If you could attach to this work a person of your choice as a permanent full time observer with no other authority than the authority of making recommendations to you, this person would gradually discover by studying the past history of these projects to whom to turn for advice and enlightenment ~~and~~, ~~in~~ spite of the complexity of the task, he would probably be, after three or four months of study, in the position of making recommendations for the gradual reorganization of this work. Such a reorganization then might double the speed of the work and incidentally might lead to the saving of hundreds of millions of dollars.
