Primary Education, he added, the National Catholic Education Board recognizes that there should be a form of subsidized education that assists parents receive assistance from Government and other Education Agencies in providing the basic education for their children.

The National Catholic Education Board, Br Andrew said, recognizes that there is no real concept of a free education, and that someone must pay for education. Parents must commit themselves to a basic payment for education and Government must also provide a just subsidy that assists the parents in their responsibility for educating their children.

He went on to say that the Board also comments that experience has shown that "free education" has been promoted in past years and that the resources of the country are not able to provide such "free education". "Start-stop" approaches by Government in support for elementary education has undermined community support. Furthermore the promotion of a concept of "free education" has led to a lack of commitment by many parents to the needs of education in PNG.

The National Catholic Education Board, he went on to say, was also concerned that in the promotion of Universal Primary Education that most schools in the country lack the basic teaching resources such as text books and that schools are severely hampered in their responsibility to provide educational services to our children. Many classrooms do not have basic textbooks to provide to children and learning then becomes quite haphazard and ineffective. The National Catholic Education Board believes that the Department of education would do well to provide these basic learning resources so that all children could benefit effectively from the learning within the classroom.

A very special start to the year

Br Brian Newman, ofm Cap

THE beginning of this year has proven special to many religious making profession of vows with most of these professions occurring at Alexishafen in the Madang Province.

In January, two Sisters of St Therese made their final profession at their chapel at Alexishafen. Sisters Apollonia Gabe and Theoldora Igunga professed their final vows before Archbishop William Kurtz svd and their religious superior, Mother Martha Lonai ssth.

The large chapel was filled with sister, brothers and relatives and friends of the two sisters making final profession. Also in the same month on the feast of Saint Arnold Jansen, the Founder of the Divine Word missionaries and the Missionary Servants of the Holy Spirit, three novices of the Holy Spirit Sisters made first profession. Sisters Scholastica Dising, Francisca Wesu and Milliana Wangusawo professed their first vows, also before Archbishop William Kurtz svd in the Holy Spirit Chapel at Alexishafen.

Later that month it was the Capuchin Brothers' turn when Fr Jerry Luke Kirime made first profession at the Capuchin Novitiate at Pangia in the Southern Highlands Province. On the same day Br Michael Wapu renewed his vows before Br Benjamin Madden who represented the Capuchin Vice Provincial. Also in the month at Padre Pio Friary, between Alexishafen and Kap, Brothers Norbert Kawai, Barnabas Alu, Harry Anio and Christopher Drua celebrated the renewal of their vows as Capuchin Franciscans. Fr Brian Newman received their vows in the name of the Church and the Capuchin Order.

In February the Missionary Sister of the Society of Mary had good reason to celebrate because of the celebration of final vows for Sister Lucinder Mologai. Sister Lucinder professed her final vows before Fr Allan Wasiecko, ofm cap and Sister Jennifer, who flew up from Sydney for this special occasion, in the St Therese sisters' Chapel at Alexishafen.

Climate change - Catholics must act

THE 20th century was the warmest globally in the last 600 years, yet predictions are that this may well pale beside the 21st. In February US scientists announced world temperatures for January - combined land and ocean surface temperatures - were the highest ever recorded. The world is getting hotter - and quickly.

Global climate change can no longer be ignored as though it were someone else's problem. The 2007 Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change - collating data from many disciplines - predicts global warming will continue throughout the century. The cause of global warming, the report concludes, is "very likely" human-induced activities caused through the unprecedented burning of fossil fuels.

These driving forces are commonplace - industry, cars, and electricity generation, the proliferation of energy-hungry appliances. For every tonne of fossil fuel burnt in energy production 3.7 tonnes of carbon dioxide gases are released into the atmosphere.

The current release of CO₂ to the atmosphere is more than double the capacity of the natural systems to absorb it. So, even if all CO₂s were discontinued today temperatures will continue to rise into the century and natural systems will continue to collapse. Reduction targets - as proposed by the Kyoto Protocol - aim to pull back the planet from the dire position where temperatures are simply so intense that life can no longer be sustained.

What can we do to avert disaster?

There is much that we can do, both politically on the global scale and personally. Catholics number about a billion people worldwide.

We can be mobilized to act and lobby at every level of government, industry and science. Ours is, above all else, a life-affirming theology. Life is respected and cherished from conception to the grave. Catholic spirituality affirms the natural beauty of creation is an image of God. As the present ecological crisis loomed, in 1990, Pope John Paul declared climate change to be "the moral issue we must face." Our time is now at hand, as St Paul might have said "to fight the good fight".

Luisa: Building Peace in Timor-Leste

A Lenten Story: Courtesy of Caritas Australia

• LUISA.

LUISA is from Dili in Timor-Leste (East Timor). In 1999 her life was changed forever. In the lead up to the 1999 referendum for independence, the Indonesian-backed militia and military undertook a campaign of terror and intimidation in an attempt to frighten the people into voting against independence. Luisa's husband was killed and the militia burned her home.

After the announcement that the majority of East Timorese voted in favour of Timor-Leste's independence, the violence erupted again. Luisa and her children fled to the United Nations (UN) compound in Matadoru for safety and were evacuated to Australia.

While in Sydney, Luisa received training in trauma counseling. Having experienced trauma first hand and learning the skills to be a trauma counselor, Luisa wanted to return to Timor-Leste to work with others affected by the trauma, helping them to talk about their own experiences.

Luisa returned home in June 2000 working as a counselor supporting survivors of sexual and domestic violence. "Independence meant we had to rebuild our own country but first we needed to rebuild our broken people." Says Luisa.

As many survivors of sexual violence did not attempt to seek help because of the stigma attached there was a great approached Caritas Australia to discuss the possibility of building a safe house at Dili National Hospital. A safe house is a place where survivors of violence can go to seek medical assistance, report the violence and receive support.

Caritas Australia's Human Rights Law and Justice Programme, working in partnership with other organizations built the new safe house at Dili National Hospital. Today Luisa works as a counselor at the safe house.

In April last year, further violence broke out in Timor-Leste. This raises the question - how could this happen in a country that fought so hard for independence? There is no easy answer to this question, but it is important to consider the following. In 1975, when Timor-Leste was ready for independence from its Portuguese colonizers, Indonesia invaded and so began 24 years of violent occupation. During the occupation, members of the militia were recruited by Indonesia from within Timor-Leste and so East Timorese were turning on their fellow East Timorese. Violence became a daily part of life. A whole generation of young people has grown up experiencing only violence.

Caritas Australia was one of the first organizations to form a team to develop culturally appropriate training to address local community groups on the issue. Initially two teams of women visited communities to address the issue, but then the East Timorese programmes staff identified the importance of having both women and men conducting the training. If the aim is to see sexual assault and domestic violence as a community issue (rather than a women's issue) with a solution that involves all members of the community, it is important that women and men conduct the training together.

While in Sydney, Luisa received training in trauma counseling. Having experienced trauma first hand and learning the skills to be a trauma counselor, Luisa wanted to return to Timor-Leste to work with others affected by the trauma, helping them to talk about their own experiences.

Recognising the vital importance of addressing violence and the causes of violence; challenging the stigma associated with sexual and domestic violence; and promoting everyone's involvement in finding a solution to the issue is how the supporters of Caritas Australia are helping to put this programme into action in Timor-Leste.

In April 2005 Luisa ap-

CHANGE IN METHOD OF VOTING UNDER THE LIMITED PREFERENTIAL VOTING (LPV) SYSTEM

The National Parliament in August 2006 passed legislative changes to the Organic Law on National and Local level Government Elections. Among the many changes, was the change in the manner of voting under the Limited Preferential Voting (LPV) system. The new legislative change will split the ballot paper into TWO separate documents. These two documents will be called a candidate poster and the actual ballot paper.

The slight change in the manner of voting under LPV is a provision in law that has come into force on the 21st of September 2006 and as such will be implemented in the coming 2007 general elections.

Sections 124 and 125 of the Organic Law as amended, require a candidate poster and a ballot paper to be used in the elections.

Copies of the candidate poster will be given FREE to all aspiring candidates for the 2007 general election weeks in advance prior to the actual polling time. They can use that as campaign material, courtesy of the Electoral Commission.

Vatican call on Catholics to build Papua peace

THE Holy See nuncio to Indonesia has urged Catholic villagers in Indonesia's Papua province to practise Christian values and build inter-communal harmony in areas known for tribal conflicts.

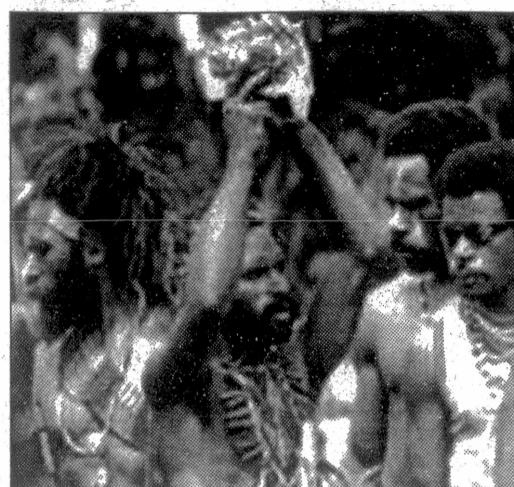

"There are many Papuan tribal and cultural values that are good, but there are also traditions that are harmful and which cause death," Archbishop Leopoldo Girelli, apostolic nuncio to Indonesia, told parishioners of Morning Star Church in Abmisiabil, UCA News reports.

"The bad elements are, among others, tribal warfare, adultery, polygamy, idol worship and belief in ancestral spirits," said the archbishop.

The prelate's visit to eight parishes in Jayawijaya district, Jayapura Diocese, was the first such pastoral visit by a nuncio to the area in Indonesia's easternmost province.

Wamena, capital of Jayawijaya district, is 3,465 km east of Jakarta.

According to government statistics, the largely Protestant district has a population of 313,961. Protestants make up 82 per cent, while Catholics make up 15 per cent and Muslims 1.5 per cent, with Hindus and Buddhists comprising the rest.

At Morning Star Parish, the nuncio urged Catholics to respect the dignity of others, to practice church teaching on marriage, and to build a culture of peace, justice and love.

During the dialogue session with local Catholics, lay leader Beny Ningdiana said: "Abmisiabil people, who dwell in the border areas between Indonesia and Papua New Guinea, sincerely welcome Pope Benedict XVI's representative to observe our joys and sorrows."

Local people hoped the Pope "will" continuously give them spiritual support and prayer for their welfare," he added.

Accompanied by several local bishops, Archbishop Girelli also visited other parishes where Catholics welcomed the nuncio with traditional dances. They also placed the noken, a traditional Papuan bag made of netted material, around his neck, along with head-dresses made of Bird of Paradise plumes.

Leadership: World AIDS Day Theme 2007/2008

The theme for World AIDS Day 2007 and 2008 is leadership. This theme will continue to be promoted with the campaigning slogan, Stop AIDS. Keep the Promise.

Why the theme of leadership?

Since the beginning of the epidemic, experience has clearly demonstrated that significant advances in the response to HIV have been achieved when there is strong and committed leadership. Leaders are distinguished by their action, innovation and vision; their personal example and engagement of others; and their perseverance in the face of obstacles and challenges. However, leaders are often not those in the highest offices. Leadership must be demonstrated at every level to get ahead of the disease - in families, in communities, in countries and internationally. Much of the best leadership on AIDS has been demonstrated within civil society organisations challenging the status quo. Making leadership the theme of the next two World AIDS Days will help encourage leadership on AIDS within all levels and sectors of society. We hope it will inspire and foster champions within a range of different groups and networks at local and international levels.

Leadership as a theme follows and builds on the 2006 theme of accountability. In 2006 a number of milestones were reached where accountability was particularly crucial. It was the year of the United Nations High Level Meeting on AIDS, which reviewed the progress on the 2001 Declaration of Commitment on HIV/AIDS, an important blueprint for reaching the Millennium Development Goals on AIDS. 2006 marked the fifth year anniversary of the African Abuja Declaration. 2006 was also the year in which national targets were set, or should have been set, by governments for achieving Universal Access to Treatment, Prevention, Support and Care by 2010. In addition, at 2006's International AIDS Conference, "accountability" was the buzzword throughout the global forum, reflecting the conference's theme, "Time to Deliver".

Despite the efforts to hold leaders accountable in 2006, progress in halting HIV is falling far short of targets. Over 25 million people have been lost to AIDS so far, and 4.3 million people were infected with HIV 2006. The spread of HIV is quickening, with more people infected in 2006 than in any previous year. This is despite the number of promises by world leaders to provide services to curb the rates of infection and to bring down death rates. The G8 has made commitments on AIDS which now need to be delivered upon. In other high level meetings, governments of rich countries promised to increase the spending on development aid to 0.7 percent of their annual budget. Only a handful of countries have done so. In the Abuja Declaration, African leaders committed to allocating 15 percent of their budgets to health. This has happened in just one or two countries, with only one-third of African countries spending over 10 percent. Promises are not being kept because there is a lack of leadership at every level.

Using the theme

As with past World AIDS Day themes, leadership has been chosen as a loose global campaigning concept. Local campaign themes and World AIDS Day messages are best shaped at national, or community levels, where campaigns can tailor the theme towards their specific situation or constituency. Where possible, campaigners are encouraged to link local messages to the leadership theme, particularly around World AIDS Day. This helps maximise national, regional and international visibility of global campaigning efforts on AIDS. Also where possible, we encourage the use of the slogan Stop AIDS. Keep the Promise. in the accompanying language of World AIDS Day materials.

The principle behind all the work of the World AIDS Campaign is that local messages should underpin all global cam-

The Catechism of the Catholic Church

Bishop Francesco of Goroka writes: Let's continue the exploration of our faith taken from the Catechism of the Catholic Church

The Human Community

PEOPLE living together form a society. Any society implies that a proper relationship must be respected towards the individual and towards the group. One cannot play against the other but it must be harmoniously balanced.

Person and society

Persons demand respect which is based on the creation dignity of all human being. God created them according to his own image and all are called to enjoy his friendship and presence in eternity.

It is to the human community (society) that God entrusted the care of creation, the respect of all human beings, the exercise of helping all towards achieving a common good.

The individuals must contribute to the benefit of the society and vice versa. And when communities or individual are taking advantages against each other by not respecting their rights, then a conversion of heart must take place. If not both individuals and communities may be destroyed by greedy and injustice.

Participation in social life

Humans being are social beings. They have a responsibility and the right to participate in the life of society. Societies are organized according to particular structures. Within those structures the individuals have a right to express their opinion and to be heard for what is good for the whole society.

It is the duty of the rightful authority within the society to encourage and direct the energies of the individuals to develop the best of his abilities and to work for the common good.

The common good requires that the basic needs in order to live a truly human life should not be taken away from the people like food, clothing, health, work, education and culture, information, the right to form a family.

For a society to be fully alive it requires that everyone and the society as a whole work for peace and social stability. The promotion of peace and stability is not only in favor to a particular society but must reach beyond the boundaries of a nation and reach out to influence other communities and nations.

Responsibility and participation

Everyone has the responsibility to participate in the life of the community. This is part of his dignity as human being. There is a personal responsibility to educate oneself in the best possible way, to be responsible for the life of the family and education of children, to be responsible to do a conscientious work.

There is also a social responsibility by taking part in public life, to be at the service of others and in this way build a better society "providing the generations to come with reasons for life and optimism" (GS 31,3).

Social justice

Society must provide the conditions to facilitate individuals or groups to achieve what is good for them. Social justice is obtained only by respecting the dignity of a human person created by God and on the journey towards him. This is a right based on the dignity of persons. Such right is prior even to the rights of society and must be recognized as such. It is part of the social justice that every form of discrimination must be abolished as contrary to God's will (GS 29,2).

There are elements of great injustices in the world when some societies or individuals use economical or political power to oppress others and deprive them of their right of freedom and development. An international solidarity is required in order to establish good order among peoples.

Such solidarity is not only in providing material goods but also in proposing and encouraging moral and spiritual values.

campaigning efforts. Whatever messages are most appropriate for AIDS campaigning work can be promoted with the leadership message. The theme of leadership is offered as a vehicle for uniting efforts within a common global message. World AIDS Campaign themes have a number of campaigning functions, including:

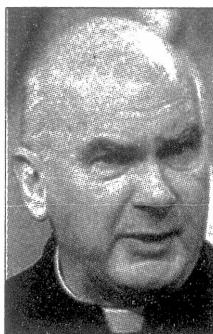

- helping to generate media coverage for AIDS and World AIDS Day.
- providing organisations who have limited resources access to meaningful campaigning materials.
- enhancing solidarity within the global response to AIDS through working through an united effort.
- galvanising action both nationally and internationally in a way that other smaller scale efforts can not by representing a world AIDS campaigning message.

Where the global campaigning theme of leadership detracts from the impact of local efforts it should not be used. In any situation where the global campaigning theme is seen as diminishing the autonomy of local campaigning voices it should not be used. The global theme offers only a loose organising principle where it complements existing or emerging campaigning efforts.

One advantage of using the theme, particularly around World AIDS Day, is that it can offer a universally recognised vehicle for promoting a wide range of AIDS issues. The media, governments, local businesses, and a range of institutions locally and globally embrace World AIDS Day, and the annual theme that accompanies it, as an opportunity to demonstrate commitment and action on AIDS. So a diverse range of campaigners can use the theme to promote their causes. Campaigns could be politically orientated towards government, for example, "Leadership on treatment now: we are still dying. Stop AIDS. Keep the Promise." Or they could be designed to mobilise a certain sector within a common cause, for example, "Textile workers, lead the fight against AIDS in your workplace." The theme of leadership is designed to be as flexible as possible to accommodate a range of campaigning needs.

Christians lack imagination; Vatican media archbishop CHRISTIANS have often "lacked the imagination" to use the media well in making known the good news of Jesus Christ, according to the President of the Pontifical Council for Social Communications, Archbishop John Foley.

• Archbishop Foley

The Archbishop added that Catholics, and especially Catholic communicators, must ask forgiveness for the times they have failed to share God's love and compassion, according to a Catholic News Service report.

"Certainly, it is necessary to identify the evils in society and warn people against them, but our major effort should be in proclaiming the knowledge and love of our merciful saviour, Jesus Christ," he said during a homily this week, during the opening Mass of the council's annual plenary session at the Vatican.

Referring to the day's Lenten readings, Archbishop Foley asked council members to examine the ways they have failed to use modern media to spread the good news as well as ways they may have contributed to a public view of the church as a body that speaks mainly to condemn.

The archbishop said Pope Benedict XVI "has justly counselled us not to be seen as always saying 'no,' but to reflect - and to be seen to reflect - in our use of the media the mercy and compassion of Jesus Christ."

The good news and the good deeds undertaken by the Church out of love for God and for other people need to be shared every bit as much as the church warnings about evil, he said.

The media are used successfully "to sell soap and automobiles and clothing and vacation experiences," he said.

But Christians, "who have the responsibility to proclaim the most important message in the history of the human race, have often lacked the imagination and the dedication to use the media well in making known the good news of Jesus Christ," the archbishop said.

Free tourist visas for WYD participants

WITH less than 500 days left in the countdown to World Youth Day in Sydney, Deputy Prime Minister Mark Vaile has announced that the Government will grant free three-month visas for all participants.

A three-month visa will allow those visitors to explore more of Australia while they're here, and allows other parts of the country to share in the hosting of WYD," Mr Vaile said according to a Zenit report.

The Sydney Morning Herald reports that Mr Vaile is replacing Environmental Minister Malcolm Turnbull on the World Youth Day organising committee because the latter is now - in the words of Sydney Cardinal George Pell - "sorting out the water problems of the country". According to Cardinal Pell, "the young people who come to WYD will overwhelmingly be pilgrims rather than simply tourists, although I know they will be attracted by the beauty of Sydney and the interest and variety of Australia".

POTO: Andrew Molen.

The 563E Series Compactors are high production units.
Standard dual amplitude, changeable from the operator's station, expands the application range. Operate in high amplitude to get density on thick lifts in the fewest passes. Select low amplitude when operating next to structures, when approaching final density, or to avoid fracturing aggregates. Patented eccentric weight design assures positive amplitude selection and helps extend vibratory system service life.
