MT HAGEN WOMEN'S GROUP RECEIVES HUMAN RIGHTS AWARD 'International Women's Day' - March 8 2006

Today the Western Highlands Women's Rural Empowerment (WHWRE) group received a Human Rights Award for their activities aimed at promoting and protecting the rights of children.

The group, which formed in 2002 currently has a membership of over 100,000 women spread throughout the seven districts and 15 local level governments in the Western Highlands Province.

The WHWRE human rights project involves registering the birth of all children under five years of age, training and educating families on family planning methods and benefits, and training village court magistrates on human rights issues.

Funding for the project was provided through the Australian Government's Human Rights Small Grants Scheme, which is aimed at strengthening and developing human rights in PNG.

Speaking at the award presentation ceremony, Executive Director of the Western Highlands Rural Women's Empowerment group, Ms Nancy Rus, said that she was very happy and excited about receiving the award.

"I feel really privileged that our group has been chosen to be recognised, especially considering the outstanding work being achieved by many other groups across PNG."

"Birth registration and human rights awareness is vital for everyone in PNG and the communities selected to take part in the project have been eager to participate," said Ms Rus.

The award was presented by the Australian High Commissioner to PNG, Mr Michael Potts, at the 'International Women's Day' event, hosted by the Australian High Commission.

International Women's Day is celebrated around the world on March 8. It provides an opportunity for communities to recognise the achievements of women and their contribution to society.

The theme of this year's International Women's Day is 'Women in Decision Making'.

Speaking at the event, Mr Potts said that the Australian Government is committed to supporting PNG's goals to promote gender equality and address some of the challenges impacting on the lives of women and girls.

"On this day, the people of PNG must celebrate the progress that has been made in progressing women's rights, but also contemplate those areas of women's lives where more can be done - including improving women's access to education, health care and paid labour."

Mr Potts also highlighted the effect violence and the HIV epidemic is having on women living in PNG.

"Women and girls are particularly vulnerable to HIV/AIDS. This vulnerability is not only biological, but is also due to women's low socioeconomic status and high levels of gender based violence."

Ms Potts said women and girls cannot be equal partners when they are subjected to violence.

"Equality for women and men and stopping violence must be a priority for PNG. The underlying message is about good governance and ensuring that all of the population are participating in, and benefiting from development."

As a prominent woman working within PNG's public service, Ms Ulato Avei, Acting Deputy Secretary for the Department of National Planning and Monitoring, provided the keynote address detailing the role she plays in decision making, in particular in the development and implementation of Government policy.

International Women's Day

Mrs. Loka Kula
Manager - Human Resource & Administration
POSF Limited.

"Being a female in management is no different to being a Mother in the home"

These are the sentiments of Mrs. Loka Kula who is the Manager - Human Resource & Administration with POSF Limited.

Loka started work with the POSF as a Senior HRD Officer and was in that position for four years until the management recognized her potential to be the Manager of that Department. Her duties include managing the welfare of over 80 staff, organizational training, administration for the organization amongst many other things.

Her days are full-on from the moment she wakes up until the moment she sleeps however, Loka thrives on the challenges that each day poses and is rewarded with each successful year that passes.

Loka was elevated to her current position during a period when POSF, the Statutory Body, was transiting into Corporatisation/Privatisation. Loka says " I had to respond very quickly to the changes and also to impose the change agents through to all the divisions. My Department had to provide support services to other departments to ensure that operations were maintained at a level needed to exelerate the organization". It was a very new experience and I am more confident in my abilities having played a leading role in the successful change process.

She says she likes to do her job where "I can sleep on a stormy night" however most times this may not be possible as we all work as part of a team and each individual's contribution is what makes the bigger picture.

She believes that training is an integral part of any companies Human Resource development and she is focused on improving the skills base within the POSF. She strongly believes in staff morale, motivation and giving credit where credit is due.

She is grateful to the POSF for the opportunity to stand up and be counted and she hopes that this trend of equal opportunities for females in management will continue to be a part of this organization. She adds that the POSF is an equal opportunity employer and staff are remunerated based on their qualifications and not on gender.

Mrs. Kula stresses that being a female in Management is still not too common in our country and this is probably due to the restrictions or taboos in our cultural society.

However, she says women are natural leaders and possess all the skills required to be a Manager." After all as she points out, it takes a lot of strength, courage, patience, organizational and interpersonal skills and time management to run a home.

A lot of how you structure your day is similar to a structured day in the office and you also have to withstand comments & criticisms, frustration, hard work, and everything has to be done on a timely basis.

Loka is successfully balancing her management role as well as being a wife and mother to three active daughters. She also finds time to fit in social activities like Netball, Touch and going to the gym, saying it keeps her fit and is a way to unwind from all the stress.

Loka is proud of her achievements but puts it down to hard work and a good employer and encourages other women to not be afraid to jump when the window of opportunity presents itself. That window may never open again.

Patricia Taureka
Manager - Legal & Compliance
POSF Limited

POSF Limited is a leader as an equal opportunity employer. It has more women in managerial and team leader positions today than it had in the past. These women have worked hard and have earned the respect of their male counterparts within the organization.

Women aspiring to be managers must be successful, committed, hard working and dedicated to their work even if it requires working beyond normal hours, says Patricia Taureka who is the Manager Legal & Compliance and Company Secretary of POSF Limited. Patricia aspires to being a manager that fellow workers can look to as upholding honesty, loyalty, integrity and the core values of the organization.

Patricia Taureka holds a Bachelor of Law (LLB) from the University of Papua New Guinea. She has over 15 years working experience as a lawyer working with various law firms before joining POSF Limited.

Patricia says her role as Manager Legal & Compliance and Company Secretary is exciting and she enjoys the challenges.

She says that challenges are part of our daily lives and come with greater responsibility in which the onus is on each individual to step up to the challenge and prove themselves.

One of the many challenges that she has encountered includes the introduction of the new Superannuation (General) Provisions Act 2000 which has brought about changes and reforms in the superannuation industry and calls for greater compliance by superannuation funds.

This also includes the duty to administer and ensure that the organization complies with the POSF Act so that it operates in uniformity with the Superannuation (General) Provisions Act 2000.

Patricia believes that generally women have better management skills which is an art and skill that they learn at an early age in their homes. Being mixed Fijian and Central, she says that management skills are also enhanced by our cultural background.

These skills are evident in her role as a wife and mother of three children which she successfully manages together with her role as a career woman on a daily basis.

She also believes that there is a lot of opportunity for women to hold managerial positions within the public and private sectors.

Commitment from both the employer and employee needs to be strengthened and on merit basis in order for this to be successful.

Patricia sums it up as "It is not what your employer can do for you but rather what you can do for the employer and more".

UNHCR
The UN Refugee Agency

The 8th of March is marked as the International Women's Day.

We, at UNHCR (United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees), salute all girls and women, for their courage and tolerance.

This year, UNHCR celebrates International Women's Day with the HOPE that women and girls will get more opportunities to achieve the better social standing they deserve given their contribution to and responsibilities in the household and our society.

We also hope that they will be better protected and respected in their own rights.

Everyone can help turn hopes into reality if only we make sure that every improvement in our own lives brings benefits for women and girls.

About 50% of refugees are women and girls.

UNHCR, the United Nations Refugee Agency, has developed a series of special programmes worldwide to ensure that women and girls have equal access to protection, basic goods and services while they attempt to rebuild their lives.

Employee Profiles

NASFUND
PAPUA NEW GUINEA

Name: Dilly Tarua-Panao.
Home Province: Milne Bay.
Marital Status: Married.
Occupation: Team Leader-Accounts.
Employer: National Superannuation Fund Limited.
Highest Educational Qualification: Bachelor of Financial Administration, University of England, Armidale, NSW, Australia.

Current Role:
As the Team Leader in Accounts, my main task is involved in the preparation of financial statements and providing to management monthly and in a timely manner.
I am also the interim Manager for the NasFund Contributors Savings and Loan Society.

Achievement:

I would regard the position I am in today, an achievement for me.

Views on Gender Equality:

Gender equality should be the ultimate goal of both men and women in a society.

Women in decision making: Meeting challenges, creating change.

Women who are in positions of power should be given every opportunity to make decisions that will create change towards the status of both men and women in any context. Women should take up the challenge that they are as good and competent as the male counterparts and that gender should not pose as a barrier to being a successful woman.

Name: Anna Mawason.
Home Province: Morobe.
Marital Status: Widow with 2 children.
Occupation: Team Leader-Employer Services Division.
Organization: NasFund PNG Limited.

Current Role:

I manage the Employer Services Division of the fund which is responsible for the Compliance and Enforcement of the current Superannuation Act on existing and new employers registered to carry out business in this country.

I am proud to be employed by an organization which is committed to the principle of equal opportunity in employment for staff and prospective members of staff. This commitment includes providing a wok environment in which members of staff feel that they are a valued member of the organization, that they are treated fairly, and are given recognition for their contribution to the company's success. This commitment is consistent with the principles of equal opportunity and anti-discrimination legislation.

Achievements:

Being part of the team that has made NasFund a successful story today.

My Views:

Decision making, Marketing challenges and creating a change are prerequisites of any leaders of both genders in any environment.

Women naturally have the real multi-skilling ability and all we need to do is believe in ourselves, be willing to share our skills, be open to criticisms and changes and there is a place on equal footing with men in this world.

Profiling Australian High Commission Women

Head of Ausaid in PNG, Ms Margaret Thomas, visiting the Ok Tedi Mine in Western Province. Ok Tedi is one of 5 major private companies that has signed agreements to work with the National AIDS Council Secretariat to help combat the spread of HIV in their area.

Margaret Thomas - Profile

MARGARET Thomas is the Head of Australia's Agency for International Development (AusAID) in Papua New Guinea. She has extensive international aid experience having worked in AusAID for over 16 years, with postings to the Philippines, East Timor and now in PNG.

Ms Thomas also worked for two years as an aid adviser to the Australian Minister for Foreign Affairs, Mr Alexander Downer. Ms Thomas says that AusAID is committed to recognising the important contribution women make to the development of countries.

"Equality for women and men and stopping violence must be a priority for PNG. The underlying message is about good governance and ensuring that all of the population are participating in, and benefiting from development."

Since arriving in PNG last year Ms Thomas has visited various AusAID supported development projects being undertaken in provinces across PNG.

"In taking forward our developmental partnership with Papua New Guinea and supporting the Medium Term Development Strategy, I am keen to travel more widely in PNG to ensure our assistance reaches those most in need."

Ms Thomas is looking forward to continuing to build Australia's friendship with PNG on all levels, political as well as people-people - firm partners in a flourishing Pacific.

VISITING FEMALE PRISONERS:

Deputy High Commissioner - Ann Harrap - Profile

Ann Harrap is the first female Deputy High Commissioner to the Australian High Commission in Port Moresby. She is a career officer with the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade and has served in diplomatic assignments overseas in London, Pretoria and Cape Town. Before arriving in Port Moresby she undertook a short-term mission as the Charge d'Affaires in the Australian Embassy in Baghdad (2005).

Although she has only been in PNG for four months, Ms Harrap has already had the chance to travel to the Southern Highlands and Bougainville where she says she has met many talented individuals committed to improving gender equality and the lives of women in PNG.

"I'm really pleased to be here in Papua New Guinea and to have the opportunity to work with others equally focused on cementing a strong Australia-PNG bilateral relationship."

"Among the island countries of the South Pacific, Australia's strategic, economic and consular interests are greatest in Papua New Guinea", she said.

Ms Harrap will be here for three years. She cites working with Papua New Guineans to encourage sustainable economic and political reform and the strengthening of basic services as one of her key goals. Ms Harrap also said that helping PNG to combat corruption, including by working with her colleagues deployed under the Enhanced Cooperation Program, was an important priority.

Deputy High Commissioner. Ann Harrap chatting with Corporal Sarah Tomako, the Acting officer in charge of the female division at the Bomana Prison. Ms Harrap recently went on a familiarisation visit to Bomana prison outside Port Moresby.

Dr. Jacqui Wright - Profile

Dr. Jacqui Wright is the new Country Manager (PNG and the Solomon Islands) for the Australian Centre for International Agricultural Research (ACIAR). She has come to PNG from Fiji where she worked in the Plant Protection Service of the Secretariat of the Pacific Community (SPC) for seven years.

She grew up on a small banana farm in Yandina (QLD) and finished her highschool certificate in the nearby town of Nambour. She went on to do a science degree from the University of Queensland having become interested in plant diseases when her family farm became infected with a banana disease called Fusarium wilt. From there she travelled to Hong Kong to do a PhD. Last year she completed a Masters in International and Community Development, wanting to learn more about the development and community aspects of the work she has been doing in the Pacific.

She is passionate about

encouraging Papua New Guinean and Pacific Island women to go into science and about creating opportunities for women scientists of the Pacific, particularly in the field of agriculture.

She looks forward to achieving this in a number of ways including opportunities for scientists involved in ACIAR projects to do Masters and PhDs through John Allwright Fellowships, as well as improve their scientific writing through the Science Communication project. Jacqui is also keen to continue ACIAR's record of delivering benefits to women through projects such as the Lus Frut Mama and Mobile Card schemes that help women secure income that can be channeled to home needs and childrens' schooling.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

Celebrating International Women's Day is an important day for all women around the world, thus, should be given the much needed recognition that it deserves in Papua New Guinea not just among the middle class and the elite, but right down to the grassroots people.

In commemorating this very important day for the women folk, we meet Bosa Togs employed by Telikom PNG as Systems Manager with the IT Department.

This remarkable woman from Trobriand Island in the Milne Bay Province is a living testimony of the saying "Making the best of opportunities that come your way and being successful through sheer determination and commitment."

Bosa Togs, began her working career with Telikom PNG, then known as Post and Telecommunications Corporation (PTC) as a recruitment officer with the Human Resources Department. She later moved to the IT department as a Help desk Officer. Through hard work Bosa became a Programmer.

Perseverance paid off and Bosa climbed up the ranks again this time as Systems Analyst. Today Bosa is the Systems Manager still within the IT department and has earned herself a lot of respect and admiration from colleagues not just within the department but the Company as a whole.

Becoming an IT Systems Manager was probably not what Bosa pictured herself doing 10 to 15 years later after leaving school which is quiet evident with Bosa enrolling at the University of Papua New Guinea to do medicine. For personal reasons Bosa was unable to complete her studies at the UPNG Medical Faculty. Bosa joined Telikom some nineteen years ago first as a Recruitment Officer and later as a Help Desk Officer, and only having one thing in mind which was to do the best she could which have paid off handsomely today.

Like many other women around the country, Bosa is very passionate about women advancing in their respective career paths particularly in professions which are traditionally male dominated. While a few women have broken some of these barriers and continue to do so in this generation, it is equally important that the importance and rights of women in society are reinforced for women to know, feel and understand that they are valued members of society and have equal rights as men regardless of status, age, nationality and profession.

With regard to the importance of marking International Women's Day today, Bosa was asked a couple of questions about International Women's Day and this is what she had to say.

What is your message to women in PNG on this day?

This day marks a global significance in that women of Papua

BOSA TOGS: We have a responsibility, we are not to blame, but to help and create change for the better in whatever capacity we hold.

New Guinea are faced with the same problems as those in other countries. Nations are born out of women, we play important roles in national building. Therefore, the rights of women must be addressed in every hierarchy of governance. My message to women in PNG is we have a responsibility. Our responsibility is not to blame, but to help create change for the better in whatever capacity we hold.

How do you think women in PNG have advanced since Independence or do you think things have become worse?

A lot of positives things have happened since independence, one of the most evident is that women are now being given the opportunity to hold senior management roles and are entering into male-dominated fields and breaking the status quo.

There have been a lot of stories lately about violence against women, rape, incest and so on. What are your views on this issue and what needs to be done to address this situation?

I think all these are signs of moral decay in society. There is a need to go back to basics of character building, establishing traditional Melanesian values to have a sense of belonging.

The unethical and immoral acts of a few, drums a lot of noise and disharmony within our societies, however, I believe we can silence these through our insistence to put an end to this unbecoming behaviour.

The women of this land must rise up and pray like never before, stop talking about issues and go down on our knees and pray about them, and voil-see what divine intervention will bring about in this beautiful nation of ours.

What are the biggest hurdles women face in PNG?

Women are still faced with different forms of gender imbalance and discrimination as well as stereotyping in all levels of society. While legislation and policies exist that speak against these, in practise, it's not the case. The lack of support from appropriate authorities to police the gender issues and human rights exacerbates abuses of women rights at home and in the workplace.

What does the future hold for women in PNG?

I'm very optimistic about the future of PNG women, but that depends very much on our own efforts to remain strong and united in building a better PNG, respecting the rights of women and children and giving them opportunities to contribute and excel in their area of speciality.

Bosa says she is proud of being a woman and aspires to be a competent leader, a role model to her subordinates and strive for excellence. She hopes to see more women in leadership roles and decision making roles, especially in technical fields and becoming very good at them.

Asked what her thoughts were on gender balance in the PNG parliament without hesitation, Bosa said it was not enough and that PNG needed more women to be in parliament.

When asked to share her experience on the challenges faced as a women in a leading role Bosa said "its not easy being in a leadership role, as it has its challenges. It may take longer for a woman to prove her worth to be recognised as a leader or having leadership qualities and eventually you will be given that leadership role. But once you have been given the leadership role it also takes time for male counterparts to get use to it.

At the moment, the work that I do at Telikom PNG as a Systems Manager is quite challenging but at the same time very satisfying. However, should I leave Telikom, I would like to run my own IT consulting company,"Bosa said.

Message from the FAMILY & SEXUAL VIOLENCE ACTION COMMITTEE

in commemoration of International Women's Day 8 March 2006

WOMEN'S RIGHTS ARE HUMAN RIGHTS

Today, 8 March 2006 is International Women's Day. It is a day observed by people in many countries around the world recognising the achievements of women, looking back on past struggles and accomplishments and more importantly, looking ahead to the untapped potential and opportunities that await future generations of women.

The theme for this year's International Women's Day is: "The role of women in decision-making: Making challenges, Creating change". This is central to the advancement of women around the world, and to the progress of humankind as a whole.

In PNG and around the world, women are meeting the challenges of leadership and contributing to change in their communities, countries and in the international arena in very real ways. Women have held public office at various levels of government, have initiated and led grassroots organisations, and are present in virtually every professional field and in the private sector.

Yet while progress is being made towards the equality of women and men in decision-making levels, the pace is still slow.

In PNG particularly, violence against women is an issue that impacts greatly on the lives of women, taking away their freedom, a sense of justice and peace, of social progress and better standards of living; of equality, tolerance and dignity.

Today PNG women make a solemn appeal to their counterparts to recognise that women's rights are human rights and that 'A life free from violence, it's our right!'

The Family and Sexual Violence Action Committee (FSVAC), the peak national body that is working towards the elimination of the occurrence and suffering caused by physical, sexual and psychological violence within families, would want to bring to the fore the human rights of women involved in sex work.

As we recognise women in positions of decision-making, the FSVAC wish to highlight the lack of choice other women such as sex workers have to live with.

For the vast majority of women in sex work, it is forced choice. Women are absorbed into sex work for many reasons and in ways in which the whole notion of real "choice" is sometimes put into question.

Sex work will remain as a system as long as men have something to do with it, with or without women's consent. If women and girls are not persuaded by the big money which is sometimes offered, or the survival possibility for women or their families, then they will simply be tricked or trafficked.

Therefore the FSVAC view sex work as violence against women.

Sex work is:

- sexual harassment,
- rape,
- battering,
- verbal abuse,
- domestic violence,
- a racist practice,
- a violation of human rights.

- child sexual abuse,
- a consequence of male domination of women; and
- a means of maintaining male domination of women.

In Papua New Guinea, sex workers are considered as the lowest of all humans. If they can give up their bodies to do such a thing, then they have no dignity, no self respect or even self worth.

The issue which we as a nation must be concerned about is that the age of entry into sex work is decreasing. There are already young men and women below the age of 18 who are involved in the entertainment industry where their bodies are exposed to lure those with money to pay for sex later as strip dancers or shower girls. See table 1 & 2 for statistics showing young people being exploited sexually and those vulnerable to exploitation.

TABLE 1: PACE PNG with the support of UNICEF PNG had a survey done to establish the situation analysis of commercial exploitation of children. The findings show:

- 1,034,300 adolescents are at risk of sexual exploitation and abuse
- 50% of victims who reported sexual abuse are less than 15 years of age (police records)
- Unemployed and desperately poor parents with no form of social assistance sell their daughters to brokers
- Children, once caught up in the system of sex work, are extremely vulnerable and usually remain in sex work as adults.

Many of these vulnerable people find themselves forced into sex work to survive or put food on the table for their families. More young girls have also come out and said that they are in this business so they could make enough money to pay their school fees. There are also married women with children who get into sex work as it is the only source of income, a work "niche" where otherwise, her children would have nothing at all. Others become sex workers because their husbands and parents force them while others are in the trade through their own choice even when they have good homes and are financially provided for.

With the spread of HIV/AIDS as a national concern, sex work has become a contributing factor to its rise and a concern as well for the health of sex workers and their families.

Table 3: Update situation analysis - children affected by HIV

- As of 2005, an estimated 10,946 children had contracted HIV/AIDS and by 2010 this figure is expected to grow to 22,000. The number of child made orphans is 9,400 and by 2010 this figure will grow to 77,000. 138,108 children live in AIDS-affected families and this figure is expected to grow to 270,000 by 2010. The number of children at risk of infection is 620,585.

This report is taken from a study on the situation analysis of orphans and vulnerable children conducted by NationalAids Council Secretariat and support by UNICEF PNG.

- Children separated from their biological/extended family are at high risk of abuse (global knowledge)
- 22.4% of children were not residing with their biological parents at the time of the 2000 Census
- 10% of households include step or adopted children
- Most adoption and fostering is done under traditional arrangements, or without formal recognition
- 9% of children under 16, or 220,000 children, are missing one or both of their parents
- 10,000 children live on the street, are homeless or abandoned
- 1,000 and 5,000 children live on the streets in NCD
- 676 households in rural areas were headed by children aged between 10 and 14 (Census)
- Girls as young as 12 are married under Customary Law in some areas although the legal age is 16 (Census)
- 3,870 children aged 10 to 14 had been married and were living in rural areas (Census)
- Girls who marry before they turn 18 are less educated, have more children, are married to men who are significantly older, are more likely to experience domestic violence, believe that a man is justified in beating his wife and are more likely to be part of polygamous unions (UNICEF)
- 30% of children (620,585) live below the poverty line (World Bank)

lies.

Human Rights

Every man, woman and child is born free, have the right to life and live in freedom and safety. Human rights are inalienable and is divided into three categories:

Civil and Political Rights - These are liberty oriented and include the right to life and security of the individual to be free from torture and slavery, to participate in political arena and enjoy freedom of expression, thought, conscience and religion, expression and freedom of association and assembly.

Economic, Social and Cultural Rights - These are security oriented rights for example the right to work, education, a reasonable standard of living, food, shelter and health care.

Environmental and Development Rights - These include the right to live in an environment that is clean, free from all forms of pollution and protected from destruction and the rights to political and economic development.

When we say every person has human rights, we are also saying that each person has a responsibility to respect and protect the human rights of others, sex workers included. This is because;

■ Women in sex work are denied every imaginable right in every imaginable and unimaginable way, making sex trade a denial of women's humanity, no matter how humanity is defined.

■ In sex work, women and men are tortured through repeated rape and in all the more conventionally recognized ways. Women are forced into sex work precisely in order to be degraded and subjected to cruel and brutal treatment without human limits; it is the opportunity to do this that is exchanged when women are bought and sold for sex.

■ Security of a person is fundamental to society. Women in sex work attempt to set limits on what can be done to them. But nothing backs them up. Not even the people that forced them in sex work.

■ Many sex workers, breaking the general "law of silence" enveloping them, have spoken out about their constant exposure to all kinds of humiliations, physical and sexual aggression, and theft, as well as to the "Russian roulette" of forced sexual relations without condoms or other protections. And even if not all men are violent, those seeking sex with a sex worker necessarily buy the power to be violent with impunity. "I was afraid, conscious that the situation could become uncontrollable at any moment", says one sex worker.

Using culture as an excuse

There also exists another form or system of sexual exploitation that is embedded in some traditional cultures of Papua New Guinea. This practice has been used as an excuse or a screen to hide abuses of young women.

A traditionally acceptable practice that is now being abused by parents for monetary purposes is arranged marriages. Parents are arranging marriages for their daughters who are still quiet young. Usually the man in question is an older married man. The arrangement is made and a bride price is worked out and agreed upon without the girl's consent. The young girl comes into the picture when she is required to perform her duties by satisfying her future husband's sexual needs. If the girl in question is still in school, her school fees become part of the bride price package.

These young women have become commodities and their parents are the traders. Although a woman may have been arranged for just one man, the fact remains she has been offered in return for money, goods or favour and her parents will be living off the benefits. This practice is also common in marriages where husbands are becoming pimps knowingly selling their wives as sex workers.

As PNG join the countries of the world to mark International Women's Day, we remind everyone that women's rights are human rights and women can only enjoy equality and progress in decision-making: Making challenges, creating change when they live a life free from violence.

A life free from violence, it's our right!
