

Chancellor Atkinson attends high-level national science policy meeting at New York

October 28, 1988

Exclusive to Tom Blair:

At a high-level national science policy meeting last weekend, UCSD Chancellor Dick Atkinson got his early morning jogging route laid out for him by fellow jogger, former President Jimmy Carter. The two were among a group of 20 (including David Rockefeller and Stanford President Donald Kennedy) who were invited to New York's Rockefeller University to strategize the future of science and technology in the United States.

Contact : Win Cox, UCSD, 534-3120

(October 28, 1988)