ENVIRONMENT

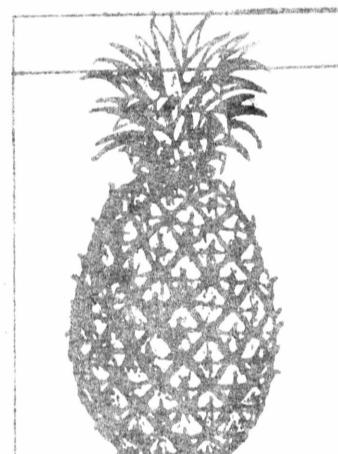

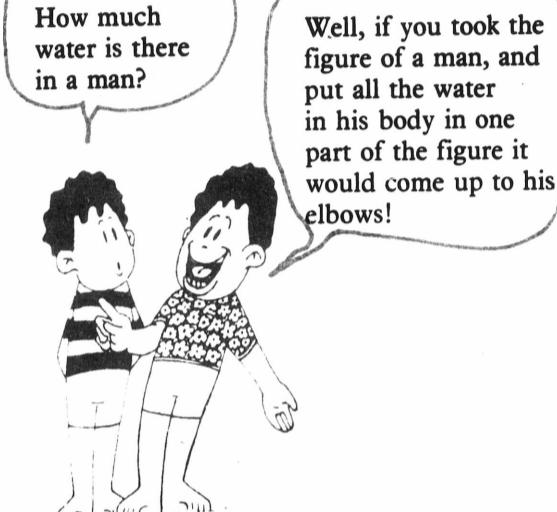

COES has environmental studies courses for grade 9 and grade 10 students.

We get most of our water by drinking. Drinks such as milk, lolly water, kulau drink etc are mainly water.

We also get water by eating. There is a lot of water in fruit, vegetables and meat. Even 'dry' foods like nuts have some water in them.

To stay alive, we all need.....
One reason we need to have water is because we are MOSTLY water! (65%).

PINEAPPLE 87%

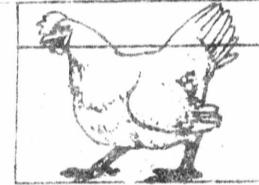

TOMATO 95%

WATER

HERRING 67 %

CHICKEN 74%

Answer this question:
Which of the following foods have water in them?
KAUKAU, CORN, PIGMEAT, EGGS, AIBIKA, CABBAGE, BISCUITS, OKARI NUT, ICE CREAM, FISH, SUGAR CANE, FLOUR. Look at the answer upside down below.

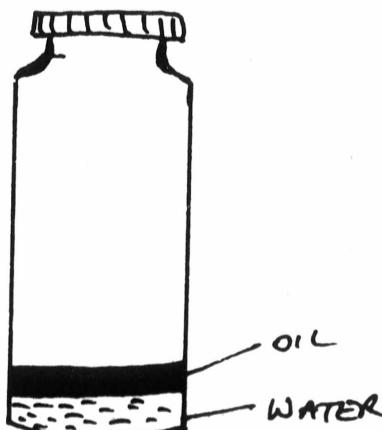

ANSWER: All of them have water.

CHALLENGES OIL AND WATER

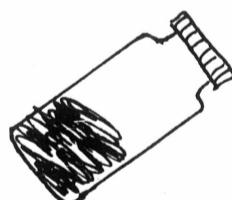

To do this challenge you will need: a small jar with a lid, cooking oil, water, an egg.

People often say that oil and water don't mix. Do you think that is always true? Try this challenge to find out.

1. Put a little water in a jar, then put the same amount of cooking oil in the jar. The oil is lighter than the water so it floats on top.

2. Put the lid on the jar. Ask a friend if he can make the oil and water mix. He can shake the jar very hard.

....but a few seconds after he stops the oil and water are separate again.

3. Carefully break an egg and let some of the clear part of the egg fall into the jar. Now put the lid on the jar and shake the jar. The oil will break into tiny drops and it will mix with the water.

WHY DOES IT WORK?

The clear part of the egg contains a substance called cholesterol (KO-LESS-TER-OL). There is cholesterol in your body too. It breaks up any oil or fat you eat into tiny drops so that your body can use it.

Living and Learning

Paying With "Money"!

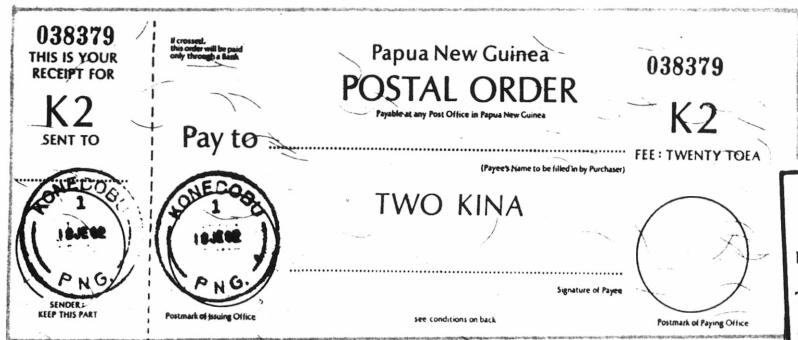

In earlier editions of GOING PLACES we learned about Money. We saw that our money is made up of notes and coins. (We call this "CASH").

Because our money is legal tender we can use it anywhere in Papua New Guinea.

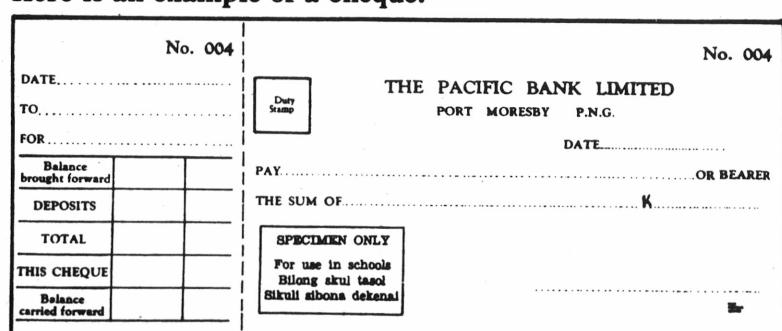

Later we saw that it is not wise to send money in the post, because money can easily be lost or stolen. It is much wiser to send a POSTAL ORDER, like this:

When the payee receives the postal order, they take it to the post office and get the money for it.

Paying by postal order is not the only way to pay people by post. A lot of people use another method of payment. They pay by using a CHEQUE (pronounced "CHEK"). Here is an example of a cheque.

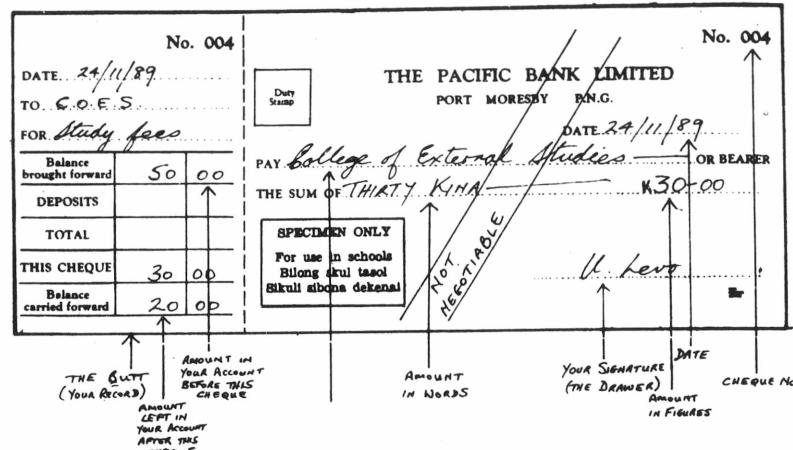

Where can I get a cheque from?

You get books of cheques from a bank. You first have to put money into the bank and ask for a cheque account. If the bank thinks that you are a sensible person, they will let you open a cheque account. Once the bank gives you your cheque book you can then write out (draw) cheques to pay for things. You do not have to use cash.

But how do I pay them the money? And how do they get money for my cheque?

Good questions!

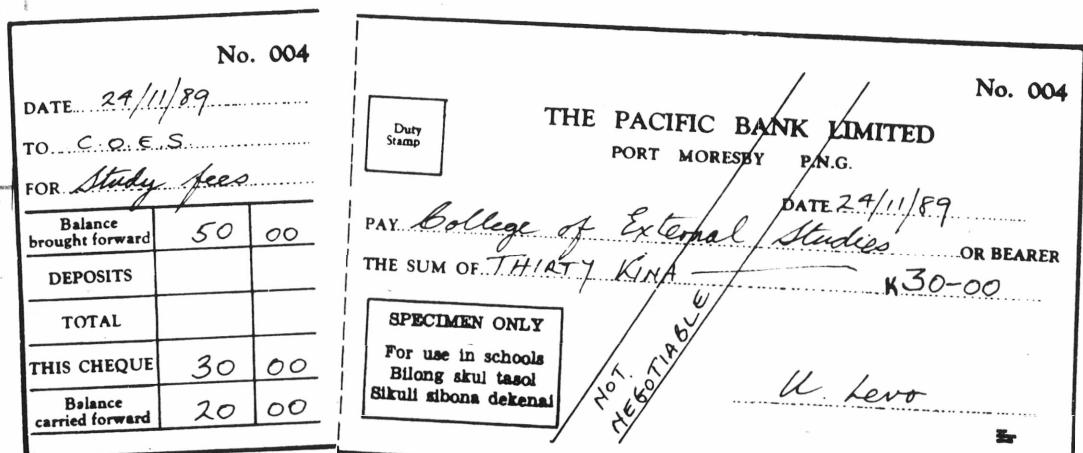

Suppose you wanted to pay C.O.E.S. for your study fees. You would fill in a cheque making it payable to the College - like this:

The left hand side of the cheque form is called the "BUTT" (just like a postal note's butt). This is your record of the payment. It tells you who the money was paid to, the date, what the cheque was for, the amount of the cheque, the cheque number, and how much money is left in your account at the bank.

The right-hand side (the bigger side) is the actual cheque. If you look carefully at it you will see who the cheque is made out to, the date, the amount (in words and figures), your signature and the cheque number.

When the cheque has been written out, it is then torn away from the butt and sent to the payee - in this case the College of External Studies. You keep the butt.

CHEQUE

Why are the words "NOT NEGOTIABLE" written on the cheque?

This is done for safety. This means that nobody else can cash the cheque. Only the C.O.E.S. can get the money for the cheque. When the College receives the cheque they can put it into their bank. Their bank then gets the money from yours.

If you did not put two parallel lines across the face of the cheque and write "not negotiable" in between the lines, anyone could cash the cheque and get the money.

If you do put two parallel lines across the face of the cheque NO-ONE else will be able to cash it and get the money.

PROGRAMME 21: "HOW COES COURSES ARE PRODUCED"

(Broadcast on Thursday August 28th at 6.10 pm on RADIO ONE).

This programme goes through the process of production of finished COES courses from the lessons written by teachers. Here is the process in a diagram. Try to follow this in the programme.

The steps will be described by Jim Hammersley, seen here at his desk in the Production Department:

Jim will take you around the Department and introduce you to the people.

One of the people you'll meet is Kua Simbai. He's the head artist. He made the drawings for this week's competition. Here he is working at more drawings.

Stories from many Lands

The Little Pigs

This week's story comes from Scotland.

There was once a pigs' house where they were very crowded. The old sow had a younger family, so one day she sent out Dennis and Biddy and Rex to find their fortunes for themselves. They wandered on and on. The wind was blowing, and it was snowing and raining at once, and oh! but their trotters were sore! So they sat down by the roadside, under the shelter of a wood. They sat for an hour. They had but one pipe and one match between them, and Dennis lent his pipe to Rex, and Rex dried the match in his hair, for it was soaked, and he sat and smoked the pipe. Presently they heard a cart coming along, and it was loaded with straw. Biddy thought she'd build herself a house, if the man would give her some straw. And the man was very kind and obliging, for he was sorry for them, turned out of their Mother's house on such an awful day, just because Dennis had trod on one of the little piglets by mistake.

So he gave them the straw, and some matches too, and Biddy built herself a cosy little house. The other two were sitting a little longer, when they heard a cart coming up with planks of wood on it, and who should be driving it but Jimmie McLaunchlan, who was at school with Dennis. So Denis asked him for some of the planks of wood, to build himself a little wooden house. And Jimmie gave it to him willingly. Well, Dennis had hardly set to work when a lorry came up the road, with a load of bricks on it. Rex cried to the man, and he stopped, and threw out as many bricks as Rex needed to build himself a brick house. And there they were all settled for the night. But as Biddy was sitting in her cosy house, she heard someone knocking. "Is that you, Dennis?" she said. "Oh, no, it's an old friend," said a voice that she knew well. "Just let me in, I have news for you." "Oh, no, I'll not let you in," said Biddy, for she knew the wolf's voice when she heard it. "Then I'll puff and I'll blow, and I'll blow your house in," said the wolf, and he blew so hard that all the straw scattered. But just as he got in at the front door, Biddy ran out at the back, and went to Dennis' house. "He'll not blow this down," said Dennis. At that moment they heard the wolf at the door. "Let me in, I've a great piece of news for you." "No, we'll not let you in," they said. "Then I'll puff and I'll blow and I'll blow your house in." And he blew so hard that he blew all the planks apart, and Biddy and Dennis had only time to get out of the back door, and scamper to Rex's house before the wolf was in at the front.

fire, and it blazed up, and burnt him to death. So they hooked him down the chimney, and cut him up into pieces, and roasted him for their supper.
