Ellsberg: UC Working on 'Genocide'

Daniel Ellsberg, of Pentagon Papers fame, spoke on nuclear weapons yesterday in Mandeville Auditorium.

Former Pentagon official Daniel Ellsberg said here yesterday that the UC system was providing a "secret design of genocidal (nuclear) equipment" for the Pentagon.

Ellsberg, celebrated for his leakage of the Pentagon Papers, spoke on the UC Nuclear Weapons Laboratory Conversion Project before a small crowd in Mandeville Auditorium.

The weapons project involves the conversion of UC-run nuclear research labs in Livermore, California and Los Alamos, New Mexico from weapons research to research involving peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

According to Steve Ladd of the War Resisters' League, a colleague of Ellsberg's on the project, every nuclear weapon in the U.S. was developed at these two labs, which he referred to as the "brains of the nuclear weapons machine.

Through UC: he said, the labs receive $600 million per year from the federal government. over half of which goes to the development of new weapons.

Although the funding comes from the federal Department of Energy. Ellsberg stated that in effect UC is working for the Pentagon, since the weapons are developed for military use.

According to Ellsberg, UC is not well-informed as to the activities of the labs but merely proceeds with the attitude of they (the government) want us to do it, so we do it.'

Ellsberg told UC students that they have the power to say "not here" and demand that UC not participate in the development of nuclear weapons.

He urged students to attend the Regents' meeting Feb. 15 in Los Angeles where UC involvement in nuclear weapons development.

Ellsberg also said that reducing the danger of nuclear weapons will require effort and patience which will probably continue through "our lives and the lives of our children.

According to Ellsberg, the U.S. now has 30,000 nuclear warheads and has always set the pace in the nuclear arms race. The continued production of nulcear weapons does not increase national security, said

Arguments Traded in Coors Debate

By Eric Harpell Staff Writer

Coors boycott leaders and Coors representatives traded arguments and statistics Monday as both the company their long-running debate on of the Coors Company Coors employment practices in the North Conference Room.

Quoting statistics at every opportunity, members of both groups presented conflicting and its opponents continued arguments on the actual policy regarding racial discrimination, polygraph tests, employee rights and other alleged Coors practices.

Joe Benites, Coors Community Relations Manager and former president of the let me of Latin American Citizens (LULAC), and Susan Booker, a former brewery employee and current director of the campus representation program for Coors, represented Coors on the panel. David Sickler, the National Coordinator of the Coors Boycott and a former brewery worker, and Evelyn Desmaris, a boycotting brewery worker, represented the Boycott Coors Committee.

The first question, addressed to Benites; set the tone for following questions, many of which centered around the Coors. They do not have to take boycotters' accusations against Coors.

Benites replied to a question concerning employment practices at Coors with a stepby-step description of the precedure from application to

"They (Coors) do administer a lie-detector test," said Benites in reference to the boycotters' claim that preemployment polygraphs are administered. Benites also described a Coors provision for those more likely to give selfincriminating responses on the polygraph, such as former criminals. "There is a program at the Coors Company in Canyon City, Colorado where former convicts are rehabilitated and trained to work at lie detector tests.

However, Benites said the polygraph questions asked are "job-related." He cited the example of a question asked of prospective employees concerning their possible drug use on the job. "There is a lot of heavy machinery," said Benites, "and an employee using marijuana on the job could get badly injured."

David Sickler replied to Benites statements concerning employment policy at the Coors Company, saying, "there are many other tests required (other than the polygraph), including psychological tests. We have sworn affidavits from former employees stating that they were asked about their sex

Coors Controversy Hits Stanford University, Too produced Stanford Jazz Series.

At Stanford University, where Coors provides free beer for fraternities, advertising revenue for the Stanford Daily. jazz concerts for students and a recycling center for aluminum cans, some people are upset with the Coors connection, and are in the midst of a "grass roots" campaign to drive Coors off campus.

Andrew Goldenkranz, one of four Associated Students presidents in a bizarre student government that has a Senate. a four-headed executive and a 'special events' branch, is heading the drive against Coors

Utilizing the usual arguments against Coors' employment practices, Goldenkranz says he already has convinced "a dozen" residence halls on campus to boycott Coors beer, and is now working on the AS, trying to get that body to end its connection with Coors.

The Stanford AS works with Coors on two fronts. The "Coors Cash for Cans" Recycling Center is dependent on Coors because, AS spokesman Henry Garcia says, "No other company will cart away the

Vending Transfer A Mistake

Students, faculty and staff pour quarters into vending machines with amazing regularity on this campus. This year, it is expected that over $50,000 in revenue will be realized from that source. Quite naturally, where that money goes is a subject of debate in the university.

Until July 1, that money will go to the four college governments and will be used to fund various college activities ranging from graduation to the Muir Special

On July 1, Chancellor McElroy will take those funds away from the colleges and allocate them to Food and Housing Services, where, he says, the money is needed to help reduce a $230,000 deficit.

After July 1, the college governments will have some funds left over from this year's allocation to go towards next year's needs, but it is doubtful the funds will last the entire year. After that, Reg Fees will be the probable source of funding. (Approximately $20,000 of Reg Fee money that is currently going to pay the debt service on the Third College Cafeteria will soon be freed when Food and Housing Services takes over that payment).

The students and college governments have no prior "right" to vending machine money. There are as many faculty and staff using the machines as students. Still, the reallocation of funds involves two points that we find objectionable.

First, the decision to reallocate the funds was made over the summer, with no student participation. The campus vending machine committee, which has student representation, was not consulted until after the decision had been made. We feel that any decision on this campus that involves or effects students must have prior student

Second, taking the vending machine funds away from the colleges and channeling it through the Reg Fee committee takes away decision-making authority from the colleges. The college governments will lose the flexibility of funding they have had in the past, leading to a further loss of their already shaky identity.

The administration seems to regard the reallocation as a fait accompli, but it doesn't have to be that way. The Student Center Board is working toward contracting out the Student Center vending machines itself and replacing the centrally-administered machines. The four colleges should also think about putting their own machines in dorm and quad areas, as those machines almost certainly are used predominantly by students. We are aware that McElroy is the final authority on this campus. However, it has been demonstrated in the past that if students are emphatic enough in their disagreement, McElroy's will can be bent. We urge the AS and other student organizations to continue their vigorous protest of this administrative action, and we urge all the students to support them.

Facilities to Expand

Students, Staff Working for Recreation Responses to Student Questionnaire Sought

students have been doing over the last year and a half to alleviate the shortage of recreational athletic facilities at UCSD. A committee, composed primarily of students (4 students appointed by ASUCSD, 2 by GSC, 1 from each college), along with the V-C Student Affairs, Chair of the PE Dept., representatives of the faculty and staff, and consultants and staff support, met throughout the 1977-78 academic year. This committee first reviewed the use of all types of athletic facilities on campus. Special surveys were conducted to gauge the student need for certain major facilities (such as the ning pool, the gyms, and fields). The review indicated that most of the facilities were crowded and in continuous use. The pool, for example, was booked solid from 6 a.m. to midnight on some days, with waiting lines at noontime and in the late afternnon for open swim. The committee examined revised scheduling and minor capital improvements to optimize the recreational use of the existing facilities. For example, although there would be enough grass playing fields (with the already-planned and northeast of Central Library), they couldn't be used at times convenient to students due to darkness. Adding lights to a major field would alleviate the problem. Similarly, a better floor and better-diffused lighting would enhance use of the Recreation Gym; the North Balcony of the Main Gym should be acoustically isolated from the gym floor; the dangerously cramped Weight Room must be expanded; and lights on additional tennis courts would expand their use.

Nothing short of new facilities could alleviate the shortage in some areas. Only 32 eople at a time can be crowded the pool for open swim.

larity of racquetball, UCSD doesn't have a single full-sized court (only 2 smaller squash courts). Additional tennis courts and gym floor space could also be used. The committee examined a large number of major capital construction plans to meet the indicated student needs. Particular attention was paid to getting the most recreation for the least money. Many financing methods were explored, with a Regents' loan backed by a student fee plus external gift funds being the most practical in the face of rapidly inflating construction costs. The plan called for placing all the the new facilities next to the new fields northeast of the Centeral Library. This is how matters stood at the end of spring, 1978. A small student committee met in the fall to draft appropriate student referendum questions, but it determined that the financing method needed modification to be practical. In particular, a new gym required almost one million dollars in gift funds and the University solicitation mechanism for these funds was then unavailable. The "Student Opinion Survey - May, 1978" found that recreational athletics was so important to students (second only to student Health) that 57% were detailed improvements

mentioned earlier, including

lighting of fields and tennis courts, a new swimming pool with jacuzzi, and racquetball would be necessary to include a new gym. Faculty/staff/ alumni participation will require payment of a use fee.

The main purpose of this report is to get more, direct student impact on what facilities you want and where they should be located. To that end, there is a short poll next to this report which asks your ions on the various types of ilities proposed. These are facilities the committee's research indicated were most needed and were ranked first in the "Student Opinion Survey -

The campus is currently at 'steady-state' in student ulation, and the number of college students is not expected to increase in the next 20 years. All of the facilities could be built conveniently near the Main Gym; but expansion to include a new gym would be difficult or impossible and any substantial increase in students would probably be located nearer the Library site. Plans are underway to secure the additional gift funds for a new gym. We ask you to decide how and the relative convenience of the two proposed sites.

We have two good plans listed here. One is more conveniently located now: the other can be more easily expanded. Construction costs are increasing rapidly so there is definite advantage to building now rather than postponing are needed. Please return the poll to the Student Recreaton Facilities Poll Box at EDNA (Mail Code B-023). We'll digest the results and report back with the final plan for a referendum in a couple of weeks.

US, Japan, Europe Gird For Oil Cutback Effects

LONDON (AP) - Europe and Japan have started to feel the pinch of the oil cutoff in Iran and the impact is beginning to ripple through the energy-hungry industrialized world, a survey showed yesterday.

Wed., Feb. 7, 1979

No longer bankrolled by $22 billion a year in oil revenues, Iran has been forced to cancel huge contracts that could cost jobs in many western nations.

In the United States, President Carter ordered federal agencies to press their fuel-saving efforts in a drive to head off mandatory conservation. Government and industry analysts warned that several more months without Iranian oil could lead to gasoline shortages this summer, heating shortages next winter and higher prices for both products.

The country that was once the world's second largest oil exporter after Saudi Arabia now is only producing a paltry 664,000 barrels a day, which is barely enough to meet domestic needs.

Muir Initiates Dean Search

By Toby Raymond Muir Provost John Stewart has appointed a search committee for a new college dean to replace James Beckley. who resigned last November after pleading "no contest" to one felony charge.

Beckley, who was placed on probation in December, had pled "no contest" to one felony charge of possession of blank checks with intent to defraud. Two other charges against Beckley were dropped in exchange for his "no contest"

UCSD Intramural Basketball Results

As Intramural team sports action reeps "over-the-hump" this week and begins its downhill slide towards the post-season play-offs, it might be fitting to pass out a mid-term report card on many of the top teams that have been performing this winter. BASKETBALL

Men's AAA - Last year's champs CAPITAL INSULATION appears on its way to another title as they trounced the RIM SHOTS 67-29 for their 4th straight in '79. BETTERS BOUNDS who put together a pair of squeaky two-point and four-point victories last week appear to have the best chance of knocking off el numero uno. The AAA ratings:

1 CAPITAL INSULATION (4-0) 2 BETTER BOUNDS (4-0) 3 RUN BUT NO GUN (2-1)

4 NEW YORK DICKS (3-1) 5 HD's FREE (2-0)

Men's AA - Action is really heating up in this always-competitive division as four strong 4-0 teams crowd the top jockeying for position. The latest addition to the pack is THE MED STUDS who upset previously undefeated DIVINITY CITY 62-50 late Sunday. WHIFF still holds down the top spot, but their victory margins keep dwindling. Anxiously waiting forthe slightest bobble from the defending champs are two powerhouses from the "Pearl" League HOOTERVILLE EXPRESS and TENACIOUS TESTICLES. The AA

ratings: 1 WHIFF (4-0)

2 HOOTERVILLE EXPRESS (4-0) 3 TENACIOUS TESTICLES (4-0)

4 THE MED STUDS (4-0) 5 RUNNIN' REBELS (3-0) 6 MIRAGE (3-1)

7 HOMERS (4-0) 8 WILDCATS (3-0)

9 CAROTID BODIES (2-1) 10 DIVINITY CITY (3-1)

2 BETTER BOUNDS (4-0) 3 RUN BUT NO GUN (2-1) 4 NEW YORK DICKS (3-1) 5 HD's FREE (2-0)

1 CAPITAL INSULATION (4-0)

Men's A - It looks like a two-horse race in Single-A this year at GRAVITY and THE HACKS have stepped to the head of the class with impressive starts. The HACKS' 24.5 average victory margin is tops in the division with the easiest part of their schedule still to come. GRAVITY is off to a similar start featuring a couple of andbaggers from previous years' AA play. The Single-A ratings:

1 GRAVITY (4-0) 2 HACKS (4-0)

3 SCHMATA (3-0) 4 JUMPING JAVA MEN (3-0) 5 HARD ON THE COURT (3-1)

In perhaps the most evenly contested intramural event of the year, Elaine Bergman and Margery Schwartz defeated Dawn Wilson and Cely Bergado 15-12 to win the 1979 Women's Volleyball Doubles Championship last Tuesday night. EAch of the 10 teams competing lost at least once during the evening competition as testament to the closeness of the affair. Bergman and Schwartz worked for every point in the tough preliminary pool play and were even defeated by 5th-seeded team of Kay "You Fuul" Melchor and Eva Ljungwe. In the Pool #2, eventual finalists Wilson and Bergado finished a distant third to teams of Sherrie Lilly-Nancy Wada and Tracy Off-Crista Videriksen. Last Sunday's action was highlighted by the COURT CASUALS' stunning 18-10 victory over previously undefeated GO FOR IT. It was the CASUALS first victory of the season and bumped them into the top 5 for the first time. The first-ever UCSD All-College Aquatics Festival finished a successful run Saturday afternoon as a maverick group of graduate school and med school swimmers combined forces to annex the team title for the Grad Student team. Two stirring victories in the final events of the day, the Men's 200-yard freestyle relay and the Men's 200-year medley relay, cinched the victory for the old guys who were the recipients of some impressive performances by the Med School's Chris Glass who clocked a quick 51.27 in the Men's 100-yard free event. The team scoring was consistently close throughout as the lead changed hands several times. Revelle College finished in second place with 60 points, while Muir College totaled 461/2 to cop third. Warren finished right behind with 44 points while Third College scored only in the innertube water polo event and wound up with 21/2. The Grad Students winning team point total was 67. In the Innertube Water Polo competition held prior to the swim meet, Warren College annexed the championship with a 6-4 victory over Revelle. Does 42nd Street or Golden Boy ring a bell? What about Busby Berkely or John Garfield? Well, if none of these names conjures up a nostalgic memory, then Movie, Movie will be like an inside joke that needs explaining. If, however, you are a fan of old movies, then Movie, Movie will be a delightful stroll down memory

Movie, Movie is actually two movies in one and both are easily recognizable reworkings of old movie plots. The first film, done in period black and white, is a send-up of the would prevent the parody from Warner Bros. fight films called 'Dynamite Hands." This film deals with Joey Popchik, an idealistic young man who puts aside his law studies in favor of boxing so that he can raise $25,000 for his sister's eye operation. "Dynamite Hands" is followed by "Baxter's Beauties of 1933," a glossy spoof of the classic backstage musical in which the young chorus girl becomes a success by replacing the star on opening night.

They let too many of the cliches go untouched by a satiric pen and thus they lose the opportunity to reveal something new about the old Hollywood conventions.

Movie, Movie, though, does have many entertaining moments mainly due to the excellence of the cast. George C. Scott, in his first real comedic role since The Flim Flam Man, gives a funny performance which is high pointed by his marvelous parody of Hollywood death scenes. The polished acting by veterans like Scott is complemented by some remarkable fresh screen talent. Barry Bostwick (of Rocky Horror fame) is delightful as the lanky boy wonder composer in "Baxter's Beauties" and he even manages to steal scenes from Scott. Also noteworthy is Harry Hamlin as Joey Popchik.

lives, or 'if your father was a guilty employee at Coors, would you turn him in?"

Sickler also commented on the polygraph test, "Once you are hired, the polygraph becomes a condition for employment. The lie detector is used as a tool of intimidation."

A second major complaint of the Coors boycotters, discrimination against minorities, was also discussed by Benites after the issue was raised by a member of the audience. Benites cited figures which he maintained negated the validity of the racial discrimination claims. "The Adolph Coors Company now employs 14.2% minorities, which is the largest percentage of minority labor employeed in the state of Colorado.'

Sickler maintains that racist sentiment was prevalent at Coors. He recalled being among the brewery workers addressed by Joseph Coors just prior to the equal rights act of 1964 when, Sickler claimed, Coors told the workers, "Contact your Congressman and urge him to vote against Civil Rights. If you don't, then you will be replaced by Negroes." Sickler could only recall four minority workers during his tenure.

Benites, who is Mexican-American, and Susan Booker, who is black, addressed questions regarding the discrimination of women at Coors, in addition to discrimination of racial minorities. Booker did not agree that there was any discrimination in the employment of females when asked directly by audience participant William Cadwallader.

Evelyn Desmaris of the Boycott Coors Committee claimed that the recent hirings of women by Coors is due to the influx of complaints against the company, and the boycott. Desmaris cited the fact that the first woman's restroom was not installed at the Golden, Colorado brewery until 1973.

The Coors representatives

made no comment when Sickler stated. "They (Coors) killed two birds with one stone when they hired women and minorities to replace the boycotting workers.

Sickler was questioned in regard to minority support of the boycott by a student who asked, "How many Chicanos went on strike?" Sickler could not come up with statistics, but asserted that there were many Chicano supporters. Sickler did read a letter written to the boycotting union, Local #366, by median salary of brewery workers was $20,000 per year. To this claim, Sickler replied, that since brewery workers are paid by the hour. "You would have to take your bedroll with you for twenty thousand."

According to Brad Thornberg. General Manager of KSDT, the decision as to whether KSDT will run the "Mystery IS My Hobby," radio program produced by Coors will not be made before next Monday. The purpose of the Forum was to present both sides to the claims of the Coors boycotters, so that the staff of KSDT could decide whether to continue their support of the
