The Santa Ana winds died down just in time so that the luminaria on the terrace were lit as the first of the Holiday Party guests arrived. The 120-130 party guests made the party a good start for the UCSD break.

Guests brought their favorite baked/snack to share with others, and we enjoyed sampling the many dishes. We all sang along with Evelyn and Sandy Lakoff--their sing-a-long is becoming a tradition we look forward to.

This year we were treated to a display of Pat Austins' and Evelyn Lakoffs' teddy bears. The Oceanids Christmas tree was transformed from a pretty sad looking bottle-brush specimen into an amusing and attractive teddybear tree--arrangements done by Evelyn.

Thanks to all who made this party a success:

To Frieda Urey and Ilse Warschawski, our holiday greeters and well wishers...

To Laura Norris and her garden group who tastefully decorated the University House with branches of pine...

To Rosemarie Lugmair for her beautiful wreath.

To Evelyn and Sandy Lakoff for their inimitable sing-a-long (everyone joined in)...

To Beth Spooner for planning the food, for her advice and availability...

To Liz and Winke Wills for constructing and lighting the liminaria...

To Winke for donating her time in replenishing punch and cookies... And finally,

To Chancellor and Mrs. Atkinson who each year open University house and generously donate to Oceanids extra help and provisions for our Holiday Party.

A Happy Holiday Season to all Oceanids and a peaceful and rewarding New Year!

Alice Kearns

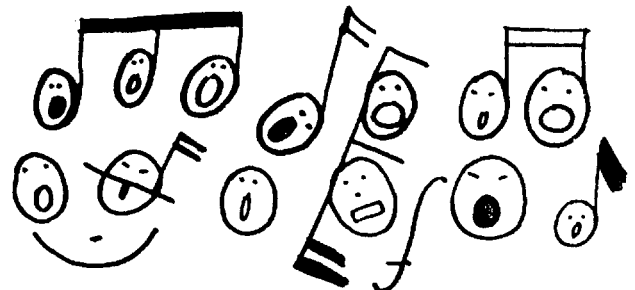

Our thanks to Alice, Holiday Party Chairman.

NEW SCRIPPS AQUARIUM

New Scripps Aquarium Assured • New Scripps Aquarium Assured • New Scripps Aquarium Assured

The Regents of the University of California approved the building plans and revised Environmental Impact Report of the new Scripps Aquarium at their September 1988 meeting.

This represents a high point in a long succession of events, and it guarantees that this long-awaited building will become a reality. It will be named the Stephen Birch Aquarium-Museum, in honor of the major donor.

The first Environmental Impact Report, prepared in 1985 by an outside consultant without conferring with Scripps and other (UCSD) staff, was extensively revised to include guarantees that the structure would have a low profile, that the access road would be shielded by berms and landscaping, and that native vegetation would be preserved.

A member of the La Jolla Shores Association served on the Building Advisory Committee, and neighbors were consulted regularly. UCSD officials have stated that the access road from the east (from North Torrey Pines Road) will be built before the Aquarium is opened. This will become the access for future growth of SIO on the east side of La Jolla Shores Drive.

During UCSD's 25th anniversary fund drive, a gift of $6 million dollars was pledged for the new aquarium-museum by the Stephen and Mary Birch Foundation a non-profit corporation of Delaware, Directors of the foundation, Patrick J. and Rose Patek, who live in La Mesa, are serving on the Building Advisory Committee.

The fund drive designated $6 million dollars for the Aquarium, although its cost estimate was higher than that, so the Aquarium is continuing to seek funds to reach the estimated $8.2 million required. In addition to the Birch Foundation gift, an additional $1.6 million has been received from foundations, members of the Scripps family, and many friends in the community and on the UCSD campus.

The architectural firm of Wheeler-Wimer & Associates was selected to design the building. The design process has been completed, with some delays caused by environmental concerns. One was the question as to whether the site was a potential landslide area. Drilling of several holes on the location showed that there is not a landslide risk.

The building will be 500 feet east of La Jolla Shores Drive, toward the top of the knoll that is presently occupied by the Scripps radio station. The two-story building will have the lower story on the seaward side of the hill, with the second story above the present hilltop, but lower than the height of the existing tree line on the site. Skeleton Canyon, will be undisturbed and has been designated as a campus natural reserve.

The 240 car parking lot will be in Seaweed Canyon-an area filled long ago when seaweed was scraped from the beach by city vehicles. The parking lot will be shielded by the natural topography and landscaping, and will be visible only to those local residents who can now see the storage buildings in Seaweed Canyon. Lighting along the roads and in the parking lot will use low-level fixtures and will be directed and shielded. Visible exterior lighting at the building will be no greater than is at the site now.

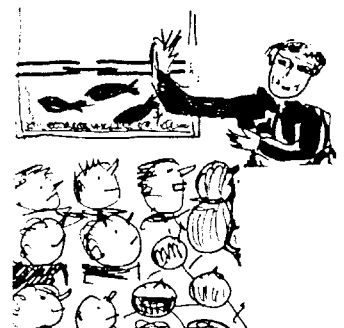

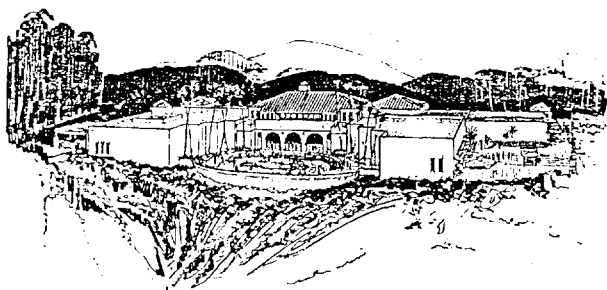

The proposed new Aquarium-Museum will occupy 31,000 sq. ft. of interior space and 17,000 ft. of exterior space. It will have 36 aquarium tanks, including a kelp forest of 70,000 gallons and a Sea of Cortez reef of 18,000 gallons. The aquarium displays will each represent a specific ecological community.

There will also be a Hall of Oceanography for museum exhibits that will emphasize the research of SIO, an education center with classrooms for school groups and other activities; an outdoor tidepool, a bookstore, and a terrace to show off the scenic view. Landscaping around the site will be designed for minimum watering and will blend into the surrounding areas of native vegetation.

Staff members of the present Aquarium are poring over the detailed plans with keen interest and very much looking forward to their new "Space Age."

I spend two days at the Aquarium as a volunteer, so I meet all of the staff in crashes in corridors in the limited office area. I elbow my way gently through the customers in the bookstore, to find the book that will answer the question from a fifth grader from Maine or Texas or Minnesota. I tell some school groups that they cannot come on a date in May or June because we are booked solid. I know that the present Aquarium needs more room, and that taking it away from the crowded portion of the Scripps campus will ease parking for staff and visitor alike.

When the fund-raising began, Don Wilkie, Director of The Aquarium-Museum said: "The new building will allow us to broaden our education program for school students and teachers, to modernize the ocean science museum, and to display marine life in much more realistic and educational habitats."

If you would like to join this effort, phone 534-FISH for information on donating. Funds are needed for furnishings in the building, its classrooms and offices, for museum exhibits, and for aquarium tanks. Wouldn't you like to see your name in lights?

Josie Foulks guest speaker, has had many years of experience in the training of young children. She majored in child psychology at UC Berkeley and in 1959 was instrumental in establishing the first child care center there.

In La Jolla, Josie initially worked with Judith Munk and Ruth Newmark at the International Center Nursery School. She also helped organize the SOFA Nursery School.

She is the founder and director of The Early Childhood Education Center at UCSD.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

If you haven't received your Oceanids directory by now, please call Liz at 454-6858. Martha Chapin Fredkin outdid herself this year by single-handedly selling more than $1700 worth of directory ads, making the directory one of the big fund-raisers for the year! Estelle Shabetai did her usual wonderful job of putting the directory on the computer to make it easier for Georgina Sham to do the paste up. A job well done!

Beverly Douglas managed to feed 230 starving students at a cost of $150 over and above what the students paid for their lunch at the Friday International Cafe on December 2. She had a large crew of Oceanid members helping her: Hazel Alkinis, Allie Boynton, Lou Bowles, Alma Coles, Alice Chen Kearns, Ellen Revelle, Frieda Urey, Clara Wall, and Penny West. Laura Galbraith and Carole Ziegler helped with desserts. I was especially delighted when Ellen Revelle showed up early to cook, commenting that she had never cooked for 230 students before, but thought that it would be fun! What spirit these ladies have!

Alice Chen Kearns organized a wonderful Holiday Party. I personally have never seen University House look so beautiful: thanks to the gardening group and Pat Austin's and Evelyn Lakoff's wonderful collection of bears. Where did Evelyn manage to find a tipsy looking bear to represent the Wine Tasting Group? The bear Channakuh-bush ornaments were precious! Many thanks to Rita Atkinson for letting us use her home and taking care of all the little details that made the party go smoothly.

Evelyn and Sandy Lakoff led the caroling that was enjoyed by all.

Winter! At last a chance for a rainy day and the time to curl up by the fireplace with a good book. Your search for the "perfect read" need take you no further than La Jolla, and (surprise!) in the process of seeking something for yourself you may stumble upon some great gifts for friends and family.

Start your book hunting early in the morning. The UCSD Bookstore opens at 7:45 a.m. weekdays (Sat. 10-4). Not just textbooks here! There are sections devoted to history, feminist literature, and, my favorite, literary criticism. There is an extensive area of travel literature and another that features UCSD authors.

The store also offers stationery and small gift items, some with the UCSD logo. Limit yourself to 2 hours, if you can.

If you like nature books, don't forget the book room at Scrapps Aquarium. A friend of mine found a pamphlet on San Diego earthquake fault zones here. Also, there's a fine selection of outdoor books at The Nature Company on Girard Ave., where I just bought The Biology of Spiders to add to my library.

Also on Girard Ave., there's Crown Books (one of several in town) for discounted best sellers, paperbacks, and other bargain books. I bought an Umberto Eco hardcover for $2.95. Down the block you'll find Warwick's, a La Jolla institution of sorts. The sales people appear knowledgeable and helpful. Cross the street and look for the White Rabbit, a store devoted exclusively to children's books.

If you haven't found what you're looking for, don't give up yet.. On Prospect Street, try Hunter's Books for mass market reading. There's a science fiction shelf and several tables covered with coffee-table books. Take a walk (south) on Propsect through town, and just before you come to the La Jolla Museum of Contemporary Art, there is the quintessential cottage bookstore, complete with a Henry Moore sculpture outdoors, John Cole's Bookshop. I bought a great pop-up book here for a baby present and the saleslady wrapped it prettily for me.

Finally, if you feel like browsing in grandma's attic for a special find, try D.G. Wills, hidden on La Jolla Blvd. Here you can sort through mountains of used books until one strikes your fancy.

There are, of course, many other bookstores in the San Diego area: Lighthouse Books in Pacific Beach for New Age, Upstart & Crow (coffee and books) in Seaport Village, etc., etc.), but there won't be too many rainy days in Southern California, even in winter.

An Australian Journey

I'll remember 1988 as the wonderful year without a summer. While you in California were basking in the sun, worrying about drought and political contests, Fred and I were enjoying life "down under," spending his three month sabbatical as a Haydn Williams Fellow at Curtin University in Perth, Australia.

That continent was new to me, but not to my spouse. As an Ensign in WW II, Fred was aboard the submarine Tarpon in Manila when war broke out and soon after left for Darwin, Fremantle and Albany, WA for ship refit before going out to sea again. In '44 and '45 he was in Brisbane, again for ship refits. Wartime letters, always welcome, were certainly not travelogues.

Only when he was safely home after his thirteen war patrols did I hear about Australia and how he hoped we would have a chance to go there together. And together we were!

We spent more time together during those three months than we have since he became an oceanographer. There were enough lectures, committee meetings, and oceanography to keep him happy. I had time to read, walk, tour the museums and art galleries, make new friends and renew old friendships, especially with Sandra and John Penrose and Trudi Thompson, whom readers may remember from their time here at SIO and UCSD.

We left in early June, and lived for two weeks in the home of Sandra Penrose's parents in Trigg, a beach town north of Perth. The home has an uninterrupted view of the Indian Ocean and every kitchen convenience you could imagine. My walk to the market was often a challenge to the wind. It really blows there. I better understand those TV clips of the American Cup race.

Trigg was a bit far from Curtin, so we found a delightful apartment in South Perth. In contrast to the Trigg house, we had very few amenities, and that simplified my housekeeping. It doesn't take too much time to wash two pans, four forks, four knives, four spoons and four plates. But I had a delightful neighbor who loaned us a few extras including some lovely oil paintings of Australia.

Americans could learn a thing or two from the Australians - floor drains, for example, in every room with a water supply - laundry, kitchen, bath, something I've wanted for years.

A pedestrian ferry was a five minute walk and a 60c fare away and I often visited Perth. I had not spent so much time in a sweater and rain coat since my days as a student at the U of Oregon. But rain or shine I went out... some days to browse in museums and galleries, some days to the zoo.

We also spent 2 1/2 weeks surveying the "oceanography scene," and Fred noted the changes in the country since the '40's. While he was touring labs, ships and offices, I was climbing on and off the local "round the town" tour busses, stopping at many museums and galleries, and meeting new people. Australia has museums I hadn't seen before; the Immigration Museum, and the Police Museum, for instance, where you can trace your ancestors on the computer or on police blotters. Ancestor tracing is done by all age groups. I saw students and grandmothers, unrelated, side by side working the computers in the local libraries as they decided if this "Mary Jones" was their "Mary Jones."

Some prices are more reasonable here, good pantyhose, $1.50, but books (a paperback is $10), beer (Australian beer at Trader Joe's is less expensive), and clothes are pricey. Taxis are plentiful, and the drivers are excellent tour guides if you allow time on the way to the station or airport and ask for a "tour" around the city.

Speaking of books, I recommend Trollope's book on Australia written in the late 1800's along with a more modern book, Sally Morgen's (she's young, half aborigine) My Place, which was featured recently in the window of Warwick's.

Before we left La Jolla, we had purchased a "round Australia" ticket on Ansett and, of the 10,000 kms allotted, we traveled 9,990. We stayed whenever possible in the centrally located men's clubs, taking advantage of the reciprocity between the Cosmos Club in Washington and similar clubs there.

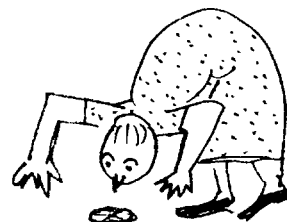

We really enjoyed our time "down under" Granted, we were there in their winter so we did not have to learn the "Australian Salute" (the back of the hand rubbed across the nose to brush away the flies) and we did not have to worry about lack of water supply or fires that come in the "dry." Being there was a bit like being in California 50 or so years ago -- delightful experience.

When we went through Customs in LA, we discovered we had been traveling for hours on the same plane with Allie and Bob Boynton!

We arrived home to meet the Labor Day heat wave, 101° on our front porch. Quite a change from chilly Australia.

TOKYO / TRIVIA

Having just returned from our first trip to Japan, I wanted to share some of my notes:

Driving on the left - came from the 1880's when Japan brought some engineers over from the United Kingdom to set up their traffic system.

Driver's license - it takes one full month of driving school, plus $1600 to get your driver's license.

License plates in Tokyo - there are four colors, one for the economy (small cars) and mini-vans; one color for the luxury autos and limos, one for commercial and taxis, and one for diplomats - of course it all has to do with how much you are taxed on the vehicle.

Population and vehicles - there are now close to twelve million people in Tokyo and three million cars.

Working hours and wages - the average employee spends 43 hours a week at work, which includes at least every-other Saturday. Now 35% are working 40 hr. weeks and there is more pressure on employers to reduce time. The average office worker, just out of college, earns $30-40,000 a year, but this includes a semi-annual bonus equal to three month's salary. If the company should not do well, the bonus goes down.

Taxes - there is no tax on capital gains but the government may order one by 1992. There is a great deal of pressure on now for importing goods to get prices down.

Divorce rate - the divorce rate is only 15%, but is on the rise. Weddings cost $50-60,000, and is financed 45% by the female's family and 55% by the males. This way the men can still control.

Golf - golf is the most popular sport. There are 11,000,000 golfers in Japan. All golf courses are private, the green's fee averages $100 and the closest to Tokyo is 1 1/2 hrs. away. The membership is 90% male. Inside the cities there are many driving ranges and because of the limited space they are built in decks - most have three decks with several spaces on each deck - hence you see these massive, tall nets around the driving range.

Prices - the cost of things in Japan, especially in Tokyo, is incomprehensible. We saw one kimono for 50 million yen ($400,000 give or take a few thousand) and I took a picture of one musk melon wrapped with a cluster of muscat grapes- the price was $140 - Kobi beef was $60/lb - Jack Daniels $160 a bottle at hotel.

Ingenuity - in Kyoto they are wrapping straw mats around the trunks of the trees (fall season) then during the rains the insects crawl under the mats for protection. In the spring the mats are removed and burned to kill the insects and larvae... The gas stations have the pumps and hoses overhead to provide more space for the cars on the station floor.

Entertainment - if you can get a private introduction it would cost about $1600 for two hours with geisha girls, mama-san and musician.

At the U OF C

UC must build three new campuses to meet the expected enrollment boom, President David Gardner told the Regents. The University expects its enrollment to jump from the present 154,000 to 217,000 by the year 2006. The biggest growth in the next eighteen years on existing campuses will occur at UC Irvine and UCSD.

More than 66 percent of all staff employees are women.

AT UCSD

The Humanities/ Undergraduate Library Building has been named Galbraith Hall in honor of John and Laura Galbraith.

Chancellor Richard Atkinson has been elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. One of the top items on his agenda will be to focus attention on the plight of science education in the U.S.

At the MEDICAL SCHOOL

UCSD has received $2.4 from the National Institute of Health to participate in a study of diabetes control and complications. Dr. Orville Kolterman is principal investigator.

Co-author of 36 publications, Asst. Prof. Michael Irwin has examined the relationship between depression and the immune system. These studies have demonstrated that the severity of psychological distress is associated with a reduction of immune function.

Honors & Awards

Fred Spiess has been elected vice chairman of the University of California Assembly and the Academic Council for 88-89. Next year he will become chairman for the 89-90 academic year and the offices for the systemwide assembly and council will move to SIO.

Philip M. Groves, Prof. of Psychiatry, received a Merit Award from the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration for superior competence and outstanding productivity. His past research has revealed brain damage in animals given continuous amphetamine administration for periods of several days.

Jerome Namias, SIO, was elected an honorary member of the Royal Meteorological Society of Great Britain.

Three professors have been elected to membership in the National Academy of Sciences, one of the highest honors for any American Scientist: George N. Somero, Prof. of Marine Biology at SIO; Russ E. Davis, Prof. of Oceanography at SIO; and Joseph Kraut, Prof. of Chemistry. That brings UCSD's total membership of the Academy to 49, the highest ratio of members to faculty in the nation.

Oreste Piccioni, professor emeritus of physics, has been elected a member of the Accademia Nazionale dei Lincei of Italy, founded in 1603.

Barbara Jones associate professor of physics, has been awarded a National Science Foundation visiting professorship to pursue research on extragalactic astronomy.

And a Potpourri

A new dormitory complex on the Third College Campus has won two awards for excellence in design. The architects, DBW Associates consulted with a student committee prior to drawing the plans.

UCSD has installed twenty additional emergency call boxes on campus, most of them on the parking lots of SIO and UCSD. Call UCSD Police Dept. for exact locations.

Oceanids member, Beatrice Zweifach was presented the Hadassah 1988 National leadership Award.

More than one-third of the Post M.D. Intern class at UCSD is female.

First place among 27 academic institutions competing for cancer research funding has been awarded to the UCSD Cancer Center by the National Cancer Institute.

La Jolla is the nation's highest priced suburban community of detached single-family homes, according to a survey by the RELO organization, nationwide residential relocation service. Alpine, N.J. was in second place.

Thank You Note Cards

If you haven't finished writing thank you notes for all those wonderful Chanukkah/Christmas presents that you received, please consider writing them on our special pavilion notecards. They are available from Liz at the monthly Board meetings and at the Kitchen Exchange every Wednesday from 10:30 until noon.

The cost is $3.75 for a package of 10 with matching envelopes; the profits go to Oceanids (not the Kitchen Exchange).

Special deliveries can also be arranged for large orders by calling Liz at 454-6858.

At the International Center Friends of the International Center

The Friends will sponsor the Friday Cafe on January 6th under the direction of Geri Ness.

The next Ethnic Dinner is scheduled for Saturday, February 4, starting at 6:30 p.m. The very authentic Italian dinner will be prepared by the Italian Community Center of San Diego and promises to be really special.

Following dinner there will be a short program on Italy. The highlight of the event will be the viewing of 39 panels depicting the life of Columbus in preparation for the 500th anniversary of Columbus' landing in the Americas. The panels will be on loan from the Italian Cultural Institute.

Price of the dinner is $15 for members, $20 for non-members, and $5 for UCSD students.

Space is limited, so reserve today! Call the Friends office at 534-1124 if you need more information.
