

Calendar item, new School of Architecture at UCSD presents a November 16-17 forum entitled "Converging Lines: Architecture Beyond Boundaries"

September 16, 1991

Media Contact: Pat JaCoby, (619) 534-7404 EDITORS: PLEASE NOTE CORRECTED TELEPHONE NUMBER

CALENDAR ITEM

November 16-17 The new School of Architecture at the University of California, San Diego, will present a Nov. 16-17 forum entitled "Converging Lines: Architecture Beyond Boundaries." The forum will explore the boundaries of architecture by examining the work of people who already have succeeded in synthesizing disciplines to create new forms and environments. Panel discussions, presentations and workshops will explore the links between architecture and craft, architecture and technology, architecture and theater/film, architecture and landscape, and architecture and art.

For information call the UCSD School of Architecture, (619) 534-5305.

(September 16, 1991)