

Nov. 9, 1988

THE COMMUNISTIC CATTLE CALL

The CATTLE CALL ACTIVITIES are a disguised form of COMMUNISM. To best understand, it is necessary to go to England where the social structure has a division of the people into the upper classes and lower classes. In the upper classes are the lords and the wealthy persons. Those not in this group belong to the lower classes.

If you visited the financial section of London, you will see men wearing derbies and carrying a cane which often is a tightly furled black umbrella so it resembles a cane. This person is advertising that he belongs to the upper classes.

When you go to the rural areas, the upper classes have their castles and large estates. Here they are recognized by what you often see on TV where they are riding horses and chasing a fox with the aid of dogs. There is one big difference with regards to the ranches of Imperial County. The upper classes in England use their own estates to do the horse riding and fox chasing. Here, because of the farming, those who desire to be thought as being in the upper classes, can not chase the fox on horseback.

Now the women here imitating the women of the upper classes in England, start their children riding horses and even try to learn also, so that they be considered in the upper classes of Imperial County. It is like the fad these very same women have of visiting Paris and buying a dress from a famous French designer and then coming back here to boast that she spent $1,000 for it.

Now long before the Cattle Call Rodeo started in Brawley, THERE WAS A RODEO EVERY YEAR AT THE FAIRGROUNDS which is supported by the taxes of all the County. But it must be pointed out that the MANURE MAFIA, the local big ranchers all escape 66% at least of the County taxes by means of fake low assessments on their farmland.

Now Ed Rutherford, is a believer in rugged individualism and free enterprise. He has been very successful until the last few years. He was the prime mover to shift the rodeo from the Fairgrounds to Brawley. When he did this and started the parade, he won the affections of the ladies who aspired to be in the upper classes and have their children ride horses. The ladies instead of chasing the fox, rode with their children in the parade. But what is more important is what happened at the Brawley Horse grounds the rest of the year. The local newspapers on Nov. 3, 1988 announce "Both Western and English style riders will compete in the Imperial Valley Horse Exhibitors Assoc. Horse Show on Saturday Aug. 5, 1988. This sort of thing is happening all year round for the benefit of all the upper classes (?) at the expense of the taxpayers of Brawley.

Now if you go to London or New York, the big parks have walks for people and children, joggers, bicylists, etc. of the lower classes. THEY ALSO HAVE BRIDLE PATHS FOR HORSE FANCIERS. But in Brawley, there are corrals for feeding horses, etc., a big business with Brawley not making any money on it. There are 2 competitors to this horse feeding business outside Brawley. At one time the Rolls Royce factories were owned by England. This is communism. Then England sold the factories to private owners and then it was capitalism. In England, it was called "privatize" but the correct name is "de-communize". The Brawley airport is another giveaway to the upper classes which own the airplanes.

Ben Yellen, M.D.