Cal Club Holds Convention

Starting yesterday and running through tomorrow is the 32nd Anniversary Convention of the California Club, held on the San Francisco campus of the University of California. Attending the convention from UCSD will be the UCSD members of the Cal Club.

The theme of the meeting will be, "Students and Society — Society and the University." The convention will feature discussions on the theme led by students and assisted by experts from the State Legislature, the business world, and the news media.

The California Club is a club designed to advise President Clark Kerr on university problems. Students chosen for the club are picked by Kerr after being submitted to him from the faculty advisor of the club of each campus. Students must be up in their studies and active in the campus affairs to be nominated for the club.

Usually only juniors and seniors are in the Cal Club. Each campus is allowed 25 students to be in the council; however, this might change due to reorganization.

At the meetings of each individual chapter of the Cal Club topics, which President Kerr has sent to the meeting are discussed. After the club has reached an opinion or decision the results are sent back to President Kerr. In this way the club is a sounding board for each University campus.

AS DANCE

"Peanuts Party" is the theme of tonight's Associated Students dance. The Highlighters will play for this casual dance to be held in the South Dining Room. Beginning at 9:00 p.m. and ending at 12:00, the dance will feature a group of three singers. Admission price is 50 cents.

NEWMAN CLUB

A Newman Club meeting will be held on Tuesday, February 1, at 4:00 p.m., in room 0132 B Building B. A guest speaker will be present. All members are urged to attend, as several important announcements will be made. New members are always welcome and encouraged to come.

TUTORIAL CONFERENCE

Leaving today for UC Riverside are five UCSD students who will spend the weekend attending a Tutorial Conference. The five students are Alex Urquhart, Betsy Strahl, Corinne Clark, Sandy Peckham, and Bob Kenedy. The purpose of this tutorial conference is to bring together representatives of a tutorial system which teaches underprivileged children who cannot afford to attend school. The representatives from UCSD will investigate this system and will try to begin such a program here.

Recent Revelle College Events -

New Government Proposed

At the recent meeting of the General Council of the Revelle College Residence Halls, a college government was proposed.

The government will include undergraduates, both residents and non-residents, and graduates with one representative from each hall for residents, one representative for every 70 commuter students, and one representative for every 70 graduate students. The Inter-hall Constitution will be amended to encompass this new government.

The General Council is made up of two representatives from each residence hall with an Executive of four members chaired by freshman Steve Harter and a Judicial Committee of six members with junior George Kurata as Chief Justice.

Other business covered included a film program for Saturday nights and the policy on commuter rooms.

The films will be shown in the cafeteria with an admission price of 25 cents at 8:00 p.m. Tomorrow night's film will be The Quiet One. The Great Chase with W. C. Fields is scheduled for next week.

Commuters will be charged a dollar per night spent in commuter rooms. This fee is to be paid to the Residence Assistant of the hall in which the student stays. The three halls that have commuter rooms and their RA's are: Atlantis, Dan Morris; Beagle; John Nuber; and Galathea, Gracilla Harris.

Inter-Hall Council Rules Dorms, Judicial Board

The Inter-hall council, or General Council, has now had something less than one Quarter to Organize itself, to become an operating form of government for the resident halls, and to create some sort of judicial board for dealing with infractions of dorm regulations.

Since its formation, the General Council has been steadily increasing its responsibilities from just judging residents. At present, a number of committees are being formed to deal with such matters as the use of the Central Facilities Building, co-ordinating the spending of vending machine revenues, and planning social events, such as the highly successful movie series being shown on Saturday nights in the Cafeteria. In addition, a student-faculty committee has been formed to facilitate communication between these two bodies, and is in close contact with the Provost.

Members of the Social and Entertainment Committee, the Student Union Committee, the Government Planning Committee, and the Publicity Committee will be drawn from interested students in the residence halls.

New Editors Fill Positions

Freshmen Phil Herschman and Linda Walker have been named interim Editor and Associate Editor, respectively, of the SANDSCRIPT.

The Board of Publications took action when it learned of the loss of past editor, Mark Hinderaker. Joe MacIlvaine took over as the Editorial Editor, with Pat Boylson as the new Feature Editor, and Lon Hall filling the position of Sports Editor.

Until the end of the year, SANDSCRIPT will be published on a bi-weekly basis instead of the former weekly one. However, SANDSCRIPT still needs writers, and any contributions from undergraduates, graduates, and professors will be welcome.

Other AS Senate action includes the appointment of junior Terry Williams as the new Attorney General and the consideration of the re-vamping of the AS Government and Constitution.

For Chancellor Galbraith

University House To Be Built

The University of California Board of Regents approved the appropriation of $11,900 from the University Fund for the preparation of preliminary plans and working drawings for University House on the UCSD campus.

University House will be the residence of Chancellor and Mrs. John S. Galbraith. The residence will be designed to accommodate the needs of the Chancellor's family, with special additional facilities for entertaining sizable groups of people. It will function as the focal point for the Chancellor's social contacts with students, faculty, and friends and guests of the University.

University House will be located about 800 feet east of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries Building and adjacent to the northerly border of Scripps Institute of Oceanography. The site is next to a faculty residential area and is easily accessible from both upper and lower reaches of the campus, via La Jolla Shores Drive. Construction of University House is scheduled during the 1966-67 fiscal year.

Quest Forms

QUEST is a new organization on campus designed to organize, encourage and support extra-curricular programs and student activities of an academic nature.

It has already established several project areas including lower division math-physics workshops.

All freshmen and sophomores interested in putting additional hours into math and physical science courses and wishing to participate in QUEST will be divided into small tutorial groups. A number of upper division and some graduate students will provide this tutorial service.

Any student wishing to participate may contact Greg Holloway, Nancy Gordon, or Paul Hoffrichter. A general meeting of QUEST will be held Wednesday, February 2 at 4:00 p.m. in HL 1148.

Mandeville Lecture Series Begins Supreme Court Justice Featured

A new series of lectures, including talks by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, historian Louis Morton, and columnist Max Lerner, will be presented beginning Wednesday, February 9.

The series, known as the Mandeville Lectures, is being sponsored by the UCSD Committee for Arts and Lectures. Each lecture will be given twice, once for the benefit of UCSD students and staff at 4:15 p.m. in the Central Facilities Building, and once for the general public at 8:00 p.m. in Sherwood Hall. Both sessions will be free.

Associate Justice Douglas will lead the series with a talk on "The Supreme Court in American History," on Wednesday, February 9.

Author Max Lerner, who writes a syndicated newspaper column for the New York Post, will lecture Wednesday, February 16, on "Five Revolutions in American Life."

Louis Morton, Professor of History at Dartmouth College, will speak Wednesday, February 23, on "National Policy and Military Strategy."

Concluding the series will be Dr. Michael Polanyi of Oxford who will speak in March on "The Growth of Science in Society."

One Government or Two?

Once there was a new campus of a big university on a hill by the sea. (It was destined to become unique.) It started out with a demanding undergraduate program and a revolutionary idea of individual colleges within the framework of the university.

The first class was small. It had the Herculean task of establishing order and laying the foundations of tradition. But they were young, and they were inexperienced, and they made mistakes. Then came the second class. They too were young and inexperienced, and the war began. The efforts of the first class were bypassed and treated as nonexistent.

Revelle College happens to be part of the University of California at San Diego. Revelle College is in fact the University of California at San Diego. Revelle College is in fact the University of California at San Diego for the simple reason that there is only one college at the University of California at San Diego.

Divide and conquer was the battle cry. The first class was divided, victory was in sight. (But will it be a real victory, or will it simply sow more seeds of discontent?) The first class was a reluctant enemy. They had no reason to fight. War was thrust upon them, they didn't ask for it.

Divide and conquer was the battle cry. The first attack failed, will the second succeed? When the smoke clears who will be the victor? But why fight in the first place? Think of all the energy wasted, and time lost.

To what end? The enemy was scattered.

Chamber Music Series Offered to SD Students

A unique series of discussions and concerts featuring some of the world's finest musical artists will be offered to UCSD students this quarter as the 1966 Winter Chamber Music Series.

The unusual programs, sponsored by the Committee for Arts and Lectures, will be held on four Friday evenings during the quarter in the Humanities-Library Auditorium.

Publishing a paper requires teamwork, organization, and plenty of work. What this means is that a newspaper should have a staff of a size adequate to handle the work involved. It also requires that a member of the staff perform the duties assigned to him, which includes getting his articles into his page editor before the deadline.

The Sandscript appears to have a columnist who does not agree with this philosophy. This angry young rebel from a great Eastern metropolitan center apparently feels that he, as some gift from the Divine, is above such mundane ritual as deadline. Thus this fill-in column.

As a great philosopher-cynic once said: "You get what you pay for." Perhaps by Lon Hall In his secret laboratory high atop the Humanities-Library Building, Israel (007) Bond struggles to thwart the forces of evil and darkness - intellectual dissent and liberally-oriented members of the community.

But plans are afoot to topple this tower of justice - plans which include dissolving the existing uni-nursery and perhaps institutionalizing an intellectual community. Will this be the end of our hero? Will no one come to the aid of right and might? And what of Batman? Stay tuned.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I SAID - MY STUDENTS DON'T SEEM TO LIKE ME."

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Where does the ASUC begin and the administration leave off? An interesting fact is that, as John R. Searle (Special Assistant to the Chancellor at Berkeley) has said, "The ASUC is an official unit of the University. As such it derives all of its authority from the Chancellor, who in turn derives his authority from the President and the Regents." How is that for self-government! But wait, there is more (as usual). The University-wide regulations say, "Chancellors are authorized to establish or continue student governments as official units of the University of California, to approve membership fees and to delegate to such governments specific powers and responsibilities concerning student affairs. Such student governments may be either compulsory or voluntary and may include the student body as a whole or particular segments of it."

It would seem that possibly there is more than one definition of "self-government"; I prefer the idea that self-government must have its authority based on the governed. But, where is this authority? - the Chancellor. It is strange and immensely important that the Chancellor can tell this "self-governing" body, ASUC, what it can and can't do - in essence, what he feels is safe in student hands; and most Chancellors don't want to leave the possibility for the students to be able to bite back if they feel wronged. One beautiful example is the inability for the Berkeley ASUC to represent students or even be representative of students during the "riots."

The basic principles of a student government should be: government of, by, and for the governed and a one man, one vote system. Since the ASUC is not based completely on these principles and is meant to be purely an arm of the administration, there is need for some type of organization which could support these principles. Mr. Searle has said that students "could set up a completely independent student organization. Its status would be that of any registered organization and it would therefore have the right to use University facilities, etc., and all of its authority would come from the membership. Such an organization could set its own conditions for ratification and fees." Thus, it is possible to have an independent and autonomous government, and this is definitely needed.

AT THE OLD GLOBE

"Nobody Loves An Albatross"

by ALTON WALTERS

I don't like classifying a play which I enjoyed so much as typical, but its the first word appellation of William Roesch's NOBODY LOVES AN ALBATROSS, an Old Globean comedy which continues through February 8, that comes to my mind. From picturesque LA, seen through the large picture window, upstage right, to the modernistic wrap-around lounge, down stage left, the play reeks with avant-gardism.

As is usually true the largest slice of the play's comedic appeal is presented by one character, a semi-wealthy divorcee of at least three marriages, who did or does live in some part of the entertainment world, and is readily distinguished by his ability to get laughs, his personal appeal, and his semi-neuroticism - someone we can identify with.

Enter Nat Bently the TV writer, a burly creature who openly professes his insecurity, stemming he says from a motherless childhood (he was too poor to have one). He is a likable immoral, egotistical braggart who makes his living by putting his name on scripts he cons other people into writing for him. Like the albatross, he eeks out his existence by following behind ships and picking up scraps they throw to him. His main claim to fame stems from a Private Eye series for which he pays Phil Mathews, his literary understudy, almost nothing to write.

His moment of judgment comes finally in the third act when his career faces annihilation. He must either produce a successful 90 min. special about a girl Tarzan and become head of the studio or be fired.

Ed. Note: Did you think Captain Video was a surrealistic expose? Thunderball a little dull? Tell us - we would like to hear from all UCSD students and faculty.

Comment:

Provost Under Fire

S.I.L., yesterday took the UC San Diego campus by surprise with their publication of the Revelle College Dissenter.

The Dissenter was published with the intention of showing why Provost Goldberg and his assistant Mary Avery refused to allow James Bauerlein and Jan Diepersloot the position of Resident Assistant.

Editor, Sir

Although I realize that the university is concerned with more than just the dormitory students, I would like to bring up an important and timely issue in regard to dorm life at this university. In short, I believe the regulations in regard to the dorms should be changed so as to allow members of the opposite sex to be in each other's rooms. My reasons are as follows.

Forcing students to find a place other than their homes away from home to be alone together tends to create a serious traffic hazard and could indeed become an added burden on the taxpayers of our state.

A Limited Pass-Fail Option; Most objections are eliminated. How to limit it becomes the problem.

SANSCRIPT STUDENT POLL 1. Would you be in favor of some sort of pass-fail grading at UCSD? YES - 90 NO - 32 3:1 YES

OTHER PASS-FAIL SYSTEM AT UC BERKELEY: Upper division students with at least one semester of 12 or more units and an average of B or better for all work.

True, I can conceive of reasons for which the university officials might prefer students of differing sexes to stay out of one another's rooms. For instance this could lead to the disturbance of one's roommate's study.

Identical to Berkeley except that only elective courses may be taken on a pass-fail basis.

Honor students, with a 3.5 average or better, may take one pass-fail course per quarter. A 'D' grade is not passing. A 'C' grade is required to receive a grade of "pass."

U.C. Students Surveyed On Pass-Fail Grading

(From a report by the Student Affairs Committee, UCSB)

Recently there has been a good deal of discussion on UC campuses about the prospect of adopting some sort of "pass-fail" grading system. The Student Affairs Committee at UCSB has compiled a review of the Pro and Con arguments and we have surveyed the students of UCSD to present their opinions.

PRO: Weakness of present system; "A-F" grades are over-emphasized. In general, students' goals are grades, not learning.

Difficult courses are avoided in order to obtain high (Grade Point Averages) GPA.

Pressure of achieving "A-F" helps foster cheating to secure higher grades.

Advantages of "pass-fail": Students would not be deterred by grade fears from taking known hard courses. They would be encouraged to enroll in courses for enjoyment.

A "pass-fail" system would tend to reduce student anxieties and focus attention on learning rather than memorizing.

CON: An Absolute "Pass-Fail" System; Would result in and encourage mediocrity rather than excellence. Students need the motivation that grades provide.

"Pass-fail" has not proved satisfactory for admission to professional and graduate schools.

It is up to the discretion of the individual instructor how he will grade a course. There is no restriction as to what sort of course may be graded in this manner.

At present there is no pass-fail system for grading in any undergraduate courses.

Students wishing to take pass-fail must petition to their College Dean. The instructor of the course must approve. The student must have at least a 3.0 average. The course must not be part of the requirement for his major.

It is up to the discretion of the individual instructor how he will grade a course. There is no restriction as to what sort of course may be graded in this manner.

At present there is no pass-fail system for grading in any undergraduate courses. "We are following with great interest the experiment at the California Institute of Technology where grades were abolished for the first year." - Edward Goldberg, Provost, Revelle College.

FRIENDSHIP - During Christmas recess 25 foreign students from the University of Arizona visited UCSD and the San Diego area. Shown with Linda Walker are three of the students (r to l) from Iraq, Saudi Arabia, and Iran. 25 UCSD foreign students also visited Arizona.

Study in Europe Plan Still Handy to Students

Opportunities to study in a foreign country under the University of California Education Abroad Program are still available to U.C.S.D. students. The January 17 deadline for applications has been extended for all countries except the United Kingdom.

Application forms may be obtained from Mr. Ward Beecher, Foreign Student Advisor, Student Affairs Office, Room 2116-B.

The program is open to students enrolled in any of the University of California campuses. It is recommended that they have reached upper division standing with a B average and have completed at least two years of the appropriate language (except Japanese and Chinese).

Automatic Deferment Near End

The automatic deferment given to college students is to end; only those students who maintain high grades will be able to escape the draft.

Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of the U. S. Selective Service, left little doubt that the present system of drafting students would have to change to a wartime system in which students would have to, not only present evidence that they are in college, but also that they are doing good work while there.

The system of deferment used in the Korean war, which is under consideration now, was, to be deferred freshmen had to be in the upper half of their class, sophomores in the upper two-thirds, and juniors in the upper three-fourths.

In past practice men under 19 were not taken and with a surplus of men available most men were taken at age 22 or 23. Few men over 26 were taken, except for doctors and other specialists.

The Vietnam build-up has already exhausted the upper age groups and most young men now taken are 19.

Surfside

The recreation center known as "Surfside" located on the beach at Scripps has been repossessed by the SIO Space Committee. The reason for this action is that Scripps Graduate students have found it extremely difficult and at times impossible to use the facilities' pool room and lounges since it became popular with the undergraduates.

The new policies affecting undergraduates are:

1) The lounges and pool room are for Scripps student use only.

2) The surfboard storage area, showers, and living rooms are open to all University students.

UC SAN DIEGO SOCCER TEAM battles for possession of the ball as they strive to add another victory to their already impressive record.

Soccer Team Win Insures Good Standing

Sunday the Triton soccer team meets Pan American, who defeated UCSD during first round play.

The UCSD soccer team defeated Playhouse of San Diego 5-2 on Sunday, January 23, in a game that was marked by sparkling offense and tight defense. Playhouse had been in first place in the 10-team league, having lost only one other game in first round play.

The score at half time was 1-1, with the UCSD goal credited to Ilan Rothmueller. The Triton team fell behind 2-1 early in the second half but soon gained control of the ball. Rudy Kraft tied the score with a 30 foot kick into the corner of the net. Craig Carter, playing inside right, then made two dazzling goals, both times colliding with the goalie. The final goal was scored by the right wing, John Martin, who arched a shot over the goalie's head.

UCSD Intramural Basketball Offers Youth 'Clean-Cut' Fun

The athletically inclined young men of Revelle College have again cast their cigarettes and wine bottles away and donned their faded bermudas. They are all heading toward Camp Matthews, mecca of sports world, on a pilgrimage to pay homage to humor in sports.

Intramural basketball is in full swing now and hardly a day goes by when the air is not filled with shouts of encouragement and profanities directed at the officials. It has been said that athletics enhances one's physical condition. Let us add that it can also increase one's vocabulary.

As of Tuesday the Kiwis of Suite 300 Meteor and the Greeks were sharing first-place honors in the Gold League while the What's A M'Call Its held supremacy in the Blue League.

Four Game Streak Is At Stake Tonight

Today the UCSD basketball team meets the Cal Western J.V. on the opponents' courts. The Tritons hope to keep their four game winning streak alive.

The team got off to a poor start but soon began to function with devastating skill. The Tritons dropped their first two games to UC Riverside and Azusa Pacific College respectively.

But then the UCSD machine got rolling by defeating La Vern College 66-63. This victory was quickly followed by two victories over Southern California College. Their latest triumph was over the Biola College Varsity.

Coach Jack Shawcroft said he considered the last game against Biola the best team effort to date. Tied 35 to 35 at the half, UCSD erupted in the second half to win 70-58. Ryan Wilson with 80 points and Dave Winters with 76 lead the team in scoring. Coach Shawcroft also singled out Israel Chaves, Dick Rietherman, and Dave Shine for the improvement they have shown as the season has progressed.

With a starting line-up that averages close to 6'2" per man in height, the Tritons have managed to average about 70 points per game.

The last home game of the season takes place on February 8 against Cal Western. The game will be played in the La Jolla County Day School gym at 6:00 p.m.

The Triton hoopsters meet Cal Western tonight on the opponents' courts. Bus transportation to the game will leave from the Building B parking lot at 5:00 sharp and will return for the after game dance.

Tomorrow the Triton wrestling team will have its first match against Biola College at 7:00 p.m. in the MCRD gym. The team is coached by Bob Topolovac.

Last Tuesday the track team began working out for the upcoming season. There are still openings on the squad. All those interested should contact Howard Hunt in the Physical Education complex, BLDG. 269 at Camp Matthews.

The UCSD Angling Association announced its first annual Surf Perch Derby, open to university students, faculty, and their families. The contest is to take place this Sunday from one to three in the afternoon at Scripps Pier. Trophies are to be awarded for the "most monstrous fish" and the most surf perch caught. All those interested may pick up rules and enter in the Student Affairs office, Room 2116 Bldg. B. The deadline is today.

Although the sailing program at UCSD was recently discontinued due to construction at the Vacation Village, chances look good that this program will soon be recontinued.

The UCSD Ski Club is leaving for Big Bear tomorrow at 6:00 a.m. from the south parking lot. The cost of the trip is $7.00. Big Bear reports very good to excellent packed powder conditions for the weekend. The Ski Club is planning on four other trips this season, including a week long trip to Aspen, Colorado in April.

A men's singles handball tournament started Tuesday. The top two competitors will represent UCSD at the all-sports day later this year.

A two man volleyball tournament is also under way. The six outstanding players will represent UCSD at the all-sports day.
