Reagan Campaigns for Bush

By DAVID BROOKS
Senior Staff Writer

In his last San Diego address as chief executive, President Reagan spoke scathingly of the Republican's "liberal" opposition at a rally held at the Sports Arena last Thursday.

The President, sharing the dais with Republican congressional hopefuls, spoke briefly to thousands of cheering, flag waving supporters about the "Reagan Revolution," which he said has brought about a "thriving economy, a strong national defense and the preservation of the family."

"That revolution is going to continue come November ninth," President Reagan added.

Reagan attacked Democratic candidate Michael Dukakis and the Democratic campaign in saying that "the liberals ... use all sorts of insulting words to describe [Republican candidate George Bush]." Reagan referred to the Democrats as "liberals" more than a dozen times throughout the 20-minute speech.

Reagan said that during the past eight years, the Republicans have turned around the weakened economy left to them by the "malaise years" of the Carter administration.

Seizing the "negative campaigning" issue that has been prevalent in the 1988 campaign, the President told his audience that he and "George Bush worked much too hard to cut your taxes to let our opponents come into office and raise them all over again .... Do some negative campaigning of your own .... Say 'no' to new taxes and say 'yes' to the Republican ticket."

Reagan also assessed his administration's policy achievements and said that "none of our triumphs would have happened if the liberals had their way." Reagan cited the Grenada action, the Soviet rollback in Afghanistan and

Students Hear Town Council Complaints

By KEN JENSEN
Guardian Intern

Complaints of a lack of communication between the UCSD administration and surrounding communities were expressed at an informal meeting between the A.S. and representatives of San Diego community councils last Wednesday evening.

The informal meeting, part of an on-going effort by A.S. Vice President of External Affairs Mordecai Potash to involve prominent members of the San Diego community with UCSD students, included representatives from San Diego and La Jolla town councils as well as Del Mar Deputy Mayor Brooke Eisenberg and a representative from the San Diego Mayor's office.

The purpose of the gathering was to give students a chance to "mingle with some of the council," said Adam Torem, A.S. Municipal Lobby Director of External Affairs.

In an interview just prior to the meeting, Torem expressed the desire to see increased student involvement in surrounding communities.

Torem's interest is shared by Potash, who has shifted the orientation of the V.P. External office to include a stronger emphasis on municipal relations with the A.S.

La Jolla City Council member Robert Whiteman said he sees the relations between the campus and the community "improving."

Despite improvements, though, Whiteman said the University forgets about the community it is in and needs to interact with it more.

State and federal funding of the University of California, Whiteman claimed, results in UCSD's lack of concern for local governing bodies.

Whiteman said that heavy traffic and insufficient parking in La Jolla are problems to which UCSD contributes.

Neighborhood parking, particularly on La Jolla Farms Road, is a problem La Jolla home owners attribute to UCSD, according to Whiteman.

"[Homeowners] always say, 'Why can't the University provide

A.S. Battle Continues Over Alleged Rights Violations

By LAURA PROCTOR
Guardian Intern

Perceived violations of student rights were the subject of an intense debate at UCSD when two resolutions seeking to end the administration's alleged disregard for student input were proposed at last Wednesday's A.S. Council meeting.

Neither measure passed, although the Council later approved a resolution expanding the rights of students who are accused of violating the Student Conduct Code.

In addition, the Council discussed the denial of funds to the Koala based on recent complaints of racist humor in the campus paper.

Announcements were also made regarding developments in the planning for this year's Sun God Festival, and the Grove Caffé's upcoming switch from styrofoam to paper cups.

The two student rights resolutions, one by Student Advocate Bard-Alan Finlan, and one by Warren Sophomore Senator Tina Maher, were a result of the administration's recent amendment of a UCSD policy affecting students.

Maher's resolution sought not to alter the administration's recent policy change which affected student representation on a campus policymaking board, but to increase future student representation.

Finlan's proposal, which he first submitted at the Oct. 12 Council meeting (Guardian, Oct. 13) demands the retraction of the controversial amendment, as well as an increase in student representation.

A.S. President Maynard Dimmesdale urged the Council to reject Maher's resolution in favor of Finlan's, saying that the problem had not been a lack of student input, but the administration's disregard of it.

"We have actual letters indicating that our input was overlooked.... Simply putting more people on the committee does not ensure that that will not happen again," Dimmesdale said.

Maher argued that her resolution would effectively solve the problem by placing six people on the student advisory committee instead of the single student representative provided by the new administration policy.

Finlan said this would be "putting a bandaid on the problem," and said that failure to demand a retraction from the administration would be "allowing them to essentially break the law."

After failing to pass Maher's resolution by a vote of 5-11, the Council began consideration of Finlan's resolution.

Not all council members were against Finlan's proposal to ask for a policy reversal, but several

Aid For Married Students

By LALEAQUE GRAD
Contributing Writer

Third College students encountering trouble adjusting to college life due to the burden of marriage or an age gap can now turn to a newly formed support group called STRATA designed to help nontraditional students.

The Third College administration has placed new emphasis on meeting the needs of this category of students due to a nationwide rise in the average age of college students that is starting to effect UCSD enrollment, explained Third College Activities Coordinator Barbara Armstrong.

The recent formation of the STRATA support group is an outgrowth of an earlier Third College commuters group called Reentry Women, which basically shared STRATA goals, but was restricted to women.

Although STRATA stands for Students That are Returning After Time Away, Armstrong stressed that the support group is open to any Third College student who is married or feels that he or she is above the traditional college age, which Armstrong considers to be about 25.

According to Armstrong, coping with college stress is often quite difficult for these nontraditional students, as many of them have jobs and/or families in addition to classes.

The STRATA support group is planning to cover the wide spectrum of issues facing the nontraditional college student, including finding comfortable social activities, child care, time budgeting and stress management, Armstrong said.

Armstrong plans to hold a workshop later in the year to attract more members. Meanwhile, interested students can contact her at the Third College Dean's office at 534-4390.

UCSA Determines Top Issues that Concern Students this Year

The top issues for students in the UC system this year are health insurance, graduate student employee rights, student control of student-funded buildings, quality of undergraduate education, graduate student and faculty affirmative action, and the state's long term student fee policy.

The actions of the UCSA Board culminated a three month process of identifying student concerns and consulting with all nine campuses regarding priorities.

UCSA discussed the UC's difficult financial situation which arises from a reduction of state funding. While acknowledging the need for fiscal restraint, UCSA voted to ask the Regents, at their meeting on Oct. 20 in San Francisco, to make clear to the state the need for improvements in TA training and affirmative action and to find funds to provide Research Assistant salary adjustments and student employee health insurance.

The health insurance issue arises from the UC's pending implementation of a new employee benefit plan for part time employees in order to comply with changes in the Federal Tax Code.

may file against student rapists through their school's administration separately to have their assailants punished by the school.

The California Assembly Concurrent Resolution Bill 46 was introduced by Assemblyman Tom Hayden, D-Santa Monica, to give state universities the power to have a rapist suspended or expelled from school if the crime occurred on campus or at a campus-related event.

Under section 261 of the penal code, a person who has committed rape can be punished for up to eight years in state prison, but a student does not necessarily have to file criminal charges in order to file a complaint with the campus office.

There are no provisions that specify how severely an offender should be punished. For example, nothing in the law states how long a student would be suspended for raping another student.

UCSB Chancellor and Wife to Appeal Charges of Embezzlement

SANTA BARBARA — Former UCSB Chancellor Robert Huttenback and his wife Freda will appeal their conviction of embezzlement of university funds and tax fraud that were handed down in July, according to a notice of appeal filed Monday, Oct. 17 in Santa Monica Supreme Court.

"That notice of appeal triggers the preparation of the transcripts of the trial," said appellate attorney Dennis Fischer of Santa Monica, who is handling the appeal for the Huttenbacks.

Fischer estimated that the case could take one or two years before its resolution. He also said that it is likely that the couple will still be required to observe Judge Zel Canter's Sept. 7 sentencing pronouncement that the two each serve five years probation and pay fines totaling $70,000 (both were spared jail terms).

The appeal notice is a document which indicates an intent of appealing the case, but does not specify reasons for its filing. Fischer stated that it could be months before he files documents outlining the defense's basis for the appeal.

In the meantime, Huttenback will continue to draw his yearly $81,000 university salary.

Active Students for Kids (ASK)

Help children fight the cycle of poverty, illiteracy, dropping out, and cultural differences that pressure inner-city schools. Warren College Community Services invites all UCSD students to participate in its volunteer outreach program at Bay Park Elementary School.

Assist with the non-medical needs of the elderly, the disabled, and the infirm. At Your Home Services in La Jolla needs volunteers to work directly in the home to provide patients with a variety of services, including homemaking, personal care, medical claims, escort, yard work, meal preparation, and money management.

The St. Vincent de Paul-Joan Kroc Center needs volunteers to assist in its efforts to house, clothe and feed the poor and ultimately to break the cycle of homelessness. Volunteers may work in any of the following areas: children's activities, residential intake, room check, day center, clerical assistance, health care, kitchen, employment preparation, the school room, and the weather shelter.

the "democratic revolutions around the world" as some of his successes.

In domestic affairs, the president criticized Dukakis and the Massachusetts furlough program: "We don't need to see the job of the police made any tougher by the kind of furloughing of first degree murderers that we've seen in the state of Massachusetts." Reagan said that Massachusetts "has the most liberal prison record since Billy the Kid sprung the Lincoln County jail." The President warned that the accomplishments his administration has made in decreasing crime can be "undone quicker than you can say 'furlough'."

ated in the La Jolla Grand Prix cycling half-marathon and in the regular meetings of the "Sundowners," an informal association of La Jolla residents.

They told us, 'good luck, we've tried'," Potash said of the administration which, according to the A.S. Vice President, told his office to do "whatever you want."

The A.S. Council, Potash said, has taken the lead in bettering UCSD's relations with surrounding communities.

UCSD has also had an effect on nearby Del Mar, where Potash claims 20 percent of the student population lives.

Wyatt Rosenthal/Guardian

A.S. Members Adam Torem (L) and Mordecai Potash (R) meet with Del Mar Deputy Mayor Brooke Eisenberg.

Del Mar Deputy Mayor Brooke Eisenberg said that her city's council has received complaints about fraternity parties in the area.

In addition, expanded growth of the University has raised concerns about increasing Del Mar traffic over the next few years, Eisenberg said.

To solve these potential conflicts, the A.S. and Del Mar Council are planning a liaison committee to open up the "lines of communication."

Eisenberg is optimistic about the committee which will include students, council members and faculty.

"It will be good for students as well as the Del Mar community," she said.

HEALTH CARE - SOCIAL ISSUES

Interdisciplinary Minor/Program of Concentration/Area Study

THE HEALTH CARE-SOCIAL ISSUES PROGRAM offers students a variety of perspectives that enhance their ability to deal with complex social and ethical issues in modern health care. This program is available to all UCSD students with a general interest in issues related to health care as well as to students considering health care careers.

THE MINOR CONSISTS of six courses, two required and four elective courses. At least four courses (three electives and Philosophy 122 which is required) must be taken at the upper-division level.

BECAUSE EACH COLLEGE has different general education requirements (rules for non-contiguous coursework and rules for overlapping upper division coursework), students should contact an academic advisor in their college to see how the Health Care-Social Issues Program can best meet their college's general education requirements.

The Guardian recommends:
Yes: 78, 79, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 87, 88, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 97, 99, 103
No: 80, 86, 89, 96, 100, 101, 102, 104, 106
No stand: 98 and 105

Democracy really brings out the best in us, don't you think? Look at all the good citizens who have dropped their usual business to hurl themselves head-long and giddy into what the California Review calls our obligation to "stand up and be counted as an American."

The California ballot initiatives have brought out the lawyers, insurance and tobacco companies, doctors, anti-gay moralists and other folks who have our best interests at heart in a real burst of patriotism. Kind of like a "thousand points of light," only less sincere.

ENDORSEMENTS ★

We've broken the initiatives down into four categories: insurance acts, bond acts, legislative amendments and citizen initiatives. Good luck.

The Insurance Acts
 Here's your scorecard: 100 is for the lawyers, 101 is for the insurance companies, 103 is for Ralph Nader, 104 is also for the insurance companies. 106 is insurance companies against lawyers.

All operate at cross-purposes. No one knows which will do what in light of possible passage of other initiatives. The one that gets the most votes gets entirely enacted; the rest, if they pass, will be enacted in areas in which they do not conflict with the most popular initiative.

We recommend supporting one of the five and voting "no" on all the others. It's the only way you'll have any idea of the possible effect of your vote.

We also recommend that you pick 103 for your "yes" vote.

It would cut auto insurance rates 20 percent across the board. The state insurance commission, which is in the pocket of the insurance industry, would be able to mitigate some of those cuts — as many as 50 percent, according to the committee chair.

Think about that. What that is saying is that, at most, half of the insurance companies operating in the state would not have their profits badly affected by a 20 percent rate cut. That's probably erring on the side of caution, so the truth is that insurance companies can afford the rate cut. And even the companies will tell you that rates should come down. This initiative would bring them down the most.

The initiative also calls for statewide election of insurance commissioners. Some say that this will allow the insurance companies to buy the positions, but they already do that through the governor's office. You can't exactly call Deukmejian's appointments friends of the small insuree. This at least gives consumers a shot at it.

Citizen Initiatives
 The most visible of these initiatives is 99, the tobacco tax increase from 10 cents to 25 cents per pack, placing California in the upper third or so of state tobacco taxes. The money would be used for health programs and to offset the expense of treating cancer patients. We regret that the initiative doesn't make the tax higher.

96 and 102 are the AIDS initiatives. 96 allows for forced testing of people who are suspected upon "probable cause" of a sex offense or assaulting a police, fire or medical official. The test results would not be confidential, because any parties involved would be notified of the results.

Take the example of UCSD student Kristen Crabtree, who was accused of biting an FBI agent. She would have been given an AIDS test against her will and the results of the test released. She was later exonerated, but she wouldn't have been able to stop the test or keep the results from public dissemination.

96 would also strain existing testing capacity. Facilities already have more than they can handle in completing voluntary tests.

While the motivation for 96 is clear but misguided, 102 is simply a sleazy attempt to capitalize on anti-gay sentiment. It would shatter the only proven method of gathering information about socially sensitive, communicable diseases, i.e., confidential testing. Anyone tested would have the positive results reported to the state. Like 96, it would require testing of those accused but not convicted of certain crimes.

97 would restore OSHA, the Occupation Safety and Health Administration, to its proper place in California protecting workers from unsafe and hazardous working conditions. In this era of painstaking assembly-line work in Silicon Valley, pesticide use in the growth of fruits and vegetables and the unknown effect of new industries and types of workplaces, OSHA is essential.

95 has a certain amount of poetic justice: it would increase inspection of building sites, at which people will live and work, to help create a pool of money to help those who have no place to live and work.

98 is for education bucks, and it's backed big-time by the UC system. Chancellor Richard Atkinson prepared a wish list — at the system-wide request — of all the neat things we could get if 98 passes (his list contained virtually nothing that would help undergraduates), but 98 is really another way for state legislators and the governor to avoid building a legislative and citizen consensus behind more funds for education. We have no recommendation.

105, the disclosure initiative, will probably be legally invalidated because it covers more than one topic.

Bond Acts
 We recommend a "yes" on 78, 79 and 85, which will help schools and libraries, and on 81, 82 and 83, which will help clean up and conserve the state's second most precious resource, water. We also recommend a "yes" on the Homeless Act.

We recommend a "no" on 80 and 86, which continue to emphasize discredited and useless punitive approaches to the criminal justice system. More prisons lead to more criminality because of hideously high rates of recidivism.

Legislative Amendments
 These are mostly non-controversial, "good government"-type housekeeping measures. We're in favor of all — 87, 88, 90, 91, 92, 93 and 94 — except one: 89, which would give the governor the right to cancel parole for certain offenders already approved by their parole board. More playing politics with people's lives is what will result.

We've had that in the presidential campaign already — Bush playing politics with the furlough of Willie Horton. That kind of sleazy garbage has gone on more than long enough, thank you.

Next week we will be doing endorsements in the U.S. presidential election and summarizing all endorsements to date.

A.S. Won't Confront Student Rights Issues

Editor:
 The A.S. Council has joined the UC Administration in reducing the rights of students. During the past summer Chancellor Atkinson approved a revision of the single most important document addressing student rights.

It took past A.S. Councils years to develop these policies and regulations that were designed to protect students and ensure our rights.

The revision of this document took place without adequate student representation and all changes incorporated into the new subsequent documents adversely affect students.

Among other things, we now have less representation on the committee which oversees all the revisions of these documents. Originally there were five students, then two and now only one!

Isn't this classic "summer work" for the Administration?

In addition, we have lost a critical opportunity for presenting violations of student rights by the University before an open grievance committee composed of our peers.

Moreover, prior to the approval by the Chancellor and followed by the Services of the Office of the President, the ASUCSD Student Advocate with my endorsements, objected in all official capacities at every step of approval.

We noted the revisions occurred without following the guidelines established by the committee in UCSD policy, as requested by UC President Gardner. Our objections were ignored by the Vice Chancellor of Undergraduate Affairs, disregarded by the Chancellor and interposed before reaching the UC President.

Only now, when a resolution calling for retroactive reversal to the previous documents has been brought before the A.S. Council, are we being asked to ratify the changes.

Unfortunately, the resolution is being approved by the Administration.

The resolution, titled, "Student Input in Campus Policies," was brought before the council four weeks ago and vehemently opposed by all but three voting members.

Gayatri Gunasekaran, Third Freshman Senator, noted the passage of the resolution would be "an embarrassment to the A.S. Council."

Look at the Real Issues

Editor:
 It's time for people to stop complaining about the sexism and racism at UCSD and get on with their lives. I care too, but I have enough common sense to realize that it isn't going to change overnight. The problem is a world-wide one, and we can't turn UCSD into a utopia, free from sexism and racism, unless we plan to shut out the world.

Consider my situation. I am a black, female, first-year student here at UCSD. I've been here for half of one quarter, and I am very confused. I don't know for sure what to call myself (I am a fresh-something-or-other). I'm confused about whether or not to read the Koala (well, it was funny, but maybe I should feel offended). It's a miracle that I'm still sure about my own name.

Well, here's what I think. If freshman is sexist, and freshman is awkward, then call us first-year students, or new kids, or glibble idiots (that one seems popular among those of you who have been here for a while), or anything. It's not life threatening. Nobody is going to fall dead if we don't resolve this mess right now.

As for the Koala, it's up to everyone to decide for themselves whether they want to read the Koala. If you know that each issue is going to upset you, then don't waste your time reading it. If you are curious about it, or if you've never read it, then read it and decide for yourself whether or not you're offended.

Someone is always going to find sexist or grammatical fault with any new term suggested for freshthings, and the Koala is always going to be rude and nasty to everyone (not just minorities). Therefore, I think that we should stop harping on these issues and focus our attentions on the more seriously important problems in the world today.

Look around. Our planet is being threatened by acid rain, nuclear weapons, war, mass starvation, and a fierce battle for control of a world that we are destroying anyway. It's time we set our priorities straight.

New Ways of Getting Sick

By A.M. BEZZERIDES

All Hallow's Eve. What a day. Do you remember when you were a kid how you looked forward for months to putting on that space suit or ballerina costume? And when the 31st came. You went to school in your costume and marched around to all the other classrooms comparing outfits, stuffed yourself at the Halloween party.

And then at home, after dinner, it seemed as though it would never get dark so you could grab your empty pillow case and cruise the neighborhood racing from door to door trying to see just how much sugar filled crap you could beg for by saying the old faithful "Trick-or-Treat?"

What a concept. Begging for the kind of sweet stuff that your parents forbade all year long. Not a bad deal for kids. But then, inevitably, you ate most of a completely filled pillow case in the next three days and got vilely ill. Not too smart, huh? Well think about it. Halloween. Tonight, after dinner, we'll anticipate the dark — having looked forward to nights and deadlines. I'll miss living down in that old building buried in the eucalyptus grove and being so close for the Che Café all-you-can-eats during frantic Wednesday Guardian production nights.

Maybe I'll learn that life doesn't have to be stressed and left to that last minute and gosh, I'll have time to get organized.

Perhaps it'll strike me that college is time to mess around and be carefree. Gee, on that note, you'll just have to excuse me while I sew the tail on my black cat costume so I can overindulge in Halloween treats tonight and get myself a good hangover ...

Although the council failed to pass the resolution first week, it was clear to me they did so through ignorance.

Unfortunately, after two weeks, the resolution still did not pass its second appearance before the council. Only one member, Charles Ostrofe, Warren Senior Senator, supported the resolution both times.

Alex Wong, Third Senior Senator, was concerned "the wording 'retroactively reversing' is too harsh." After all, the Administration put considerable time and effort into revising the document. To call for a complete nullification of all that work is certainly inconsiderate.

Tina Maher, Warren Sophomore Senator, expressed yet another attitude, "I don't care." Her concern is restoring student representation and not to confront the administration.

The Student Advocate and I have spent considerable time urging the administration to resist approval of the revision. We were totally disregarded on all fronts.

Now I find the A.S. Council doing the same ...

'Lesser Evil Is Still Evil'

Editor:
 Many people jokingly say they vote for the lesser of the two evils. However obvious it may seem, it needs repeating that the lesser evil is still evil. Thank goodness Hitler isn't running against Stalin or we would be in deep trouble. We aren't choosing an evil president, but trying to vote in a good one.

The method of voting based on an informed opinion is also popular. Unfortunately, it is hard to be sufficiently informed. This campaign season is cluttered up with half truths and twisted statements. We hear of the problems, but never of the solutions.

What other options are there? One may decide not to vote and be labeled apathetic or complacent. Or, one may decide to vote for a third party candidate knowing full well he will not win. But at least one's conscience is not tainted.

The Libertarian candidate, four-term congressman Ron Paul is a viable choice for the Presidency.

LAW AND SOCIETY

Interdisciplinary Minor/Program of Concentration/Area Study

Law and Society is an interdisciplinary program that emphasizes the complexity and interrelationship of legal, social and ethical issues in their historical context. The Law and Society minor is available to all UCSD students with a general interest in law as a social institution as well as to students considering law-related careers. The purpose of the program is to enhance students' critical analysis of social and ethical issues related to law and of the legal implications and ramifications of policy and decision-making in their fields. To insure an interdisciplinary learning experience, students must include in their program at least one course from each of the following "core" academic departments: History, Philosophy, Political Science and Sociology.

Because each college has different general education requirements (rules for non-contiguous coursework and rules for overlapping upper division coursework), students should contact an academic advisor in their college to see how the Law and Society Program can best meet their college's general education requirements. Students who complete the program but do not use it for a minor, program of concentration or area study as part of the general education requirements, may elect to have a special notation on their transcript certifying their completion of the coursework.

Winter Quarter 1989 Course Offerings

REJECTED: Bills Fail in Council

individuals maintained that his resolution was too vague, and contained loopholes.

Revelle Senior Senator Layla Kashani said the resolution "lacks a lot," and urged the Council to "show strength, not weakness," by convening to draw up a more effective resolution, instead of simply passing Finlan's.

Public Relations Commissioner Tom Rhee questioned whether proponents of Finlan's resolution were really concerned with the general principle, or were against the specific policy instituted. "It seems to me that this is a personal issue rather than a conflict of interest," Rhee said.

The Council employed Parliamentary rules to postpone the resolution indefinitely (an action that is known as an indirect rejection).

Dimmesdale expressed concern that Council members either did not realize the implications of the policy change, or were too intimidated by the administration to seek a retraction. He maintained that the issue of student rights extended far beyond the UCSD campus.

"The Chancellors of the administrations of each campus are not considering student input... we need to send a message to the administration, system-wide as well as our own," he said.

Referring specifically to Nick Aguilar, Director of Student Support Services, Dimmesdale said, "What I'm afraid of is that the Council is being persuaded by

The measure also provides for a student's right to a public hearing, which was previously subject to University approval.

The proposal passed unanimously. The Council denied an underwrite of $375 (for the showing of the movie "Heavy Metal") to the Koala, citing recent complaints of racism against the paper.

Finlan pointed out that the Council should only loan money to media that serve the students of UCSD, saying "When a campus paper makes racial comments... it does not represent the student body."

Maher also announced that this year's Sun God Festival will include carnival rides, but may cost $1 admission per person.

Tom Rhee argued, however, that charging admission would be unworkable since the performing bands would ask for a percentage.

Maher responded that any admission profit would go straight to charity.

In response to a resolution passed last year by the A.S., the Grove Caffé will stop using styrofoam cups and switch to paper beginning in December, V.P. Finance Eduardo Rallo-Verdugo announced. The use of styrofoam cups had previously been criticized as damaging to the environment.

an administrator who's known for having changed sentiments almost on a daily basis." Dimmesdale later noted that Maher had recently met with Aguilar.

Another proposal by Finlan was decidedly less controversial. It sought to expand the rights of students accused of violating the Student Conduct Code, by limiting the period allowed for filing of a complaint to within 60 days of any alleged violation.

Can you afford to gamble with the LSAT, GMAT, GRE, or MCAT?

Probably not. Great grades alone may not be enough to impress the grad school of your choice.

Scores play a part. And that's how Stanley H. Kaplan can help.

The Kaplan course teaches test-taking techniques, reviews course subjects, and increases the odds that you'll do the best you can do.

So if you've been out of school for a while and need a refresher, or even if you're fresh out of college, do what over 1 million students have done. Take Kaplan. Why take a chance with your career?

Book Tells Collegiates How to Cash In

Entrepreneur Capitalizes on Talents

By ELEANOR CASTILLO
Staff Writer

If you are under 30, low on cash and full of great ideas, take note.

Do you like the idea of making thousands of dollars a month? How about choosing the hours you work and being your own boss?

If you can answer yes to any of these questions, then you're ready to join the three-quarter million student entrepreneurs across the nation who are running their own businesses.

New Age

We are a "new age" governed by creativity, said student entrepreneur and recent UCSD graduate Van Hutchinson.

Student entrepreneurs are dreamers whose ultimate goal is the satisfaction of transforming an idea into a viable product or service. No, they are not your upcoming business tycoons.

"We are a special breed apart, we're more like mavericks. We want to start our own businesses," Hutchinson said.

They are willing to risk it all. (The word entrepreneur is derived from the French root "entreprendre," meaning "to undertake; to take a great risk.") They are characterized by enormous amounts of motivation and perseverance towards a personal goal they want to achieve.

Ambition Inspires

The attitudes of these entrepreneurs do not fit in with today's capitalistic views. Money is no longer the sole driving force to begin a business. Instead, "ambition, challenge and the need to be independent" are the inspirations, Hutchinson explained.

Hutchinson attributes the birth of the student entrepreneur movement to four factors:

- The present generation is more sophisticated and has more money than any other in recent American history.
- Rising college costs are a strong incentive.
- The communication revolution has opened the door for anyone to become an entrepreneur (i.e. computers).
- Being an entrepreneur offers endless possibilities in today's competitive job market.

Book Published
In his recently published book, College Cash: How to Earn and Learn as a Student Entrepreneur, Hutchinson tells what it takes to transform an idea into a viable product of service.

As of Oct. 20, 6800 copies of the book had been sold.

Cycling team coach Mike Robertson, right, poses at the driving competition Saturday with the third place winner, Tim Flannery. Students competed for an all expenses paid trip to Daytona Beach, Florida, for spring break where the finalists compete for $10,000 in scholarships and the use of a Dodge Daytona Shelby. Mark Matsumoto came in first with a time of 16.377 seconds.

This competition, the National Collegiate Driving Championships, has been held nationwide for seven years and this year students from more than 80 major universities will participate. It is supported by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration and the National Safety Council. The competition is open to full-time undergraduate students.

Are You An Entrepreneur? A Quiz

(Give yourself a point for each "yes.")

1. Did you ever have a lemonade stand or similar enterprise as a kid?
2. Did you ever have a paper route or sell things door-to-door?
3. Are your parents, siblings or extended family members entrepreneurs?
4. Do you have a number of ideal businesses you'd like to start? Or one big dream venture in the back of your mind?
5. Do you bite your nails, talk rapidly, or have a "Type A" personality?
6. Have you ever quit or been fired from a job because you thought it should be done differently?
7. Do you do better in school subjects that involve creative thinking?
8. Are you highly independent?
9. Are you good at persuading people or selling things?
10. Do you believe in yourself no matter what happens, and have the will to master any situation?

Scoring

- 0-1 Have you considered slavery?
- 2-3 Check the "Help Wanted" ads.
- 4-5 Get together with some other entrepreneurial-minded people and make a plan.
- 6-8 Don't delay. Start immediately!
- 9-10 Visit a Wall Street venture capitalist today for a $1,000,000 loan!

NOTE: if you checked "yes" to number 10, ignore the rest. It is the only item on the questionnaire that ultimately makes any difference whatsoever. If you have the will to succeed, you will master every situation. Never ask, "Do I have what it takes?" Ask, "Am I willing to go get what it takes?"

Jill Babior/Guardian

Van Hutchinson, a recent UCSD graduate, wrote a book about earning money while in college.

Ambitious Students Earn

He addresses such important topics as finding capital, managing your business, and advertising.

Included in the book are examples of successful entrepreneurs who started with an idea and worked hard to transform it into a successful operation. One inspiring example is the success of Kim Merritt, who, at the age of 11, began Kim's Khocolate. Now, at the age of 20, she has opened a chocolate factory with a loan of $75,000.

Hutchinson's life as an entrepreneur began as a small child with the classic lemonade stand. In high school, his next business was "Van's Services," where he and his two employees mowed lawns. With the money he earned, he bought a hang glider and went on a trip to England.

"From then on I was turned on to working myself," he said.

Before finishing high school, he wrote Exciting High School Superstars and How to Become One. All 2,000 copies printed were sold.

His later projects included lectures (one at Omaha University earned him $300) and writing for such magazines as College Cash and Career World.

UCSD Student

Hutchinson first came to UCSD in 1984. In his sophomore year he founded an affiliate of the Association of College Entrepreneurs on campus (the association is presently established at some 300 universities and 35 affiliated countries). When he went to Peru his junior year, however, interest dwindled and the campus organization died.

Not everyone is cut out to change the world. After all, it takes education, skills and a spare two years.

Also a willingness to work. Hard. This year 3,750 Americans will join the Peace Corps to do just that. They'll do things like build roads, plant forests and crops, teach English, develop small businesses, train community health workers, or even coach basketball. However, what they'll be doing isn't half as important as the fact that they'll be changing a little piece of the world ... for the better.

And when they return, these 3,750 Americans will find that experience doing hard work will have another benefit. It's exactly what their next employers are looking for.

So, give the Peace Corps your next two years. And while you're out changing the world, you'll also be making a place in it for yourself.

Drivers Compete

The UCSD cycling team hosted a driving competition Saturday, Oct. 29, on campus in the parking lot below Gilman.

The students who entered the free event competed for a trip to Daytona Beach, Florida, at spring break where a final competition will be held for $10,000 in scholarships and the use of a Dodge Daytona Shelby for one year.

The serpentine autocross course was set up with cones and the drivers were allowed one practice lap before being timed. One second is added to the driver's time for each cone knocked down during the run. The idea of the contest is to emphasize safety, not speed.

Junior Mark Matsumoto won the first prize, completing the course in 16.377 seconds. The second and third prizes for the competition on campus Saturday were road emergency kits. Mesa College student Al Kazzazi came in second with a time of 16.671 and Senior Tim Fannery came in third completing the course in 16.787 seconds.

The cycling team plans to make the driving competition an annual event.

On May 5th, 1945—after four and a half years of internment in a series of Nazi death camps, Simon Wiesenthal lay in a bunk, too weak to meet his liberators. He was 37 years old, six feet tall, and weighed 90 pounds.

Today, at age 76, Wiesenthal is internationally renowned as the most extraordinary Nazi hunter of the post-war era. Adolf Eichmann heads the list of more than 1,100 war criminals Simon Wiesenthal has brought to justice. Called the Conscience of the Holocaust, Wiesenthal stands in defiant response to the revisionists, neo-Nazis and other extremists who not only ask the world to forget the Holocaust, but to deny that it ever existed.

The Tritons 1988-89 swimming schedule contains a mix of Division I, II, and III schools. Although the Tritons are Division III, they consistently outswim their counterparts and are forced to schedule meets against Division I and II schools in order to have strong competition. Coach Morgan pointed to the UNLV Rebel Classic (Jan. 27-29) as the big meet of the season, where the team will "try to make all our NCAA time standards."

Unlike other sports such as basketball and football, the goal aspired to in collegiate swimming is qualifying for the National Championships.

Sharing the Canyonview pool on Saturday was UCSD's diving team. Seven Triton divers held a team competition of their own to psych themselves up for the new season. Starting at the three meter board, each diver performed six different dives and was scored by three judges. Later, the action shifted to the one meter board, where the divers were scored on six additional dives. Don Osgood and Cathi Wood finished on top, with respective scores of 198.19 and 183.41.

UCSD's diving team and new head coach, Tom Scotty, are looking forward to a tremendous season.

The Triton swimmers and divers will take to the water again on Saturday, Nov. 12, at 11 a.m. in the Canyonview pool.

Cross Country Passes Competition in San Bernardino

In what could be called a record-breaking meet, the UCSD men's and women's cross-country teams both finished atop the competition in Saturday's Cal State San Bernardino Invitational. Both Merrell Hora and Denise McFayden broke the course record as they led the Tritons to Victory over Cal Lutheran and CSUSB.

In the 5.2 mile race for the men, Hora (27:01) held off Cal Lutheran's Pat Byrne by 22 seconds, breaking the old course record of 28:14. In fact, three other Tritons (Roger Webb, Tom Zois, and Steven Fenster) all either tied or broke the school record, as the UCSD team defeated Cal Lutheran by 10 overall points and clobbered CSUSB by 47 points.

On the women's side, sophomore McFayden smoked by the rest of the field in 18:29, destroying the course record of 19:50. Iris Gonzales placed third in 20:01 for the 5k run. The women's team defeated Cal State San Bernardino 29 to 22.

Tritons. Earlier this season, UCSD crept by Cal Poly-Pomona 1-0 in a road game.

Yesterday, it was announced that the Tritons will be traveling to Western Regionals to face the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul, Minnesota on Saturday. Should they win, the Tritons will face either St. Mary's or Cortland State, the other two teams in the Regional, the following day. If they win the regional, UCSD will have a better chance to host the nationals than ever before.

Diana Klintworth was named Most Valuable Player.

After having their winning streak over Division III teams stopped at 41, the Tritons have now won four straight matches in convincing fashion and are back on track as they prepare to enter the Regional Tournament and embark on their quest to put a fifth banner upon the rafters.

Tritons Dominate UCSD/Mizuno Tourney

Women's Volleyball Still the Team to Beat

By BRIAN ITOW
Staff Writer

After masquerading as a run-of-the-mill Division III volleyball squad for the past couple of weeks, the UCSD women's volleyball team was unmasked as the power that it is last weekend at the Tritons' own little Halloween party.

The invited guests were obviously haunted by the four Championship Banners that hung from the rafters of the gym as they watched the Tritons easily capture the UCSD/Mizuno Volleyball Tournament crown. UCSD won all four of its matches over Grand Canyon, La Verne, Cal St. San Bernardino, and Menlo to improve its overall record to 28-8.

The Tritons opened tournament play against Grand Canyon College. They quickly rolled to a 2-0 lead as the Tritons won the games 15-4 and 15-8. After that, Doug Dannevik decided to try different combinations with his younger players. The team seemed to stumble for a minute, losing the next two games 14-16 and 10-15 before getting things back together and scoring a decisive 15-3 victory in the final game of the match.

The Tritons faced the University of La Verne in their second match Friday night. It was probably their most important match of the season. At one point this year, the Tritons had tallied 41 straight victories over Division III opponents — dating back to 1986 when they lost to Menlo College. However, the University of La Verne pulled an upset over the Tritons on Oct. 15, ending their streak and proving that they could be beat in Division III.

A second loss to La Verne would have further deteriorated the confidence of a Triton squad that had been playing very mediocre volleyball for the past couple of weeks and, perhaps more importantly, would have placed their number one Western Region ranking in jeopardy.

The Tritons did not let that happen as they swept to an easy 15-9, 15-4, 15-10 victory.

"Against La Verne, we played as well as I expected us to," Dannevik said. "If we continue to play at that level we'll be right on schedule to accomplish our goals and those are to win regionals and nationals."

Dee Dee Bigelow agreed, "It really helped us — beating La Verne last night. We feel strong again as a team. We had this feeling at the beginning of the year and seemed to have lost it. But now we have it back."

Coming off its victory over La Verne, UCSD was able to clinch the championship by mowing over an outmatched CSU San Bernardino squad 15-4, 15-8, 15-3 on Saturday morning. With the victory, the Tritons improved their tournament record to 3-0. Grand Canyon College and the University of La Verne followed with records of 2-2 and no chance to catch the tournament victors.

Having already clinched the championship of the tournament, the Tritons got off to a sluggish start in a virtually meaningless closing match. Then, they rolled to an easy 16-14, 15-8, 15-5 victory over Menlo College to finish at 4-0. In a mistake-filled first game, the Tritons fell behind 11-6 before winning 10 of the next 13 points to win 16-14. Playing without starters Ellen Chi and, from midway through the second game, Laurie Bertanyi, the Tritons completed the rout by sweeping through the final two games.

After the contest, Bertanyi and Bigelow were named to the All-Tournament team and junior

Men's Soccer: Undefeated! Women's Soccer: Undefeated?

By PHIL GRUEN

The first UCSD intercollegiate team to ever finish a regular season without a defeat materialized yesterday when the men's soccer squad blanked Menlo College, 3-0, in a game up north. The Triton victory came on the heels of another 3-0 shut-out the day before over UC Santa Cruz.

Including the two weekend shoutouts, the men's soccer team (18-0-2) concludes with 14 shutouts in twenty games, including seven in a row. In yesterday's victory over Menlo, Thien Nguyen, Mike Lodoen, and Alex Savala each poured in a goal to pace UCSD. The day before, the scoring came from Eric Dingwall, Carrick Brewster, and Chris Hanssen. Regional pairings for the men will be announced on Monday, but it is assured that the Tritons will be the No. 1 seed in the region.

The women's team has a good chance to finish the regular season without a loss, but in order to do so, the Tritons have to remove one rather large roadblock. Today's opponent in a 2:30 contest at Warren Field comes in the form of Cal Poly-Pomona, a Division II team that always provides excellent competition for the

Swimming and Diving Teams Hit the Water

While most people have packed away their swimsuits, opting to wait for next summer's warmer weather, UCSD's swimmers and divers have just hit the water to begin their 1988-89 season.

The Tritons' men's and women's swim teams got a taste of competition with an intrasquad pentathlon on Saturday. Each team member raced in five basic events which incorporated the four strokes: freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke, and fly. The object of the event was to accumulate the lowest possible times.

Shannon Smith, a first-year student from Canada, topped the men's competition with a cumulative time of 4:44.07, setting a new UCSD freshman pentathlon record. Taking charge of the women's field was Joan Macaulay, who turned in a cumulative time of 5:25.31. This included pentathlon record-breaking times in the 100-yard individual medley and the 100-yard backstroke.

Saturday's event ignites what is sure to be an exciting season of swimming. Last year the teams had tremendous success. The men's team finished third at the NCAA Championships, just missing second place by one point. Meanwhile, the women's team grabbed the number two spot. Together, the men's and women's teams had a total of 36 swimmers qualifying for Nationals and 24 swimmers named as All-Americans.

Head coach Bill Morgan has high expectations for both the men's and women's teams this year. "We've got a young squad, but both our teams are significantly stronger than last year." The theme of the upcoming season, according to Morgan, is "increased commitment." This translates into a 25-30 percent increase in the time and effort spent by each team member. In layman's terms, swimmers are spending four hours a day in the pool, swimming 12,000 to 15,000 yards. This would roughly be an equivalent of running 8-10 miles a day.

Shannon Smith may provide that extra speed the Tritons need to win the Division III National Title this season.
