Morobe Schools Get Into Taro Farming

Bumayong Secondary School and Malahang Vocational Centre are two educational institutions in Morobe who have linked up with the European Union-funded Development of Sustainable Agriculture in the Pacific (DSAP) project.

DSAP PNG, managed by the Department of Agriculture and Livestock, is providing knowledge and skills training in taro cultivation and production to students and teachers.

Taro farming is not new but in the past the teachers and students had limited access to information and knowledge on taro.

Under the technical assistance from DSAP, they will not only learn new ideas about taro farming but also learn about marketing techniques.

DSAP has provided hands on skills training, educational awareness materials, planting materials and basic farming implements.

DSAP's Graduate Research Extension Advisor, Ms Carolyn Pia'afu, says teachers and students fully appreciate the assistance which is a boost to the school's agriculture activities.

"It is an advantage for the students to learn new skills which they can utilize back in their homes and communities. Teachers are also being given the chance to upgrade their agricultural teaching skills." She said. ■

US Naval Officers Provide Assistance

People of Madang recently welcomed the arrival of the US Navy ship, USS Peleliu, which provided humanitarian assistance as part of its Pacific partnership program.

The visit reflects the long standing ties between the United States and Papua New Guinea as well as the continued commitment by both countries to work together to address mutual challenges and concerns.

"The deployment of Peleliu Pacific Partnership to South-East Asia and the Pacific exemplifies the United States commitment to working together with our friends, partners and the regional community," said Admiral Robert Willard, Commander, U.S. Pacific Fleet.

By deploying the Peleliu, we are training our medical crew in order to better prepare them to respond in times of disaster relief," He said.

The Peleliu Pacific Partnership mission is being carried out in conjunction with non-governmental organizations, and in close coordination and partnership with local medical care professionals.

Project Hope, Aloha Medical Mission of Hawaii, and the University of California at San Diego pre-dental society were with the Peleliu in PNG, as well as a contingent of medical specialists from the U.S., Indian, Canadian, South Korean, Australian, Japanese, and New Zealand militaries, and from Vietnam's Ministry of Health.

Ensign Stacy Syrstad, a nurse practitioner from Naval Medical Center San Diego, calms a child after a vaccination at a medical civil assistance program (MEDCAP) at Ileg clinic near Madang.

Medical personnel, engineers, and security forces from the Papua New Guinea Defence Force joined the Pacific Partnership for the Papua New Guinea and Solomon Island portions of the deployment, providing focused medical care and engineering services in partnership with their U.S. counterparts.

A number of U.S. and Papua New Guinea government, military, and civilian agencies have been involved in planning details of the mission of medical dental and civic-action programs to provide focussed humanitarian assistance to the people.

The Peleliu had been configured with special medical equipment and robust specialised medical team of uniformed and civilian health care providers to provide a range of services ashore as well as on board the ship.

The San Diego-based ship can support a variety of medical, dental, veterinarian, educational and preventive medicine service. In addition, the ship has embarked a team of sailors from the Naval Construction Force (SEABEES) to perform repair and construction projects in the host countries.

Some of these construction projects will improve medical and sanitary conditions. The U.S. Marine Corps Show Band which also deployed onboard the ship, performed in selected locations in Port Moresby and Madang.

The USS Peleliu is uniquely capable of supporting medical and humanitarian assistance needs and can rapidly response to a range of situations on short notice. ■

Forum Initiates Capacity-Building

Trade capacity building in Forum Island Countries (FICs) is to benefit from several proposed new initiatives and current projects being implemented in the region.

The proposals and initiatives include the Commonwealth Secretariat proposal on the selection, training and advancement of trade professionals in Commonwealth countries. The Forum Secretariat led initiative in conjunction with the USP Graduate School of Business to develop the Pacific Centre of Entrepreneurship and Trade (PCET); the Hub and Spokes Project and the Young Professionals Programme under the Pacific Plan.

Forum Trade Ministers who met in Port Vila, Vanuatu recently supported the Commonwealth

Secretariat (ComSec) proposal which looks at developing institutional capacity in the area of trade policy formulation, management and trade negotiations through a programme of specialized postgraduate training and career development to prepare candidates for senior positions in trade administrations.

The proposal consists of three components: Post graduate training; Internship programmes with regional and international institute such as the WTO, ComSec or UNCTAD; and employment with various national ministries.

In line with the ComSec proposal, Ministers supported the initiative to establish the Pacific Center of Entrepreneurship and Trade (PCET). The project of foster developments in trade expertise and develop the analytical capacity of trade officers and private sector practitioners for trade policy formulation and application.

The proposed programme is also the driving force behind the development of trade negotiating skills of the Pacific and covers a broad spectrum of areas in trade and entrepreneurship. At present the programme is still 'work in progress' until proper funding becomes available.

The other initiative, the Hub and Spokes Project is to promote effective participation of ACP States in international trade negotiations and capacity building.

The overall development strategy of the project is directed towards training and sensitizing key stakeholders in ACP countries on major trading policy issues, supporting ACP countries in developing national and regional consultative networks.

Ministers noted the Project and expressed appreciation to the EU and the Commonwealth Secretariat for funding and supporting the project within the region.

The Trade Ministers urged the EU and the Commonwealth Secretariat to continue the Hub and Spokes Project after 2008 and increase the resources available to the Project in the region so that increased support can be given to PACPS/FICs at both the regional and national levels, including through the appointment of additional Trade Policy Analysts, as the project is scheduled to terminate at the end of 2008.

They further commended the Forum Secretariat for initiating the Young Professionals Programme under the Pacific Plan. The Programme introduces young professionals from the region to work undertaken by the Forum Secretariat and encourages regional capacity building. ■

New School Journals Launched

Education Secretary, Dr. Joseph Pagelio and Ms. Te Mata, Counsellor at the New Zealand High Commission in Port Moresby displaying the School Journals after the launch.

Reading and literacy has received a boost with the launch of the 'Papua New Guinea School Journals' by the National Department of Education in Port Moresby this month.

The School Journals are a reading resource issued free to schools that contain stories, non-fiction articles, plays, poems and activities written and illustrated by Papua New Guineans.

Secretary for Education, Dr Joseph Pagelio said the reading resources will be issued free to schools in three levels.

"The three levels include the bridging level which will be used by Grade 3 students, the junior level to be used by Grades 4 and 5 and the senior level which will accommodate Grade 6 to 8," Dr Pagelio said.

He said the purpose of the school journal was to support reading and literacy across the curriculum to support other areas of the curriculum to foster a love for reading and to reflect PNG culture and the life of school-aged children.

During the launch there were displays of journal issues, performances by children of the Coronation and Waigani Community schools, and instructions on the different ways to use School Journal stories in the classroom.

The School Journals were published with funding and technical assistance from the New Zealand Government.

Dr Pagelio acknowledged the continuous assistance, funding and technical help from the New Zealand Government over the last 12 years and hoped this partnership will continue.

The School Journal activities began in 1995 as a project of the New Zealand Official Development Aid (NZODA) with a few issues in black and white.

"We wanted to have a School Journal that reflected our cultures and showed our children's way of life," the Secretary said.

To date, forty-three (43) issues have been published. ■

School Libraries Need Support: Pagelio

Secretary for Education, Dr. Joseph Pagelio has challenged the new Government to ensure there are library buildings and up-to-date library books in all schools throughout the country.

During the closing of the National Book Week at the Papua New Guinea Education Institute on Friday 10th August, 2007, Dr. Pagelio also expressed concern over the poor turn out of invited guests.

He said it was evident that a lot of people and leaders in the country are not taking the education of children and the importance of books and libraries seriously.

Dr. Pagelio said this when commending the schools throughout the country for celebrating this year's Book Week in a big way.

"I call on all head teachers in all schools to continue encouraging the students to foster a love for reading and learning so we can move this nation forward," he said.

A highlight of the closing of the Book Week was the Quiz finals between Gordon Secondary and Tokarara Secondary Schools, where after the three rounds of questions Tokarara took the champions shield to their school.

The 2007 National Book Week was launched in Kavieng, New Ireland Province on Tuesday 7th August, 2007 by the Governor General and was celebrated by all schools throughout the country with quizzes, debate competitions, book displays and library visits. ■

City Mission Opens New Classroom

The Port Moresby City Mission has opened a new classroom at its Bootless Bay Branch along the Magi Highway in the Central Province.

PNG Sustainable Development Program has funded the new classroom through its community sustainable development program with over K234, 000.00

An agreement for the fund was signed between the management of PNGSDP and the City Mission back in April 2005.

The classroom will be used by students attending the vocational training farm for several activities including literacy program, screen printing, carpentry, agriculture and farming activities.

Chief Executive Officer of PNGSDP, Mr. Robert Igara said the company is pleased to be involved in projects that will have very long lasting effects on the lives of young people in the communities.

He said PNGSDP has been assisting self-help community projects especially in the Western province and the partnership with Mission is a step forward.

"A sign of our confidence was given when we made our agreement twenty-seven months ago with City Mission and as a result we can see the agreement into fruition", Mr. Igara said.

He said the partnership would go onto making valuable contributions to the lives of those students attending the training centre, the lives of their families and the country as a whole.

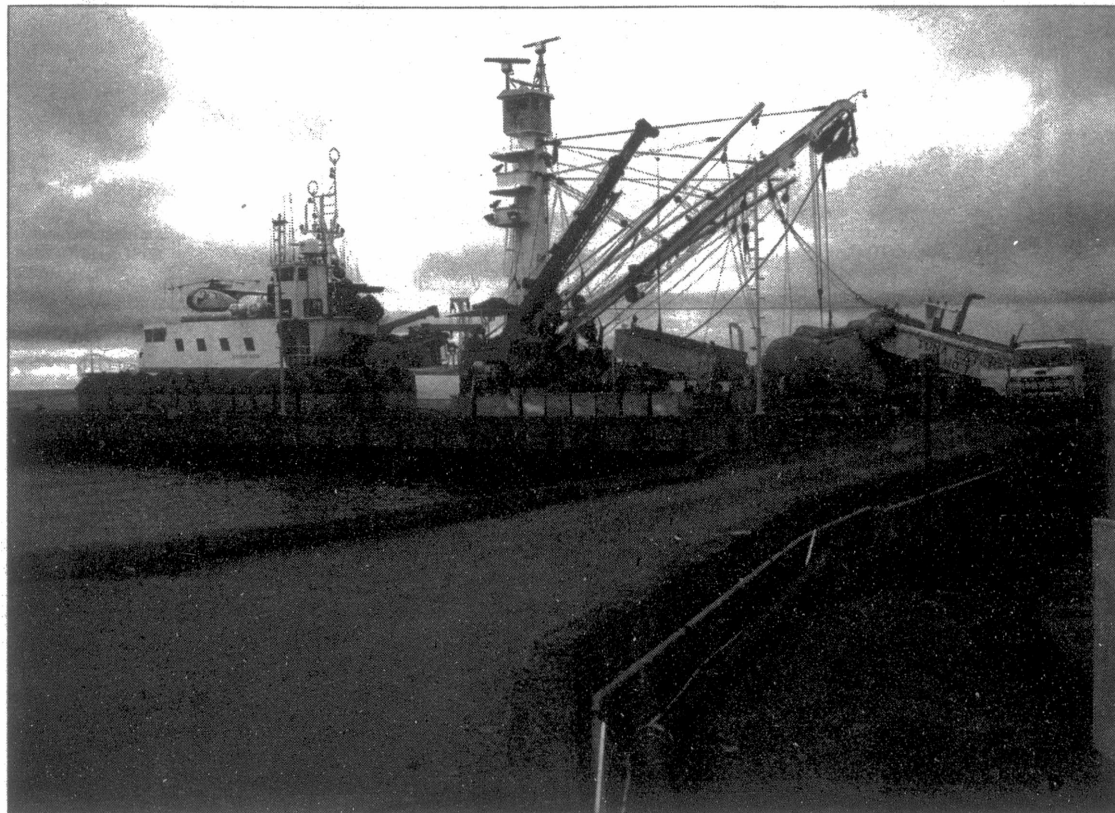

Mr. Igara officially declared open the K234, 000.00 classroom, witnessed by students, pastors, City Mission officials and his management team at Bootless Bay on 17th July 2007. ■

Wewak Port Project Underway

Wewak is in the process of seeing new developments within its port in the coming years as PNG Ports Corporation Limited strives to upgrade some of its port facilities.

PNG Ports engineers and contractors engaged in the project have been working on getting the project off the ground this year.

The project involves the extension of the Wewak overseas wharf to facilitate the import/export demand of the South Sea Tuna factory which processes yellow fin and skipjack tuna.

The port needs to cater for more and bigger fishing vessels to berth at the wharf to receive tuna catch or processed tuna.

The spill-over effects of the wharf extension may in time also generate more economic activities for the surrounding areas.

Snowy Mountains Engineering Corporation (SMEC) engineering consultants were engaged by PNG Ports Corporation to carry out investigation, detailed design & documentation and provide construction supervision for this particular project.

The project is phased into two parts; Phase 1 involves investigation, detailed design and documentation and Phase 2, the actual construction.

PNG Ports Corporation's budget planning will include a new overseas berthing facility and a fuel tanker berth. A detailed documentation of the structures and technicalities which includes a causeway, piles and wharf deck will need to be established.

However, the layout design extension will be such that the new wharf use-ability is optimized and also construction be carried out in stage 1. Phase 1 commenced early this year and if all goes well, the project should be completed by 2008.

The SMEC design team comprise of a Project Manager/Port Planner, a Marine Engineer, a Civil Engineer, an Engineer, a Document Specialist/Cost Estimator and two draftsmen with a Civil Engineer seconded to the SMEC design team from PNG Ports.

Senior Engineer (Projects) Mr. Allan Luga says Phase 1 of the project has been completed.

"It started with investigation involving hydrographic survey done last August and geo-technical investigation in February, 2007. A detailed design was started in February with the layout of the extension", he said.

Mr. Luga added that phase 1 of the project report/comments have been incorporated and they are now in the process of preparing to call for tenders from contractors.

However, he says they cannot proceed unless funds are made available for the project.

He said Phase 2 can only happen when Phase 1 is completed. ■

Company Funds Rural Water Project

More than 15,000 people in the Western Province are now benefiting from bore water projects funded by PNG Sustainable Development Program.

The people from three landowner trusts, Manawate, Middle Fly River and Suki Fly Gogo Development Foundations are benefiting from the water projects.

A project funding agreement between PNGSDP, Ok Tedi Development Foundation and the three landowner trusts was signed at the Crown Plaza Hotel, Port Moresby recently.

PNG Sustainable Development's contribution to the projects worth K479,984.00 is funded through the company's community sustainable development program, which aims to support community sustainable programs in the Western province.

The objective of the project is to provide low tech, low maintenance, bore well water systems that will help families in the three trust region village communities.

The giant Ok Tedi Mining Development Foundation (OTDF) has developed the project as the manager to demonstrate its assistance to the mine affected communities and further enhance their abilities to support themselves.

The projects took about six months to complete and will assist twenty villages in the Manawate region, nine villages in the Middle Fly and sixteen villages in the Suki Gogo regions.

Chief Executive Officer of PNGSDP, Mr. Robert Igara while acknowledging the work of OTDF said he was pleased with the foundation's assistance to the communities.

And he said he is confident that the communities will contribute to the sustainability of the project for their benefit.

"I am satisfied that there is strong support from the communities, the local authorities and their ongoing support and participation will contribute towards the sustainability of the projects," he said. ■

The ORD Column

Rural Development Program Fund Guidelines

The Office of Rural Development (ORD) is looking forward to working with the new Members of Parliament to implement small scale programs and projects in all the districts of Papua New Guinea.

ORD administers two (2) types of funds. The first type is the Constitutional Grants based on Sections 95A and 95B of the Organic Law on Provincial & Local Level Government (OLPLLG).

K54.5 million annually is allocated for this whereby each district or electorate is entitled to receive K500,000.00 each annually as District Support Grants (DSG) and Provincial Support Grants (PSG). The grant is further divided into two parts, one-half of which is discretionary while the other-half is non-discretionary.

ORD manages the discretionary component, often mistakenly referred to as Members' funds, while the non-discretionary component is remitted directly to the provinces and districts by Finance Department to pay service providers from the District and Provincial Treasury Offices.

The second type of funds targeting the rural areas comes from the Development Budget and is closely tied to the Medium Term Development Strategy (MTDS) and the 5-Year Development Plans of the districts.

The rural development program funds are guided and used according to the organic law on provincial and local level government.

It is therefore enforceable by law for all projects and activities nominated for funding to comply with the respective guidelines and financial instructions. Any breach is deemed to be misapplication and illegal. Hereunder are basic requirements of the Office of Rural Development:

- There must be 5-Year Development Plan for each District & Province, and the JDP&BPC and JPP&BPC are to make decision on the identified and prioritized items contained in the 5-Year Development Plans.

- A proper JDP&BPC/JPP&BPC meeting must be convened to decide the use and application of the funds. The Minute of the meeting and its Resolution must be prepared and submitted to ORD for audit purpose, and copied to the Ombudsman Commission.

- Expenditure Reporting & Acquittals - The use of the Constitutional Grants must be acquitted:

- i. There must be a full acquittal of previous year's fund. This will allow ORD to issue a Letter of Clearance for access to next lot of funds available in the current year.

- ii. Tender process strictly apply to projects and activities costing K100,000 and above. There must be proper scoping and documentation. This means the project document should include scope of works and bill of quantities.

- iii. The 3 x quote system apply to projects and activities below K100,000.

- iv. Physical performance report must be submitted for all ongoing projects and a completion report for completed projects.

- v. Financial performance reports against each project including bank statements on the use of the funds must be submitted.

- vi. The District Administrators are by law (OLPLLG) the Executive Officers to the JDP&BPC. Similarly, Provincial Administrators are Executive Officers to the JPP&BPC. As such they are responsible for the proper conduct of the JDP&BPC and JPP&BPC in ensuring the points highlighted in sub-paragraphs (i) to (v) above.

- vii. The District Treasurers and Provincial Treasurers are also by law (OLPLLG) responsible for the proper accounting and reporting on the use of the rural development funds. They are required to submit periodic expenditure report on the use of the funds to the Secretary for Finance with copies sent to respective Member of Parliament, JDP&BPC, JPP&BPC, and the Director for Office of Rural Development.

- viii. Points highlighted in paragraphs (vi) & (vii) above require the Provincial Works Manager, District Administrator, Provincial Administrator, District Treasurer and Provincial Treasurer to all work closely with each other and the Member of Parliament.

- ix. Department of Planning is responsible for setting annual development theme and allocating the rural development funds in the Development Budget. The Department also oversees the implementation performance of the rural development fund as a sector under the Development Budget on the effect of the fund on the economy and its impact on the lives of the rural people.

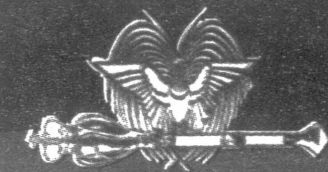

- x. ORD manages the programme by facilitating and coordinating the request for the rural development funds and in ensuring timely, efficient and effective disbursement, implementation and reporting the use of the funds.

- xi. DoW plays a major role in providing technical support to the JDP&BPC and JPP&BPC in scoping projects and in preparing tender document. Provincial Works Managers perform the role of Superintendent of Work for ORD. They inspect and supervise actual work on the ground, report on physical performance and commission completed projects thus enabling the MP and ORD to handover the completed projects to the beneficiaries.

- xii. The Ombudsman Commission for its part administers the Leadership Code in ensuring the MP apply the use of the rural development fund based on applicable laws and relevant Guidelines for the interest of everyone. The Ombudsman Commission therefore insists on Acquittal and Reporting on the rural development expenditure merely enforces accountability, transparency and good governance on each of the stakeholders involved in the use of the funds. ■

Soldiers Destroy Guns In Mendi

PNGDF Joint Force Commander, Colonel Vagi Oala destroying a self loading 7.62 assault rifle with an electric saw in Mendi recently.

More than 300 sorted firearms were destroyed before a large crowd of local people by special police operations security personnel in front of the Mendi police station earlier this month.

The guns had been confiscated in the Southern Highlands since the State of Emergency last year and during the Special Police Operations at the time of the national elections.

The guns, ranged from MAG 58 sub-machine guns to SLR, M16, Bushmaster, .22 telescopic assault rifles and pistols including ammunition.

The firearms were destroyed as the more than 100 Defence Force personnel deployed to the Southern Highlands Province to assist the police in special operations in the general election withdrew from the province.

Security Force personnel based in Mendi were sent off in a parade that was attended by Deputy Police Commissioner for Operations, Geoffrey Vaki who represented the Police Commissioner, PNGDF Joint Force Commander, Colonel Vagi Oala representing the Commander PNGDF, Highlands Regional Police Commander Assistant Commissioner, Simon Kauba, local leaders and church representatives.

Chairman of the Provincial Tactical Task Force, Mr Henry Veratau in a faxed statement to the Commander of the Special Operations, Mr Samson Mapi said: "Your professionalism and dedicated service to our people in the province during this most testing of operations has established a new chapter in our disciplinary forces history"

The Commander PNGDF and Police Commissioner has commended the security personnel for a job well done and also thanked the people of Southern Highlands for their support and cooperation during the operations since last year.

Mr Martin Pat, while speaking on behalf of the people said the operations in the province have created peace which the people are enjoying now and appealed to his people to maintain it.

"Since the Security Force personnel arrived in the province we have enjoyed peace and now the onus is on us the people of Southern Highlands to maintain this peace we have established whilst the security force personnel have been here.

"No one else will bring this peace to us but ourselves, the people of Southern Highlands Province," Mr Pat said. ■

Public Solicitor's Office Upgraded

The Public Solicitor now has a new-look office in Boroko suburb following recent renovations to the office facility at Garden City.

The new-look office was officially opened on Friday 03rd August, 2007 witnessed by members of the Law and Justice Sector including Chief Justice, Sir Mari Kapi, Justice Cathy Davani and prominent lawyers.

The renovation was funded by the Law and Justice Sector through the AusAID program.

"This has been a great improvement compared to renovations being carried out in the past. And for those who just joined, I challenge you to make the best of the good working conditions in this office," the Public Solicitor, Mr Fraser Pitpit told the gathering.

He said he hoped the new conditions would inspire officers to be more dedicated to serving the people of Papua New Guinea.

Chief Justice, Sir Mari Kapi who was the first national Public Solicitor said issues that hindered advancement were lack of human resources and financial constraints.

Sir Mari thanked the sponsors of the renovations, and said a continued legal training program for lawyers was very important.

"The upgrading of the office will provide good conditions to improve the quality of work," he added. ■

Mr Henao also shared the same sentiments and said that the 2007 national elections saw the best combined operation by the police and the PNG Defence Force.

Lt Col Mae thanked Mr Kauba for his leadership during the eight weeks operation and said: "Both Forces displayed very professional attitudes during the operation despite having very limited resources but the two forces worked together very well." ■

Technical Schools To Teach HIV/AIDS

The Department of Education Technical and Vocational Institutions (TVET) will begin teaching a new compulsory HIV/AIDS course beginning next year, 2008.

The first draft of this course was written in Madang in the first week of July this year by a team of TVET officers, lecturers, teachers and officers from the National AIDS Council.

The new course has four modules; basic knowledge of HIV/AIDS and STIs, protecting yourself and others, care and support for people living with HIV/AIDS and sexuality, sex and responsible living.

TVET institutions are the next schools and colleges to receive a curriculum which include HIV/AIDS after primary, lower secondary and teacher education.

TVET HIV Curriculum Coordinator, Kabal Bamne said: "There will be a Student Book and Teacher Resource Book with lessons, assessment tasks and teaching ideas.

"Schools should receive their copies before the launch of the new course on World AIDS Day, 1st December 2007.

"Over 20,000 students undergo studies through TVET institutions and they are a vulnerable age group. It is important they learn about how to protect themselves and others."

HIV/AIDS Adviser with the Education Capacity Building Program, Mr Richard Jones said: "The new HIV course for TVET builds on the good work of the Department of Education and is a major target in their HIV/AIDS Implementation Plan.

"TVET teachers and students can look forward to excellent resources and an informative and exciting new course."

The writing Workshop was funded by AusAID through the Education Capacity Building Program and hosted by Madang Teachers College. ■

UK Mission Supports New Approach To HIV/AIDS Fight

Popular British surgeon, Dr Rosemary Taylor, better known by her alias 'Sister Jo' of Wewak's Boram Hospital in the East Sepik continues her provincial awareness tour, highlighting how PNG men can help to reduce the risk of the spread of HIV/AIDS.

The British High Commission in Port Moresby is supporting the Provincial Sexual and Reproductive Health Pilot Project to help towards lowering the HIV/AIDS and cervical cancer rates in the Province.

Recent medical research into the prevalence of HIV/AIDS in adult male can be reduced by up to 60% if they are circumcised.

The aim of the circumcision project is to train and equip trainers, to safely carry out medical procedures on how to circumcise adult male in an effort to reduce the risk of the spread of HIV/AIDS.

This training focuses on institutional capacity building within the Boram General Hospital and subsequently other medical centres in the East Sepik Province.

The British High Commission will also fund the purchase of a multi-media projector, a portable generator, a fuel voltage adjuster and a DVD player to add to the value and sustainability of the training programme.

British High Commissioner to Papua New Guinea, David Dunn said: "We are pleased to support this local project which will enhance local capacity and is consistent with and supportive of the Papua New Guinea National Strategic Plan for combating HIV and AIDS." ■

More Para-Vets Needed

A proposal to conduct a pilot training for para-veterinarians is now under consideration by the Department of Agriculture and Livestock, (DAL) and the National Agriculture Quarantine and Inspection Authority (NAQIA)

This has come about because of loss of production in livestock disease with major obstacles to the development of the livestock industry in Papua New Guinea.

The organizations also recognize that the industry has been hampered by an acute shortage of qualified veterinarians and animal specialists in PNG.

The situation will continue unless more effort is made to train Papua New Guineans in this specialized field. PNG has trained five veterinarians in the past 30 years, only three remain in the government service; two with NAQIA and one with DAL.

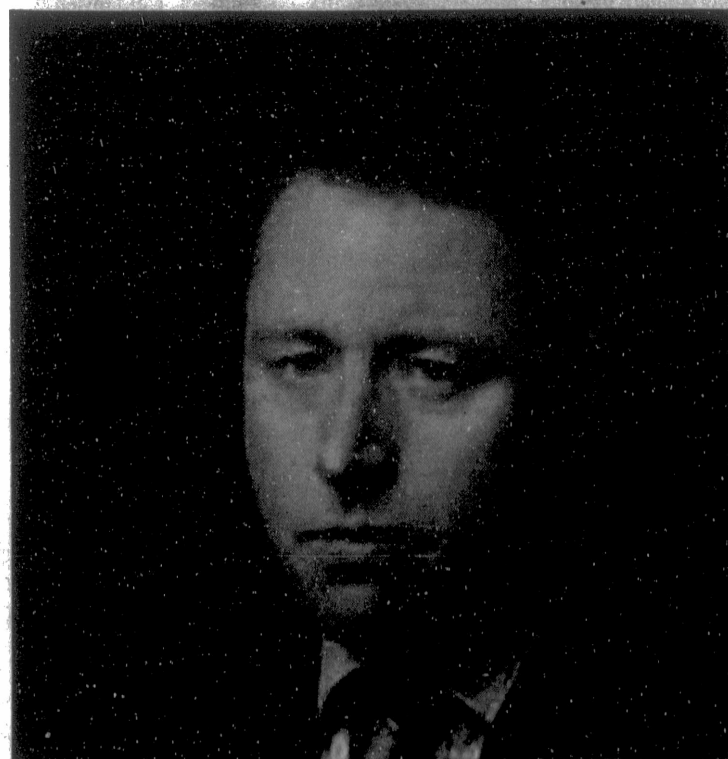

The outcome of the pilot project will determine the future of the long-term para-veterinary training within the country.

Para-vets are animal health specialists who are not qualified veterinarians but trained to provide animal healthcare and production advice to farmers.

They provide services with basic drugs, minor operations and increasing animal productivity, treat sick animals with basic drugs, undertake minor operations, advice best options for animal waste management, conduct surveillance for exotic diseases and emergency response strategies.

The proposal was discussed at a two-day Workshop held in Port Moresby recently and was attended by senior staff of the Department of Agriculture and Livestock and National Agriculture Quarantine and Inspection Authority. ■

Eradicate Illiteracy: Sir Paulias

Governor General, Sir Paulias Matane says eradicating illiteracy in Papua New Guinea must be one of the national development priorities.

"Illiteracy is every body's concern, and there is an urgent need now for all sectors in government and society to eradicate illiteracy".

He said creating literate environment is essential to eradicating poverty, achieving gender equity and ensuring sustainable development.

Sir Paulias issued this challenge when launching the 2007 National Book Week at Yaraka Primary School in Kavieng, New Ireland Province on Monday, 6th August 2007.

He said literacy is a important foundation and one of the pillars of education and the best way of developing this is to improve the store houses of information called libraries.

He said the children of Papua New Guinea deserve to have greater and easier access to information in any type, or form, to support them in their quest for educational excellence and knowledge.

"If we go out to instill in our young people the love of reading and the thirst for information and we equip them with the needed information skills, we will be developing a society of independent learners who will have the desire and the skills to continue learning throughout life". Sir Paulias said

The theme of this year's Book Week, is "Come Read A Book (Kam Ridim Buk, Mai Buka Duahia)

"Come read a Book is also a challenge and a reassurance. It challenges us about our future and progress as individuals, families, communities, provinces and as a nation.

"We should concentrate and focus nation attention on the value of reading and literacy in our society," he said. ■

Election Writs Returned

Governor General, Grand Chief, Sir Paulias Matane has received the writs for the one hundred and nine seats of the 8th National Parliament.

And the Return of Writs to the Governor General by the Electoral Commissioner, Mr. Andrew Trawen at the Government House on Monday 6th August signified the conclusion of the 2007 general elections.

Sir Paulias while receiving the Writs said it is his first time since assuming office to receive the return of writs after a full general election.

At the same time, he issued the invitation to form government to National Alliance Parliamentary Leader and Prime Minister, Grand Chief, Sir Michael Somare.

He said under the law on Integrity of Political Parties and Candidates, the National Alliance has returned twenty-seven candidates declared being the greatest number, enabling the party to form government.

In congratulating Sir Michael and his party executives for the success on the 2007 general elections Sir Paulias indicated it is a history in the making.

"It will go down in the history that the National Alliance Political Party, since the enactment of the organic law in 2001, has made it the second time in a row to have been issued the invitation to form the government," Sir Paulias said.

Sir Paulias also urged Sir Michael and his leaders to continue the same scenario of political stability experienced by Papua New Guinea in 2002 to 2007.

"I here make a humble appeal to you, Grand Chief, Sir Michael, and all your leaders that we all must continue to build upon the political stability that we have experienced in the last term of parliament," Sir Paulias said.

He said Papua New Guinea and its people need a greater political stability that will provide a firm basis and conducive environment to formulate social and economic policies and programs.

Sir Paulias also congratulated the Electoral Commission, the Registrar of Political Parties and Candidates, the disciplinary forces and all important government agencies for exercising their commitment and dedication to the electoral process. ■

GG Invites NA To Form Govt.

The Head of State invited the National Alliance as the political party with the highest number of winning candidates in the national elections to form the executive Government.

Governor General, Grand Chief, Sir Paulias Matane made this subsequent invitation upon the return of writs of the 2007 General Elections on Monday, 6th August 2007.

Out of the 109 declarations, 67 are new faces and 43 sitting members have retained their seats while seventeen (17) Cabinet Ministers had retained their seats.

Electoral Commissioner, Mr. Andrew Trawen said preparations for the 2007 elections were hectic at the headquarters and at the provincial offices.

"This year's general election was the most challenging one for all of us because of two factors: the application of the new Limited Preferential Voting system and secondly, the development and application of the new electoral roll," said Mr. Trawen.

He said the formation and subsequent existence of the Inter-Departmental Electoral Committee (IDEC) paved the way for effective co-ordination among important State agencies in the conduct of the elections.

"2007 elections was the opening of this new chapter and IDEC will still exist and play a dominant role in the LLG election scheduled for next year," Mr. Trawen added. ■

GOOD GOVERNANCE

On Track For Economic Independence: PM

Prime Minister, Grand Chief, Sir Michael Somare, has announced that for the first time a government has returned to office with no overspending in an election year.

Sir Michael said: "The people of Papua New Guinea should be proud that this government has not squandered government money as was the practice in previous election years.

"For the third consecutive year, we will be announcing another surplus in our budget. This is yet another milestone in our history as a developing nation.

"Our economic performance as a government to date raises questions about the lies that were told prior to these elections by our opponents of corruption, and mismanagement.

"The results of these elections are indicative of why the people of Papua New Guinea chose to return majority members both from the National Alliance Party and its coalition party members.

"We have demonstrated that we have the interest of the country at heart and will continue to make legislative changes and policies that will ensure that PNG in the coming five years, reaches a level of economic independence that we have all been talking about over many years but have not been able to achieve.

"We will ensure on our terms that the people of Papua New Guinea become active participants in the continued growth and development of our economy."

He believes that his government is in a good position to achieve this aim through its initiative of the various district development programmes, social reforms and continued infrastructure maintenance and development.

He says this will ensure that the income generating capacity of ordinary Papua New Guineans is vastly improved.

The next five years will be spent on building on the solid foundations that we have already set," said Sir Michael. ■

Political Stability Needed: Bengo

Electoral Commissioner, Mr. Andrew Trawen (right) with Police Commissioner, Mr. Gari Baki and Registrar of Political Parties and Candidates, Mr. Paul Bengo speaking to journalists at a recent press conference in Port Moresby.

The 2007 General Elections have been concluded with results that reveal the need for political stability and continuity in the parliamentary and executive government.

This was asserted by the Registrar of Political Parties and Candidates Commission and Chairman of the Inter-Departmental Electoral Commission, Mr. Paul Bengo.

"The people by their votes have expressed their desire and intention for political stability and continuity in the parliamentary and executive government," said Mr. Bengo.

He said this has been shown by the results, where 44 sitting members retained their seats out of 109 seats and 17 Ministers being re-elected out of 27 Ministers.

"We all have seen and experienced the benefits of political stability from 2002 to 2007 and all must now work together to ensure that we establish greater stability in the political arena," he said.

Mr. Bengo called on all the political parties and independent MPs that were in camps around the country, in their lobby to form the government that they put into place clear and meaningful Memorandum of Understandings to guide and manage their respective political partnerships.

Urging all political parties to respect each other and cooperate to provide a sustainable basis for political stability and continuity in both Parliamentary and Executive Governments, Mr. Bengo stressed that these pacts must clearly set out the rules of respect and treatment of the political parties in partnership with accord each other.

"Your decisions and actions will determine the course and destiny of Papua New Guinea for the next five years," he added. ■

Amb. Lupari Happy With The Conduct Of Elections

Chief Secretary to Government, Isaac Lupari has expressed gratitude towards everyone involved in the recently concluded national election and has congratulated them for the good work.

"Firstly, I would like to commend the Electoral Commissioner Andrew Trawen and his staff throughout the country for a well-organized and highly successful election.

"With the new Limited Preferential Voting system being tried out for the first time, plenty of groundwork was done to educate the public on LPV prior to the polling period," said Mr. Lupari.

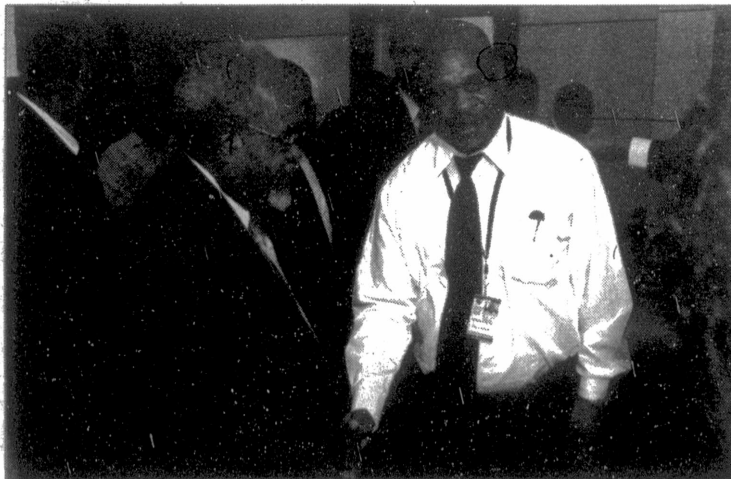

He said the Electoral Commission team did exceptionally well in ensuring everything was prepared and ready in time for polling to be conducted.

"I commend the Police, Defence force and Correctional Services personnel for doing an excellent job, and thank the public servants, community groups and individuals who participated as polling officials and played other support roles," he said.

Mr. Lupari extended his gratitude towards members of the private sector and non-government organizations who took part in the election.

He also made a special mention of the media industry and the important role it played in ensuring we were all kept informed of the progress of the polling right through till the formation of Government.

"Thank you all for your efforts in ensuring democracy prevailed once again," Mr. Lupari said. ■

Chief Secretary to Government, Ambassador Isaac Lupari congratulating Sir Michael on his re-election as Prime Minister at the Government House.

LPV A Success: Trawen

The newly introduced Limited Preferential Voting System (LPV) in this year's elections has proved successful as the percentage of informal votes throughout the country has been low.

This means more people have learned and understood the new system of voting in the country.

At a press conference held during the polling period in July, Electoral Commissioner, Mr. Andrew Trawen said the percentage of informal votes was 2.4% which meant there were 97.6% of ballot papers correctly filled out.

"The figure of 2.4% informal votes compares well with many other countries with much higher literacy rates according to the figures on the website of The International Institute for Democracy and Electoral Assistance," he said.

Mr. Trawen also said PNG was now fitting into the category of countries that had percentages of invalid votes to be between 2% and 12%.

"We have about the same percentage of invalid votes as Singapore (2.1%) and Malaysia (2.2%) in their last elections and have a much lower percentage of invalid votes than Australia (5.2%), Indonesia (8.8%), Fiji (11.7%) and the Philippines (11.9%)," he said. ■
