BRAMLETTE, MILTON NUNN 1896-1977

Milton Nunn Bramlette Papers, 1926-1975

Bulk Dates: 1931-1959

Extent: 1 record center carton, and oversize in map case

Prominent language: English

Description: The accession consists of fifteen linear inches of field notes, manuscripts correspondence, minutes of meetings and other records documenting Bramlette's work as a geologist specializing in stratigraphic paleontology. The material includes documents of his work for the U.S. Geological Survey, the University of California, Los Angeles, and as a member of the American Commission on Stratigraphic Nomenclature. To a lesser extent, the papers include material documenting the work of Dr. Bramlette's student, Edward L. Winterer.

Material in folders marked "Geological Survey Notes" and "U.S. Geological Survey" includes correspondence with William G. Pierce, William H. Bradley, Carle H. Dane and other geologists. It includes field notes documenting Bramlette's work on the Santa Clara Valley for the U.S.G.S.

Material in folders marked, "From Smulikowski (Selected literature and data), Glauconite, Phosphate, etc." includes information on the American Petroleum Institute Project 51, conducted at the Scripps Institution of Oceanography.

Material in folders entitled "Gulf Oil" documents Bramlette's work for that company and includes correspondence with Hollis D. Hedberg, notes dated August - October, 1945 documenting Bramlette's travels on behalf of the company in Colombia. This material also includes a 1945 report by Bramlette entitled, "Review of the Oil Possibilities of Yemen."

Material in folders entitled "American Commission on Stratigraphic Nomenclature" documents the work of the Commission, established in 1946 "to develop statement of stratigraphic principles, to recommend procedures applicable to classification and nomenclature of stratigraphic units, to review problems in classifying and naming stratigraphic units, and to formulate expressions of judgment thereon." Bramlette was an active member of the Commission from 1947 to 1960. The folder includes correspondence, minutes of meetings, notes and drafts of Commission recommendations and statements, and other material documenting Bramlette's work on the Commission.
