the reason why I am going up with you

Dear Uncle

Lancaster August 11th

My letter to my Aunt Mrs. Hope tells me you arrived, however I suppose that she had begun to write to me you like to give her a little news. Since mine of the 8th you had been great, having heard from home. Mr. C. H. Morris I. J. Mrs. Hope & her Uncle John at Lancaster; it appears the two friends patronizing the two towns; nothing is much cheaper here than in Lancaster, at the sulphur baths water here, attendance included, it only costs 75cts a time & about 12⁵⁰ the people here stay one hour in the water & then often twice a day. From all I hear of the gins. places seem to be very uncertain, some think you may go to either this month, some the next and others among whom I place myself don't whether you will go at all, after the master is decided I trust you will let me know and if you will do so the sooner to receive the idea I receive the end of Sept. I hear from Mr. Hope that to be at the dear Music meeting I must have written letters that it was it was my intention, but I cannot bear to relinquish it for four or five days difference; Monday next I go to Paris where you a month I shall follow family advice to walk well two hours per day with a master and study hard all the morning at the theater, I profess a plausibility of reading for this, the domestic side of the firm brilliant and in the society there is nothing going on, the people are scattered about the country in their campagna and leave all quiet for the winter, which my hostess prides to the sky, is the hope to keep me here from her husband, Isaac Knoblauch are decidedly inferior. in fact we all I that I should give more still in rifle shooting than in French. I have been long wishing to move but their kindness to me made me unwilling to quit them some good reason. Saturday & Sunday the tide of my Lady's rifle; then high pitch with them. & the moon day with Major the Cook, this business so much disquieted me that I could do well should see the end of my visit at freedom; the next day I informed them that my presence was required in England except them. I had supposed, wishing to pass some time at Paris I should take leave the Monday following, to which I shall add with the particularity of an old bachelor, though my hostess & her all smile again cannot believe it, I was aware the smile would follow & took the precaution to seize the lucky moment.

At Paris I shall probably take a lodgings, the time is too short to take a pension, my direction for letters however is Maurice's Hotel, via A. Honore and not poste restante.
I shall be rather at a loss for society as accepting the Knight of Malta. I am not acquainted with a soul in Paris, I shall be as well off as here, for if so I do not speak a dozen words in the day and in my walks independent of a book I have no companion as Tabor is by no means a recluse.

A villa built by an English general a mile from the Town & close to the lake, is bought by a French Marquis who was Sec^r to Mignac, he commences his administration by ordering the public only to take his ground on Sundays a command not liked by these liberals, especially as it was the pleasantest promenade near the Town.

Very little has passed since I wrote last; for these days the place was shrouded by one of those annual fogs common in this country. I abhor a military affair, rifle shooting & professed dangerous in a large meadow between town & lake, you will see my trip to Bex having been postponed till now Mr. Tabor plans which I have left except as the Lady had determined with the decision in position was determined to see him, in vain I protested my Brigata was not adapted for these, oh she had not the least objection to sit in front, afterwards the plan was to go by Chex this train in search of the picturesqueness would have had to shift touch of the saddle Tabor had to be squeezed inside so small is the place in front to conduct, he would have been obliged to let his friends as loose seats. The other day I set off at 5 with a companion for the boulders in Chex about 8 we left the carriage when near the top & proceeded to another low mountain where we descended across a stream which I do not now remember in such occasions, for the way well we would have been of more service, we descended the other side for about an hour very steep, into the Val Tressy a very pretty spot, perchance you did not prefer to it, it is famous for the waterfalls there.

I went without money determined not to be compelled, I was much pleased with the excursion notwithstanding we had rain all the time we jogged up the mountain, we crossed numerous streams with copper & cream. The distance of these hills always deceived me, the appearance so near from this, the first day I was very near setting up leaving two or three hours idle, to walk up them for a little again simply I hear has had her picture taken, I long to see it you can the fair herself tells me its lovely I hope Mr & Johnstone is allowed to my heart satisfaction. Mignac I think it will give a better that either. Stack or Hawk is lame, there are so many false reports daily in the papers that one does not know what to believe I hope however, this will be immediately contradicted. The news from Derry Head is very gratifying in and out of doors, your remains well.
