CALENDAR ANNOUNCEMENT

January 29, 30 & 31

International architectural critics will convene at the School of Architecture at the University of California, San Diego, Jan. 29, 30 and 31, 1993, to participate in a public forum: Search for Substance: Critical Reflections on the Architecture of the 1980's. These deliberations will explore architecture against the backdrop of shifting priorities between public and private sectors, the reordering of the political map, and drastic contrasts between the more and less industrialized nations. Critical reflection on architecture may move back and forth from the most exacting analysis of the individual work, its formal order and meaning, to a consideration of the larger societal and technical forces at work. For information call (619) 534-5305.
