The SDSU Center for Research on Sexuality and Sexual Health (SASH) presents: "Subjectified: Nine Young Women Talk About Sex"

April 17, 2018; 7:00-9:00PM SDSU Student Union Theater

"Subjectified: Nine Young Women Talk About Sex" is a documentary that lets women define sexuality on their own terms. Featuring one-on-one interviews with nine diverse young women from all over the country, Subjectified unearths complex stories of female sexuality—stories that, up until now, have been shockingly absent from the pop culture in their authentic form. The stories may sound familiar: young moms, abstinent Christians, lesbians, survivors of assaults and STDs. But outside the world of reality TV and sound bites, women approach their lives in complex and unexpected ways: sometimes hilarious, sometimes sobering, and always heartfelt. Faculty-led discussion with Dr. Jennifer Felner will follow.

Chicano Legacy
April 23, 2018; 12:00-1:00PM
UCSD Geisel Library, Seuss Room

Join us to view this short documentary on the power of students to make change. The Chicano Legacy Mural was commissioned at UC San Diego in 2011 as a response to racist incidents on campus. The film explores how the first ever permanent, minority inspired public artwork on campus has inspired students and its impact on campus life.

The screening will be followed by a Q & A with the filmmakers Horacio Jones and Jorge Mariscal.

Open to the public. All are welcome.
Refreshments will be served.

Hosted by the Library Diversity & Inclusion Committee.

Disability, Intersectionality, & State Violence Symposium
April 26, 2018; 11:00AM-7:00PM
UC San Diego Atkinson Hall

JOIN THE CONVERSATION: The sites, practices, and mechanisms most commonly associated with state violence provide a powerful lens for analyzing intersectionality across identities marked by ability, race, ethnicity, gender, class, age and other groups who experience heightened levels of vulnerability. This one-day symposium features presentations and performances by artists, scholars, community advocates and representatives of social service organizations to foster dialog around concerns with forms of vulnerability to violence that are generated, under-addressed or ignored by state institutions. Presenters will address the ways in which the conditions of schooling, psychiatric and other healthcare, policing, and incarceration, raise heightened concerns for the human rights of people at the intersection of minoritized identities and disability.

MULTI-IDENTITY ART COLLECTIVE

ART IS FOR EVERYONE!

LET'S MAKE ART

The Multi-Identity Art Collective is just a big family of artists from different experience levels, majors, and backgrounds.

It doesn't matter if this is the first time you've touched a pencil or if you've been doing art since you could hold one. We welcome everyone who wants to make art in community with other artists!

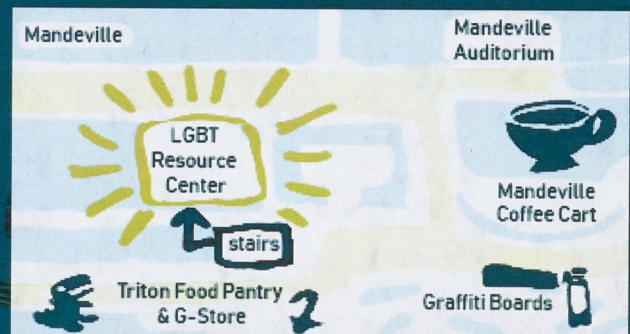

WHAT DO WE DO?

Our members meet weekly to work on their own artistic projects and support each other! We also do art workshops, have art prompts, and have social events like watching Black Panther or Pacific Rim!

Come on out and make some art with us. It's a great opportunity to start making art or to get back in the game. Besides, artists never do anything unless there's a deadline.

Join the Multi-Identity Art Collective today!

In the center, a small, blue, cat-like creature with glowing eyes sits on a red and black patterned object. On the right, a character with dark hair, a purple headpiece, and a purple top holds a sword with a yellow hilt. The background is a dark blue with abstract, colorful shapes in shades of green, yellow, and purple.
