

Great Western Salt Company, vaudeville act, will present a dance concert on May 10

May 1, 1975

Vaudeville will have a one-night revival Saturday, May 10, at the University of California, San Diego when the Great Western Salt Company presents its fourth annual dance concert at 7:30 p.m. in the Mandeville Center auditorium.

Titled "The Great Dance Robbery," the UCSD student dance program will include tap and strip numbers, rock and roll musical chairs and a Wild West suite.

Guest artist Claudia Dyson, San Diego professional dancer and dance teacher, will be featured in a jazz solo number.

Also highlighted will be a ragtime dance performed by students Joan Galley, Laura Gabel and Joanne Korner. Admission is "free for one dime."

Artistic director of the 20-member student dance group is Marjorie McNair of the UCSD Department of Physical Education.
